Royals Drop Two to Miami; Leafs Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Thorpe's swinging a big bat—and right at the league-leading Buffalo Bisons.

The Bisons had defeated Columbus in 15 of 19 meetings before Thorpe, a reserve outfialder, decided things were getting a bit humiliating for the Jets. He has beaten the Bisons with clutch hits in three consecutive games and Buffalo's once-commanding margin in the International League penant race is down to six games over runer-up Havana, Columbus is only 7½ behind.

Thorpe began his stick work Saturday with a two-run homer in the sixth ining that snapped a 1-1 tie and gave the Jets a 3-1 triumph.

In the opener of a doubleheader Sunday, Thorpe homered in the seventh for a 3-2 victory. HL two-out, run-scoring single in the 11th inning of the nightcap gave the Jets a 6-5 win.

HAVANA, TORONTO SPLIT

Havana picked up a game on the league leaders by splitting with Toronto. The Sugar Kings took the first 2-1 but lost the second 4-0 as Al Pehanik pitched a two-hitter for the Maple Leafs.

Fourth-place Miami swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 11-2 and 4-2. Richmond defeated Rochester 4-1 in a single game. Thorpe, 2-for-3 in the opener, was 2-for-5 in the nightcap when he came up with the bases loaded and drove in the winner.

It was the Jets' ninth win in 11 starts and 15th in their last 21 games.

LEAFS FINALLY WIN

Dave Pope's two-run homer in the fourth inning provided Pehanik with all the runs he needed as the Leafs snapped a losing streak of seven games in the nightcap. Daniel Morejon's two-out double scored Tony Gonzalez, who had walked, with the winning run for the Sugar Kings in the seventh inning o fthe abbreviated opener.

The Marlins pounded 14 hits off Royal Pitching in the first game, including a two-run homer by Norm Zauchin.

Lefthander Bill Short pitched a four-hitter against the Red Wings to win his 15th game. He has lost five. Short also contributed two timely singles to the Virginians' attack, launching a three-run rally in the third and knocking across the final tally in the fifth. The big blow against Bob Keegan in the third was Bob Martyn's two-run triple.

MARYLEBONE WINS

VICTORIA (CP) — England's Marylebone Cricket Club easily extended its unbeaten record on its Canadian tour by defeating the Victoria all-stars by 118 runs Sunday. On an extremely slow pitch, the visitors ran up a total of 193 runs and then dismissed the Victoria side for 75 with 40 minutes to spare.

Ottawa Shot Wins Major Shoot Trophy

By ROY LABERGE
Canadian Press Correspondent

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—A 67-year-old rifleman defeated top marksmen from across Canada in the Governor-General's match, main event of the week-long Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

And Maj. Frank W. Shepherd of Ottawa did it the hard way Saturday, winning a four-man shoot-off among crack shots who had finished the match with 239 points of a possible 250 at these ranges near Ottawa.

Shepherd, a retired regular army officer, has competed here almost every year since 1911 and has won most other big DCRA matches.

Maj. Bert E. Besteck, Winipeg, was second, Jack J. Cramer, Vancouver, third and Sgt Ralph B. Cathline, armorer of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, fourth.

Maj. R. W. (Dick) Hampton, 45, also of the Camp Borden infantry school, regained the Canadian service rifle champions with 1,420 points of a possible 1,515. He had won the title in but lost out last year. It goes t the highest aggregate scorer all matches, including those fire under service conditions.

Gerry Ouellette, 24, of Dee River, won the Soittal Trophy top man on the Bisley aggregate. He shot 834 points of a possible 875 in the seven matches that make up the aggregate. The top 18 scorers are invited to represent Canada at Bisley, England, at the 1960 National Rifle Association matches.

Edson L. Warner of Lenox-ille, Que., Saturday won the rst match fired at an anual CRA meet with the army's new .62-mm. FN rifle, eventually to eplace the .303-calibre No. 4 rvice rifle as the DCRA eapon.

Hamilton Car Wins Two Races

JARVIS (CP)—Ray Carter of Hamilton drove his Jaguar XK-SS to victory in both feature events in the sports car racing program at nearby Harewood Saturday.

In winning the 15-lap formula libre (open) and the final one-hour le Mans race, Carter—who was using a limited-slip rear axle instead of his previous lock differential — handed the little Porsches their first major setbacks this year.

Frank Hooper of Toronto took a commanding lead in the standing for Canada's first sports car racing championship with 420 points when he won the fourth race and placed fourth over-all in the le Mans. Hooper drove a modified Austin-Healey.

Americans Take Wightman Cup From British

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP)—The Wightman Cup is back in its usual nesting place in the U.S. today.

The British won it last year in a big upset. It marked the first time they triumphed since 1930 and they figured they should keep it, especially since the Americans were without the services of Althea Gibson.

But the American lassies won it by taking four of the seven matches.

Darlene Hard defeated Angela Mortimer of England 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 Sunday and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz wrapped it up for the U.S. with a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Christine Truman.

That made the count 4-1 for the U.S. and rendered the final singles and doubles matches meaningless. The cup went to Britain last year for the first time since 1930 and the score now stands U.S. 26 Britain 5.

In the last two matches, Ann Haydon, who scored Britain's only triumph in the 1957 matches here, turned back Sally Moore 6-1, 6-1, and Miss Haydon teamed with Miss Mortimer to whip Miss Moore and Janet Hopps 6-2, 6-4.

In Saturday's matches, Mrs. Fleitz defeated Miss Mortimer 6-2, 6-1; Miss Truman downed Miss Hard 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, and the U.S. doubles team of Miss Hard and Jeane Arth beat Miss Truman and Mrs. Shirley Bloomer Brashe 9-7, 9-7.

Aussies Meet American Team For Davis Cup

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—"We can win back the Davis Cup if our boys hold their present form," said Australia's Harry Hopman.

"I think it's 50-50" said Perry Jones of Los Angeles. "We are lucky. In Alex Olmedo, we have the best amateur player in the world."

These were the ringing statements of rival captains today as lines were drawn for tre 16th straight Davis Cup challenge round meeting between Australia and the United States at Forest Hills Aug. 28-30.

The Aussies, who have won the cup eight times to America's seven since the two-nation monopoly took root in 1938, ended the long, hard climb to the challenge round Sunday by routing India 4-1.

Neale Fraser, playing at his peak, shattered India's dreams of an upset by outclassing the sensational Ramanathan Krishnan in the first of two last-day singles matches 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Rod Laver, 21-year-old queenslander, beat Premjit Lall, 18-year-old Calcutta student, 6-2, 10-8, 6-4.

Solly Hemus, Three Players Get Heave-Ho

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Solly Hemus isn't taking back any of his unkind words about umpire Stan Landes and the bear-sized Landes finally has hit back at the bouncy little St. Louis manager.

Hemus was ejected Sunday for the seventh time in his freshman season in the first inning of a mud battle won by the Cardinals over the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-3.

Solly accused Landes of holding a grudge against the Cards. Landes denied it and declared "Hemus brings all the trouble on himself."

Solly's brushes with the umps are making him a threat to the record of nine ejections in one season, held by Leo Durocher.

Landes also booted Don Blasingame of the Cards and Duke Snider of the Dodgers Sunday. Umpire Ed Sudol thumbed out Ken Boyer of St. Louis. Umpire Tom Gorman didn't oust anyone.

A light, steady rain fell throughout the game and the Dodgers howled in protest.

Snider said he told Landes and Sudol: "Here we are fighting for a penant and you make us play in the rain. You can't tell me that television money didn't have a thing to do with the game being played."

But Cardinal officials said the clubs get paid whether the game is played or not, under the TV contract.

Don Blasingame, leading off the game, was out and beefed to Landes about the close play at first. When Blasingame reached the dugout, the wolves got on Landes.

Landes rushed to the dugout and ordered Blasingame out. Hemus popped out on the field. Sudol and Gorman formed a wall in front of Landes while Hemus jumped in ring-around-a-rosy fashion, getting things off his chest. After a stormy 15-minute debate, Hemus was chased.

Boyer, called out on strikes in the fifth, said "I asked Sudol if he saw that pitch, and he said I couldn't show him up in front of the people."

Alouettes Name Dozen Imports

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes named Sunday the 12 imports they will send against Hamilton Tiger-Cats Tuesday in the Big Four Football Union season opener at Hamilton.

There were no surprises in the Alouette line-up but coach Doug Walker did announce that Canadian tackle Ted Elsby will play for the first time since he was injured in training. Als still have a total of 18 imports in camp.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

In Trenton the sun is shining.
In Trenton the school kids shout,
But there ain't no joy in Cementville,
Since the Pointers were put out.
And the Drakemen are hot, hep and ready
With hurlers and clutch-clouting bats.
Wide they grin as they yodel their war cry.
"Just bring on those man-eating Cats.
The powerful Pointers were duck-soup.
We let 'em win three in a row,
Then beat 'em four straight just to show 'em
That acorns to softball oaks grow.
So bring on the Terrible Temples.
We'll muzzle 'em, cage 'em and then
Turn around and meet 'em in playdowns,
And beat 'em all over again."
—Willie (The Trenton) Shakespeare.

Come, come Willie, you're being a trifle cocky, aren't you. Just because the Trenton Garretts pulled the biggest upset in softball circles in quite a few years hereabouts, you must remember that one swallow does not constitute a binge and because your team did the almost impossible in scuttling the Point Anne flagship, it does not mean to say they're going out there and knock the Hull out of the Bobcats without getting some kind of clawmarks.

"What's that," (this by phone), "Yeah, yeah, I know they're hot. So was Nero, but he started fiddling around and the first thing he knew his house burned down, and he couldn't collect the insurance."

"What happened to Point Anne?"

"The same thing that happened to Nero. They, too, started fiddling around after they had tacked three Trenton scalps to their cement-picking' belts, and Trenton caught fire.

"Yeah? What about that game in Trenton which the Drakes won after committing ten errors while Point Anne kicked the ball around seven times. There was no fire about that game. There wasn't even a fizzle. How about that, eh? Fire? Shucks, there wasn't enough fire in both clubs to ignite a firefly's tail-light.

"We agree, Willie, but don't you think Trenton, which occupied the cellar all season, were playing a bit over their heads, while the Pointerss after winning three in a row hit a slump from which they never emerged properly?

"Heck, no, boss. The Trenton kids were opportunists, that's all. True, on the season's record, the Point should have taken them four straight, which at one time it looked as though they would. But you can't kick a guy in the southern exposure three times in a row without expecting some sort of a comeback."

"Well, that's right, I suppose, but . . ."

"But, nuthin'. The Pointers were sumpin like that New Brunswick fisherman Durelle. He had old grandpa Moore on the deck three times and didn't have the brains to follow through and walk off with the win. That's what happened to the Ox Pointers.

"But, but, Willie . . .

"Aw, quit the stutterin' and listen to me. What those Trenton bozos did to Point Anne they're going to do to the Bobcats, only it's going to be of shorter duration. You see, boss, as I said, they're hot, and are going to take a lot of stoopin'. Just cancel that coast of Maine vacation you have planned for the next two weeks and stick around and watch Trenton take these Cats apart and find out what makes 'em purr.

"How do you figure that, Willie?"

"Well, lookit the records. Didn't they twist the Cats tails twice in the schedule and them winnin' only four games? And after their performance Saturday night when they hung the collar on the Pointers, they gave evidence they are ready to play their best ball of the season. And as I said, boss, they're hotter than stolen bank loot, and they're not ready to cool off, not after what they did to the Pointers."

"Sorry, Willie, we can't buy that. After seeing the Bobcats take out that fighting Cobourg outfit with more thrillers than the old maid got at the bachelors' convention, our money goes on Marse Temple's Tabbies. They've got Hull and Green and . . . hey, hello, hello, well I'll be hornswoggled if that ornery little cuss didn't hang up."

HODGE PODGE

Belleville Juveniles lost a toughie to Kingston Sunday dropping the first game of their OMA playdowns to Kingston 4-2. They play the next of the best-of-three in Kingston Tuesday, and on their performance here should square the count with a break or two. Third game, if necessary, will be played here next Saturday . . . In Peterborough on Saturday the Lloyd Cleaners juniors dropped an exhibition tilt to the hometown juniors by a 7-1 score. Coach Noakes, however, figures the game will help put the kids on edge for their upcoming playdowns when they probably will meet Kingston.

Souchak Takes Detroit Golf

DETROIT (AP)—Mike Souchak made a runaway of the $25,000 Motor City open golf tournament Sunday, coming home with a final-round two-under-par 69 that shattered the tournament record for 72 holes.

Souchak's 268 total beat the old record by five strokes and won for him the $3,500 top prize.

The old record of 273 was established in 1949 by Cary Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum, who tied at that total for the Motor City Open title.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont., and 10 others were tied for 31st position at 20. Balding shot 71-72-77-70 and picked up $56.

Bosox, Cubs Near-Sweep Series With Yanks, Giants

Bombers Drop 3 to Boston As Frisco Bows to Chicago; Indians Narrow Chisox Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ernie Banks, Chicago's slugging shortstop, may become the first player in National League history to be voted the circuit's most valuable player two years in succession.

Two National Leaguers — Stan Musial and Roy Campanella—earned the coveted honor three times and two others — Rogers Hornsby and Carl Hubbell—won it twice but nobody has done it two straight years.

Banks strengthened his claim Sunday, banging a two-run homer for his 36th of the season as the Cubs defeated San Francisco Giants 5-4 for their third victory in the four-game series. Ernie also was on base when Lee Walls smashed a three-run homer off loser Johnny Antonelli to break a 2-2 tie.

Ernie, batting .312, leads both leagues with 112 runs batted in and is tied for the lead with Washington's Harmon Killebrew in home runs. Last year he led both leagues with 47 home runs and 129 runs batted in.

CLING TO LEAD

Despite the defeat, the Giants retained their 2½-game lead over Los Angeles when St. Louis defeated the Dodgers 5-3. Milwaukee's third-place Braves split with Pittsburgh, winning the second game of a doubleheader 5-2 after the Pirates had won the opener 2-1 and moved within 3½ games of the Giants. Philadelphia swept a twin bill from Cincinnati, 8-5 and 6-0.

In Saturday's play the Cubs dropped one to the Giants, 6-4, while Pittsburgh downed Milwaukee 10-8, Cincinnati beat the Phillies 8-3 and the Dodgers shaded St. Louis 4-3.

Banks was an unexpected starter. He had been hit on the back by a pitch Saturday and his shoulder tightened up. Doctors said it would be several days before Ernie would be able to play again but he played in his 458th consecutive game.

Bob Anderson was the winner although he needed help in the eighth. Willie Mays drove in two Giant runs with his 21st homer.

SCRAPPY CONTEST

Larry Jackson pitched a 10-hitter for the Cards. Bill White and rookie Gene Oliver drove in all St. Louis' runs, White rapping his 11th homer. Four were ejected in the argument-filled game—manager Solly Hemus, Don Blasingame and Ken Boyer of the Cards and Duke Snider of the Dodgers.

Bob Friend, after seven failures, finally posted his 100th game and his fifth of the season. Dick Stuart drove in both Pittsburgh runs off Juan Pizarro with a homer. Warren Spahn won the second for the Braves. Rookie Lee Mays and Frank Torre, with two hits and two runs each, paced the Braves' nine-hit attack.

Shortstop Joe Koppe hit a three-run homer to feature a six-run sixth inning in the first game and Don Cardwell pitched a six-hit shutout in the second to highlight the Phils' double victory over Cincinnati. Wally Post's 15th homer was all Cardwell needed.

They laughed last winter when Boston owner Tom Yawkey traded Jimmy Piersall, his flashy centrefielder, to Cleveland for Gary Geiger, a nondescript fly-chaser and Vic Wertz, a fading first baseman.

Joe Cronin, then Red Sox general manager, and Mike Higgins, then the field manager, were in no mood for laughter. They were quite upset when Yawkey informed them of the deal—the first and only one he ever made.

The Red Sox owner can take the bows today for one of the best player transactions ever made by the club.

Geiger, 22, is hitting .279 with 10 home runs and 38 runs batted in. Wertz, though hampered by injuries, is hitting .280 with seven homers and 45 runs batted in. Piersall, who lost the regular centrefield job in Cleveland to Tito Francona, is hitting only .240 with three home runs and 21 runs batted in.

KEY ROLES

Geiger and Wertz played key roles in the Red Sox near-sweep of a four-game series with the New York Yankees. It wasn't their fault that the Yankees won the second game Sunday, 4-2 after losing the opener, 6-5.

Kansas City defeated Chicago 7-2 and narrowed the White Sox' first-place lead over Cleveland to three games. The Indians lost an opportunity to pick up more ground when a violent rainstorm in Detroit postponed their game in the second inning after they had scored five runs in the first. Washington whipped Baltimore 6-1.

In Saturday's action, Detroit clipped Cleveland 9-6, Boston walloped Yankees 12-4, Washington lost to Baltimore 4-2 and Kansas City took a close 2-1 decision from the White Sox.

The Red Sox scored all their first-game runs and made all their hits—six—in the second inning, inflicting the seventh loss upon Duke Maas. Wertz ignited the six-run rally with a single. Geiger drove in the run that broke a 3-3 tie with a single.

MANTLE BIG HELP

Mickey Mantle provided the hasty hitting for New York in the nightcap, driving in two runs with a home run, his 24th of the season.

Home runs by Bob Cerv, Preston Ward and Russ Snyder helped veteran Ned Garver gain his ninth victory as Kansas City made it two in a row over the White Sox. Dick Donovan, making his first start for Chicago singe he suffered a shoulder injury July 21, was the loser.

Three Baltimore errors presented Washington with all but one of its six runs. Loser Jerry Walker gave up nine hits. Pete Ramos allowed nine hits for his 11th victory. The Senators played without home run leader Harmon Killebrew who hurt his right wrist crashing into a wall Saturday night.

Belleville Juveniles Lose First In OBA Playdowns With Kingston

By PETER CARVER

Kingston took a game lead in a best of three Juvenile "A" O.B.A. play-downs by defeating Belleville 4-2 here yesterday.

The second game is slated for Kingston Tuesday and the third if necessary back at the C.N.R.A. Saturday.

It was a pitcher's duel all the way with Belleville scoring two runs in the opening frame. The visitors tied it up in the fourth and clinched the win in the seventh inning plating two runs.

Bob Anderson toiled for Kingston allowing 8 hits striking out 6 and passing two. Jim Muir toed the rubber for the homesters giving up five hits, [illegible]pping eight on third strikes and walking four.

Barry Duguid walked in the the first inning and scored on Stu Muirhead's tremendous home run to give Belleville a two run lead.

Anderson led off the fourth with a walk, and Whyte got on due to an error in the outfield. Both scored on Mercier's single to tie the score.

With two out and one on in the seventh Duguid dropped a third strike and Ron Bryant doubled in the winning run filling the bases. A walk scored another run to give Kingston a two-run lead.

Belleville threatened in the fourth inning with two men on base. With the hit and run on Soden bunted but McGrimmon stayed on third, Rathwell ran to third from second with the result both men were tagged out.

Ron Bryant had the only extra base hit for Kingston with the others divided among Lorne O'Donnell, Anderson, Guy Whyte and Tom Mercier.

Stu Muirhead with his homer, Cliff McGrimmon with a single and a double and Bob Richardson with a two-bagger were the Belleville hitters.

KINGSTON — O'Donnell, Bryant, Anderson, Carty, Taylor, Whyte, Mercier, Grazer, Donahoe, Long.

Dutchies, Bears Win O.R.F.U. Opening Games

By THE CANADIAN Press

Will Detroit Raiders again be doormats for the other three teams in the Ontario Rugby Football Union?

That was the main question emerging from the weekend openers of the ORFU's senior series. As for the rest of the league the shape of competition to come looked firm enough—it will be of the tooth - and - nail variety.

The hapless Railers were trampled 42 - 0 by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Saturday night in a game played half in dust and half in mud. At Sarnia the defending champion Golden Bears fought their way—literally—to a 20-19 squeaker over London Lords.

FISTS FLY

Fists flew early in the latter encounter and among the prominents waved to the dressing room was Sarnia quarterback Hal Ledyard, late of Ottawa Rough Riders. The Bears went the second half with George Culley, a junior, at the helm.

Bob Harris, Wenty Young and Bob Sedlock of London also were ejected for fisticuffs.

Culley booted a single for the winning point in the third quarter as each side scored three touchdowns and a convert.

Coach Al Bruno, Ron King and Don Beattie tallied for the Majors with Ted Koska converting one. Halfback Chuck Stanley got off to a good start in defence of his title as the team's most valuable player in 1958 by barging six, one and 29 yards for Sarnia's touchdowns. Tex Robinson kicked a convert.

SOAP BOX WINNER

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Barney Townsend, 13-year-old Anderson, Ind., boy and brother of the 1957 champion, won the 22nd annual all - American soap box derby Sunday before about 100,000 persons.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

We learned something interesting about time keeping. It seems that prior to the 14th Century little was known about mechanical means for keeping time . . . Sun dials however were in use as far back as 2000 B.C. The first mechanical clock in Europe of which we have any knowledge was one made in Wurtemberg by Henry De Vick for King Charles V of France, installed in Paris in 1360. It was motivated by a 500 lb. weight and was accurate to within about two hours a day.

Can you imagine not knowing whether your clock was right or off as much as two hours? It seems that man's devices have always suited the times in which he lived, and all things have always had to progress slowly, step by step. Today most of us are displeased if we find our timepiece off a minute or two, but that's life nowadays.

For our part, we place efficiency and customer satisfaction way ahead of the time element, but we know how important time is to you . . . and you can always count on us to serve you with satisfaction in the shortest reasonable time.

Trenton 'Yankees' Oust Point With Upset 4-Game Sweep

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The red-hot Trenton Garretts climaxed one of the major upsets in the history of the Belleville and District softball league Saturday night when they ousted the pennant-winning Point Anne Cementmen by a 6-4 score with their fourth consecutive win.

Trailing the four-of-seven series three games to none the Trenton squad caught fire a week ago. They won three before anyone realized exactly what was happening. Then Saturday night, in the Cementmen's home den, Charlie Drake's determined young crew wound up their fantastic comeback with their impressive victory.

Trenton will now meet Belleville Bobcats in a similar series for the championship and the Bill Ott trophy. The first game is slated for CNRA Park Tuesday at 6.30, second in Trenton Thursday at 8.15 and the third back here Friday at 6.30 p.m.

Donnie Cole, Roger Drake, Gord Maroney and LeRoy Wannamaker were the Trenton stars Saturday night. Cole hammered a three-run homer to open up a 5-2 lead in the seventh. In the bottom of the ninth the same player held Claude Carr to a double with a fine one-hand play and came through with a running catch of Jack Elliott's two-out line drive to end the game with the tying run on second.

Wannamaker drove in Drake twice to give the visitors an early 2-0 lead. And it was Drake again in the top of the ninth who smashed a home run after the Cementmen had crept to within one run Maroney hurled the victory, stopping Point Anne on seven hits. He left 11 runners stranded fanning none and walking seven.

Drake's infield single, a hit batter and Wannamaker's hit to centre made it 1-0 in the first. The same pair made it 2-0 to chase Al Carkner to the showers in the third. Drake tripled to left-centre and rode home on Wannamaker's fly ball. A hit batter and Maroney's double saw Carkner give way to Bobby Hunter who pitched the remainder.

Hunter allowed four runs on five hits, fanning none and walking three. Carkner had given four hits, whiffed none, walked two and hit two batters.

Point Anne battled back to tie the score in the fourth. Batchelor's single, a fielder's choice and Elliott's base hit put two on base. Goyer grounded out to score one and Doug Soule singled the tying run across the plate.

Trenton won it in the seventh. Mitts walked, Wannamaker got another single and Don Cole rapped his circuit blast to left-centre field.

Backs to the wall, the Cementmen struck back in their half of the inning to make it 5-4. Kingston singled, Jones sacrificed, Hull walked, Batchelor hit into a fielder's choice and Green was safe on an error. Jackie Elliott slammed a solid two-out single to score both runs.

Roger Drake netted the insurance marker with his long homer leading off the ninth.

The Shaw-Loftmen made a final bid as Jones led off the final half frame with a walk. But Hull hit into a force out and Batchelor popped up. Claude Carr banged one to centre but Cole's one-hand grab held him to a double, putting Jones on third. Elliott, best of the Cementmen at the plate, tried once again but his sinking drive was speared by Cole to wind it up.

Drake led all hitters with a homer, triple and single. Cole homered and singled, Wannamaker singled two, Maroney doubled and Ralph Defosse singled also.

Elliott Jr's two base knocks paced Point Anne. Claude Carr had a double with singles going to Chuck Kingston, Johnny Batchelor, Gary Goyer and Doug Soule.

Cats, Trenton Series Starts Tomorrow 6.30

Bob Temple's well - rested Bobcats take on the Trenton conquerors of Point Anne here tomorrow night in the first game of a best-of-seven series for the District Softball League championship.

The game is slated for the CNRA Park and gets under way at 6.30 sharp.

The second tilt is scheduled for the Trenton diamond Thursday night starting 8.15 under the kleigs, with the third played here Friday evening starting 6.30.

Trenton's sensational four - game sweep after dropping three in a row to the league-leaders from Ox Point has given the Drake crew plenty of confidence.

After getting a couple of loosely played games off their chest, and hitting their stride Saturday night in the all-important series - clinching tussle, the Trenton squad feels they can give the conquerors of Cobourg a stiff battle, if not their come-uppance.

If Charlie Drake's team is as hot and win - hungry as it was Saturday, it should be quite a series.

Marlene Was in Top Form To Win Sixth Women's Open

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Golfers invariably cringe when their ball lands in a sand trap. But not Marlene Stewart Streit — she loves it.

"I don't mind being in the traps," said the newly crowned Canadian woman's open champion, "as a matter of fact I love 'em."

Her fondness for what otherwise is a golfer's nightmare was obvious Saturday in the 36-hole final of the open. She won it 7 and 6 over Mrs. Bruce McGhie of New York's Whippoorwill club and her performance from the traps would make any pro on the gold trail envious.

The six-time champ—a record in the 46-year history of the tournament—plunked in four traps on the final 36 holes and each time she was pin-high or better on her explosive blasts to halve the hole. Nine times out of 10 a golfer would lose the hole, but not this 25-year - old Toronto woman.

This special wizardry from the sand, plus pressure putting when everything was staked against her, gave the five-foot-four Mrs. Streit a decided edge over the 27-year-old auburn - haired New Yorker who played a superb game, but just not good enough.

Mrs. Streit shot an approximate five-under-par score over 30 holes, including a fantastic 105-foot run - up approach shot that gave the Canadian an eagle three on the 455-yard par-five 29th hole.

The seven-iron shot left Mrs. McGhie seven down and seven to go.

The next hole was halved and Mrs. Streit had broken the record of five championships she held jointly with 65-year-old Ada Mackenzie of Toronto since this tournament first started in 1901.

After 7 Hours 35 Innings Comets Won

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) A softball game ended here Saturday after dragging through seven hours and 35 innings.

Culver City Comets broke a scoreless tie in the top of the 35th and defeated Escondido 6-0 in the state tournament.

Culver City's starting pitcher, Richie Stephens, went 33 innings and struck out 41 batters—all for nothing. Ralph Sutliff, who pitched two innings in relief and drove in Culver City's first run, was the winner. Bran Voight started for Escondido. He lasted only 28 innings.

Amateur Attracts Field of 145; 45 Americans

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian amateur golf championship opens here today with an international field of 145, any one of more than 20 of them considered capable of taking the title.

Thirty - six players from the United States, one who lists his club as Childwall, Liverpool, and the best amateurs from across Canada are contesting the 36-hole qualifying round over Vancouver's picturesque Marine drive course.

TICEHURST FAVORITE

Bert Ticehurst, 29-year - old Vancouver sharpshooter who paced British Columbia to the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team title Saturday, is rated top choice in today's 18-hole opening of the qualifying round.

He fired 72-69—141 over the par-71 Marine Drive course and was the only man to stay under par for the day. B.C. won its ninth Willingdon Cup with a total score of 583.

The four-man team of Ticehurst, Bob Kidd, Ron Willey and John Johnston, all of Vancouver, was 15 over par for the 36 holes, but had a 10-stroke margin on second-place Manitoba and a 34-stroke bulge over third-place Alberta.

ONTARIO FINISHES FIFTH

Defending champion Bruce Castator of Toronto and 1957 winner Nick Weslock of Windsor, are entered but on the basis of Saturday's Willingdon Cup play neither is ready to repeat. Quebec finished fourth with 620, Ontario fifth with 627, Nova Scotia sixth with 628, New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island seventh with 638 and Saskatchewan last with 626.

Weslock, veteran of 10 Ontario teams, went around in 72-80—152 while Castator started with a disastrous 84, then finished with a 72 for a 156.

BREAKS OWN RECORD

TORONTO (CP) — Ergas Leps of Toronto clipped 8.7 seconds off his own meet record Saturday as he won the junior mile in 4:24.7 at the seventh annual Emile Begley memorial track meet. Carl Reid of Toronto, a student at Western Michigan, nipped Michigan State's Ed Graydon from Hamilton in 4:27.8 in the open mile.

Dennis O'Keefe Cast in Role Of Columnist in TV Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television, in its quest for situations that lend themselves to comedy, finally has come to the case of a syndicated newspaper columnist.

Dennis O'Keefe is cast in the role of the columnist, Hal Towen, in a weekly series that bows on CBS-TV Sept. 22 8 p.m. EDT as the Dennis O'Keefe Show.

Talk with O'Keefe for a while and you'll feel that it couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Why should a successful movie actor want to become a columnist?

"Because it's fun", says O'Keefe. "And we think a lot of other people are going to find it fun, too."

SOME OBSTRUCTIONS

As Hal Towne, O'Keefe not only will write six columns a week for his syndicate. He will face harrassments a crotchety boss, a sharp-tongued housekeeper played by Hope Emerson, responsibilities of his motherless 10-year-old-son played by Rickey Kelman, temptations a beautiful lady press agent and various pretty girls. Nevertheless, he likes the job.

O'Keefe, who knows a few real-life columnists, admits that he gets into some situations in the series that a real sharp newspaper man would avoid. On the other hand, he says that Towne is not a dope, not one of those brash and broadly-portrayed newspaper characters from The Front Page.

"Those newspaper men the movies used to portray years ago have gone forever", he says. "I've played some of them myself."

AT THE McCARTHY — Rock Hudson, rebellious scion of powerful California wine-making family, pleads with indignant grandfather, Claude Rains, to accept bootlegger aid to keep vineyards intact, as Rains' granddaughter, played by Jean Simmons, wonders about her reckless "cousin." It's a scene from "This Earth is Mine", which also stars Dorothy McGuire. In CinemaScope and Technicolor, the film is a Universal-International-Vintage production and opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—War Eagle, owned by Peter del Greco of Toronto and ridden by Cliff Potts, defeated Admiral's Ace by a neck to win the $10,000 Auspicious Handicap at Fort Erie Saturday. A perspiring crowd of 13,138, wagering gamely throughout the stickiest afternoon of the summer meeting, saw Culpepper finish third while Grand Canyon was fourth.

Saturday's secondary feature, the $5,000 Colin Stakes, for two-year-olds, resulted in an upset when Credit Curb defeated the favorite, Hidden Treasure by a neck. Master Bill finished third, two lengths behind.

EDMONTON (CP) — Eight-to-one-shot Sonoma from the Lee Williams stable of Edmonton splashed to an upset win in the $19,000 Canadian Derby Saturday.

Two Vancouver horses, Treasure Quest and Ky Music, were second and third respectively as Sonoma barged over the 1⅛-mile distance around the muddy oval in one minute and 57 4-5 seconds, just five seconds slower than both the race and track records. D. E. (Earl) Robertson of Edmonton and ridden by Robert Taylor, returned $18.60, $7.20 and $3.70. Treasure Quest paid $7.50 and $4.10 and Ky Music paid $3.30.

The 4-5 favorite in the richest race in Western Canada, Aerial Wonder from the M and D stable of Calgary, finished fifth after running wide at the first turn. The only Eastern Canada competitor, The Mohawk, ended eighth in the nine-horse field.

Sonoma, the ninth filly to win in 30 runnings of the race for three-year-old fillies and colts, earned $13,090, a record. Treasure Quest won $2,800, Ky Music $1,400, Polly Grier $700 and Aerial Wonder $350.

NEW YORK (CP)—Wiggle II, a four-year-old Australian filly, raced over a muddy Arlington Park track Saturday to win the $57,100 Matron Handicap by three lengths.

Earlier, all-time money-winning champion Round Table ($3.60) scored a neck victory over pace-setter Tudor Era to win $6,000 in the $10,000 Clem McCarthy Handicap.

The Travis Kerr champion, ridden by the United States' leading jockey, Willie Shoemaker, covered the mile and a furlong on soft turf in 1:54 4-5.

At Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle, under a ride by Manuel Ycaza, survived a thrilling finish in the $57,500 Saratoga Handicap for a neck decision over Canadian-owned Grey Monarch.

WEATHER HOT

Running in 96-degree heat the pair crossed the wire less than two lengths before Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Amerigo.

Bald Eagle paid $4.80, $3.60 and $2.70. He went over the mile and one quarter in 2:03.

Windfields Farm's Grey Monarch returned $6.20 and $3.40. Amerigo was $2.60 to show.

At Atlantic City, Jaclyn Stable's Li'l Fella scored a record-smashing victory in the $25,000 added Philadelphia turf handicap.

The winner ($3) sped the 1 1-16 miles in 1:42 1-5 to shave two-fifths of a second off the previous mark.

SOUTHERN NATAL

Trouble was sparked by the imprisonment of African women in South Natal and in protest at government liquor and cattle regulations.

Douglas Mitchell, the opposition United party leader in Natal, warned that African unrest was "developing into open rebellion."

Violence in the South Natal centre of Harding and in an African village outside Pietermaritzburg was the first major outbreak since riots in the Durban suburb of Cato Manor on June 18, when five Africans were killed by police and some 25 buildings burned.

WHITES LEAVE

White officials and their dependents were evacuated during the weekend rioting and police patroled the streets. An armored car was sent into the community of Edendale after a gasoline bomb thrown into a crowded bus was doused with a fire extintinguisher.

The cause of the women's discontent was a government rule requiring them to disinfect their cattle every three weeks in dipping tanks. Some cattle have died after the dipping.

The trouble started in the Pietermaritzburg area over the withdrawal of government permission for home brewing and distilling. Many women depend for their living on the trade and see the government beerhalls as rivals to their business.

Japan Agrees to Sharp Cut In Rayon Exports to Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Japan has agreed to a sharp cut in her rayon textile exports to Canada, Finance Minister Fleming announced Sunday night.

"The Japanese government," Mr. Fleming said in a statement, "has decided that for the remainder of this year licence approvals for garments of spun rayon will be kept down to very low levels.

"In addition, the Japanese government has undertaken a comprehensive check system designed to keep under surveillance the whole field of textiles and to ensure that Japanese exports to Canada are kept on an orderly basis and that no 'flooding' should occur in the future.

"In the operation of this system, the Japanese government has undertaken to keep in close contact with representatives of the Canadian government."

FOLLOWS PROTESTS

The action follows prolonged protests by spokesmen for management and unions in the Canadian textile industry that cheap Japanese goods have been undercutting the market for Canadian products.

Mr. Fleming said that under the new setup it should be possible to avoid a recurrence of the situation that developed earlier this year when heavy shipments of Japanese products—mainly of spun rayon — hit the Canadian market.

"Canadian manufacturers of garments and fabrics," he said, "can look forward to the future in the expectation that there will be no recurrence of the problems that have been and are at present confronting the industry."

VALUABLE MARKET

"Japan was a valuable and growing market for Canadian wheat, barley, metals and pulps. He looked forward to development of exports in other fields including coal and uranium.

The new action by Japan follows earlier moves this year which consisted of a May imposition of quota controls by Japan on textile exports to Canada and a June suspension of export licences on spun rayon garments, at the request of the Canadian government.

"Now with the conclusion of discussions," Mr. Fleming's statement said, "licence approvals are to be resumed, but at a sharply reduced rate.

"For the remainder of 1959, the issuance of licences for garments of spun rayon and mixtures of spun rayon will be limited to 58,000 dozen blouses and sport shirts and 43,000 dozen of knitwear.

"For miscellaneous products including slacks and coats, new licences will be limited to 40,000 dozen for the period extending to March 31, 1960."

Roslin

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gillespie, of Calgary, and Mrs. Florence Fawena, Mrs. Ella McKee of Toronto, spent several days recently, with their brother, Mr. William Gillespie and Mrs. Gillespie.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carleton and family, of Detroit, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates.

The Women's Association held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Meeks, on Tuesday evening.

On Thursday evening the Women's Institute held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Bates.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Teen and family, moved into their new home last week, which has been built to replace their former home, lost by fire last December.

Considerable progress has been made on the erection of Mr. John White's new home, with the basement being completed. It will be remembered they lost their home by fire in June.

The Rev. D. L. and Mrs. Woodward and girls, will leave for their new home in Powassan (near North Bay., early next week, where he has accepted a parish in the Diocese of Algoma.

ADLAI TO RUN AGAIN?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania Governor David Lawrence says Adlai Stevenson is the ablest man in American politics and there still is a possibility he will be drafted as the 1960 Democratic presidential candidate. Lawrence indicated Sunday during a filmed television interview that Stevenson is his personal choice.

New Oil And Gas Strike In Yukon Said To Be Big

Discovery Well Drilled Just Inside Arctic Circle

OTTAWA (CP) — Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said today the real significance of the oil and gas strike in the Yukon is that a new area with oil-bearing potentialities has been discovered.

"A brand new potential area has been found," he said in elaborating on his announcement Monday night of a strike in north-central Yukon.

The well is located in the 3,000,000-acre Eagle Plain oil reservation, about 150 miles northeast of Dawson where the sourdoughs and prospectors of the gold rush of 1898 toiled for gold. Mr. Hamilton said reports from the field indicate the well is situated just inside the Arctic Circle.

The well yielded gas flows of up to 10,000,000 cubic feet a day and light gravity oil.

NOT BIG FLOW

Mr. Hamilton said this is not a big flow but is considered about average for the area. The seven companies in the area still were drilling and seeking additional information.

The strike is important, Mr Hamilton said, because the area is about 600 miles north and 400 miles west of the nearest oil and gas finds in recent years in northwestern British Columbia.

The minister said the discovery area is about 450 miles from tidewater at the Pacific coast. This was significant, he said, because if oil is found in commercial quantities it could be sent to the coast by pipeline where it could be loaded aboard tankers 12 months of the year.

IN LEASED AREA

The well, Western Minerals' Chance No. 1, gave oil and gas showings between 4,250 and 4,370 feet in a 140-foot sand strata atop oil-bearing limestone going down another 400 feet. It is in the southeastern corner of the reservation on which Western Minerals has a 10-year lease that expires in 1961.

Under supervision of the federal public works department, a 200-mile road is being built from Flat Creek, 15 miles east of Dawson City, to the reservation's southern limits. About 50 miles is expected to be built this summer.

"This is the first discovery of oil in the Yukon territory and the first in the Far North since Norman Wells was discovered in the Northwest Territories in 1920," Mr. Hamilton said.

Western Minerals was a pioneer of oil exploration in the Yukon. Transporting exploration equipment by tractor train over the frozen country from Dawson City last year, the company sank a dry hole in Peel Plateau area, farther to the south of the new strike.

Cores from the drilling at Eagle Plain were being taken by helicopter to Whitehorse to be sent to Edmonton or Calgary for further testing.

Fleming Hopes Loan Shortage Just Temporary

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming today expressed the hope that the present monetary situation of restricted loans by the chartered banks is only temporary.

Speaking to reporters as he entered a cabinet meeting, he said that although the banks have upplied "severe restrictions" on credit, "as far as the government is concerned, no tight-money policy is being followed."

He also said that no thought is being given to raising the present statutory limit of six per cent on the interest rate the chartered banks may charge borrowers.

That's a matter only Parliament can deal with, he said.

RESTRICTING LOANS

Mr. Fleming was asked whether the banks have suspended all loans. He said they haven't but they were applying restrictions on loans.

He said the present situation is the result of a "terrific—almost unprecedented" demand for credit while the money supply has not risen comparably.

"The government has no control whatsoever over the money supply", he added. This was a power given solely to the Bank of Canada by Parliament.

HOPES ONLY TEMPORARY

He was asked whether he thought the present situation would slow up Canada's current economic boom. It "could have that effect" if it continued, but he added: "I would hope it would be no more than a temporary situation.

He was asked why, if the government was not following a tight-money policy, money should be so tight. He reiterated it was a matter of money supply and credit demand.

"We (the government) have no power to increase the money supply."

Rickey to Head New Major Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey today was named president of the Continental League, the embryo third major baseball league.

Rickey, 78-year-old chairman of the Pittsburgh Pirates' board of directors, said he had accepted the job and promised that the new league will be in operation in 1961. He will sell his 958 shares of Pittsburgh stock back to the club for $200,000.

The arrangements were approved by Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball.

William Shea of New York said he would continue as chairman of the founder's group.

Shea said the Continental League had taken over Rickey's contract with the Pirates and will pay him $50,000.

NEW PEACH BASKET

LEAMINGTON (CP) — About 25 peach growers in southern Essex County are experimenting with a new peach basket designed by George Whaley of nearby Olinda. The cardboard basket is in one piece and is packed flat. Mr. Whaley says it can be produced to sell two cents cheaper than the conventional wooden baskets.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cooler and less humid weather pushed southward through Ontario Monday night, bringing some relief from the sultry weather of the last few days to the lower lakes. A high pressure area now moving across Ontario promises that this welcome change will last at least through Wednesday. Considerable cloud lingers in northeastern Ontario but this should clear later today.

The 1959 Belleville Fair was officially opened yesterday evening by Dr. C. D. Graham, deputy minister of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Shown above are several of those present for the opening ceremonies, from left to right: Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South; Dr. Russell Scott, president of the fair; Dr. Graham, and W. Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West. Dr. Graham described the fair as being one which strengthened "the rural-urban relationship."

CHILE ORDERS CUBAN PARTY OUT OF COUNTRY

Newsmen, Soldiers Fly Ahead of Castro

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile today ordered out of the country a Cuban party of newspaper men and soldiers flying ahead of Raul Castro on a trip timed to coincide with the inter-American foreign ministers conference in Santiago.

The Chilean government promised every courtesy to Raul himself. But there was some doubt whether Premier Fidel Castro's 28-year-old brother would get here before the conference ended later today.

Raul, commander-in-chief of Cuba's armed forces, stopped overnight in Lima, Peru—heightening speculation that he never had intended to appear before the conference both he and his brother have called a farce.

SUSPECT HEADLINE GRAB

There were strong suspicions among some conference delegates that Raul's trip was planned to grab headlines away from the conference, which has been seeking ways to lessen tensions in the Caribbean created in part by invasions launched from Cuba.

An advance Cuban military plane, carrying 21 newspaper men, 13 bearded soldiers equipped with pistols and machine-guns and a crew of seven, was seized when it landed here Monday. The party was kept under guard and ordered to leave the country today.

Chilean officials said the Cubans did not have the advance permission required for the landing of a foreign military plane carrying armed personnel. They added that none of those aboard had Chilean visas and that some were without identification papers.

Brushing aside Cuban criticism, the 21 foreign ministers meanwhile agreed unanimously to give special temporary powers to the inter-American peace committee in an effort to curb fur-

Construction Industry Says Some Projects Have Halted

NEW YORK (AP)—The American construction industry, mainstay during the recession and bellwether of the recovery, reports some projects halted or being delayed by the current steel strike.

But the majority of builders and their suppliers say they either have all the steel they need for current projects or have supplies good for one to four months more.

A check throughout the United States by Associated Press reporters, however, reveals wide variations in supplies among firms and a growing fear that some special steel products may run out or that some suppliers or parts may run into trouble, and thus halt operations.

Also, some firms are turning to substitutes for steel, paying higher prices for premium steel, or importing from Europe and Japan.

Projects already halted or delayed are largely in the nature of flukes. For example, a small highway bridge in Minnesota is delayed because the contractor ordered the steel early enough but forgot to get it out of the mill before the pickets arrived.

In Buffalo, a major steel producing centre, the strike is holding up work on a bridge over the Buffalo River.

Detroit reports some architects and engineers are talking of switching to stressed concrete beams.

But in most of the country the construction companies are whistling cheerful tunes. Three-to six-months supplies are reported in many areas.

A Texas firm, Transwestern Pipeline, boasts that it bought and got delivery of $70,000,000 worth of pipe even before it got authority to build its proposed natural gas line to California.

Young Gunman Hunted in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A teen-aged gunman, who police say is desperate because he thinks he has killed a man, is being hunted in the Fraser Valley, 100 miles east of here.

A score of RCMP officers Monday night searched for the youth, who injured four persons by firing through the window of a CPR train, came within inches of shooting to death a sleeping Indian and fired three other fusilades in the area.

The RCMP broadcast a radio appeal to a 19-year-old youth from Aggasiz, B.C., telling him to give himself up because he didn't kill the Indian he shot at.

Police said he shot at Peter John, 19, of Hope, 120 miles east of here, Sunday night. The bullet went into the mattress of the youth's bed only inches from his body, an officer reported.

A few minutes earlier, a rifle shot shattered the window of a self-propelled CPR diesel car near John's home. Glass struck four passengers who were later treated for slight cuts.

Believed Sailor Swept Overboard

PORT HOPE (CP)—The captain of the Canadian freighter Coalfax reported to police here Sunday that a sailor had disappeared from the ship and is believed drowned.

Capt. Robert McKeen of Grey, Ont., told police that Gerald MacLellan of Cardigan, P.E.I., was on the deck hosing the ship when he vanished about five miles off Sandusky, Ohio.

Capt. McKeen said it is presumed MacLellan was washed overboard. He said he made a search of the area but there was no trace of the sailor.

Desert Cloudburst Isolates Town, Three Nevada Railwaymen Missing

NEEDLES, Calif. (AP)—A desert cloudburst dropped a devastating load of rainfall that virtually sealed this tiny Colorado River town Monday night.

The flood ended early today—as abruptly as it started. It left an estimated 200 motorists stranded, three railway workers missing and parts of two highways washed out.

Although the rain stopped, traffic was stalled by debris-clogged roads and bridges destroyed by the mountainous walls of water that poured out of desert arroyos and ravines.

Three members of a Santa Fe Railway crew of five were missing early today. The men had been sent to check a washout on tracks 15 miles north of this farming town of 4,500 population.

A few hours later, rail workers found George Ashmore, the crew foreman, and Geronimo Rodriguez, 29, a truck driver, wandering near a road. Ashmore was in a dazed condition with head and body injuries but Rodriguez told deputies:

"Suddenly a wave of water, 25 feet high, swept down on us.

"I was washed beneath a railroad bridge and tried to hang on to a piling but couldn't. When I saw the limb of a tree in front of me, I grabbed it and hung on."

POWER FAILURE PARALYZES UPPER PART MANHATTAN

500-Block Section Put Into Confusion

NEW YORK (AP) — Lights flickering off in hospital operating rooms . . . elevator service knocked out in huge apartment buildings . . . packed subways, with a sweating human cargo, trapped in underground tunnels.

That was the picture as a sudden power failure struck the heart of New York City.

The power failure hit thousands of buildings in a 500-block section of upper Manhattan, leaving half a million people without elevators, air conditioning, traffic lights, or any of the complex systems that keep a great city functioning smoothly.

The power failure began in mid-afternoon Monday and gradual restoration continued into the early-morning hours.

Power was completely restored almost 13 hours after it went off.

TERRIBLE TRAFFIC JAM

The mercury was near 90 when power failed, and the humidity suffocating. Suddenly, every intersection became a traffic jam.

Then the recovery began. In hospitals, emergency lights came on. Extra police poured into the area and straightened out the traffic.

Subways, which have independent power and were stopped when signal lights went out, began to crawl, as workers with red lanterns signalled that the way was clear ahead.

Apartment dwellers began to find out how it feels to climb stairs.

When darkness came, New Yorkers in the stricken area saw the eerie spectacle of a city without lights.

Quake Damages Montana Dam, Highway Blocked

Pilot Sees Fifty Cars Marooned by Rockslide

HELENA, Mont. (CP)—A huge dam in southern Montana threatened to collapse following a series of earthquakes which rocked a vast area of Western Canada and the United States Monday night and early today.

Warnings were issued to hundreds of residents downstream from the old Hebgen dam, which was reported to be leaking after suffering damage in the earth tremors, to prepare for immediate evacuation.

Between 100 and 150 persons in about 50 cars were marooned in a canyon between the leaking dam and a rockslide seven miles below the dam, the Montana civil defence organization reported.

Most of the residents of Ennis were evacuated before dawn but about 100 remained behind.

CARS CAN'T MOVE

The highway has cracks so large in it that automobiles are unable to move, said a pilot from a state highway department who flew over the scene.

Sheriff Donald Skerritt, after a flight over the area, said the rockslide looked as though "a mountain slid into the river." He estimated the height of the slide at 200 to 300 feet.

The sheriff and pilot Al Newby also reported the 35-mile long Hebgen reservoir was "tipped askew" by the quake with the north shore dropping from six to 15 feet and the south shore rising as much. They said a giant fissure has opened up the length of Hebgen Lake on the north side.

In Virginia City, Mont., the sheriff's office said six persons were killed.

The tremor also did slight damage in southern British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Buildings were damaged and sidewalks were cracked.

The earthquake was felt in interior B.C. at 11:45 p.m. PDT (2:45 a.m. EDT). The duration of the tremor was reported to have lasted from 30 seconds to two minutes.

SWAYS BUILDINGS

The tremor swayed buildings in Lethbridge, Alta., Calgary and Regina. Some guests at the Waterton Lakes National Park, 60 miles from Lethbridge, were jostled out of their beds.

Buildings shuddered and dishes rattled in Nelson, B.C. At Grand Forks, the walls of the telephone exchange were cracked.

In Montana, the first in a series of tremors sent two feet of water cascading over the concrete Hebgen dam, 20 miles northwest of West Yellowstone.

The Montana Power Company, which owns the dam, confirmed that it was leaking because of a hole in the top of the dam and a spokesman expressed the fear that the dam "could go."

MAY BE ABLE TO WALK

The rockslide that trapped the motorists dammed the river below the dam and the water was rising slowly. Officials expressed the hope that the motorists would be able to walk out of the area even if they could not get their cars to move.

The dam, built in 1915, backs

Quake Shakes Southern B.C., Damage Slight

VANCOUVER (CP)—An earth tremor shook the West Kootenays and the southern interior of British Columbia late Monday night and rattled dishes and rocked buildings as far east as Regina.

Slight damage was reported.

The tremor was reported unofficially to have rolled through the southern interior of B.C. at 11:45 p.m. PDT (2:45 a.m. EDT). Swaying buildings were reported in Lethbridge, Alta., Calgary and Regina.

Some guests at the resorts in the Waterton Lakes National Park, 60 miles southwest of Lethbridge, were reported jostled out of their beds.

Duration of the tremor was generally reported as lasting from 30 seconds to two minutes.

CHAIR ROLLS

An RCMP officer sitting at his desk at fairview, in B.C.'s Okanagan Valley, was startled when a chair began rolling aimlessly on its casters. Some residents said they saw the sidewalks heave.

A Penticton, B.C., man said "there was no sound but we soon knew what happened."

Residents of Nelson, 300 miles east of Vancouver in the West Kootenays, said dishes rattled and buildings shuddered.

Walls of the telephone exchange at Grand Forks, also in the B.C. interior, were cracked.

MODERATE TO STRONG

Six Businessmen To Form Board At Whytehaven

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte said Monday night she hopes she will be able to announce by tonight the names of six businessmen who will form Whytehaven Mission's new board of directors.

Appointment of the board is one of the stipulations laid down by provincial welfare department officials which Mrs. Whyte must observe before she can reopen her children's home.

Mrs. Whyte said a meeting tonight in Winnipeg and last Sunday's meeting at Toronto's Missionary Tabernacle are only the beginning of her campaign to raise $300,000 to build a new mission home. The campaign would take months and would carry her across Canada.

WANTS NEWSPAPER SPACE

She said also that she will appeal this week to Toronto newspapers to permit her to write her version of the recent upsets at Whytehaven.

So far, there has been "an absolute misunderstanding about the whole picture," she added.

As an example, she said, her remarks about her fight with provincial authorities being "a battle between Christ and the anti-Christs" had been misinterpreted.

She said the phrase, used during an address in Toronto Sunday night, was meant for church people and Bible students who understand what she meant.

Moscow Says Missile-Firing Subs Could Blast U.S. From Hudson Bay

LONDON (AP) — Moscow broadcast today a warning that missile-bearing Red submarines could enter Hudson Bay from under the Arctic ice and bombard the industrial heart of North America.

The warning was printed in the naval newspaper Soviet Fleet and was part of an unusually heavy propaganda broadside released by Tass news agency via its radio transmitters.

This came 24 hours after a Washington press conference by Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of U.S. naval operations, raised the possibility the Soviet Union already has ballistic-missile-firing submarines. The United States still is working on its first ones.

Asked whether he believed the Russians have submarines able to launch ballistic as well as older missiles, Burke said:

"I think they probably have both."

However, the Soviet craft presumably still are conventionally powered. The United States has been putting atomic submarines into its fleet for about three years. The submarine Nautilus made history last summer by crossing the top of the world under the Arctic ice.

Soviet Fleet said "those people with a taste for aggression should remember the Arctic Ocean is not a U.S. inland lake."

It said some U.S. military leaders concede the threat of modern Soviet submarines able to travel under Arctic ice. The newspaper described these as "forced admissions" that the U.S.S.R. could retaliate against attacks by U.S. submarines armed with Polaris rockets.

FILLING TANK HEAVY CHORE

All was quiet on the firemen's front as far as local alarms were concerned yesterday but the Belleville Fair provided plenty of activity for the local fire department. A fire station was set up on the fairgrounds to be ready to cope with any emergency which might occur. Another chore which local firemen performed in connection with the fair was the filling of the 20,000-gallon tank for the high divers' tank in the stage show.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL IN TRAFFIC DEATH

Robert Day, 21-year-old Belleville man, charged with criminal negligence in the traffic death of Andrew Burrows, Bridge Street, C.N.R. employee, was committed for trial at his preliminary hearing held Monday before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The accident in which Mr. Burrows was fatally injured occurred at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker Avenues last June 10th.

The accused man has been released on bail.

POLICE PROBING BREAK-IN AT REDNERSVILLE

Provincial police are investigating a break-in at Martin's Garage at Rednersville where a quantity of cigarets was said stolen. The break-in occurred Monday night.

Otherwise provincial police reported only minor occurrences, including two minor accidents in which no injuries resulted.

City police reported the theft of a 1947 auto from the hospital parking lot. The car was said to be owned by a hospital worker.

Prenatal Classes Open on Sept. 1st

The Belleville Health Department will resume its prenatal classes September 1st. This class will be held at the Y.M.C.A. from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. and will be conducted by Mrs. Josephine Reddick.

These classes are extended to expectant mothers and fathers and are given as a preparation for parenthood. There are a series of nine talks. They will include a discussion on such matters as nutrition, hygiene in pregnancy, how the baby grows prenataly, labor and the application of exercises and relaxation to a labor, a film and record of birth of a baby, demonstration of baby bath and a tour of the Belleville General Hospital Maternity Ward.

The importance of the husband's attitude to childbirth is not to be exaggerated and there has been an increasing desire of young husbands to learn of childbirth. It is expected that more and more fathers-to-be will attend these classes and learn with their wives.

Admission to classes is subject to the mother first obtaining permission from her family doctor, for the main purpose of the class is to complement the doctors' instructions. Further procedure is for the mother to phone the Health Department at WO. 2-3860.

Typical Exhibition Weather, Fine Exhibits, Entertainment Greet Opening Day Crowds

An all-time record "opening night" crowd ushered in the four-day exhibition of Belleville Fair yesterday.

According to official figures, "Children's Day" attracted some 4,653 patrons during the afternoon and evening. Last year's opening day attendance was 4,045, the year before, 3,750, and in 1956, 2,510.

Treasurer Bob Phillips said today that yesterday's attendance capped any previous opening night crowd in the records of the fair.

A mid-morning change of heart on the part of the weatherman was more or less responsible for the record attendance.

Sullen rain-filled clouds showered at intervals during the morning but towards noon the overhang cleared and the sun broke through with gusting breezes tempering its heat.

Typical fair weather greeted afternoon and evening crowds and entertainment and other sequences went off without a hitch. Cloudless skies and warm sunshine this morning presaged another perfect fair day.

OFFICIALLY OPENED

The 1959 edition of the fair was officially opened last night by Clifford N. Graham, Ontario Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in brief ceremonies in front of the grandstand.

The deputy minister said that the Belleville Fair, which has been organized since 1842, has proven what an important place it holds in the life of the community.

"After all," he said, "farming is not run by the gorvernment but by the people and organizations interested in agriculture. Fairs like yours," he said, "go far in cementing the fine relationship between rural and urban communities."

Agriculture depends on three standards, soil, moisture and plant growth, he said. "Take away any one of these and what have you got, for as goes the farm so goes life in the city."

He said that as agriculture changes during the years so must its organizations. Changes have brought about specialization, mechanization and research and science. "Take these three and you can draw a common denominator, farm management."

Deputy Minister Graham paid tribute to the directors for the interest they have taken in junior farm work. "The boys and girls are playing an important part in agriculture and we of the department are proud of the work they are doing."

"I must compliment the Belleville Fair on the splendid part it has played in the promotion of agriculture in the province—and it gives me pleasure to now officially declare the fair open," Mr. Graham concluded.

The deputy minister was introduced by fair president, Dr. Russell Scott, who welcomed the large grandstand crowd on behalf of the directorate. Mayor Gerald Hyde extended the civic welcome.

Also introduced were directors Lee Grills, MP, Jack McArthur, Fred Wilson, Elmer Sandercock, MPP, Carl Thompson, Brock Burley, Jim Barber and William Reid.

Harry Rollins acted as general master-of-ceremonies. He introduced the Marching Debs of Picton, a drum and trumpet band composed of teen-age girls who gave fine demonstrations of marching and playing under their director Ralph Seaton.

LARGE OPENING CROWD

With the near-perfect fair weather prevailing, one of the largest opening night crowds greeted the ceremonies, stage entertainment and the "Ride of the Royal Mounted" from the grandstand. It was in direct contrast with the afternoon situation when the grandstand crowd was so small the money was refunded, and the stage performance cancelled.

There is no orchestra. The musical background is provided by one of the finest organists in the United States, Jack Zimmerman, who presides at a beautiful portable-Hammond electric instrument.

The master-of-ceremonies is a versatile young man, Paul Kohler, formerly with the Bob Hope show and a television personality in his own right.

An artist and musician in his own right, Mr. Kohler is an exceptionally clever xylophonist. He offered a variable program from rock 'n' roll to the "Poet and Peasant Overture," extremely difficult to play on this instrument. Mr. Kohler also played his instrument with boxing gloves, climaxing a fine performance with illuminated mallets. He has a refreshing line of patter and was an immediate hit with the crowd.

Tonimara, gifted young dancer, gave a finished performance with a Far East routine and a Persian motif. Her acrobatic dancing left nothing to be desired while her "wooden doll" dance climaxed a fine exhibition.

The Four Falcons, a trio of gifted negro singers and guitarists had the teen-age section of the grandstand audience in a "tizzy' during their performance. The trio "gave out" with several rock 'n' roll and other selections, many of which were popular selections.

The highlight of the stage entertainment, billed as "Sam Howard's Water Frolics," consists of four talented young men divers. They include Hartley French, Jack Murphy, Terry Merrill and Allan Plowman.

The quartet gives a finished performance of diving from a twelve-foot board into a large water tank to start their show. They execute difficult dives with the ease of champions and drew well-merited applause. A comedy touch was injected by Jack Murphy whose diving versatility and acrobatic ability blended into a humorous background evoked roars of merriment.

DIVING SPECIALTY

The outstanding feat of the quartet's performance, however, is the high dive executed by Terry Merrill, known as "Golden Boy," formerly associated with Steve Allen and Arthur Godfrey.

"Golden Boy" ascends a tower to the height of some 85 feet and stands poised above the tank. There's a tense moment or so while he gauges the wind and distance, then the "take-off."

The crowd was tensely silent as the golden body hurtled downward to the tank far below. Suddenly, as he neared the water, it burst into a sheet of flame. "Golden Boy" disappeared into the fiery bath to emerge seconds later smiling, bowing and unhurt.

Then came the big event of the evening, the "Ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police." The story of this is told in another column.

The stage entertainment will be offered again tonight, as will the Mounties' ride.

Superb Horsemanship Marks New 'Ride of the Mounties'

Superb horsemanship and precision riding highlight the "Ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police" outstanding entertainment attraction at the Belleville four-day exhibition.

This colorful equestrian performance of Canada's famous scarlet-coated police force is not to be confused with their former "musical ride".

The "musical ride" which gained national and international fame for the mounted Mounties, is a thing of the past. There is no music nor signals' connected with the current offering of the force.

Both riders and horses are letter-perfect in the almost machine-like precision of their various movements. Spur, knee and rein control the horses. There is not a word of command given. Everything moves like clockwork to the colorful climax.

The "ride" is under the command of Inspector N. O. Jones. Staff sergeant R. R. Van Patten is the riding master.

The scarlet coats of the riders, the bright saddle blankets with their "MP" insignia, and the spirited horses made a colorful picture when the troop rode in column of fours into the grandstand spotlight in their initial appearance last night.

Led by Inspector Jones, the troop of sixteen horses and men was given a standing ovation when it lined up abreast in front of the grandstand boxes, where the inspector swept his drawn sword up and down in salute to Mr. Clifford N. Graham, Ontario deputy minister of agriculture, who previously had officially opened the exhibition.

An outstanding exhibition of "Roman Riding" starts the performance. Two white-shirted constables who spring to a standing position, with one foot on the back of one horse and the other etc., give a finished exhibition of balance and precision riding with the horses at the canter and gallop. It was exceptionally well done.

DREW LOUD APPLAUSE

Tandem riding by two constables and four horses with the rider driving the second horse in front of him also drew well-merited applause from the near-filled grandstand.

But the troop exhibition was the highlight. The Mounties open this part of the show riding at the canter in single file, jumping over special foliage - topped hurdles placed at various angles on the track. In the centre four hurdles form a cross.

The performance unfolds itself without a sound except that of cantering hoofs, and the appreciative murmur of the crowd, which periodically broke into spontaneous rounds of applause.

Acrass, around and across again, weaving an intricate pattern, the mounted riders, their horses clearing the hurdles like well-trained hunters, gave evidence of the months of intensive training.

Almost imperceptibly the riders swung into "doubles" formations, the pairs of horses jumping the hurdles as though welded together. Crossing and inter crossing, they formed a beautiful picture.

The highlight however was the "fours" performance. In perfect unison, four horses abreast cleared the obstacles in simultaneous motion. Again they crossed and criss-crossed in perfect alignment as the grandstand echoed to prolonged applause.

PERFECT DISPLAY

It was a perfect display of horsemanship at its best — superb timing and colorful exhibition.

Again the grandstand rocked to applause as the troop again in fours formation rode to the boxes with Inspector Jones saluting the deputy minister, as his riders formed in line behind him.

The "Ride" will be presented again tonight following the stage entertainment. It will be repeated tomorrow and Thursday afternoons as well as at the evening shows.

The afternoon shows are being presented as a special favor to the Belleville Fair. The "Ride" is exceptionally strenuous on the horses, and usually only one show daily is presented. However, this city is one of the "favorite" show places of the Mounties, and those in charge consented to give the double performance as a gesture of appreciation.

Bright Midway, Shows, Rides Exciting 'Fair' Entertainment

Paddy Conklin, never a man to converse through his hat, spoke straight from the chest when he told the Belleville Fair directorate he would give them one of his best midway shows this year.

Mr. Conklin was right. The midway, life artery of any exhibition of this nature, fairly pulsates with fun, amusement and variable entertainment.

Never in the many years of Conklin midway presentations has there been such a variety of exciting "rides." The old favorites are there but these were outdone in popularity by the modern thrill-a-second newcomers.

The excited cries of thrill-seeking youngsters, there were plenty of veteran patrons, too, almost outdid the hoarse cries of that midway landmark, the barker.

Yesterday, the opening day of the fair was "Children's Day" and young Belleville and district took full advantage of their once-a-year thrill day at reduced prices.

The smaller moppets, and grateful parents thronged the new Conklin children's entertainment innovation "Kiddieland". Here in a compact package are all the fair rides delights the smaller Joes and Janes revel in.

Parents appreciate the thoughthfulness of Mr. Conklin in his presentation of Kiddieland". It eliminates the danger of lost kiddies and the tiring parade through the midway general in search of the fun the children desire. It is here, all in one lump.

Here they can "drive" real boats in real water in a circular track tank. There are real ponies they can ride. Miniature autos whirl around a wooden outdoor track excited drivers at the wheels. There is the ubiquitos merry-go-round always popular with young and old.

The youngsters whirl around in fighter-planes armed with toy machine—guns. They can board a miniature railroad powdered by a diesel engine, or they can whisk through the air in pleasure aircraft. There's a do-it-yourself ride which the youngsters keep in motion by pumping long handles.

On the midway proper, there are enough whirling rides to keep one's stomach in continuous motion like that of the innards of the latest washing machine appliance.

Among the newest spleen twirling contrivances are the "Parashooter" and the "Helicopter".

For downright upside-down, whirl-around thrills don't miss the "Round-Up". A miniature rollercoaster will jolt loose the store teeth while the "Twister" puts the stomach around the spine and replaces it the next time around.

If that is not enough you can try the "Scrambler," the "Hurricane" and the "Tilt-a-Whirl". And for a chaser and colon settler you can top off with the good old reliable ferris wheel or the merry-go-round.

There is plenty of entertainment too for those who like to keep their feet on terra firma.

Lovers of the Big Top will go for the good old-fashioned "Circus Side Show." Here on parade is the Fat Woman, "680 pounds of human flesh". There's the old reliable sword swallower and the equally famous Siamese Twins. There is the Armless Wonder and the only Rubber Man in captivity, besides a dozen other freaks.

And there's troupe of trained monkeys guaranteed to supply endless belly laughs. The monks are clever young simians who do all kinds of tricks with tiny cars and planes.

For motorcycle addicts there are thrills galore in the show billed "World's Finest Thrill Riders". These dare-devils whirl around a small bowl at breakneck speed performing all kinds of daring stunts. Sixteen-year-old David King is a featured rider along with "thrill-rider" Lucky Andy. It's a great show for those who like to chew on their hearts while watching these helions rip around that inverted saucer at unbelievable speed.

up 750,000 acre-feet of water that would boil down the Madison River valley in the event the dam collapsed. About 600 residents live at the nearest settlement, Ennis, Mont, about 45 miles north of the dam.

Between the dam and Ennis, along the Madison River, is a smaller dam which backs up a small reservoir, Meadow La[illegible] Hebgen dam and reservoi[illegible] peared to be the centre of the earthquake area. They are located just across the Montana-Wyoming border from Yellowstone National Park.

The only communication into the dam area was through an unidentified amateur radio operator. He was feeding reports from sheriff's deputies at the scene to Bozeman, Mont., 92 miles north of the dam.

AFFECTS BRIDGES

The deputies found U.S. Highway 287 south from Bozeman blocked by three bridges apparently destroyed or weakened by the tremors. They walked to the scene.

They reported an 18-foot fissure in the earth along the reservoir.

The tremors continued in varying moderation for several hours. They lasted up to 45 seconds.

Bowling Notes

Orlo Smith and his rink of Bernard Mascaro and Ken Bulford were the winners of the men's trebles tournament bowled at the local greens on Saturday afternoon. Incidentally the skip of the rink was the general chairman for the day's play and there was some hint of skullduggery but Orlo won the tourney fair and square. He was so far in front there was no catching him at anytime. The win was more remarkable in that Bernard Mascaro is only a second year bowler but incidentally one of the best leads in the club. Another rink of Ken Ashley, Art Pordham and Walter Elliott as skip placed second high with three games. Ossie Newton, A. Bourne and Harry Hall of Trenton won the two-game high count, while Ernie Jones, Gordon Edwards and Austin Watkin won the one-game high and they won that hobor on the last end of the game, when they needed a four ender and got it to edge out Morley Galt of Kingston. It was a real fine tournament with 16 rinks entered from Kingston, Trenton, Campbellford and Belleville. The greens were lightning fast and in excellent condition.

A large number of rinks of mixed doubles will be going to Trenton on Saturday to compete in the tournament. The entry list has been so great that a double draw has been made necessary and the first draw will be held at eleven o'clock with the second at one sharp.

Bruce Miller and Gordon Watkin are getting in a few practice sessions for their games for the doubles title of Canada, which will start at the Boulevard Club in Toronto on Monday. This is their second try for the title and everyone is pulling for them to come through.

PALOMINO CLASS — Horses of every class, making up the biggest horse show ever at the fair, feature the Belleville Exhibition which opened for its annual four-day stand yesterday. Here the judge proceeds to place a class of handsome Palominos.

I. Morch Wins RCAF Station Invitation Race

TRENTON — The annual RCAF Station Trenton invitation regatta Sunday afternoon was won by Ian Morch of Belleville with his boat the Ca Va.

Eban James of Trenton, placed second in only three and a half minutes behind the winning craft, with his boat the Casawappy.

Twelve boats participated in this seven and a half mile race on the Bay of Quinte. The winning time for the race was one hour, 25 minutes and five seconds.

The race was delayed a half hour to allow boats from Belleville to arrive, as the west-northwest winds made this trip take longer than usual. An RCAF boat was used to hold the officials of the race for timing and checking purposes.

Following the race A/C J. B. Harvey made a formal presentation of the trophy to the captain of the winning boat, Ian Morch. Speaking to the assembled guests he stated that it had been a fine day for the Regatta and complimented Mr. Morch on his fine performance.

Heavy Damage Done by Soot In East Trenton

TRENTON — Damage estimated at several thousands of dollars was caused by soot in the north Murray Street area over the past weekend. H. S. Pane, sanitary inspector, began investigations Saturday morning as to the cause of the soot which spread over a wide area of east Trenton Friday night and Saturday morning.

Residents of this locality complained that during the period between Friday evening and Saturday morning a fine, oily-type soot drifted over the area and into houses, covering floors, walls and furnishings with a fine coating.

It is believed that the industry where this soot originated has been located and all possible steps are being taken to prevent this trouble from happening again.

3-Car Crash Injures Woman

TRENTON—Margaret Scott, 23, R.R. 3 Trenton, suffered minor lacerations and a broken set of dentures as a result of a three-car crash during morning traffic on Dundas Street East. All three vehicles involved were west bound at the time of the accident and damage to the cars is estimated at close to $1,000.

A car driven by Shirley Nielson, 21 of 26 Dominion Street, turned into a driveway at 162 Dundas Street East. Percy Mirrel, 28, of 82 Division Street, was following the car, driving a heavy dump truck. Due to the wet pavement he was unable to stop and struck the Nielson car. A car driven by Margaret Scott was following the truck at the time of the accident and was also unable to stop and the car struck the rear of the truck suffering damage estimated at $500. Damage to the Nielson car was estimated at $350 while the truck damage was estimated at $100.

Livestock Show Best in History Of Local Fair

Although emphasis is apparently on the horse show with entries marking an all-time record for the show, district cattle breeders, sheep and swine raisers and fowl fanciers, are not lacking in numbers at Belleville Fair.

Horse class judging got underway Monday, the opening day of the fair, and today judging of Jersey, Guernsey and Ayrshire cattle is going ahead.

The above mentioned breeds of cattle were on display yesterday, while Holsteins were being brought in this morning for judging later during the fair program. Poultry judging is also taking place today.

Cramped quarters is the way fair officials are describing accommodation for horses with the heaviest entry in the fair's history. All available horse stalls are taken up and horses are even being quartered in accommodation ordinarily reserved for sheep and swine.

Presence of Royal Canadian Mounted Police with mounts taking part in the RCMP Exhibition Ride, is taking up considerable space in the horse barns which ordinarily would be used by show horses.

There is a good poultry show with all classes being well represented, although the total number of entries does not seem quite as large as in some other years.

Four entries in Holsteins classes were on the ground by early this morning. These included Jack Burnside of Madoc, Allen McComb of Sidney township, John J. May and Sons of Picton and the Quinte Cattle Breeders Association at Belleville.

Ayrshires are being shown by D. Creighton of R.R. 2 Bath, the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville, Elmer Wood of Crookston and M. A. Parks and Son, R.R. 2, Belleville.

Farmer Drowns Trying to Save His Niece

PORT STANLEY (CP)—Adam Flowers, a 60-year-old farmer from Westminster Township, was drowned at this Lake Erie beach Monday while attempting to save his niece.

Seeing Jean Elliott, 14, swept beyond her depth by a strong surface current, Mr. Flowers plunged into the lake fully clothed but was carried away by the current.

Mrs. Flowers called for help to Stanley Speers, 17, of the Port Stanley marine station life saving crew, who brought the girl safely to shore and then organized a search which found Mr. Flowers.

Firemen worked for more than an hour trying to revive the victim.

Lands, Forest Fair Exhibit Most Interesting

The importance of reforestation in preventing soil erosion and its monetary benefit to farmers was the theme of an interesting Department of Lands and Forests exhibit on view in the Horticultural Building at the Fair Grounds.

The exhibit features three large miniature models of farm scenes. They graphically show the importance of and location of shelter belts and windbreaks of trees to prevent soil erosion and in winter drifting snow and high fuel bills by sheltering yard and farm home; the monetary benefit which the farmer can derive by maintaining woodlots on unused land; the advisability of using a tree planter and planting a woodlot on a contour; and the importance of fencing the woodlot from cattle.

Behind each model is a changing picture — a before-and-after scene painted on both sides of a venetian blind which is turned by an air vent activated by a small pump — stressing these factors in a realistic way. Picture one shows the damage done to a newly planted unfenced woodlot by grazing cattle and the growth of the woodlot after it has been fenced. The second picture shows a young boy and his father looking over their just completed contour reforestation project, and several years later the same woodlot and young boy grown to maturity. The third picture shows how property value can be increased and appearance of a farm improved by making use of unused land by reforestation methods.

In addition a Land and Forest department officer is on hand to give out information and literature to interested viewers.

Will Charge Man With Possessing Burglar's Tools

Earl MacCormack, 36, of Belleville, is being held by city police on a vagrancy holding charge, following his being apprehended outside the Ontario Cheese Producers building on Wills Street, allegedly in possession of burglar's tools.

The tools found in MacCormack's possession were said by police to have been taken from the Canadian Pacific Railways toolshed at South Front Street at the railway bridge.

The night watchman at the Cheese Producers building, and Constable Don Yearwood of the city police teamed up in the apprehension of MacCormack who was said found hiding against the wall of the cheese warehouse. The arrest was made about 1.40 this morning.

Earlier the night watchman had heard someone outside the building and making an investigation apparently scared the intruders away.

However, on hearing noises the second time, he again called police and with the arrival of Constable Yearwood a search of the grounds revealed Mr. MacCormack hiding against the building.

Detective Harold Reid said the arrested man would be charged with being in possession of burglar's tools.

Junior Farmers, 4-H Clubbers In Competitions

Junior Farmers and 4-H club members from four counties were taking part in a combined judging competition at the Belleville Fair today as the second day of the junior program got underway.

Both boys and girls are entered in the competition and winners will receive special awards prior to the grandstand show this evening.

Monday about 75 girls, members of Homemaking Clubs from the four counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, and Northumberland, took part in a special achievement program. The girls judged cottons and vegetables and during the afternoon staged demonstrations and viewed exhibits. There were nine demonstrations and the same number of exhibits.

In charge of the girls' program were Mrs. Marilyn Suave, home economist for Hastings and Lennox and Addington, and assisted by Miss L. Rowe, Toronto, of the Extension Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Mrs. McMann, Peterborough, and Mrs. Grover Smith, home economist for Prince Edward and Northumberland.

In the senior event, Burton MacLean of Napanee was first with other winners being Carl Reid of Stirling, Bernard Chalen, Marysville; Adam Milligan, Napanee; Howard Frost, Belleville 2 and Ronald Hall, Napanee 4, tied for fifth place.

Boys' events were in charge of Sidney MacDonald, agriculture representative, and Clinton Nesbitt, associate director, both of Stirling.

Clever Table Settings Seen In Horticultural Building, Sponsored by District W.I.'s

Hostesses desiring new ideas in table settings for special occasions, such as Christmas, Thanksgiving and St. Valentine's Day, should take a look at the district Women's Institutes' exhibit in the Horticultural Building at the Fair Grounds.

Eight of the nine W.I.'s participating in the exhibit used their combined ingenuity and came up with clever table settings for festive occasions, while the ninth W.I. displayed a christening layette of 50 years ago, which was also of much interest to the viewers.

The layette, displayed by the Quinte Women's Institute, included a 100-year-old handmade christening dress, and handmade bonnets, booties, baby band and foot warmers, baby bassinet and christening bowl, all over 50 years old.

An attractive table setting for St. Patrick's Day was displayed by Mountain View Women's Institute. Centred on a white linen cloth was a centrepiece of green tinted 'mums intermingled with sprays of tiny white flowers. Flanking this floral centrepiece were large green tapers in holders, each surrounded by green tinted baby 'mums. A white clay pipe tied with a large green ribbon and place cards decorated with small shamrocks were at each place. Tall crystal glasses and shamrock decorated serviettes completed the table arrangement.

FOR THANKSGIVING

Rednersville Women's Institue produced a lovely table setting for Thanksgiving. An unusual centrepiece; but one in keeping with the theme of Thanksgiving, was a "horn of plenty." This was a black, wrought iron horn filled to overflowing with waxed fruit. At each place were brown and gold woven place mats, small bouquets of fall flowers and grain tied with a large yellow bow with name cards attached and serviettes inscribed "Thank Thee for Thy bounty."

A Valentine's party for the kiddies inspired the table arrangement produced by Plainfield W.I. This included a glass "tree" centrepiece with red streamers leading out from it to each of four place settings. The "branches" held small hearts and tiny packages. A St. Valentine decorated paper tablecloth with matching serviettes as used, and at each place was a small basket of candy and a small paper "Valentine girl."

A Valentine's Day dinner party was the theme of the table arrangements produced by the Bloomfield W.I., which featured simplicity and taste. The centrepiece was a floral bouquet surrounded by tiny red hearts in a diamond design. Good china and silverware were used and table decorations were cardboard cupids.

WEDDING TABLE

Table setting for a wedding reception was produced by Wallbridge Women's Institute. In the centre, of course, was the wedding cake on a glass cake plate sitting on a large, round mirror. It was flanked by two crystal four - candle candelabra, each containing two white tapers and two tiny pink roses. Wedding - type tablecloth and matching serviettes completed the decorations.

The most popular theme for table settings was Christmas with three of the W. I.'s producing settings in keeping with this joyous occasion.

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute arranged a colorful table setting for a children's Christmas party. This featured the Nativity scene to remind children of the true meaning of Christmas. Christmasy - type cardboard plates and green Christmas tree serviettes were used. At each plate was a cracker, a small, gaily decorated cup of nuts, and a glass of red fruit punch with a candy cane for stirrer. A Santa's sleigh containing Christmas candy, Santa Claus and reindeer ornaments, and a heap of gaily wrapped Christmas presents completed the table arrangement.

The Chatterton W.I. Christmas table setting included a pine log centrepiece flanked by two frosted candles in copper and wrought iron holders. Cardboard Santa Claus place cards and small, silver baskets of candy were at each place. St. Nicholas - decorated place mats and serviettes, and Santa and reindeer ornaments set amid evergreen boughs completed the table decorations.

Centrepiece for the Carmel W. I. table setting was a large red candle set amid evergreen boughs and red poinsettias. Red and green glasses and Santa Claus decorations at each place completed the Christmas table setting.

FLEXIBLE OIL BARGE

ST. HELIER, Jersey, Channel Islands (Reuters)—A dracone oil barge, a 67-foot sausage-shaped flexible container holding 10,000 gallons of aviation kerosene, arrived here Monday after a 130-mile crossing from Fawley on the south coast of England. This is believed to be the first commercial sea voyage of a cargo in a flexible container although dracones are in regular use on internal waterways in Nigeria and the Far East.

Capetown Family Enjoys Living In Canada Free of Colored Problem

"The colored problem cannot go on indefinitely, it's got to blow up some time," says Friedel Bellstedt, and that is one reason why he and his family have come all the way from Pearl, near Capetown, South Africa, to 156 William street, Belleville.

"The party in power is for segregation. The Opposition party stands for practically the same principles. And the Liberal party, which stands for complete integration, will never have a chance; they have only about one per cent of the white vote.

"The colored people outnumber the whites about four and a half to one. What most people in Canada do not seem to understand, and what journalists and authors who stay in South Africa for perhaps a few months do not seem to grasp, is that almost all the white people stand for segregation. They feel it is their only chance of survival.

"I would have stayed to help solve the problem, if the Opposition offered an alternate policy but it does not."

Why come to Canada?

"Well, I wanted to stay in the Commonwealth. I considered Australia. But India and China and in fact all Asia is bursting at the seams, while Australia and New Zealand are nearby and underpopulated. I think Canada has a great future and I felt that myself and family would have a better chance to get ahead here."

Mr. and Mrs. Bellstedt and their three children, Albrecht, 10; Elizabeth, 6, and Johann Christoph, 2½, arrived in Victoria, B.C., about a year ago and stayed there for nine months.

"People say that the people of Victoria are stiff," said Mrs. Bellstedt, "but we didn't find that at all, quite the contrary. And it was beautiful out there, but we did not like the climate, the rain or the winter."

RICH COUNTRY

"There are about 400 families in Victoria and Vancouver that emigrated from South Africa for such same reasons as we did," said Mr. Bellstedt. "The white population in South Africa is maintained to a certain extent by incoming Europeans. They go because industry is expanding. The country is rich. You can get coal in South Africa for a dollar a ton. They have iron, chromium, uranium, some of the richest mines in the world, and of course gold and diamonds. South Africa has everything — and a colored problem that has got to blow up sometime."

Pretty hot in Belleville now?

"It's nothing to us," said Mrs. Bellstedt, "in South Africa it was often 105 degrees and when I went to school, a typical English school, we wore navy blue serge uniforms and long black stockings. The girls don't have to wear them now, I'm glad to say, they wear light frocks."

The Bellstedt family has been in Belleville since May. Mr. Bellstedt is technical supervisor at Corby Distillery Ltd., Corbyville.

His Best Self

Peter McGuire is a friend of ours. He's a man who does what he has long wanted to do, work alone in the woods with beautiful speckled trout, not very far from Belleville.

After serving in the RCAF and being taken prisoner-of-war by the Japs, he worked on the newspaper as a reporter. He did not like it very much and he did not last very long.

One day he was sent to cover a murder story and also the funeral of quite a prominent citizen. He covered them both all right. He got the facts. But he got the names mixed up. The alleged murderer was buried and the dead man had murdered somebody, according to his articles.

So Pete did not last long on the paper.

Then he went into advertising. He went out of it pretty quickly, too. He hated being stuck behind a desk. What did he like, he wondered? Well, he liked the woods and fishing. He could hardly earn a living at fishing? But he might do something connected with it.

He resigned from his advertising job and went to the Paradise Brook Trout Company in Pennsylvania, the largest trout hatchery in North America. There he worked for two years and learned a good deal about it. Indeed, he proved so proficient that he received a lucrative offer to remain there on the staff. He refused. He wanted to start a hatchery of his own.

He returned to Canada, bought a small truck and transported 8,000 tiny trout to his newly-created ponds. He designed an insulated aluminum carrier for the truck to ensure proper temperature and oxygen while transporting trout to various lakes. This truck proved so efficient that both the Paradise Hatchery and a Canadian provincial government, which operates government hatcheries, copied it. The principle is simply that of a thermos bottle.

Two or three national and international magazines published stories on Pete and his hatchery. This always causes a rash of visitors and Pete does not like it at all. People come poking around. He wants to be left alone. And so, when a large magazine had an article scheduled about him this summer, he asked the editor to cancel it.

Such an article would be good for business?

It certainly would.

But Pete has plenty of business, and he does not want to expand. That is why he made us promise not to use his real name or divulge his whereabouts.

He is 37. In the six years he has been at it, he has never spent a day in bed, never even had a cough or the slightest cold. That is one of the blessings of living in the pine-scented fragrance of the open. And he is doing the job he likes best: raising healthy trout by a lake and babbling brooks.

"Blessed is he," said Carlyle, "who has found his work."

Oh, Diana!

Diana Dors, the British actress of the long, blonde hair and bountiful bust, is suing RKO Pictures for $1,275,000 for breach of contract and defamation.

RKO has filed its defence, alleging, amongst other things, so help us, that Miss Dors has acquired an international reputation for "insobriety, unchastity, intemperance, immodesty and exhibitionism."

This, of course, makes it obvious to all that RKO could never make a nickel out of pictures displaying Miss Dors' charms and acting abilities, if any.

Just look at that indictment - - insobriety (lie down, Oh Ghost of the Great Profile), unchastity (get thee behind me, oh, Reno), intemperance (you again, Barrymore), immodesty (look at those press agents shudder) and exhibitionism (Miss Mansfield, this is not Brazil).

The next sober, chaste, temperate, modest, shy mouse with hair of the same hue you chance to see, sign her up quickly. She is obviously what Hollywood is panting for and your fortune, as her agent, will be made.

JUST FOLKS

ONLY ONE TOPIC

By EDGAR A. GUEST

There's only one topic today
That holds our attention at all;
Whatever we start out to say
We always wind up with baseball.
The fairest of maidens will stop,
Though a lover be begging her hand,
And ask him: "Are we at the top?
Oh, where do the Tigers now stand?

The finest of meals will grow cold
While the arguments quickly get warm,
And the hostess may fret and may scold,
She may say it is very bad form,
But what are the soup and the fish,
The entrees or even the meat?
To us, what's a delicate dish
When we want to explain a defeat?

The Russians may scare! What of that?
The marriage of Mabel or Grace
Falls, decidedly, deucedly flat,
And really is most commonplace;
And murders or fires, I declare,
We pass up as terribly tame;
The one topic talked everywhere
Is our team and the national game.

Strictly Personal

Some Views On Our Foibles

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Antics with Semantics:

When I think about the past, I am "reminiscing"; when you think about the past, you are "brooding."

I know the value of a dollar; you are careful; he is a tightwad.

My home is "compact"; yours is "cramped."

I enjoy relaxing in a sport shirt that is "colorful"; but why must you run around in those "gaudy" nightmares?

I have the "courage of my convictions"; you are just "pigheaded."

My expense account is "flexible" to take care of the items I may have forgotten; yours is outrageously "padded."

I have an appreciative eye for a good-looking woman; you are a bit of a gay dog; He is a terrible chaser.

I tell the boss what he wants to hear in order to "promote harmony on the team"; but you are a despicable apple-polisher.

When I got the better of it, I "drove a shrewd bargain"; when you got the better of it, you "pulled a fast one."

My dog is a "vigilant protector of the family"; your dog is a "surly, snapping brute."

My wife "rinses" her hair; your wife "tips" her hair; his wife "dyes" her hair.

By a "reliable" man is often meant one who will allow himself to be victimized without complaint.

It is "conscience" that prevents me from being dishonest; it is "fear of detection" that prevents you.

The learned man I agree with is an "intellectual"; but the learned man I disagree with is just a pretentious "pseudo - intellectual."

When we talk of a virtue we don't possess, we make it sound like a vice: "She's so terribly efficient," says one woman of another — making efficiency sound like a dread disease.

When a person wants to justify some extravagant pleasure, he tells himself that "you might as well enjoy the present"; when his son wants to indulge in the same, he is sharply told, "You can't live just for the present."

An "idealist" is a man who wants us to act better than we are prepared to be: and he is disregarded not because he is wrong, but because our brand of "realism" permits us to act as badly as we would like to.

"It's all a matter of taste," said the Devil, as he took another bite of roast infant.

Great Man Fails Often

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

There were successes and failures as examinations brought the school year to an end. Failures do not need to mean the end of the student's world. Once students enter the stream of the work-a-day world, they will find that even the most successful of them as scholars must learn to live with a certain amount of failure. Life is like that.

Those who have become famous in history have countenanced a series of failures before achieving their goals. Amon them was such a world-renowned person as Winston Churchill. Perhaps the classic example is seen in the record of Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest presidents of the United States. Here it is:

Failed in business 1831.
Defeated for legislature '32.
Again failed in business '33.
Elected to legislature '34.
Sweetheart died '35.
Had nervous breakdown '36.
Defeated for speaker '38.
Defeated for elector '40.
Defeated for Congress '43.
Elected to Congress 46.
Defeated for Congress '48.
Defeated for Senate '55.
Defeated for vice-president '56.
Defeated for Senate '58.
Elected President '60.

Husbands Take Warning

Financial Post

There are sinister developments on the home front.

A recent report from the prefabricated housing trade reads:

"With new roof trusses taking the weight off partitions, the housewife of the future will be able to move interior partitions around to suit herself."

The picture conjured up of the little woman tossing walls around is, of course, false. You know who will move those interior partitions around to suit the housewife. The new roof trusses may take weight off her partitions only to load it on to her spouse.

This prospect opens up whole new worlds for the cartoonist and the jokesmith. These hungry fellows are bound to make use of the new development to dust off and rerun all those threadbare items about husbands tripping over furniture shifted during the daytime.

The aspect of our brave new world is a daunting prospect.

Montreal Needs Subway

Montreal Star

A subway for Montreal is something that has been talked about for more than 40 years. If all the money which has been spent on pigeon-holed studies and plans had been put into direct construction we would not, unfortunately, have a subway system.

But we might at least have a start on one. And a start must be made some time. A subway, in the view of Leonard Leger, a member of the Montreal Transportation Commission, is inevitable.

However, unless a strong lead is taken soon, the inevitable may come too late; the city may be so bogged down that industry and people will have moved elsewhere.

Salk Vaccine's Worth Proved

Montreal Gazette

The spread of poliomyelitis has brought its own reaction. There has been a rush to clinics in cities affected for immunization by means of Salk vaccine.

It is a fact that this summer's experience with polio has vindicated the efficiency of Salk vaccine. At the time it was introduced in 1955 it was not claimed to be completely effective in all cases. What has happened is that the percentage contracting the disease among those exposed to it and protected by vaccine has been smaller than predicted.

There is no way to tell how many cases of polio there might have been without the widespread use of vaccine which already obtains, among children at least. But with so many cases among people of all ages, who remain unprotected, it is reasonable to infer that there would be a severe epidemic if there were no Salk vaccine.

The present polio "scare" in Montreal and the United States calls attention to the possibility of polio virus infection when vaccine is not used. If it leads to a higher percentage of people taking Salk vaccine, there will have been some purpose served by the numerous cases. Polio should be almost as rare as smallpox if all the means against it were brought into immediate use.

Polio Cases Nearly Double

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Polio is supposed to be the beaten scourge. Since 1955 we have had the Salk avccine, effective in from 75 to 90 percent of cases where it has been administered as a preventive.

But 1959 so far has turned out to be the worst polio year since the vaccine was introduced. Cases on record are nearly double 1958 totals for the comparable period.

Reports of the increased incidence are coming in from many sections.

Surveys suggest that the chief victims are individuals who have ignored the Salk vaccine as a protective measure.

The full story is, of course, that across the nation many thousands of youngsters in the most susceptible age brackets still have no Salk shots or too few. It is one of the really sad chapters in modern medical history.

Blueberry Picking Time

Sudbury Star

It's blueberry-picking time in Northern Ontario. Nature's bounty in the form of the tasty little blueberries is not hard to locate in the Mid-North. Drive out almost any road, park almost anywhere there is an open stretch of land, and there, almost certainly will be blueberries.

For the blueberry picker, it's pleasant to be back to normal after last Summer's exceedingly poor crop. Where withered, stunted bushes dotted the roadside and rocky slopes a year ago, the blueberry gleams in all its usual glory again.

Not only is blueberry picking an easy and economical way to acquire a dessert, be it blueberries with cream or in the form of a pie, but the act of picking them ranks well up there as what might be called an "escape" from the world.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DON'T TEMPT "LUCK" TOO FAR WITH THAT BODY OF YOURS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 46, smoke two packs of cigarets a day, drink about 18 cups of coffee, and eat no fruit and very little vegetables. I feel O.K. but I do have sinus trouble and cough all the time and sneeze quite a lot. My wife is concerned over my coughing. Can you convince her she is wrong? — N. W."

No. I wouldn't even try, because she's so obviously right.

Between us, I'm not sure whether you really wrote this letter, or whether your wife wrote it, hoping that you will see it and thus see yourself as you are.

You overload your system with caffein and nicotine, not to mention carbon monoxide and tars. With no fruit and few vegetables you certainly are not giving your system half a chance to absorb the vitamins you need.

Your systems warns you with "sinus trouble" and, more particularly, the cough.

The sneezing — well, I don't know. That might be incidental but the purpose of a sneeze is to clear the air passages of some sort of irritant. You may be allergic to something or other, and it may have no connection with the rest of your troubles.

If you think I'm reading the riot act to you, then I admire your perspicacity. I am.

Good health is like a plant or plants, whether a rose bush, an onion patch or a field of corn. You can plant any of these in fairly good soil, and you'll get a crop of blossoms or vegetables.

The soil is patient. Plant life is patient and long-suffering. But a worn-out garden or worn-out farm, that has been deprived too long of its proper fertilizer, and subjected too often to abuse, finally shows the effects.

A RUGGED CONSTITUTION

The fact that you "feel O.K." despite your cough, sneezes and sinus trouble, is a tribute to your originally rugged constitution.. It does not mean that you will get away indefinitely with the sort of thing you are doing.

You have a wife who loves you enough to care about your health. You've been fortunate so far in avoiding the more serious consequences of your sort of eating and living.

Why don't you be thankful for your good fortune and stop tempting "luck" too far?

Because, unless you make a few moderate changes, your luck is going to run out.

Can I say it any plainer?

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to have a cocktail daily before dinner? Other than calorie-wise? — C. S."

I don't think it is harmful at all — except that, as you know, a cocktail is loaded with calories. This answer may be resented by groups which oppose alcohol, but you asked for my opinion and there it is. But on the other side of the fence, I cannot conscientiously give that answer without remarking that one cocktail has a habit of becoming two, and two becoming four. Remember that, too.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is the treponema pallidum mobilization (TPI) test still used. — H. R".

The TPI test (for the organism which causes syphilis) is still used but it takes a long time and is expensive. The RPCF (Reiter protein complement fixation) is used more often. We use it, for example, in the Detroit Health Department. The TPCF (treponema pallidum complement fixation) also is more often used than the TPI.

Men Over 30, Arise, Act!

Hamilton Spectator

That was a horrible story which Reuters sent us from Birmingham, England, the other day.

The lead sentence was "Latins may be lousy lovers, but worried English swains aren't taking any chances . . ." The story went on to tell how an insurance broker in that city had issued policies to 200 young men, insuring them against their fiancees breaking off their engagement while travelling on the continent and succumbing to the marital pleas of "those dilated nostrils and impassioned looks of foreign Romeos."

Basically a sound idea; perhaps; sometimes it's a shame what can be accomplished with even undilated and nearly motionless nostrils. But it was the schedule of premiums which, in our opinion, made this type of insurance anti-social and unrealistic. Premiums were highest on girls between 17 and 25 (30 bob per hundred quid), lower on those between 25 and 30. "Women over 30," Reuters alleged, "are considered a safe risk."

Now could anything be more fantastic than the apparent premise that women over 30 are undesirable to those twitching-nosed Romeos in Europe, or that they are virtually unlurable? For about ten years now, we've considered the under-30 group to be babes in arms — but not ours — to be sent to bed early with glasses of milk and protected from cradle robbers.

The truth is that women over 30 are never a safe "risk" and we doubt if they would want to be so considered. We're sure both Lloyd's of London and The Times of London would concede this, even if that Birmingham broker wouldn't. He should be left standing at the altar by some silver-haired beauty who has found a European with a heart of gold and never mind his nostrils.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When, on a very hot day, you see afar on the horizon the stately white piles of cumulus cloud rising remote and high, you squint at the blazing blue overhead and think, ah, thunderheads over there!

Under those thunderheads, it is not hot at all. Twenty, forty miles away, under those snow-white gigantic piles of cloud, they are having a thunderstorm. Their sky is not only grey, it is only a hundred feet up, and rain is pelting down out of it. Wind is gusting and swirling. Everybody is indoors; the trees are bending; and floods are sloshing in the gutters. It is cool, there, forty miles over. Right under those thunderheads.

Therefore, when you are indoors during one of these whacking August thunderstorms, with all your windows shut to prevent the curtains flailing out and getting soaked, and the lightning cracks and the thunder bellows and shakes, and the rain slashes the window panes, just remember that to somebody forty miles away, sitting in a deck chair and sipping an iced drink, you are merely a thunderhead in the distance, a pretty white ornament in the summer sky.

Weather, like life itself, is a purely local affair.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIGHTS AND LAMPS

I love lights — lights of every design. Lights that glorify the city, lights that give guidance to the streams of cars that ply the highways, lights that give assurance in a world of dark places.

In my youth I used to follow the man with a torch as he lighted the streets of the town. I dreamed of the time when I might be a lamp lighter. My one great ambition now is to be a lamp lighter to people whom I meet from day to day, for they are lamp lighters to me!

With the invention of the electric lamp by Edison, the whole world took on lights and people have grown in knowledge because of this great invention. From my New York City office windows I view a line of lights for as far as the eye can reach — a golden stream that is an inspiration. What would we do if these lights had never been invented?

I like to think that these daily Talks may possibly be lights to encourage others. We all need such guidance. There are too many dark places in the world, and there cannot be too many lights. Lights are silent overseers to safety.

Many are the intricate designs for lamps in great halls and dining places, and on trains and steamships. A great city is a wonderland of lamps. Why can't we all be lamp lighters? We can help to bring cheer and hope to many. Influence is mostly silent and full of peace.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

COMMON SENSE

A family we know has been struck by tragedy in the form of the sudden death of the 18-year old daughter. On the eve of her graduation from high school, with a promising future ahead of her, she was slain by a young man who had formerly been a close friend. The boy faces life imprisonment. The families of both are crushed by this disaster.

One's first reaction to this story might be to exclaim against the accidental and unjust chance which brought such a calamity to these two families at random. But a close knowledge of the events reveals that this tragedy, like so many others, was largely the result of human folly and lack of common sense.

The boy who committed the crime had a record of mental disturbance and violence. Once before he had actually beaten the girl when she refused to go out with him. Yet despite these facts, his family refused to give him adequate psychiatric treatment or restraint. And despite his violence, the girl continued to see him occasionally, and on the night of the murler, actually admitted him to her room through the window! What folly!

We cannot hope to escape sorrow in life. But good judgment and plain common sense will help us to escape having more than our share. Folly is no more profitable today than it ever was. And how, we may well ask ourselves, can we as a race go on making the same mistakes?

Fine Displays In Buildings

Besides the many agricultural and farm displays there are many interesting exhibitions of manufactured goods of both foreign and domestic origin in the booths of local merchants and manufacturers. These are to be seen in the two buildings just past the main entrance to the Fairgrounds.

In the first building, the Manufacturers' Building, the following firms (and products) are exhibiting: Roluf's (musical instruments, cameras, tape recorders); David's (furniture, high fidelity units, household appliances); Bruce May Manufacturing (furnaces, aluminum products for the home, such as doors, awnings, etc); Leslie's Shoe Store; Houston's (home builders' supplies and new home suggestions); Walker Hardware (power tools and hardware items for the home); Lakeland Natural Gas Company (gas furnaces); Darling's Book Store (typewriters); Precision Prefab Products (prefabricated cottages and other buildings); Air Shade Company (aluminum awnings, sidings, doors); Electrolux (vacuum cleaners and floor polishers); John Lewis Company (television, high fidelity sets, household appliances); Filter Queen (vacuum cleaners); Muir's Roofing and Flooring (paint supplies); Keyes Supply (home appliances).

There is also an interesting exhibit by the Royal Canadian Air Force for recruiting purposes. The display consists of a board of color transparencies which light up briefly and the viewer may attempt to identify the plane in the picture by pushing buttons on a control panel.

In the Merchants' Building other exhibits of merchandise were on display. Those exhibiting included Hitchon Radio (high fidelity, television, and radio); Bill Deline (space heaters); Booth's Radio and TV (television sets); Underwood (typewriters); Jack's Appliance Shop of Stirling (television and household appliances); Singer Sewing Machine Co. (sewing machines and vacuum cleaners); Percival's (floor carpeting and furniture); Treasure House Sales of Trenton (stainless steel cookware, china and air coolers); Stephen Licence Company (bicycles and toys); National Cash Register (cash registers and accounting machines); Melmac Dinnerware (plastic dinnerware), and a booth by the Lorne McDougall Insurance firm.

AGRICULTURAL CLASSES have big entries at the fair, including grains and vegetables. Here Diane Burley of Belleville is seen with prize sheaf of oats.

The Horticulture building bloomed again with exquisite flowers of many hues and perfumes, making an inviting rendezvous for lovers of the beautiful.

Sentinelling the entrance were two tall red cedars, and catching the eye, four tall standards of gladioli, in shades of salmon pink, wine, yellow, white, orchid and red, mingled with cedar sprays and, as the eye travelled, bouquets of mixed flowers, including zinnias, queen's lace, cosmos, petunias, marigolds, baby's breath, snapdragons, spider plant, blue delphiniums, both light and dark blue, asters, phlox and dahlias.

The centrepieces were most attractive with blue cornflowers and baby's breath; pink gladioli florets in sailboat design; red roses, and many others, no two alike. The corsages, also, were very pretty, made from orchid gladioli, perennial sweetpeas; blue cornflowers and asters, and white and pink roses.

BRIDAL BOUQUETS

Bridal bouquets included tiny roses and white everlastings, backed by frilled net, with white satin streamers, hand bouquets of pink gladioli, and Colonial type of salmon pink gladioli.

Baskets of colorful zinnias, vases of sunflowers; bouquets of everlasting flowers so nice for winter's dull days; others were of wild pampus grass and wild oats mingled with sprays of blue statis.

Ruffled petunias were of nearly every color, white, pink, mauve and dark wine, while the African violets had a showcase all to themselves, which they merited for their loveliness. In this same show case was a five-year-old lemon tree, bearing fruit, and a note stating that the green lemon had taken approximately one year to mature. A large, yellow one was nearby, as well as two tiny green lemons and flowers just forming. The owner of the tree mentioned that the skin of the ripe lemon was quite thick. The tree is more of the ornamental type than for the number of lemons produced.

An assortment of various cacti was shown including the old hen and chicken variety, the horay cactus; the pretty pheasant type; the elephant's ear and the deer cactus with its branching antlers.

Along the side were special blooms, which included single stalks of gladioli, tiger lily; Canterbury bells; carnations; Canna lily; large, cone-shaped hydrangea; asters; Sultanna, red, and pink geraniums; the mysterious Lantena with its multicolored blooms on one stalk; fuschias; lovely begonias, one dark red, perfect bloom; sansaravari; silver - edged ivy ;angel wing begonias; foliages; and asparagus, sword, and Boston compactor ferns.

OUTSTANDING FLOWERS

The oustanding flowers were the gladioli, and the zinnias which held the spotlight with their entrancing colors, and various shades. Both of these are excellent for cut flowers; the gladioli with its range from tall stalks, to the last flower at the tip which can be used so successfully for low, pond-like centrepieces, and the zinnias for their lasting quality. All were lovely but it seems that more room is badly required for the best arrangement, and to show the flowers to better advantage. There appeared to be a crowding tendency, which detracted from the flowers individual beauty.

Fine Talk On 'Education' Given at W.I.

The August meeting of Ivanhoe W. I. was held at the home of Miss Jayne Gay, on Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of ten members and seven visitors.

In the absence of the president, the meeting was presided over by Miss Jayne Gay and opened in the usual manner.

Correspondence was read and business discussed. It was decided to remember two sick members in the usual way.

The convener of citizenship and education, Mrs. William Donnan, took charge of the program, and all sang "Juanita." The motto, "Take Time to Read, It is the Foundation of Wisdom," was given by Mrs. T. E. Pollock in a well-prepared and thought-provoking manner.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. McCrimmon, district president, was introduced by Mrs. Donnan and gave a splendid talk on "Education," saying in part:

"Reading good books is a necessary thing in this life. Children should be read good books as soon as they are able to understand them, and after they are able to read, the very best of books should be given them to read.

"Education is the most worthwhile thing in life; it is the basis of good character and good citizenship. Today's children are tomorrow's leaders."

Mrs. McCrimmon was thanked for her talk and presented with a small gift.

Miss E. Tanner gave a reading, "The Value of Canadian Citizenship."

Miss Margaret Wright gave a talk on modern art and Canadian paintings, showing samples of many lovely works of art, done by Canadian painters.

Mrs. Donnan took charge of a contest after which the meeting closed.

The hostess and her assistants served a delicious lunch and a pleasant half-hour was enjoyed over the teacups.

Board Marker Not Worried Over Noise

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arnitta Benner can't hear the excited chatter of the board room traders at C. M. Oliver Company Limited where she works as a board marker.

But the attractive 22-year-old deaf mute, a brown-eyed brunette, does an efficient job of chalking up share prices from the ticker.

"The only thing that bothers me," she writes on her always-handy note pad, "is that sometimes people call me when I am marking up prices and I can't hear what they're saying."

Her boss, Robert Chilcoot, company vice-president, says that's no problem as far as he's concerned.

"Our clients aren't supposed to talk to the board markers anyway," he said.

Arnitta, born in Saskatoon and one of a family of 10 children, lost her hearing when she was a baby. Her family moved to Haney, B.C., and then to Sechelt, where her parents still live. Arnitta lives in Vancouver with friends.

She attended school for the deaf, but, she writes, studying is slow for the deaf.

"Being deaf, however, has one advantage. She never loses her temper. "It's easy to be angry when you can hear what people say to you. I can't hear so I never get mad".

The homecooking display also includes, cupcakes, muffins, doughnuts, tarts, cookies, brownies and a variety of cakes, uniced, chiffon, fruit, coffee, date and nut loaf, angel and fancy iced cakes, and apple, cherry, raisin and lemon pies.

In the fancy iced cakes there is a separate display in a glass case of two three-layer wedding cakes, one decorated in pink and white, and the other in blue and white, and also a cake in the shape of a little lamb with a bell around its neck, lying amid "grass and flowers."

Examples of what a well-balanced lunch box should contain are also shown.

In the bottled goods there are pints of various kinds of fruit, vegetables, cooked salad dressing, chili sauce, relishes, pickles, jams and jellies.

In the dairy products are home-made butter and eggs and other products including maple syrup, maple sugar, white and dark comb honey, extracted honey and home rendered lard.

Fine Showing Of Vegetables, Fruit at Fair

One of the best showings of fruit and vegetables in several years is on exhibit at the Horticulture building, the result of fresh enthusiasm in competition, more exhibitors and the warm weather which has hastened the growth, as well as the lateness of the fair.

The neat arrangement of the display was most pleasing, and the gleaming pyramids of Wolfe Rivers, red Astrachans, greenings, plates of Duchess, Ben Davis, Starks, golden russets, McIntosh, Melbas, Northern Spy, Clapp's Favorite pears, and baskets of the same, was all that could be desired, not to mention the mouth-watering cantaloupes and watermelons, which somehow found their way among the choice vegetables.

POTATOES

The potatoes were of two varieties, early and late, and were Irish Cobblers, Katahdin and Early Rose. Carrots, beets, ripe and green sweet peppers, cucumbers, sweet Spanish onions, hot peppers, tomatoes, egg plants, cabbage, both of the red and white variety, cauliflowers, marrows, Chinese cabbage, squash (Hubbard), both large and individual; huge yellow and green squashes weighing around 40-45 pounds each; large field pumpkins; pie pumpkins; small squashes of the acorn type, turnips, butter beans and corn, were all nicely displayed.

There were trays of selected vegetables which included celery, peppers, tomatoes, corn onions, heads of cabbage and dill, fancy tomatoes, Swiss chard and hampers of large Spanish onions — everything for full vegetable dinners of Canada's growing population, as well as mangels for the domestic animals.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Alan A. — My wife has taken up with a woman of bad reputation.

Elaine A. — I'll choose any friends I please.

Alan A. — I am at a loss to know how to deal with my wife. She has taken up with a woman of bad reputation and I can't get her to understand that she is harming our married life and our three children.

This woman — Carol — has been married three times and is known in our community as a home-wrecker. What she and my wife can have in common is more than I can imagine. My wife had a wonderful upbringing and never even went out with anyone but me.

Things have gotten so bad that the neighbors are all talking. One of the women in our housing development came to tell me about it. She said she is very fond of my wife and hates to see others get the wrong impression of her.

Elaine A. — I think that woman who spoke to my husband has more nerve than brains. Who is she anyway — my governess? I am 27 years old and I'll choose whatever friends I please.

I met Carol when she happened to be passing the baby carriage and caught my baby as he almost took a dive for the sidewalk. I was so grateful I could have kissed her. Then we started talking and I found her very pleasant. I don't approve of some of her language or the way she dresses, but outside of that she is very nice.

I have noticed that some of the other women have steered clear of me since I took up with Carol. I don't care because I find her more interesting to talk to than a lot of them.

The Council: We can find only one villainess in this story — and that is the woman who went bearing a silly tale to a too-easily-upset husband.

We get the impression that Elaine is the kind of person who is sure of herself and her own standards. She is not afraid to be grateful, courteous and kind to a woman of doubtful reputation because she knows she canot be easily tainted. Alan offers no complaints about his wife's behavior since she has taken up with Carol, so we are assuming that the possible evil influences have failed to materialize.

It is possible that Carol has had a lurid past — yet is capable of good and of appreciating respect and consideration when they are given her. The friendship of a woman of good reputation and character may mark a turning point in her life.

If Carol is so disturbed as to be beyond the help of a kindly woman, the chances are that Elaine will find herself forced to give up this friendship. Elaine could be wrongly affected by Carol only if she were herself very confused and unhappy with her lot. In view of the absence of such signs, we would consider her quite capable of successfully choosing her own friends.

We think Alan ought to bear in mind the incident that brought the two women together — the saving of his baby from a dangerous fall. It is a reminder of the possibility of good which lies in everyone.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

BOY MEETS GIRL . . . BOY MEETS HER MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am just beginning to go out with boys, and I'd like to ask you a special question. When a boy calls for me at my house to take me on the date, is it necessary that I should introduce him to my mother? And also to other members of my family who happen to be around? — Kathleen

Yes, Ma'am . . . definitely necessary, definitely courteous, for you to introduce the boy to your mother. She is hostess of your home, and guests should be introduced to her. Be sure you do this . . . only girls with unsure, shoddy manners omit this courtesy. If the boy has the right kind of manners, he'll naturally expect this introduction. Also introduce the boy to any members of your family who happen to be around.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR 16-YEAR-OLDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My sister-in-law and I are planning a combined birthday party for our children, a boy and a girl. They will be 16 years old on the same day. The party is to be held in a hall: the hours 5:30 to 10 o'clock. It will start with a buffet supper arranged and served by a caterer, and will be followed by dancing.

Our first problem is: How should the invitations read, keeping in mind that they are each inviting their own friends, and that there will be a buffet supper? Also, how do we go about finding out how many will attend so that we can arrange for the number of places with the caterer?

2. Is it proper to have a juke-box? We parents would like to hire a band, but it seems the teenagers much prefer records.

3. Have you any other suggestions for us? Thank you very much for your help.
— Two Mothers

1. You and your sister-in-law are properly the hostesses of this party, and it is important that you both should make this perfectly clear by being the ones to extend the invitations. (In other words, don't, as you wrote, let "each invite their own friends.") I advise you to get from your 16-year-old the list of names and telephone numbers, you to telephone each invitation, giving all information, and thus receiving the answer at once; your sister-in-law should do the same. This will speed up plans, give you the accurate number for the caterer's information. To be really courteous, ask to speak to the mother of each guest you are inviting, giving her information about the invitation.

2. By all means have the juke-box, as the teenagers prefer! Then they can have the numbers they choose, can have fun with the procedure.

3. Suggestions((a) Make a dramatic "Big Thing" of the serving of the two birthday cakes. You might ask the caterer to provide a strong spotlight, turning it first on the girl's cake as it is brought in glowing with candles, and during the blowing-out of the candles, and the singing of "Happy Birthday" . . . and then on the boy's cake with the same dramatic procedure. (b) You might like to give a corsage to each girl (small, simple, informally-designed) and to each boy a boutonniere, perhaps one small red or white carnation. (c) Have some kind of take-home favor or souvenir, something on which the occasion, the date, and so forth can be written.

QUESTION ABOUT A GRAND MARCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a man, 27 years old, and for the first time in my life I'm going to a Costume Ball, a benefit for a large service organization here. I've been told that there is to be a Grand March. When my partner and I enter this, what arm do I offer her?
— Fred

You offer your partner your right arm . . . bent at the elbow, as an usher at a wedding offers his arm to a woman guest before escorting her up the aisle. I suggest you do a bit of homework on this offering-of-your-arm, proudly putting a bit of traditional ceremony into it!

ONE MOUTHFUL OF MEAT AT A TIME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Isn't it correct to cut a whole slice of meat into mouthfuls before beginning to eat it?
— Reader

No, this isn't correct . . . if you are beyond nursery-days. The idea is that you're now a big girl (or boy), and you should cut off one mouthful of meat (or other food) and eat this piece before you cut off the next piece.

Nursery School 1959 Style Provides Play Work and Food

by Mary Moore

The annual dinner of the Peter Pan Nursery School Association was held on May 29th in St. Andrew's United Church in Hamilton. It was held there because that is where the school operates on weekdays. Several organizations in the church co-operate to make this unique project a success.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Homemade Garden Vegetable Soup;. Open. Salmon Sandwich "Pie" (see Monday); Cole Slaw; Homemade Fresh Peach Pie with Cheddar Cheese; Iced Coffee (see Monday).

The Women's Association, some of whose members do not have children young enough to attend the school, served a magnificent home-cooked dinner of chicken and a variety of pies that caused a sensation at our table. The minister, Dr. H. W. Outerbridge, asked the grace, the president, Mrs. J. D. McNie, gave her annual report. Miss Agnes Matthews, principal of St. George's School in Montreal gave the address.

"One of the "different" things about the learning process at St. George's is the way each child is considered as an individual . . . not necessarily created equal in intelligence — some learn quickly, some slowly . . . each one progressing according to his own ability . . . but expected to exert himself and make full use of his capabilities . . ."

I am well aware that my subject is cookery and nutrition and in the past two months I have had ample opportunities to observe the capacity and capability of a future nursery schooler — name of Gary Pitts. He is 3 1-4 years old and next month Marianne plans to take or send him to the splendid nursery school provided by the Canadian government in Soest in Germany.

At Peter Pan Nursery, with the rotating help of the children's mothers there are such activities as jungle gym, "housekeeping" centre, music period, snack time, creative play, brush painting and "circle" story. Grandson Gary is so full of energy and ideas I'm sure he would try to attend all of the activities at once.

But one of the features I want to focus on is snack time. Many mothers at home provide this too, but countless mothers do not.

Gary is encouraged to come in from his play whenever he likes and ask for an apple or orange and pear or raisins or prunes which he carries out in a small plastic bag. Naturally this becomes quite a racket because his playmates are hungry too and descend on him like vultures as soon as he is outside the door.

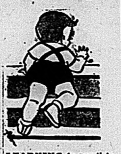
Nutritionists speak of low blood sugar and "fatigue point". You have experienced this yourself and get a glass of milk or cup of tea. Some children do not know what is wrong and instead of asking for food become whiny or quarrelsome.

Before this stage is reached at Peter Pan School refueling takes the form of fruit juice (never an artificial drink) and a whole grain or home-made cookie. Let me urge you to provide a mid-morning and mid-afternoon snack for your little ones — particularly if they are underweight.

I suggest having in plain view foods the children should have and that will not spoil their lunch or supper, such as any of the fresh fruits or raw carrot or celery or cabbage chunks, or a glass of milk or little shiny packages of cheese. Set these out to tempt them at the time you know they will be passing through the kitchen. At the edge of the kitchen table at their eye level little snacks may be picked up in passing. Your little ones will come to know that what is there is for them and in a short time habitually expect it.

It is not by chance that nursery school experts provide for the whole child. Because of the basic need they plan for recreational play, constructive work and sound nutrition.

Mother's Helper



LEARNING to negotiate stairs is a big but fascinating assignment for your little one. You can help keep it safe by making it a definite project—stay with him while he climbs up, teach him to come down backwards. Let him go up and down several times with your close supervision. Then remove him firmly from the spot. Keep this up until you are convinced of his skill.

A REAL MOUTHFUL . . . Harry Price (left), president of the Canadian National Exhibition, was ready to concede to Dr. Russell Scott (right), president of the Belleville Fair, that the largest Class B fair in Ontario also had the largest hot dogs and hamburgs of any exhibition, as the two toured the fair grounds yesterday afternoon.

CNE President, Harry Price, Much Impressed With Fair

There are two things which Mr. Harry Price, president of the Canadian National Exhibition, feels contribute greatly to the success of the Belleville Fair. The first is the emphasis on youth and the second is the maintenance of the fair as a basically agricultural exhibition — which was the start of every fair or exhibition in the province today.

Mr. Price made these comments following a thorough tour of the fairgrounds, viewing the various displays and events this morning and early afternoon under the guidance of Dr. Russell Scott, president of the local fair. The president of the Canadian National Exhibition saw many things of interest and was quite impressed by the number of young people participating in the fair's events. He often stopped to chat with the young competitors and their parents and to watch their preparations for the several livestock events which were conducted today.

During his tour he often expressed approval of certain features which the local fair had to offer local farmers and young people and quite obviously enjoyod the detailed explanations which Dr. Scott offered as they passed by some interesting incident or display. The latter was not remiss in pointing out those features which he considered to be important points in the development of the local fair to be the largest Class 'B' fair in Ontario and suggested that several of them might be useful to the future development of the Canadian National Exhibition.

ENTRY LIST DOUBLED

One of the events which gained the special attention of the visitor was the tractor driving skill event, of which there are very few to be seen at fairs about the province. This event was considered to be typical of nature of the local fair in attempting to draw the interest of the younger people. Of interest was the fact that the entry list for this year's tractor skill event was that the number of entries had almost doubled over last year's.

During the walk about the grounds Mr. Price commented that he felt many of the fairs were losing sight of the fact that they had their roots in agriculture and that this change of outlook might well be the cause of the decline in popularity of many fairs held today. Also a fair had to keep abreast of the times and provide the events which people found interesting said Mr. Price and suggested that the top fairs contained the best of the many fairs, which art held throughout the province elsewhere.

A break was taken during the tour to allow Mr. Price to sample a Belleville "hot dog" for dinner on the Midway in company with Dr. Scott, Mr. Frank Conklin, and several members of the press. It was allowed that these "hot dogs" were certainly an attraction unique to the local fair inasmuch as they took the form of T-bones rather than wieners.

MUCH IMPRESSED

After viewing many exhibits, talking to many people, and sampling a few examples of home baking the tour was concluded for the president of the Canadian National Exhibition who stated that he felt there were several things, which he had observed which would be of use to the big exhibition in the Queen City.

Commenting on the difficulties of running a large fair or exhibition, Mr. Price stated that transportation and parking facilities were the major problems. When people drive a distance to come to a fair they must be provided with parking space: if they aren't they are not so liable to come back again, said Mr. Price. Easy access is quite important and fairs should be able to offer this.

Argos, Riders, Als, Ti-Cats Open Big Four Loop Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The varied offence of the rebuilt Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders; the scoring punch of Montreal Alouettes' Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson against the rough and rugged line of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Jim Trimble, the renowned czar of the Tiger-Cats, departed from tradition by declining a prediction as to whether his defending champions would start as they did last year by winning their first nine games.

LEAGUE TOUGHER

"It's going to be tougher to win this year than last," said Trimble. "The whole league has improved."

Said Frank Clair of Ottawa: "We've got a pretty good ball club this year and we should do all right."

Hamp Pool of the Argos and Doug (Peahead) Walker of Montreal were not going on record either way.

Big crowds at both games were expected. Ottawa hoped for 20,000 for the game with the Argonauts although the weather may cut into attendance. Showers are predicted.

Hamilton, where fair weather is forecast, has 27,000 seats in its renovated Civic Stadium. The estimate of Jake Gaudaur, Ticat president, was "between 10,000 and 22,000." The record at Hamilton is just under 22,000.

SEE PASSING BATTLE

A passing battle shapes up at Ottawa where Frank Tripucka, obtained by Ottawa from Saskatchewan Roughriders goes against Ronnie Knox, the Golden Boy from UCLA.

The Riders are in good shape for the game, except for fullback Dave Thelen who is limping from a pulled hamstring and will be replaced by former Alouette Dick Hunter.

The Argonauts, by comparison, have some critical injuries including centre Norm Stoneburgh, pass-catching ends Boyd Carter and Paul Fedor, and linebacker Don Caraway.

Trimble said of Patterson:

"This may be hard to believe, in fact, I've told my players this, but Patterson is better now than he was before he was injured last year. He's not as wild and reckless as he was . . ."

Trible will start Bernie Faloney against Etcheverry, with alternate Tom Dublinski likely to watch from the sidelines.

Five Problems Face Third Major League

NEW YORK (AP) — At least five basic problems were slated for discussion today when baseball's top brass meet with organizer William A. Shea on the projected third major league.

1. Where does this unborn Continental League plan to recruit the necessary 800 players?

2. What would be left of the minor league structure if the new league were to raid the International League, American Association and Pacific Coast League?

3. How many cities actually could produce stadiums of major league quality and capacity?

4. How would the Continental League maintain the interest of the players and public without world series incentive?

5. What would the new league propose to compare favorably with the major league players' pension plan?

FRICK EAGER

Commissioner Ford Frick, head of the seven-man major league committee, acknowledge he was eagerly waiting to hear the answers to such questions. Shea, the New York lawyer and guiding spirit of the proposed league, admits he'd like to know the answers to some of those questions himself.

Shea, however, insists his league has no financial, personnel or park problems.

"We're not worried about getting enough players. There is a sufficient number of good players in the higher minor leagues and even in colleges.

"As for the parks, the Continental League will play baseball of the highest quality in stadiums second to none. We have a 35,000-seat minimum for our parks."

[illegible] APPLY

The founding five teams are [illegible] New York, Houston, Minneapolis-St. Paul and Denver. It is believed Shea has applications for membership from San Diego, Portland, Seattle, Buffalo, Miami, Montreal, Dallas - Fort Worth and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The results of the meeting between Shea and Frick's group is sure to be inconclusive. The majors' committee has no power to make decisions. At best, it will bring the report of its findings to the major league convention in Miami Beach next December.

This Golfer Accounted for A Real Birdie!

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)— Arthur E. Silverman, 60, got a birdie on the third hole Sunday at Weequahic Park golf course.

His second shot struck a bird in flight and brought it down dead, according to two other members of Silverman's foursome.

They said the shot from Silverman's No 2 wood dropped the small bird about 100 yards up the fairway.

Braves 'Red' Joins Team For Workout

The 36-year-old second baseman took a light drill at bat and in the field, still hopeful of getting back on the active list to help the Braves in the stretch drive of the National League pennant fight.

"I think it would be a lot easier for me to get back this year but it's up to the doctor," Schoendienst said. "Actually, he doesn't want me to play this season. So I'm concentrating on next year."

The status of Schoendienst will depend on the outcome of an examination in St. Louis next Tuesday.

"If the doctor gives me the okay we'll put him back on the roster Sept. 1 when we can carry more players under the baseball rules," said general-manager John McHale.

Larry Ferguson and Rock Batley led the attack with three goals each. Bob Curtis and Lou Nickle added a pair each with singles going to Carl Brioux and Bobby Allan.

Second game in the series will be played in Dixie Wednesday night.

Hank, Harvey Still Tops In Bat Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Speedy Vada Pinson, who observed his 21st birthday last week, has come of age as a major league hitter in his second try with Cincinnati Reds.

With 20 hits in 38 tries during the last seven days, Pinson gained 17 points and moved into third place in the National League batting race with a .331 average. He has collected 184 hits, second only to Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, the No. 1 batter.

Pinson made the grade just a bit too late, however, to qualify for the league's rookie of the year honors. He had 96 official times at bat for Cincinnati last season, batting .271. Under the rules put into effect before the 1958 campaign, a player with more than 90 official at bats is ineligible for the rookie award.

NO LETUP

Aaron has shown no signs of letting up in his bid to capture his second batting title. He had 10 hits in 26 trips including games of Sunday, Aug. 16, and boosted his mark one point to .367. He missed Sunday's double-header with Pittsburgh because of a back injury. Hank led the NL with .328 in 1956.

Joe Cunningham of St. Louis, in second place, closed in on the Braves' star. Cunningham climbed eight points to .348 with six hits in 10 at bats.

In the American League, Detroit's Harvey Kuenn held a 25-point lead over runner-up Nellie Fox of Chicago, through Sunday's games. Kuenn moved up five points to .351 with a 10-for-22 performance last week. Fox climbed two places with a three-point pickup to .326.

Al Kaline of Detroit remained in the No. 3 spot at .325 while Baltimore's Gene Woodling dropped from second to fourth at .323.

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs walloped four homers last week, lifting his pace-setting National League total to 38. Banks also drove home 10 runs to lead in the RBI department with 112.

Harmon Killebrew of Washington continues to lead in home runs in the American League with 38 and RBI, 91.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Le Grand Rouge, a disappointment in his 14 previous starts this season, finally hit his stride and won the featured Variety Club purse at Fort Erie Monday. He defeated Strongboy by three-quarters of a length while Royal Director finished third.

Le Grand Rouge, owned by Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, was one of Canada's better two-year-olds last season when he won five races and purses of $19,395.

SIX-TIME WINNER—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, holds the Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship trophy after an unprecedented sixth win in Toronto Saturday. She won 7 and 6 over Mrs. Bruce McGhie of New York. The 25-year-old shotsmith, who first won the trophy in 1951, broke the five-time record set by Ada Mackenzie of Toronto who won the title five times. (CP Wirephoto).

Canadian Amateur

Calgary Golfer Leads Field Into 2nd Qualifying Round

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tournament - tested Doug Silverberg, making his best start ever, today led a field of 148 golfers into the second 18-hole qualifying round of the 35th Canadian amateur golf championship.

The burly 26-year-old Calgary insurance executive carded a pair of 34s over the tricky Marine Drive course Monday for a three-under par 68 and a one-stroke lead.

In second place entering the second round is veteran B.C. golfer Bob Kidd, 33, of Vancouver, a member of Canada's 1958 world and Americas Cup teams.

ONTARIO PAIR GOOD

Behind the veteran Willingdon cuppers were two Ontario youngsters—Phil Brownlee of Toronto Scarboro and Windsor's sensational young junior, Bobby Panasiuk. Both carded par 71s.

At 73 was Gary Cowan of Kitchener.

With clear weather forecast today, a score of 154 or better is expected to be good enough to make the match play rounds which begin Wednesday.

The low 64 qualifiers enter the championship flight. Ties will be played off following the second qualifying round today.

Defending champion Bruce Castator of Toronto ran into trouble and finished with a 78. Nick Weslock of Windsor, 1957 champion, also had difficulty and carded a 76.

The favored American golfers also faltered. Ron Luceti and Bobby Roos Jr., both of San Francisco fell to 76 and 77 respectively.

Bill MacNaughton of Kitchener shot an 82.

DURELLE TO BOX

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle, Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight boxing champion, will box Wednesday night for the first time since he was kayoed by Archie Moore. Yvon is down for a four-round exhibition match to aid the New Brunswick fishermen's disaster fund.

Lions Smash Eskimos 12-0, Bombers Nip Stamps 22-21

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The big clubs in the Western Interprovincial Football Union were shaken Monday night.

Calgaly Stampeders, in a second-half comeback, almost upset Winnipeg before an 11th - hour single by quarterback Jim Van Pelt gave Blue Bombers a 22-21 victory.

The results left Winnipeg in first place with two wins followed by Stamps and Lions, each with a win and a loss. Saskatchewan Roughriders and Edmonton, both with one loss, are last.

Rookie coach Wayne Robinson, happy with Lions' showing, said the game was closer than the yardsticks and the score might indicate.

ESKS' LUCK BAD

"Edmonton had some bad breaks," said Robinson.

One such break resulted in the only touchdown of the game, by Canadian end norm Fieldgate. Fieldgate dived on the ball after a quick-kick attempt from Esks' end zone had been blocked. Moments before, Edmonton had stopped B.C. at the one-yard line.

Lions' other six points came on two field goals by end Vic Kristopaitis, who came to the club this month from Toronto Argonauts.

The yardsticks had Lions ahead 223-77 yards in rushing, with Esks having a 100-69 yards passing edge. B.C. gained 20 first downs against nine by Edmonton.

The same number saw Stamps, in their home opener, drive back after a 21-8 halftime deficit to near-victory.

KAPP MAKES IT CLOSE

Quarterback Joe Kapp, a rookie from California, tossed three touchdown passes. Two of them went to Arkansas half Donnie Stone, the other to sophomore import Bill McKenna.

Kapp converted one and scored a single. Doug Brown also kicked a convert.

Leo Lewis, Gerry James and Illinois import Carver Shannon scored Winnipeg touchdowns, two of them on passing plays. Van Pelt kicked two converts and a single and Charlie Shepard also had a single.

Interceptions of Kapp passes preceded two Winnipeg touchdowns.

Van Pelt's winning point was kicked at 11:10 of the last quarter with end Ernie Pitts rouging Harvey Wylie. Van Pelt was trying for a field goal from nine yards out.

Kapp passed for 247 yards against 163 by Van Pelt. Winnipeg's ground game netted 234 yards against 112 by Calgary. Each club had 22 first downs.

THE SAGA OF COLEMAN FLATS

(Ed. note:—Art Peever recalls some of the humorous and other episodes, teams and high jinx of two decades ago when Coleman Flats was the city's softball Yankee Stadium, or was it Ebbet's Field?)

By ART PEEVER

As you said it, "Them were the days." Coleman Flats was no place for one with a weak heart. The first diamond was behind the old mill, right field being near the south corner of the Belle Cleaners plant. Some of the players you did not mention were: Jack 'Crock" Doyle, Vic (Pappy) Holsey, Frank Ferrara, etc.

Later the diamond was moved to the north end of the Flats, just below the tracks in the same position as the present CNRA Park. Some of the teams which played then were: Belmonts, Esquires, Percivals, Canada Cement, Corby's and National Grocers, etc.

It was here that big Jim Hunter started. He was the first of the whip pitchers. Then there was Freddie Vasil (who could forget him), and Alex Simpson, sent here by his company, an oil firm, and who later was killed in an accident. He was a catcher and very popular.

I well recall the big crowds that attended the games. Some of the bleacher remarks made women faint and strong men blush. If they'd have been any hotter we'd have had a chunk of scorched earth.

As you have mentioned, many an eye got filled with fist and cinders. Many's the time the boys in blue came up there to restore law and order, causing one to remark, "It's a good thing we do not carry guns."

Visiting umpires were fair game. It was always open season on these "boids.".. One came from Kingston one night, and as usual saw two where there was one... His calls were so bad big Art Cole filled one eye with fist and pushed the other (fist) halfway down his throat. Art should have been a dentist. I never saw a guy who could remove teeth so easily. Minus a few molars, it was surprising how quickly this guy's vision returned to 20-20. Naturally that little stunt put Art out of softball for a year. If memory is right, I believe Harold Reid (private eye) joined Art on the sidelines.

Ed Schrieder was pitching in those days, as was the Celery King, Connie Harris, who grew the best vegetables this side of Yeomans Street.

Another night a big fight broke out after some visiting fireman sneaked up behind Johnny Bawden and "hung a dandy on him." Big brother Harold saw what went on and came roaring up like a juiced-up yard engine. Big 'Gawge' grabs the guy and just as he was about to clobber him, a woman rushed out from the stands and steps between them. She halted a beautiful right cross that big Bawdy threw, and landed about twenty feet back of the screen.

"Them were the days. Women and children foist."

One Peterborough night here was a dandy. They sent down a behind-the-plate Jesse James who had all the earmarks except a horse and gun.

He called a player out at third, and Sonny Green, who was coaching the hot corner, saw red. He did a Mohawk war dance. He tossed a fistic tomahawk into the umpire's kisser—and Sonny winds up with a year of nothing to do as far as softball was concerned.

But the battle spread, and the fans poured out of the bleachers. Hank Potts has this Peterborough guy down giving him a blue plate special when along comes a guy named Doyle. He saw the Peterborough guy, whose features were not recognizable by this time, on the ground. He thinks he is a Belleville guy, picks up a bat and clobbers him over the head.

Hank, instead of being flatter than a spread of congoleum, gets up and takes after Doyle who, had seen his error. He apologizes, and both take after the Peterborough so-and-so, who by this time is doing a Native Dance down Coleman St. Last seen he was swimming the bay headed for Little Sprain.

These happenings are only part of what went on in those rough-and-ready softball days. I remember another night when a visiting umpire was getting a rough ride while working the plate. His name slips my memory, but this bird had apparently heard what kind of reception visiting "robbers" got from the fans here.

Anyway, along about the fifth inning when the bleacher gang was ready to sound the charge, the umps heard the sound of a train whistle. Looking up he sees a freight train approaching slowly. So what does he do? Thinking discretion was the better part of something, valor, I think they call it, tossed his mask and pad, mounted the railway bank, hopped the freight and wound up somewhere in Toronto.

"Ah, them were the days."

Willies Do It Again For Giants; Tigers Trip Tribe

Mays, McCovey Come Up With Tying, Winning Runs; Chisox Lose Billy Pierce

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

A bunch of Willies-come-lately these San Francisco Giants, what with Willie Mays, Willie McCovey or Willie Kirkland coming through in the late innings to keep 'em out front in that National League pennant chase.

Since taking over first place on July 30, the Giants have won 12 of 17 games—and in nine of those dozen victories they didn't score the clincher any earlier than the seventh inning. Fact is, in the nine late comebacks, two were won in the seventh, three in the eighth, two in the ninth and two in extra innings.

Kirkland's done the job three times, Mays and McCovey twice each.

SHARE HONORS

It was that way again Monday night as the Giants came from behind with five runs in the last three innings for a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati that gave San Francisco a three-game bulge. Mays drove in the run that tied it 3-3 with a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning, and a pinch-single by McCovey got the winning run home in a two-run eighth. The winner was Stu Miller (7-6).

That added a half-game to the Giants' lead as second-place Los Angeles split a twi-night double-header at Milwaukee, winning 4-3 after losing 8-1 to the third-place Braves.

Pittsburgh beat Chicago Cubs 7-6 in a battle for fourth place, and St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 5-4.

A seventh-inning home run by Don Zimmer, his fourth, did it for the Dodgers in the nightcap after they had caught the Braves with three runs in the fifth, two of them unearned. Johnny Podres (10-7) won it with five innings of four-hit, shutout relief.

SLAM THREE HOMERS

Milwaukee backed a seven-hit performance by Bob Buhl (10-8) with three home runs in the opener. Joe Adcock's 17th came with a man on in a three-run first inning against loser Sandy Koufax (6-3), who also gave up Ed Mathews' solo 34th in the second inning. Hank Aaron, who missed two games because of back trouble, was 4-for-5 in the opener, including his 31st home run, then was 1-for-4 in the second game.

The Pirates, who trailed 4-0 after three innings, took the lead in a three-run fifth triggered by Rocky Nelson's two-run homer, then needed a walk, Bob Clemente's single and an error to break a 6-6 tie in the seventh. Ernie Banks drove in three runs for the Cubs, two with his 37th home run, good for the major league homer lead. Rookie Fred Green won his first major league decision in relief for the Bucs.

Curt Flood drove in three runs for the Cards, counting the clincher in the sixth with a sacrifice fly. Wilmer Mizell (12-7) beat the Phils for the fifth time without defeat this year, but needed Lindy McDaniel's relief after he had them blanked on three hits for eight innings.

Chicago White Sox managed to hold their American League lead without Dick Donovan, but can they do it without Billy Pierce?

With Donovan still a question mark after a three-week layoff because of an ailing shoulder, the White Sox pitching staff was handed another jolt Monday when Pierce was sidelined for from five to eight days. The stubby southpaw pulled a back muscle last weekend.

That puts more pressure on Early Wynn, a wonder at 39, Bob Shaw and Barry Latman, their only dependable starters, and relievers Turk Lown and Gerry Staley for what figures to be 10 telling days for the White Sox.

Chicago plays 11 games in those 10 days, then plunges into a four-game series at Cleveland against the second-place Indians, still 3½ games behind after losing three games to Detroit.

The Indians, blowing a lead of 3-0, lost 5-4 to the Tigers in the only game scheduled in the AL Monday. It was a quick make-up game for Sunday's rain-out at Detroit, which wiped out a 5-0 Cleveland lead.

A BIT DISAPPOINTING

Pierce (12-13) hasn't contributed as much as expected to the White Sox drive, winning only four of seven decisions since they blasted off from second place, two games behind Cleveland, for a 27-10 record beginning July 5.

But now the little lefty figures to miss two or maybe three starting assignments against Baltimore, New York and Boston.

The Indians built a quick lead at Detroit Monday, scoring three in a second inning triggered by Rocky Colavito's 35th home run. But the Tigers battled back behind the eight-hit pitching of Paul Foytack (11-10), the right-hander Cleveland bombed Sunday. He gave up only four hits over the last seven innings.

Gary Bell (13-10) was the loser after winning five in a row as a reconverted starting pitcher. Charley Maxwell hit his 26th homer for the Tigers.

Pat O'Connor, Hutton Meet Here Friday

Pat O'Connor, world heavyweight wrestling champion, will defend his title here this Friday night against the man from which he won the crown some months ago.

Dick Hutton, a hard-rock of the first water when it comes to a wrestling ring, will provide the popular and slightly terrific O'Connor with a real test in the two-of-three falls main event.

This should be a battle deluxe since both men have met and defeated the best in the game, and have, on a number of occasions staged tremendous battles against each other.

Hutton has had other opportunities to reclaim the world crown in the past and has failed. But this time says Dick, it will be a different story. O'Connor will have plenty to say about that.

Two other fine bouts are also on the card, slated to get under way at 9.00 p.m. in Memorial Arena.

CABBIE SUES CEPEDA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A cab driver Monday sued Orlando Cepeda and San Francisco Giants for $10,000, claiming he was injured a year ago when a car driven by the baseball player hit his car. Henry L. Schwarz, 37, said he suffered head and body injuries and shock, Aug. 19, 1958.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Roy Harris' manager and others have offered world heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson a $500,000 purse for t a title match with Harris in Dallas' Cotton owl. Manager Lou VBiscusi also said he would invite the champion and his advisers to Houston for the Harris-Joe Bygraves bout Aug. 25.

Big Fight Minus Promoter Could Be Without Champion

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—As if it hasn't run into enough snags, the proposed return heavyweight championship bout between Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson today was without a promoter.

And there were mounting indications that it will be without champion Johansson, who lifted the crown from Patterson last June 26. The return tentatively is set for Sept. 22.

The New York State Athletic Commission suspended the matchmaker's license of Bill Rosensohn Monday and the promoter's license of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc. for "statements" made by Rosensohn.

A commission spokesman said the suspension undoubtedly was a result of a signed story by Rosensohn in Sports Illustrated in which he said he unwillingly signed away control of Rosensohn Enterprises so the first Johansson-Patterson fight could go.

MUCH CONFUSION

All the confusion has brought claims and counter claims from both sides of the Atlantic.

Examples:

Edwin Ahlquist, adviser to Johansson—"Judging from the latest news . . . there will be no return match this year. In fact, Ingemar will appear in an exhibition match in Stockholm on Sept. 13 (which would automatically rule out the return on Sept. 22).

Johansson—"Rosensohn is already out of the picture, isn't he?" (Rosensohn was bounced out of Rosensohn Enterprises and Vincent Velella took over as top man.)

Rosensohn—"I sort of expected it and I welcome it. Now the commission will have a chance to find out what's been going on. I look forward to explaining the articles."

Velella—"I don't quarrel with the commission's action in suspending Rosensohn. But I would like an immediate public hearing with a view to lifting the promoter's suspension of the corporation."

The big question, aside from who is going to promote the fight if it ever comes off, is: How good is the contract Johansson signed with Rosensohn for the return? It was a personal contract with Rosensohn and, according to Ingemar, had nothing to do with Rosensohn Enterprises.

Bobby Wilson Omitted From All-Star Team

MONTREAL (CP)—Bobby Wilson, the best percentage hitter in the International League, has been omitted from the all-star team for the Aug. 27 exhibition with Pittsburgh Pirates in Columbus, Ohio.

The rightfielder-third baseman with Toronto Maple Leafs was left out today by all-star manager Clay Bryant when the Montreal pilot named 12 players to round out the squad.

Wilson also missed a berth in balloting earlier by the league managers. His batting average was a pace-setting .338 for 124 games. But his fielding was considered spotty and he was weak at the plate with men on base.

Miami's Foster Castleman, three percentage points behind Wilson, was also excluded from the team. Castleman however has been bothered by recurring injuries and has appeared in less than 100 games.

Wilson was a member of the 1956 all - star team while with Montreal. He went to the Maple Leafs in an early-season trade this year. Last year he played with St. Paul Saints of the American Association and the parent Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bryant's additions to the team: Pitcher Joe Gibbon, second baseman Julian Javier and outfielder Tom Burgess of Columbus; shortstop Len Cardenas and pitcher Ted Wieand of Havana; pitcher Tom Lasorda and outfielder Bob Lennon of Montreal; pitcher Ron Negray and catcher Tim Thompson of Toronto; pitcher Chris Short of Buffalo, third baseman Deron Johnson of Richmond; first baseman - outfielder Gene Green of Rochester.

Managers Cal Ermer of Columbus and Pedro Gomez of Havana were named coaches.

Players chosen in the managers' voting:

First baseman Frank Herrera, shortstop Ruben Amaro, catcher Jimmie Coker and outfielder Bobby Del Greco of Buffalo; second baseman Curt Roberts and outfielder Sandy Amoros of Montreal third baseman Woody Smith and pitcher John Anderson of Miami; outfielder Charlie James of Rochester, pitcher Bill Short of Richmond and outfielder Tony Gonzales of Havana.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP)—The old bay mare, Ann Pointer, is not quite what she used to be, it's true, but every once in a while a horse fan would never know it.

For example, Monday night, after 17 trips to the post this season, Ann Pointer, a long-time Old Woodbine Park favorite, won her first race of the year, a nose in front of the gelding Peter A. L.

Ann Pointer, once a stakes mare, has been reduced to the D pacers now that she is 11 years old. Nevertheless, she was the 9-to-5 favorite Monday night.

And her owner-driver Jimmy Holmes brought her from behind in scoring his own 14th driving success at Old Woodbine Park.

A noteworthy sidelight on Ann Pointer is that she is four months in foal to the 1956 winner of the Canadian Cup pace, Egan Grattan.

NEW GOLF TOURNEY

MONTREAL (CP) — A nationwide golf tournament matching golf clubs against each other was announced Monday by the Canadian Professional Golfers Association.

Any club employing a CPGA professional is eligible for the competition. The club whose total membership has the best ball score will be declared national champion. Provincial championships will also be recognized.

Men will play Sept. 12-13 and women any day of the week ending Sept. 7. Each competitor will play one 18-hole round, no handicap.

The winning club will be the one whose total membership has the most strokes under itw own course par.

Hugh O'Brian Pays Visit To Dr. Schweitzer in Africa

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A man with a mission is Hugh O'Brian, recently returned from a pilgrimage to Dr. Albert Schweitzer in Africa.

TV's Wyatt Earp refuses to abide by the tradition that actors aren't supposed to think. He long has been a student of the life and thought of Schweitzer, the philosopher, musician and medical missionary.

O'Brian was profoundly moved by Schweitzer's stand against further pollution of the world's atmosphere by nuclear tests, as printed in the Saturday Review. He corresponded with editor Norman Cousins and asked whether he could presume to visit Schweitzer in Africa to learn more of the great man's views. It was arranged.

"On Sunday I finished a Shrine circus in Winnipeg," O'Brian recalled. "On Tuesday morning, I was in Africa talking to Dr. Schweitzer."

SCHWEITZER HELPS

Schweitzer was on the landing at Lambarene, a thin, erect figure in white. He greeted O'Brian warmly and insisted on carrying his bag up the rill to the lodgings —"imagine, this saint carrying my bag!"

Hugh said he fell into the settlement routine, helping where he could.

The best part of his stay was the evenings, he said. The hospital staff gathered for dinner, after which Schweitzer played Bach on an ancient, lead - lined piano and all sang a hymn in German. Then he read a chapter of the bible and discussed it. The session ended, but O'Brian spent three of the nights in discussions with Schweitzer.

He came away with a new feeling of urgency about the need to avoid nuclear testing and warfare.

"I don't want to quote Dr. Schweitzer because he worries about being misquoted," the actor said. "But the gist of his message was that the people of the world have to renew their individualism. They must find out more about nuclear matters and make their feelings heard."

Japan Plans 5-Year-Program For Olympics

By WILLIAM GASSON

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan has outlined a five-year-program to prepare for the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

In an illustrated brochure, the Japanese Olympic Committee details how it proposes to arrange accommodation, sports facilities, communications, press and photographic facilities, training sites, vehicle parking and even the route which the Olympic flame will take on its way to Japan from Olympia, Greece.

Last year, the third Asian Games were held in Tokyo. The sports grounds built for these games will provide the nucleus for the 1964 Olympic Games.

OTHER PLANS

Plans for further improvements include extension of the 75,000-seat national stadium in Meiji Park to accommodate 100,000, extension to the Koishikawa soccer stadium, renovation of the Olympic swimming stadium, preparation of two hockey fields in the Komazawa sports centre, construction of a new stadium for handball and construction of a new boat harbor near Yokohama for yachting events.

In addition, the Japanese Olympic Committee has guaranteed to build a memorial hall to house the offices of tre organizing committee, construct new roads to connect the Olympic villages, Olympic Park anl Komazawa sports centre, and re-construct the Olympic villages. The village area is about 908,120 acres and contains a shooting range, riding ground, swimming facilities and a running track.

MUCH PRESTIGE

The Japanese government believes the tremendous cost of staging the games is outweighed in the eyes of the Japanese people by the prestige which will go to Japan as the first Asian country to play host to the Olympics.

Japan filst entered the Olympics as a competitor in 1912, when it sent a four-man team.

TV—Radio Column

Charles Mercer Writes Last Column, to Go Free-Lancing

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the last column from my typewriter on the subject of television and radio.

In the last four years I've written some 600,000 words at this job, mostly concerning television because there's so little to report about radio these days.

This space soon will be taken over by Cynthia Lowry, an energetic, excellent reporter and a friend of many years. I'm sure you'll enjoy reading what Cynthia writes.

AMATEUR AGAIN

Personally, I'm going to work for myself as a freelance writer. It is an interesting—even a fascinating—way to go broke. It will help me recover my amateur status as a television viewer.

After having tried to be a professional viewer for four years, I certainly look forward to recovering my amateur standing. For an amateur can turn off the set while a professional must stay to the end.

I'm walking of the field a little bit tired. But I'm not going away angry. That is, I'm not going to stop watching TV. During the coming season I'll be watching occasionally with the other amateurs—and reading the newspapers to learn whether the professionals agree with me.

SOUND INTERESTING

The new specials Goodman Ace is preparing for CBS sound interesting—and what will Playhouse 90 come up with? The new Sunday Showcase will find me at its window on NBC where I'll also sample the Friday and Tuesday night specials.

There will be other good things. There also will be slop, as there always has been—but I won't have to look at it.

After I walk off the field I'll miss letters from sincere and honest people telling me what television means to them But I'll have amusing memories.

That clouded crystal ball, for instance. Much of what I forecast failed to come true. There were a few small triumphs. I said that Dinah Shore could carry an hour show—and she certainly could. I said Dick Clark would be a big hit—and he is. Every time Jack Paar lost a job I'd say he was bound to succeed some day—and he has.

Then, too, I had days of agony when the arrant commercialism of television weighed me down. Foolishly I once thought I might try to help change some of that. But I couldn't and I didn't.

Junior 'A' Schedule Cut To 48 Games

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association junior A league has reduced its schedule to 48 games from 54 for the 1959-60 season, it was announced Monday night.

At a meeting of the OHA council, owners and spokesman of the seven teams agreed to the tentative schedule which opens Oct. 29 and closes Feb. 28.

Last year's schedule saw six teams play 54 games while St. Michael's College Majors participated in 48, with six of those, one with each of the other teams, worth four points for a win and two for a tie, to the Majors.

All teams will play 24 home games this year.

Eighteen Sunday doubleheaders are on tap for Maple Leaf Gardens plus two Tuesday night double bills.

FURTHER PROBLEMS

Yet to be decided are when and where St. Mike's and Toronto Marlboros will play their eight games against each other. Stafford Smythe, president of the Marlboros, suggested Friday night games but there are only five Fridays open during the proposed schedule.

Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, a junior farm team of Montreal Canadiens of the National League, will play six exhibition games during the coming season, two each with Marlies and St. Catharines TeePees and one with Hamilton Tiger Cubs.

One of the special rules for the 1959-60 junior A season is that there will be no suspensions for the use of profanity by a player. A $10 fine will be given for the first offence, $25 for the second, $50 for the third and the fourth will cost $100. Top salary for any junior A league player is $65 a week.

The annual all-star game has been set for Jan. 6 and will be played in the home town of the team that is leading the league by Jan. 1.

Five Unearned Runs Give Vees Win Over Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond Virginians are in the International League first division but they needed a big handout to get there.

The handout came from the generous Rochester Red Wings, who gave the Vees five unearned runs Monday night, enough for a 7-4 victory. It was the only game scheduled.

The Vees, tied with Miami for fourth place, are 10½ games behind the league-leading Buffalo Bisons.

Richmond scored the unearned runs in the seventh inning to hand reliever Howie Nunn his sixth loss. He has won seven. Nunn replaced starter Cal Browning who had to leave in the second inning with a strained muscle.

Zack Monroe picked up the victory, to bring his record to 9-8. He needed Johnny James' relief help in the eighth when the Wings scored twice.

NO PROMISES

WINNIPEG (CP)—The federal government has informed Winnipeg it cannot promise financial assistance to the city in its bid to have the 1963 Pan-American Games held here. Finance Minister Fleming said in a letter no backing could be promised until the games were definitely awarded the city.

Champion Said To Be in Fighting Mood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World featherweight champion Davey Moore is in one of his moods, and you know what that means. He's spoiling for a fight.

"It's best not to try and talk to Davey before the fight," said his manager, Willie Ketchum. "Davey gets worked up . . . he don't like to talk to anybody."

Ex-champ Hogan (Kid) Bassey, too, was in seclution today.

And both camps report the scrappy 126-pound battlers are as fit as well-tuned fiddles for their title fight Wednesday night.

The bout, a rematch of their bloody meeting last March, is billed for 15 rounds, or less. A crowd of 10,000 is expected to watch at the Olympic Auditorium, as well as a nation-wide television audience.

Bad eye cuts forced Bassey to bow out of the March battle after 12 sizzling rounds. But the cuts are healed and the brows as good as ever, says the little Nigerian's manager, George Biddles.

"There aren't even any scars," said Biddles, a Liverpool, England, tavern owner.

TOO BUSY FOR GAMES

HAMILTON (CP)—Neil J. Farrell announced Monday night he is stepping down because of pressure of business as general manager of Canada's track and field entry for the Pan-American Games. He will be succeeded by Lloyd Swindells of Vancouver, originally appointed co - coach. Hal Brown of Toronto becomes head coach.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, August 19, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You must be very conscientious in performing all duties or keeping promises today. While this may not be altogether fun, you will be highly satisfied with the results. Put much work behind you and consider everything dispassionately.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Concentrate upon the good qualities which your comrades possess now instead of looking for weaknesses and you save both friendships and valuable material considerations. P.M. invite them out for an evening's entertainment. Be generous.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Many situations break today, so it behooves you to sit by objectively and know how to handle them. You could get seriously hurt if you become emotional and really cannot think clearly. There is the right solution for everything.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) You are thinking very clearly today and know just how to make adjustments and reforms so that you add to your worth and abundance. Plan your modus operandi for the future intelligently and then put into effect quickly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Any monetary affairs can be handled most expediently today and with true wisdom. Impress others with your uncanny aptitude for novel systems and ability to sell. This can be a banner day for you if you get to work early.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you may feel that you can go off the beaten path now and still get away with it, this is not so, and you could easily alienate persons who are vital to your well-being. Co-operate and be steady instead. P.M. be kind to mate.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There is much labor ahead for you, but be sure you set your tasks up in such a way that you can work very efficiently and comfortably, whether at home or in place of business or out-of-doors.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It is possible to have a good time this fine day, but you must learn to be more altruistic instead of using little tricks to make others do what you like. Co-operate and you find you enjoy yourself far more than ever before.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have annoyances today, since there is occasion for much activity, but if you keep working constructively, especially where home interests are concerned you have a very productive and satisfying day. P.M relax

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Many ideas occur to you now exactly how you can best put your constructive plans before the right people. Use them. P.M. show in some tangible way how much you appreciate the friendship of a good and kind friend.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Put those fine, inspiring thoughts to work on a truly constructive basis today and you solve own problems ideally, as well as help others with their troubles. Cultivate the habit of being more material-minded.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) wigs now for assistance in getting own career advanced. They will be glad to help you. This can be in politics, too. Be friendly, honest and impress them with your intellect.

If your child is born today . . The dear child born today will very early develop a sense of humor, but be careful it does not take on the form of criticism, since others are very serious and sensitive, and offense could be taken. Also, be sure you give a good grounding in the spiritual tenets at early age so that the fine promise in this chart can be reached and your progeny will have a host of friends. Interesting horoscope.

But as a conciliatory move, a step was taken toward enforcement of human rights in the hemisphere—an action some delegates regarded as directed toward the Dominican Republic's dictator Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, and President Luis Somoza of Nicaragua.

The foreign ministers agreed to preparation of a convention on human rights for presentation to the 11th inter-American conference in Quito, Ecuador, next year.

TO STUDY MEANS

To combat invasions, the conference adopted a resolution directing the peace committee of the Organization of American States to make a study of ways to prevent attempts from abroad to overthrow legally-constituted governments.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa told the conference his government would co-operate to determine who was behind the landing of armed counter-revolutionaries in Cuba last week, which Castro has laid to Trujillo. But in Lima, Raul Castro told reporters Cuba would admit no OAS investigating commission or any inter-American police force.

POWER FAILURE

But New York night life went on. Bartenders bought candles by the dozen and complained because, without refrigeration, the beer was warm.

Children, when television and radio sets wouldn't work, enjoyed the novelty of seeing candle flames flickering along Broadway.

CONTINUOUS CHATTER

At a radio station disk jockeys had a field day. The turntables had no power so no records could be played, and the listeners were treated to one, long, continuous line of chatter.

Meanwhile, 10,000 employees of the Consolidated Edison Company labored to repair the damage to power lines, apparently caused by a record demand made in the heat by refrigerating and other cooling devices.

In all, 3,000 extra police were sent into the blacked-out section. Hours later, as power began to come back on, police reported only one burglary and one assault case.

No major accidents or fires were reported.

Quebec Mayor To Get Rough With Punk Guys

AYLMER, Que. (CP)—Mayor Rene Therien called Monday for an emergency citizens' meeting to deal with "rampant teen-aged violence." He sail Sunday night was "a night of terror."

"It is bad enough that we should need about 100 policemen to keep things in order," he told reporters. This Ottawa-Hull area town of 5,500 now is policed by two men.

Mayor Therien said the trouble began soon after he bought a theatre last year and turned it into a community centre. Aylmer teen-agers became members with their parents' approval, and held dances there under supervision.

WRECKED INTERIOR

Then the "hoodlums from Ottawa and Hull started forcing their way in," he sail. "Over a period of time they wrecked the place — breaking tables, chairs, anything." He estimated damage at $1,500.

Mr. Therien said he decided to close the hall because of this "shocking behavior."

Sunday night, after word of his decision had spread, a group of youths entered the hall where some Aylmer teen - agers were "sweeping up." They started a fight during which Howarl Riley, 18, of Aylmer was beaten to the floor and kicked in the face.

BLAMES OUTSIDERS

The mayor said "at least" four other fights broke out in town Sunday night. All of the trouble-makers were believed to be from Hull and Ottawa.

"I don't mean all our children are perfect, but at least we know who they are and we can control them."

He warned that "these outsiders—these punk guys — will be roughly handled from now on."

"Even the engineer did not know what caused the lerailment," said Mr. Scott. The train was a Stratford-to-Toronto morning freight. All crew members were from Stratford.

Mr. Scott said trains were being routed around the blocked line and it was expected to be cleared about 1 p.m. today.

TEEN-AGED SCULPTOR — Gary Frost, 15, an Edmonton high school student, holds a statue designed and carved by himself. The other work, "Reindeer" he carved himself but his father, Harry, helped with the design. The youthful artist, who works in mahogany and walnut, will exhibit his abstracts at the University of Alberta this fall. He started his artistic career several years ago with water colors and oils. (CP Photo).

Boy Works in Mahogany, Walnut for His Abstracts

EDMONTON (CP) — Gary Frost, 15-year-old high school student here, is to make his artistic debut this fall when he exhibits his wood abstracts at the University of Alberta.

Working in mahogany and walnut, Gary has produced three striking carvings — a nude, a set of reindeer and a set of geese.

Collectors describe the sleek lines and workmanship of the reindeer and the nude — the latter done as a surprise for his draughtsman-father who encouraged his work—as outstanding work for a youthful sculptor.

"I just do it, that's all," Gary said when asked what inspired his work. All are original designs.

Gary turned to art several years ago, with water paints and oils.

"I don't really think I'm much good at these or at clay sculptoring, but I think my wood carvings may have a message," he said.

Each of his works took about 50 hours' labor with penknife, files and sandpaper.

Most Of Quake's Victims Campers In Montana Vale

At Least 8 Persons Dead; 150 Below Dam Escape

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (CP) — Killer slides shrugged loose from the Montana Rockies by earthquakes left eight known dead today. The thunder of rocks, earth and trees may hide an even higher toll.

Approximately 60 persons were injured as the series of shocks hit the Canadian and American West. New light tremors were felt Tuesday night but caused no damage.

Most of the victims were campers enjoying vacations in the wilds of southwestern Montana, less than 20 miles west of Yellowstone Park.

The tremors struck near midnight Monday at Hebgen dam and farther downstream in the Madison River valley, Montana trout-fishing country.

There were an estimated 22,000 to 25,000 vacationers in Yellowstone Park when the shocks hit but no one was reported hurt there. Earth slides closed some roads in the western side of the park.

FELT OVER WIDE AREA

Although southwestern Montana got the most devastating blows, tremors were reported in British Columbia, Washington, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming as well as both Dakotas and Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The victims were camped along the Madison River. It flows from Yellowstone Park westward, then northward to join the Jefferson and Gallatin rivers at Three Forks, Mont., to form the Missouri River.

Four of the known dead were from one family. They were F. R. Bennett, 45, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; his two daughters, Carole, 17, and Susan, 5, and a son, Tom, 11. Bennett's wife and another son were injured.

TOLL COULD RISE

Survivors reported seeing a couple and a crippled boy swept away in their car by an avalanche. At another location, parts of an automobile registered to Thomas Stowe, 31, of Sandy, Utah, were found. Stowe and his wife were reported missing.

Of the approximately 60 persons injured, only 27 remained in hospitals in four Montana towns. were reported in critical condition.

At one time Tuesday night the death toll was given by officials as 19, then was revised downward by Montana's civil defence director, Hugh Potter.

But sheriff's officers said others might have been carried to death beneath slides.

Jeeps, boats and helicopters were used to rescue an undetermined number of persons reported marooned by the slides in the Madison River valley.

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The 7,600-foot peak had no name. It does now.

"Call it Earthquake Mountain, a man said. "Just look at it."

The top was gone, jerked from where it had stood for ages. It crashed down in the darkness on sleeping vacationers along the Madison River in southwestern Montana.

When the rumbling was over, nature had left almost two mountains.

The new mountain — perhaps Little Earthquake from now on — is 250 to 300 feet high and a quarter of a mile long from canyon wall to canyon wall.

TRAPPED IN MIDDLE

It lies across the Madison River. Behind it is the frightened town of Ennis. Seven miles in front of it is the scattered, pocked-marked Hebgen dam. In the middle were people, trapped between a power dam that took years to build and an awesome mountain created in seconds.

Those who lived through the nightmare told stories they could hardly believe themselves. The stories were mostly the same—an eerie awakening to a horrible noise, an unearthly shaking of the entire earth itself, then quiet.

Grover Mault is 71, on vacation from Temple City, Calif. He and his wife had picked a quiet spot along the Madison for their evening camp. They were in their trailer, a mile below the dam.

They heard the rockslide ahead, then saw the quiet river surge up. They climbed atop their trailer, which started to float.

Mault grabbed a branch of a tree. It snapped. The trailer floated on. Then another branch came into view. Mault made a desperate try. The branch held.

NIGHT IN A TREE

Mault and his wife climbed off the trailer and into the tree. They stayed there all night. Rescuers in boats found them Tuesday morning and took them to hospital.

Elmer Tretsch of Scarsdale, N.Y., recovering from the first shock, organized a group of perhaps a dozen survivors.

"Through most of the night, we heard people crying for help, screaming," Tretsch said. "The front end of that mudslide just didn't give people a chance."

Many of the stunned survivors stood on cliffs awaiting rescue.

2 Firemen Die, 17 Hurt as Oil Tank Explodes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A 20,000-gallon gasoline tank exploded and hurtled its blazing contents forward like a giant flame-thrower Tuesday, engufing firemen who stood in the path of the flames.

Two firemen died. Seventeen others, four of them in critical condition, remained in hospital today.

More than 100 persons suffered burns, other injuries and exhaustion. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

A Continental Oil Company bulk station of four big horizontal tanks, located behind a filing station, was the scene.

2 Crew Members Killed in Blast On Carrier

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The aircraft carrier Wasp headed for Ouonset Point on Rhode Island today with one of her hangar compartments seared by explosion and fire that killed two crew members and injured about 20 others.

Some 20 men were treated for injuries, mostly burns.

There was no word of how much damage the ship had suffered.

Russian Scientist Takes Pictures Around DEW Line Radar Station

MONTREAL (CP) — A Russian scientist arrived here by air Tuesday night from the Canadian northland where he took photographs around a radar defence installation of the Distant Early Warning line.

Dr. Boris Tikhomirov said the pictures "were only of plant life."

He was among 30 botanists from several countries who made a 5,000-mile fact-finding tour of the north before attending the International Botanical Congress that opened here today.

Interviewed at Montreal airport by a reporter fluent in Russian, Dr. Tikhomirov said:

"I am a botanist. Why should I be interested in military installations; that is for the politicians."

He said all botanists who made the trip photographed flora around the radar base at Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island in the Northwest Territories. The site is 1,400 miles north of Winnipeg.

Authorities at the base allowed members of his party to take pictures "for the purpose of our study," he said.

An RCAF North Star aircraft carried the botanists on the trip. The stop at Cambridge Bay was not scheduled. They were to land at Resolute Bay but high winds there forced a diversion.

FIVE DEFINITE CASES OF LOA-LOA DISEASE KNOWN

Never Before Seen In This Country

FARNHAM, Que. (CP) — Doctors expect to know by tonight how many of Farnham's 6,000 people have Loa - Loa, a disease never before known in Canada.

Five definite cases have been diagnosed. Other possible victims are being carefully examined.

The disease is caused by a parasite and no cure is known. However some success has been achieved in treating the effects.

Loa-loa remains with its victims for life, causing swollen feet and legs, skin inflamations and sometimes joint pains. It is not fatal, but its complications may be.

COMMON IN INDIA

Dr. Luc Fortin noticed about four months ago that one of his patients had unusual symptoms. He dug into text-books and medical journals and diagnosed Loa-Loa, a iommon illness in India and Africa.

Dr. Francois Somlo, professor of tropical medicine at the University of Montreal, confirmed his diagnosis.

Dr. Somlo is in Farnham examining residents and army cadets at an army summer camp on the town's outskirts. All victims so far have been civilians.

Dr. Fortin said he has been treating Loa-Loa patients with drugs. He declined to disclose the type of drugs being used. It would be some time before definite treatment could be established. In India antimony salt is used to give relief to sufferers.

"There is no indication yet of Loa-Loa in the army camp", Dr. Fortin said.

He said one of the victims is in serious condition. It is still uncertain whether the disease is contagious. Insects are suspected carriers, but "there is nothing definite on how it reached Farnham."

THREE-STAGE DISEASE

Loa-Loa has three stages, Dr. Fortin said. The first stage is acute, similar to grippe. During the second stage the disease appears dormant—the victims feel weak but show no other symptoms for up to four months. The ailment becomes chronic in the final stage. The parasite causes clogging of lymphatic blood vessels which results in swollen feet and legs.

Untreated patients would be unable to walk after three or four years, Dr. Fortin said.

Defence Industry Not Being Affected by Steel Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—How is the steel strike affecting United States defence industries — vital in this time of world tension?

Will the increase in steel imports hold over to plague the domestic mills after the strike?

What do the users of steel think about the industry's stand in the strike and about the chance of paying higher prices when the mills operate again?

Associated Press reporters, who asked these questions in all parts of the country, find that present supplies will last holders of defence contracts anywhere from this October to mid-1960.

They find several users of steel buying foreign metal, even if it costs more, and predicting that if a domestic price rise follows the strike's end, more foreign steel will be coming into the U.S.

Those who will discuss the steel industry's stand are saying "inflation has got to be stopped some place." The closer they are to the industry itself, the more vocal they prove to be. Most, however, decline to be quoted on the issues.

Foreign steel plays an increasing part in the planning of many companies. Thomas C. Fogarty, president of Continental Can, says: "We've been importing steel from Wales since April, and we've also arranged to meet our Cuban steel requirements with shipments from overseas. Most of this steel costs us more than we usually pay."

A western manufacturing company is buying steel from French and Belgian plants. An executive says, "If domestic rates are hiked after the strike, steel companies in this country will lose more business to foreign producers."

New Orleans, Houston, San Francisco and Seattle report a big jump in steel imports as users adjust to the strike.

And a Seattle manufacturer who declines use of his name says: "Foreign steel can be delivered cheaper than the domestic product. U.S. steel makers are losing this business now. They won't get all of it back after the strike is over."

Fears Canada May Copy Red School System

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian education standards are threatened by exaggerated notions about the Russian educational system, says Mrs. Florence Irvine.

President of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, she said today that since Russia startled the world by sending the first satellite into orbit, people of all levels have extolled the virtues of the educational system capable of producing scientists who performed this feat.

Mrs. Irvine, who lives in Ancaster, told 600 delegates at the opening session of the federation's two-day annual meeting there is danger Canadian people will be panicked into discarding much of the good in Canadian education in an attempt to copy Russian methods.

"They fail to recognize that this system which arbitrarily assigns students to courses violates everything for which we stand.

"If we took time to delve into this system and analyze it we would find that not nearly all students are completing school there either."

Hopes to Have $10,000 by End of August

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte said at a public meeting Tuesday night she hopes to have $10,000 by the end of August to make a down payment on an 86-acre tract of land where she wishes to build her new Whytehaven.

Campaigning to raise $300,000 for the new children's home, Mrs. Whyte was given more than $200 in cash and pledges by about 50 persons who attended.

Appointment of a board of directors for the new institution would be announced in about two days, she said.

The old Whytehaven was closed by provincial health and welfare department officials more than two weeks ago after an outbreak of hepatitis, influenza and gastroenteritis amongst Mrs. Whyte's charges. About 107 children were removed to various shelters in southern Ontario.

Rev. James Spiers of Winnipeg, who is assisting Mrs. Whyte in her campaign, said more than $2,000 had been contributed to date.

Mrs. Whyte will speak in Guelph today before beginning a tour of Western Ontario.

CHILE TREATS RAUL CASTRO AS PRIVATE VISITOR

Arrives After End Of Ministers' Meet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile today treated Raul Castro, chief of the Cuban armed forces, as a private visitor.

Premier Fidel Castro's younger brother got no official welcome on arriving Tuesday after the end of the inter - American foreign ministers meeting. Some 300 persons were at the airport, but boos were mixed with cheers.

Castro originally had described his trip as a goodwill visit, and there had been rumors he would appear before the foreign ministers to make charges against the Dominican Republic. Later he said he was on a private visit to pick up the Cuban delegation to the conference.

SOLDIERS HELD

Castro and his wife went through customs without incident. But Chilean police detained three Cuban soldiers aboard the plane for carrying guns. Earlier, the Chileans had expelled Castro's advance planeload of journalists and armed soldiers because they lacked proper entry papers.

The majority of the 21 ministers made plain before they ended their Caribbean peace conference that they don't like what is going on in tense Caribbean.

The Santiago conference did not single out any culprits or slap any specific wrists, even though the fight continued at the conference table between representatives of the two major Caribbean antagonists — Fidel Castro, and Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic.

WATCH ORDERED

The most immediate step taken was to direct the inter-American peace committee of the Organization of American States to keep watch over the trouble spots and study ways to prevent attempts from abroad to overthrow legal governments.

The committee can make investigations at the call of a victimized country or on its own initiative. But for an on-the-spot check, the committee will have to get the consent of the country it wants to investigate.

What will happen if the country refuses?

The conference resolution did not say, but the foreign ministers could call a hemispheric conference to spotlight the refusal. The peace committee also could make its investigation from the outside and then publicize its report.

This would put the case before the people on the Americas and, the ministers hope, bring public opinion down on the trouble-maker.

The conference agreed that at least part of the unrest in some countries could be blamed on poor economic conditions. This was one of the points the Cubans came here to get on the record.

Victim Crushed Beneath Tractor

SARNIA (CP) — Norman D. Munro, 64, of Enniskillen Township, died here Tuesday, four hours after his tractor and a truck were in collision on a concession road near his farm home.

Munro was crushed beneath the overturned tractor.

'Sleep Study' Tour Shows Basis For Happy Marriage Is Twin Beds

In other words, double beds are risky. They should be approached with caution.

Lest this revolutionary theory gnaw on the nerves of double-bed occupants, it should hastily be explained that Lukes is not a certified marriage counsellor.

He is, by profession, a bed-maker.

But Lukes is a conscientious bedmaker, one who takes a keen interest in the type of people who occupy his products. It was through this interest that he developed his twin-bed theories.

Believing that most trends begin in the United States, Lukes decided to take a four - week "sleep study" tour of that country so he could see the latest developments in beds.

He interviewed countless bed-makers, like himself, along with sellers, buyers and users. The evidence he gathered pointed to three distinct marriage wrecking problems.

1. Snoring.
2. Cover-snatching.
3. Bed-hogging.

The Americans, he says, call them "sleep incompatibilities."

Lukes points out that the cover-snatcher and the bed-hog can be clearly defeated by switching from a double bed to twins. And while this action may not give complete protection against the snorer, if offers a certain degree of relief.

It removes the open mouth from the innocent party's ear.

Lukes, incidentally, still clings to the double bed. "But I am not a snorer, cover-snatcher or bed-hog."

How about his wife? "I'd get into trouble if I said."

No statistics are available yet, but Lukes says there has been a strong swing toward twin beds in the United States. He predicts that bed buyers in Britain will soon follow suit.

If this does happen, he and other bed manufacturers will do a big business. Two single beds cost about twice as much as one double.

Jobless Decline Despite Jump In Labor Force

Record Number at Work Includes Many Students

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment jumped by 153,000 to a record 6,206,000 jobs in July, the federal government reported today.

At the same time, unemployment fell off slightly to 228,000 from 234,000 a month earlier. The number of jobless in July, 1958, was 291,000.

The figure of those with jobs at July 18 topped the previous peak of 6,043,000 in June, mainly as the result of seasonal expansion in agriculture. Farm employment accounted for about two-thirds of the increase over June.

In addition to those without jobs as estimated by the bureau of statistics, there were 12,000 persons on temporary layoff, down slightly during the month and comparing with 19,000 a year earlier.

FEWER REGISTERED

With the bureau estimates, the government also released figures from the national employment service showing 291,513 persons registered for work at July 16. This compared with 320,927 in June and 412,362 in July, 1958.

Non-farm employment rose to 5,371,000 from 5,322,000 in June and 5,172,000 in July last year.

The government reported that a larger number of students and other workers entered the labor market between June and July than for several years.

Many of the additional jobs were filled by the new entrants, with the result that the drop in unemployment was nowhere near the job increase in employment.

Ontario jobs rose by 55,000—more than the usual seasonal gain—to 2,294,000, a jump of 73,000 over the year.

At July 16 100,023 persons were registered with national employment service offices in Ontario. In June there were 104,249 and in July, 1958, 135,208.

Malaya Holds First Election

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Malaya's Chinese, Malays and Indians voted today for their first all-elected Legislative Assembly. The Alliance party was favored to win a majority and continued control of the government for the next five years.

The prosperous country at the southeast tip of Asia voted to fill 104 legislative seats and election officials predicted 70 to 80 per cent of the 2,100,000 qualified voters would cast ballots.

The powerful Alliance party is led by Prince Abdul Rahman, regarded as the father of Malayan independence, gained from Britain two years ago.

Rahman's alliance of Malay, Chinese and Indian factions faced a stiff challenge from the Pan-Malayan Islamic Association and the Socialists. The Islamic party, led by Moslem scholars, showed surprising strength in winning control of two east coast state governments in elections this summer.

2 New Cabinet Members to Be Named Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today two new members will be named to the cabinet Thursday.

Speaking to reporters on his way into a cabinet meeting, he said it would be safe to speculate that one will be from Quebec and the other from Ontario. He gave no hint of who they will be.

He also said that there will be one "departure" from the present cabinet. Again he gave no hint of who this would be.

It was considered likely, however, that the departing member would be J. M. Macdonnell, minister without portfolio, from the constituency of Toronto - Greenwood. He is 74.

PUBLIC WORKS VACANCY

The one cabinet vacancy at the moment is public works, which has been filled on an acting basis by Howard Green since his appointment to the external affairs portfolio two months ago.

Main reason for speculation that the departing member will be Mr. Macdonnell is his age and the fact that Ontario's unofficial quota of cabinet ministers is filled at present.

In order to appoint a new minister from Ontario it would seem necessary for one of its present representatives to leave the cabinet.

The list of cabinet ministers from Ontario at present comprises Transport Minister Hees, 49, Toronto Broadview, Finance Minister Fleming, 54, Toronto Eglinton, Mr. Macdonnell, Labor Minister Starr, 48, from the Oshawa area constituency of Ontario, Immigration Minister Fairclough, 54, Hamilton West, and Health Minister Monteith, 56, Perth.

Governor - General Massey today leaves Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, where he has been receiving treatment for a kidney infection, and will be on hand for the swearing-in ceremony.

WALKER MENTIONED

Speculation in recent weeks has centred on David Walker, 54-year-old Toronto lawyer and MP for Toronto Rosedale, as a likely successor to External Affairs Minister Green as public works minister. Mr. Green has been carrying both portfolios since taking over the external affairs post during the last session of Parliament.

Trade Minister Churchill's name also has been mentioned for the post and he has also figured in speculation about a swap of portfolios with Transport Minister Hees.

Reports also have had Veterans Minister Brooks heading for the Senate. Tom Bell, MP for Saint John-Albert, and Pierre Sevigny, deputy Speaker and MP for Longueuil, have been mentioned as possible successors.

Sidelights on Fair

Just about the most appreciated small feature of the fair is a goodwill gesture on the part of local manufacturers, Northern Electric, who have taken the comfort of fair-goers into consideration.

Beneath the grandstand in the space ordinarily reserved for commercial booths, Northern has rented space and then instead of displaying some feature of the company product, has invited fair - goers to "rest awhile."

Comfortable sofas and chairs have been placed and a dozen or more persons may rest their feet and chat awhile as the hustle of the fair goes on about them.

LADIES IN GRAY BUSY

No major emergencies have arisen demanding the attention of first aid personnel at the St. John Ambulance Brigade tent at the fair, but this doesn't mean the ladies in gray haven't been busy since the fair started on Monday.

A variety of ailments have come to their attention, ranging all the way from a sore boil, to a cut hand, and just plain tummy ache.

"We've had lots to do," commented the nurse in charge on Tuesday afternoon.

So far three lost children had been taken care of until their parents turned up. Headache pills had been in demand and there had been several complaints of stomach ache.

"And we've had lots of baby-sitting to do. Yesterday we took care of two sets of twins while the parents rested a while and did the fair."

CADETS HELPFUL

Doing an efficient job of directing cars to parking areas at the fairgrounds are members of the Quinte Sea Cadets. Cadets are stationed mainly on the infield inside the racetrack and direct cars into orderly parking positions enabling easy exits by drivers wishing to leave the grounds.

Auto Dealers Display Models At Local Fair

Dealers representing Canada's "Big Three" in auto manufacturing field, are displaying cars at Belleville Fair.

J. B. Boyce and Sons, of Belleville and Bob Woods, of Tweed, displays are on the grass area just inside the entrance to the grounds, while Elliott Motors are in the area immediately to the west of the Junior Farmer building.

Boyce's are offering Plymouth and Chrysler cars and are also displaying several different models of Mercedes Benz, including a sports model, and buses of the same make.

Bob Woods is displaying Ford products and for those who favor small cars, has the English-made Ford Consul.

Elliott Motors are offering full lines of Buick and Pontiac with a staff of salesmen on hand to give information to prospective customers.

Type of Crafts Taught Children Seen in Display

The exhibit is composed of examples of the type of crafts taught the children, ranging in age from toddlers to 16'ers, in the afternoon craft sessions at the city's 18 playgrounds.

Among the varied and cleverly made items on display are papier mache animals, paintings and drawings, pipe cleaner figures, plastic-work bracelets, paper chinese lanterns, hand sewn stuffed animal heads, cardboard cutout figures, crepe paper flower pictures, serviette aprons, cutout pictures, and set-up group work.

Among the latter group is a clever Pacific island scene entitled "Monkeys on an Island". It is composed of a sandy beach palm trees (with cork trunks and green paper leaves), monkeys (made from pipe cleaners with faces stuck on), tiny snail shells, piece of driftwood and a plasticine "battleship" cruising by.

Another novel display in this group is a model of a portion of Front Street from Loblaws to Diamonds on one side, and from the city Recreation Centre to the Artistic Ladies' Wear on the other, including the parking lot behind the Front St. stores, and part of Pinnacle Street. The "buildings" are made from cigaret and other small boxes. The scene also includes traffic through the city's main thoroughfare, miniature street lights, and parking meters.

PLANE ENGINE DROPS

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) A four-engined Ecuadorean airliner bound for Miami with 82 persons aboard dropped an engine over the Caribbean Monday but returned safely to Tocumen airport here. The accident occurred about 30 minutes after the plane's 3:30 p.m. departure. The left outboard engine fell off. The aircraft made a safe landing with gasoline pouring from a ruptured tank.

2nd-Day Attendance Mark At Fair Highest in 3 Years; Varied Program Is Enjoyed

Second-day attendance at the Belleville Fair yesterday was the highest in three years but fell short of the record-breaking crowd of 1956.

Paid adult admission at the gates yesterday amounted to 8,166 as compared to 6,360 of a year ago. In 1957 it was 6,601.

The big year was 1956 when 11,234 went through the gates. This was the year of the former "Musical Ride of the Mounties", and like the other figures includes afternoon and evening shows.

With ideal weather conditions prevailing today and the new "Ride of the Mounties" scheduled for afternoon and evening performances, fair directors anticipate attendance that will set an all-time high for "third-day" crowds.

Some 2,546 paid grandstand admissions yesterday compared to 665 of a year ago. The year previous to that 1,437 saw the show from the stands while 4,407 crowded the structure in the "Mounties" year of 1956.

The fair, according to patron comment, is living up to the directorate claim that it is the best exhibition in the century-plus history of the institution.

Every phase of the exhibition from livestock to school displays is being well patronized. The horse exhibit, the largest in the fair's history, with an entry list that probably will not be exceeded by any exhibition of similar classification in Ontario, is one of the features.

Special attention, especially from the younger patrons, is being directed to the pony exhibit, another that has created a new record.

Other features of this Show Window of Hastings County, livestock, school work, floral displays industrial and business exhibits in the various buildings are getting a generous share of patronage.

AGAIN DRAWS APPLAUSE

The fine horsemanship and superb timing of the colorful "Ride of the Mounties" again drew unstinted applause from the stands and bleachers at last night's performance.

Again it is pointed out that the "Ride" is a distinctly new one, without any similarity to the "Musical Ride" of the scarlet-coated policemen of a few years ago. It is of an entirely different nature with emphasis on the splendidly-trained horses and the expert horsemanship of their riders.

The pattern of the ride is a remarkable one, with split-second timing, in the "singles, doubles and fours" as the horses jump the hurdles as if bound together by invisible bonds, eliciting gasps of amazement and admiration from the stands and bleachers.

Stage entertainment, too, is living up to advance notices. Personable Paul Kohler, versatile master-of-ceremonies, keeps the show moving at a high tempo, his own fine artistry on his favorite instrument, the xylophone, playing no small part in the show.

WELL RECEIVED

Tonimara, an exceptionally fine dancer who specializes in East Indian and Persian routines, is being well received as are the Five Falcons, a quintet of colored and highly entertaining singers with guitar background. Their rock 'n' roll offerings are proving extremely popular with the younger set.

The billed feature is the aquatic act of four divers whose ability on the diving board smacks of Olympics flavor. There is a comedy insert that is hilarious while the crowning act is the 85-foot dive by "Golden Boy" from a lofty tower.

ROUNDED PROGRAM

A horse show, the Ride of the Mounties and high-calibre harness races rounded out an enjoyable afternoon program this afternoon.

Tonight another horse show will inaugurate the grandstand entertainment starting at seven o'clock. At eight the outstanding drum and trumpet band of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will offer marching and playing demonstrations and at 8.30 the first act of the stage show gets under way.

At 9.30 comes the "Ride of the Mounties." This 'spectacular" will again be offered tomorrow afternoon and evening.

'Much in Little' As One Views Grain Display

Without the farm and its products, the urban population would soon fade away, and often the smallest object holds the greatest potential. So, it came to mind as one viewed the small exhibit in the Horticulture Building. All that was to be seen were tall corn stalks; neatly assembled samples of oats, Timothy hay, barley and rye, and white sacks of winnowed grains, fall wheat; buckwheat; fall rye; Timothy seed; red clover seed; alfalfa seed; ears of sweet corn; field corn; and long ears of flinton corn.

Looking at each of these products of the soil one was carried back in memory to fields of succulent green corn, both for the nourishment of the domestic cow, from which butter, cream and milk is obtained, not to mention the by-product of the refreshing buttermilk, so delightful on a hot summer day and to the steaming mounds of delicious green corn set on the noonday table for the inhabitants of this world.

From the oats come the nutty flavor of porridge with its sprinkling of old-fashioned brown sugar — much ahead of the white — which fills the old and young with vigor and health, and keeps the body warm in winter; the Timothy hay which builds the strong, healthy body of the cow, which also yields its flesh for the building of the human body; gives strength to the horse, the beast of burden; the fall wheat from which comes the "Staff of Life", the bread; the buckwheat without which there would be no "Pancake Tuesdays"; the rye, which also is used for bread, and is a wonderful pultice ingredient for pneumonia sufferers; while the seds of clover make sure a steadfast crop and a hunting ground for bees which give the honey for breakfast muffins. The alfalfa provides for years of rich vitamins for the stock. So, all in all, the farm products, though small the display, have a great potential and demonstrate the 'much in little'.

Ohio Woman Drowns Tuesday In West Lake

WEST LAKE — This morning Provincial Police and neighbors were still searching West Lake for the body of Mrs. Walter Liggett.

With her husband, an Ohio farmer, they were just returning to Maple Rest Resort where they were holidaying, after an early morning fish, when their boat turned over. Mrs. Liggett was beneath the over-turned boat and talked to Mr. Liggett who held to the side of the craft. He told her to hang on until he could get to her with a life belt but she could not swim and vanished beneath the surf before help got to her.

The tragedy occurred about 8.30 a.m. Tuesday. Their son, about 15 years old, had gone horseback riding while his parents went fishing.

Mr. Liggett had started the motor. The boat apparently took off too fast and hit a wave rolling the boat over.

The Liggetts had holidayed with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kleinsteuber for several seasons.

Trenton News

Add 2 Members To Executive of Canadian Legion

TRENTON — Two new members were added to the executive of the Canadian Legion Branch 110 for the balance of the year at the regular monthly meeting of this branch Monday evening. Douglas Ramsey and John Carter, both active members of the branch, became members of the executive by acclamation.

Five members were proposed during the nominations but three of these declined, leaving the remaining two to take office. Zone commander E. Donaldson inducted the new members into the executive.

Eighteen new members were initiated into the branch by Len Taylor, of Belleville, Provincial publicity chairman, at this meeting. The group officially became members of the branch after a short talk on the aims and obligations of the members.

Members of Branch 110 were thanked for their work outside the branch. President of the branch, W. T. Lawson, thanked the members for the "wonderful turnout" at the Drumhead Service held in Brighton at the start of the centennial there.

A letter was read to the meeting from F. J. Taylor, Chief of the Trenton Police Department, thanking the members for their assistance at the time of the visit of the Queen.

L. C. Devonshire, retiring chairman of finance committee, gave his report to the meeting for the month of July. He stated that in the first seven months of operations the branch had taken in total revenue only a little more than a quarter of the total budget which had been planned for this year. He added that this left the branch facing the impossible task of raising $50,000 in the next five months. Also in this report was a recommendation that the branch hire a full-time secretary-manager to bring all the paper work and accounting together.

Ross Grier gave a short address to the members on the Provincial Convention he attended recently in Kitchener. He told the group that he was very impressed with the entire convention and listed some of the events which were of major interest.

Council Passes By-Law to Build Public School

TRENTON — A special meeting of council Monday morning gave the third reading to a by-law authorizing the construction of a new public school here. This by-law was given its first and second readings February 2, after much discussion on the need of this school.

The building will cost in the neighborhood of $215,940. The major cost for this will be the construction of the building which is estimated at $168,750. Furnishings and equipment costs are estimated at $1,500 for each classroom or $12,000 for the entire school. Architects fees will amount to $10,125 while the site for this building was bought for a price of $20,000.

It is expected that the Board of Education will call for tenders for the construction of this school immediately and it is expected that construction will be started in the very near future.

This project will materially assist the employment in this area over the next few months.

Debentures will be issued for the financing of this school, payable within 20 years.

Town Engineer Asks Council to Define Position

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Aldersey spoke to council Monday concerning zoning and the problems which were arising from this. He asked that council pass a resolution endorsing the Building Inspector's action and absolving himself in his capacity as zoning administrator of all responsibility in matters where permits had been issued without his authority.

Mr. Aldersey's major complaint that there were continual exceptions made in the enforcement of the zoning by-law. As zoning administrator it is his duty to enforce this by-law but the continued exceptions make this very difficult.

He asked that council define his position as zoning administrator. By the terms of the by-law he said that he was solely responsibility for the adminstration of the zoning by-law.

He told council that, "the ignoring of the zoning by-law can be serious and unless proper procedures are followed the situation will get completely out of hand."

He stated that in his opinion the conditions of the zoning by-law were contrary to the wishes of the community and suggested that they be amended to conform with the wishes of the majority.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The end of the industrial drop was nowhere in sight as the stock market dipped for the fifth straight session in light morning trading.

Industrials gave up a further almost three points in the first hour, boosting their total index drop since last Thursday to almost 26 points. Base metals and western oils were off more than one point today while golds slipped a few decimal points, to a 1959 index low of 88.08.

Active speculatives were generally easier. Central Patricia gave up 19 cents at $1.86 while Can-Erin was off 7 cents at $1.71.

Banks turned mixed today as the wave of selling that has battered the group down since last week faded.

Seniors, with the exception of Noranda, up ¼ at 51¼, were weak in base metals. International Nickel dipped 1¼. McIntyre was off 1½ at 89 in golds.

Industrials dipped 8.41 to 324.38 surpassing Monday's loss of more than six points and the sharpest setback since Nov. 24, 1958 when the index lost more than 9 points.

Industrials, since they began to lose last Thursday, have given up almost 23 points on index—one of the stiffest reversals in years.

The final volume was 3,048,000 shares, compared with Monday's 2,586,000. Can-Erin had the best speculative gain, up 11 cents at $1.78. The Yukon stocks gained early but closed almost unchanged.

Banks, steels, pipelines and refining oils were down among industrials as 15 of the 20 index issues lost and four gained.

International Nickel gave up 1½ at 96½ while Noranda was down 1⅜ at 51. Golds were quiet. Dome slipped ⅜ at 17⅝.

Seniors were down in western oils but changes were fractional in small volumes.

Other index losses: golds .53 to 88.27; base metals 2.07 to 172.94; western oils 1.49 to 116.31.

William and Carissa won the twins class in the baby competition at last year's fair. The Greers were not represented this year for obvious reasons, but should present a double threat in 1960.

Sixteen Tennis Players Visit Point Anne

CAMPBELLFORD — Sixteen members of the Campbellford Tennis Club had an enjoyable afternoon and evening when they visited the Point Anne club for tennis on the Canada Cement Company's two courts, five miles east of Belleville on Sunday.

The Campbellford club presented a radically new look in personnel at Point Anne, featuring more youth. In contrast to last year, the ladies from Campbellford nearly matched the men in numbers on the court. Most of the female players were schoolgirls who have recently taken a keen interest in the game. Schoolboys were also well represented.

There were close scores in most of the sets played, it was arranged for players to compete in their own age group as much as possible.

Acting as captains in charge of the arranging of games were: Thorold Horwood of Point Anne, and Kenneth Kingston, of Campbellford.

During the supper hour, it was tentatively agreed that the return visit of Point Anne to Campbellford would take place on the afternoon and evening, of September 13.

Activities at the Point Anne courts last Sunday were enthusiastic and complete, games running continously and in rapid succession.

It is expected the annual inter-club meets between Point Anne and Campbellford will become an annual event.

Two Sets of Twins Arrive At Local Home in 18 Months

Mrs. John Greer, 33 Forin Street, has double, "double trouble".

She arrived home from Belleville General Hospital last Wednesday with her second set of twins within 18 months.

Twins number two, Dennis Earl and Denise Ann, were born July 30th. Their twin brother and sister, William Avard and Carissa Dawn, arrived February 19th of last year.

"I wasn't surprised, but the shock nearly killed me", was how Mrs. Greer described her feelings when told by her doctor to prepare for a second set of twins.

She added the reason she wasn't too surprised was that there were twins on both sides of her and her husband's families.

"There are twins on both sides of our families, both my mother's and father's and Johnny's mother's and father's, so how could we miss", she said with a laugh.

When asked how she was making out with four babies to look after, she said: "We have our hands full — in more ways than one". She added her husband, a brakeman with the C.N.R., helps to care for them.

Commenting on having four babies so close together, Mrs. Greer stated: "It's just as well —they can grow up together."

She added she was told it is quite rare to have two consecutive sets of twins. "There is usually a single birth in between", she explained.

Local obstetrician Dr. Robert Allore confirmed this.

"It is unusual to have two consecutive sets of twins, but not two or more sets", he said, "but I can't quote any statistics on that".

He said while it is "comparatively rare" to have more than one set of twins, it "happens often enough" to keep it out of Ripley's "Believe It or Not". He explained the chances of any woman having a set of twins is one in 80, but after having one set her chances of having twins again are increased.

Four babies make a lot of dirty diapers, so Mrs. Greer finds its necessary to do a washing every day, and sometimes twice a day.

"It's a lot of work now, but it will be nice when they're grown up", she said philosophically.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer also have Frances Jean, whom they adopt- Francis Jean, whom they adopted 12 years ago.

Liberal Leader Asks Probe of Niagara Parks

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer urged Tuesday an immediate investigation into the Niagara Parks Commission.

The Liberal leader said in a telephone interview from his Kitchener home he believes the inquiry is necessary in the light of disclosures by George R. Inglis, a former mayor of Niagara Falls.

A member of the parks commission, Mr. Inglis resigned last month at the request of Labor Minister Daley, commission chairman, following differences of opinion over park management.

"The resignation of Mr. Inglis and his subsequent charges concerning the administration of the Niagara Parks Commission require a full and impartial investigation," Mr. Wintermeyer said.

Mr. Inglis listed the following points of disagreement with the commission:

Public works carried out without calling tenders, taking property out of taxation through purchase; purchase of supplies and road construction without tender and lack of information given the press.

He also criticized the attitude of Mr. Daley and commission General Manager Maxim T. Gray.

Mr. Inglis said that on July 13 he received a letter from Mr. Daley asking him to resign because it appears "you have no further interest in the affairs of the commission . . ."

HASTINGS COUNTY HISTOR

Mr. Harry Price, president of the Canadian National Exhibition, was quite interested in a 125-year-old copy of The Intelligencer which was on display in the Hastings County Historical Society's booth. The head of the largest exhibition in the world, was present in Belleville Monday to pick up new ideas from Ontario's largest Class "B" fair.

Display of Children's Work Interesting, Instructive

Local and district elementary school children can be justly proud of themselves.

Their exhibits of map drawing, mural painting, poster drawing, art work, handicrafts, sewing and nature collections, on display in the Horticultural Building at the Belleville Fair, are cleverly done and well worth seeing.

The five-by-three-foot murals adorning the walls are varied and interesting, and include a well-executed underwater scene showing various types of colorful fish, sea weeds and other underwater plant life, shells, and even a slimy eel. Another interesting mural is that of the Crucifixion, showing Christ on the cross on Mount Calvary, flanked by the two robbers, the Roman soldiers with their spears and helmets, the curious Jews who came to watch, the faithful at the foot of the cross, part of the city of Jerusalem and lightning rending the darkened sky.

Other murals include a two-part African scene showing the two types of terrain, the lush agricultural belt with appropriate animals, and mixed population, and similarly the arid desert; a rural farm scene, east coast fishing scene, a jungle scene, and a pretty nature scene showing a bog, red-wing blackbirds, ducks, and water lilies.

Safety posters illustrating the various traffic safety rules such as "to always face traffic when walking along the highway," and posters on conservation of wild life, showed a good deal of imagination. One conservation poster particularly caught the eye. It showed a bear kneeling in a forest with other animals watching while he prayed, ". . . and please make people careful, amen." Another showed a magnificent deer standing by a river, and underneath, the caption, "Ours to Save."

Maps, both drawn and raised, of Australia and Hastings county, are also on display, and show a good deal of work.

SHOWS IMAGINATION

Another interesting part of the exhibit is the set-up work which, in many cases, shows a good deal of imagination. Included in this group is a merry-go-round complete with paper "children" riding colored paper horses; an "aquarium" complete with fish, shells and seaweed; a trading post, a campsite, "Little Miss Muffet frightened by a big, black spider; a plasticine "Clover-leaf," and a delightful miniature "oriental garden," with a stream, spanned by a small bridge, pagoda in the background, "cherry trees" and other types of trees, flowers, and birds.

Also on exhibit are examples of woodcraft, metalcraft, leather, raffia, felt, rubber, and foamcraft; papier machine, clay, soap, plasticine modelling, and paper craft. Sewing included cushion tops, plain work aprons, embroidered tea towels, hand-sewn stuffed toys, and pot holders.

Nature collections included pressed leaves, weed, seeds, flowers and insects.

Also on display were drawings and paintings of different types of homes, and samples of writing and printing for grades 1 to 8.

Bogus Company Cheques Used To Bilk Banks

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario banks have been bilked of $30,000 during the last month by a gang of confidence men using replicas of cheques issued by Northspan Uranium Mines at Elliot Lake, and the Massey-Ferguson Company of Toronto, police said today.

Police said the gang has acquired sample cheques from the two companies and has printed exact copies. The bogus cheques have been cashed at Elliot Lake, in the Muskoka district and in Metropolitan Toronto.

Police warned this may be just the beginning of a "lucrative racket," and storekeepers throughout the province have been advised to watch for such cheques.

Too High a Target

The proposal of the Board of Broadcast Governors that at least 55 per cent of a week's TV shows on any Canadian station, CBC or private, should be Canadian in content is likely to be welcomed with cheers, and to be ousted eventually with jeers.

The English-language network of the CBC now just achieves this proposed standard and it would be a brave man who would predict that many of the smaller privately-owned stations could meet this yardstick without either duplicating the CBC programs or offering a type of fare which will have the listeners pleading for mercy.

For the objective of the Board of Broadcast Governors we have nothing but applause. For its chances of attainment we have nothing but doubt.

We do not like many of the U.S.-produced filmed shows any better than the next person, but there is this to be said for them - - they are produced by professionals and thus, even in their mediocrity, provide at least some entertainment.

To achieve a 55 per cent Canadian content for programs, many TV stations would have to depend on amateur talent. Some amateurs are excellent; we would welcome seeing them perform. But there is no gainsaying the fact that a mediocre amateur can reach depths of futility which the mediocre professional could not approach even if he tried.

Dilemma for Statesmen

At first glance it may be difficult to discover any similarity between the rising tide of unrest in the Caribbean area and the long-smouldering revolt against French rule in Algeria.

Yet, on Monday of this week, there came from L'Ile Bouchard in France and from Santiago in Chile despatches which, on careful examination, reveal the existence of a common underlying problem for the statesmen of the world.

At Santiago the foreign ministers of the member nations of the Organization of American States, of which Canada is not a member, were trying to devise some method of preventing armed attempts to overthrow existing governments. In France Premier Michel Debre has announced that the French Government will demand that in future its allies back it "all the way" in its war against the Algerian rebels or nationalists.

The French demand is likely to raise a storm of protest, not only amongst the nations of the Arab world but in certain circles in the west, too. Yet, essentially, all that the French are asking is precisely what the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States appear to have in mind—an agreement to back the status quo, regardless of what that status may be or of the principles, or lack of them, behind the governments in power.

Europe had one unfortunate experience with this type of policy in the days of Metternich. If suppression then served but to store up resentments and build the force of the inevitable revolts once the dam broke, is there any good reason to believe it would any better serve the cause of peace today? Yet, in a world where any little war threatens to embroil the big powers, and where a clash between these major powers may bring catastrophe to all, who can blame statesmen for seeking to douse the smallest spark?

That is the dilemma facing world statesmen today—how are the big powers going to avoid supporting tyrants, without at the same time risking the spread of little wars into big ones?

HE'S WRITING FOR MAGAZINES

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Outside the clouds are dark and gray,
And over meadow, hill and lane,
The Storm King roughly treads his way;
Jack Frost has touched the window pane
Of palace and of humble cot,
And there has etched his wondrous scenes;
(Although it's stifling here and hot He's writing for the magazines.)

The sound of sleigh bells on the air,
First dim and faint, then loud and clear;
Then merry laughter everywhere
Proclaim the gladdest time of year.
And busy with their snowball fights,
The boys know all what winter means:
(It's tough on hot and torrid nights
To have to write for magazines.)

Across the housetops Santa Claus
His reindeer drives at rapid pace,
And at a baby's crib he'll pause
To gaze into his sleeping face.
The heat is something dreadful here,
But still he sings of wintry scenes;
His summer efforts may appear
In cold December's magazines.

Machine Plays Checkers

New York Times

The day when man is replaced by an IBM machine seems to have arrived — at least for Dr. Arthur L. Samuel of Poughkeepsie, who recently announced the development of a computer that not only plays but is steadily improving (apparently over its own mistakes) in the game of checkers. The computer learned the game by being beaten in its early matches with its inventor. But now machine is master of its creator, and Dr. Samuel gets thrashed soundly every time. Of course he loved this, though for dyed-in-the-wool checkers lovers the very idea may well be less than appealing. Come what may, the machine that plays checkers is not so adaptable (we believe) as to be capable of learning such other old favorites as chess, parchesi, or (heaven forbid) bridge. So right now we humans can claim the edge in the games department.

Checkers has long been one of America's favorite pastimes. It is probably the first grown-up game learned by children and the last to be remembered and enjoyed by the old folk. During the winter many a long evening or cold afternoon is spent over the checkerboard next to a fireplace or under a glowing table lamp. In spring, summer and fall the red-and-black patterned boards come out of hibernation and perch on park benches, picnic tables, beaches and grass lawns all over the country. A stroll through any municipal park of a sunny afternoon will usually provide several such sights, and the stroller may well participate in what is the second favorite activity of checkers fanciers — watching. More often than not, in fact, the watchers holds the upper hand. His is the role of the self-assured winner of every game, and his mind's-eye moves would stagger the self-confidence of the world's finest players.

Checkers is a game as old as civilization; as far as records show. The British Museum in London has on display specimens of ancient checkerboards quite similar to those we know today that were once used in the great days of Egypt by pharaohs and their courts. Checkers probably antedates chess by the fact that it is simpler and therefore a basis upon which its more "intellectual" sister is an elaboration. The works of Plato and Homer mention the game of checkers under various titles, and later writings concur in substantiating the fact that it was played in the days of Greece and Rome. In the seventeenth century a Spaniard published a volume containing games and various traps that could be used. Probably the game had come down through use by the Arabs and Moors.

What we now know as checkers, or draughts, originates with a book, "Guide to Game of Draughts," by William Payne, an English mathematician, published in 1756. Samuel Johnson, a draughts enthusiast himself, contributed the dedication to this book. Since then literature about the game has grown as fast as draughts' own popularity. Today it is the subject of numerous periodical columns and endless manipulations by critics and experts.

There are several varieties of the simple game of checkers, often taking on the names of countries that had little to do with their origination. Spanish (or Pool) checkers deviates from the usual game by allowing the checkers to jump backwards as well as forward and the kings to move any number of unobstructed spaces along a diagonal. Turkish checkers employs all sixty-four squares on the board, with the men permitted to move to the sides or straight forward, but not backward. Eight pieces occupy the second and third rows each to open the game, and the king can move any number of spaces in any direction. A variety called Giveaway checkers is a simple reversal of the game's usual aim, and he who can lose all his pieces first wins.

Varieties are as much a part of checkers as the people who play it, and this is what makes the game one of the most thoroughly "human" games we have. IBM machines to the contrary (if they have yet achieved the capacity for being so), facing a human being across a checkerboard will long be the luxury of a lazy afternoon in the park. When machine plays machine then we will really have something to watch.

Strictly Personal

Whoever Heard Of Mr. Luck?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in Michigan has asked me to use my massive influence with the U.S. government and prevent the Weather Bureau from employing feminine names to designate tropical storms and hurricanes.

She thinks it is fine that we name ships for women, and call them "she," because ships, in her mind, are associated with "beauty, generous living, peace and commerce."

But her indignation boils over at the thought of using feminine names to indicate natural forces resulting in death, property damage and untold misery."

What this good woman fails to realize is that the human race has always applied the feminine gender to capricious and wilful objects in nature. In recorded history, it is as old as Homer, and doubtless goes back even farther than that.

Ships — and later trains, cars and planes — have been called "she," in nearly every language, in recognition of both the loving qualities and unpredictability of these vehicles. A man looks upon his car with a mixture of affection and exasperation.

Countries have often been called "she" — like La Belle France and Brittania. It is true that both Britain and the U.S. have been personified by John Bull and Uncle Sam, but these have been for cartoon purposes, and speakers generally refer to a nation in the feminine gender.

Hurricanes have been given girls' names, not in any way to deprecate the feminine sex, but simply to suggest that variability of their nature which reminds meteorologists of a woman's swift transition from smiles to tears, from ardor to anger. It is a metaphor, not an insult.

"He" is almost never used to designate an object or a natural activity. It is either "she" or "it." Things and events are called "it" when they leave no personality and arouse no feelings in the beholder. But lovely, powerful, or potenially dangerous objects are usually "she" — proving again that language is not logical, but reflects the emotions of the men who make it.

We even speak of "Lady Luck," or "Dame Fortune," but nobody refers to "Mr. Accident" or "Sir Misfortune." Astronomers have long spoken of the moon and planets as "she"; likewise, workmen fondly refer to their familiar tools in the feminine. And now it's time to stop pounding my typewriter for the day — she's getting tired.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS

I can understand a carpenter's love for building. He has many beloved tools to answer his bidding. Tools are fascinating. I used to love to watch a carpenter work. Most of them appreciated my love of these things that help to create homes, factories, furniture, and an endless variety of useful things. Perhaps it was this fascination for tools that influenced Christ to work with them.

I am always happy when engaged with tools to "make things." The use of tools is a most useful occupation. I always rejoiced when my father, who was a minister, told me that he had a carpenter among the members of his church. I was probably a nuisance to those carpenters, but they were uniformly kind and helpful.

I have a box of tools at my home and summer camp. Each has a language, and each has its own appeal. It's a clean and inspiring trade for any man. The "old fashion" carpenter, like the old blacksmith, is almost a memory, but many a man holds each in his heart as he remembered him then.

No wonder there are thousands of collectors of fine early creations that tools have made possible. The human hands with tools have enriched the earth with their beauty. Many a home has been built by its owner, and that owner has put something of himself into it. Those tools of his become "second in command."

All tools have a history behind them. The early tools were crude but useful. With the years, however, they have taken many a forward step.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 19th, 1939

Said to be one of the most successful in years, the third annual picnic of the Wharf Street Debating Club attracted a large crowd at Victoria Park yesterday. A full program of sports was run off with an excellent number of contestants taking part. The gate prize was won by Mr. Eddie Pantress who will receive same by calling at the Wharf Street Club rooms. The Queen's New Adviser

Toronto Telegram

The appointment of Kwame Nkrumah, Prime Minister of Ghana, as the first Negro member of the Queen's Privy Council advising her on constitutional matters, will be warmly welcomed throughout the Commonwealth.

After all, who is better qualified to advise the Queen on African affairs than the native Ghanaian who spearheaded his country along a peaceful road from colony to the first free, all-Negro dominion?

The appointment, however, primarily recognizes the dramatic change in the make-up of the Commonwealth, which is now predominantly non-white.

Ghana ,the former Gold Coast, became a dominion in 1957 and the years since then have not been uneventful. Nkrumah put his own face, not the Queen's, on Ghana's postage stamps and enforced a color-bar insisting that all Europeans leave after finishing whatever task brought them there.

And now Nkrumah is in Britain pressing his case for a Ghanaian republic within the Commonwealth.

This would mean that Ghana, like India and Pakistan, would recognize the Queen as the symbol of the Commonwealth, but not as head of state.

They have been difficult times for Ghanas' new-forged relations with the Commonwealth. On the surface, Nkrumah's actions might seem certain to shake Commonwealth solidarity. This is not so.

The Commonwealth ideal is greater than all the divisions and differences between its members.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EAST AND WEST

So great is God's forgiveness, we are told in the Psalms, that "as far as the east is from the west, so far does He remove our transgressions from us."

There could hardly be a better image for the relationship of human nature and sin than east and west. East and west are as far apart as the poles — or as near as the two sides of a sheet of paper.

East and west are a matter of direction — and so is sin. The minute a man turns his back on sin — faces east instead of west, so to speak — his sins are behind him. It takes just one step —facing in the right direction — to be on the road to goodness.

But a man who is going east may at any time start going west simply by facing the other way. So it is with human nature and sin. At his most secure moments, the virtuous man is never more than a step from sin.

We stand always on the narrow line between east and west, between sin and goodness. No matter how long we have resolutely faced east, we are always liable to forget ourselves and turn toward the west. It is a sobering thought. But God's goodness is such that when we have turned the wrong way, we may always turn back again — and our transgressions will be removed from us "as far as the east is from the west."

Christianity and Judaism both stand gallantly for a second chance for everyone.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HYSTERECTOMY DOESN'T PREVENT A HAPPY MARRIAGE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a woman of 52 to marry after having had a complete hysterectomy a year ago? Is it possible to fulfill marriage obligations after a hysterectomy?

"I am a widow, and would like to marry again as I am very lonely. Must one tell a future husband about this operation? — C.C."

This question will be asked more and more often, I suspect, as we progressively live longer lives. In pioneer days, when the average life expectancy was 20 or 30 years less than it is now, the question wasn't of much importance. And anyway, in those days the surgery itself was out of the question.

But the question is asked of me frequently now, and I am happy to give the answer, for it is a happy answer.

There is no reason at all why a woman who has had either partial or complete hysterectomy should not marry.

At 52, with or without the operation, she certainly would not hope to expect to have children. There might be one extraordinary case in millions in which childbearing would still be possible at that age.

But for all others, Nature (through menopause, or change of life,) would already have put an end to child-bearing anyway. And aside from that one thing, the ability to have children, neither hysterectomy or menopause interferes in the normal marital relationships, any more than having your appendix out would interfere with normal digestive processes.

In answer to Mrs. C. C.s other question, must she tell her future husband about the operation? I do not see the least reason why she should (except I don't like secrecy) or why she shouldn't, if the matter happened to come up. I would say it was a matter of indifference. It makes no difference, and has no bearing on her general health, present or future. It's just something that's been done and is over with.

DIFFERENT IF YOUNGER

It would be different, of course, for a woman in her 20's or 30's, or perhaps (or perhaps not) in her early 40's.

In the earlier years, when the husband might well set great store by wanting to have children, he certainly would be entitled to know if a hysterectomy had been performed, thereby making children impossible.

I do not by any means imply that he would not want to marry. The marriage could be as happy and complete as any other, except that children would be impossible, therefore, he should know it in advance.

If the couple wanted to raise some little ones, adoption would be the proper recourse.

Let me repeat so there will be no doubt: hysterectomy prevents childbirth. But in no other way is it going to prevent a happy, complete and enduring marriage.

Note to E.A.P.: The diabetes pills are not insulin. They are medications (there are several types) which tend to reduce the amount of sugar in the system. In some cases they are sufficient -- along with proper diet. In other cases insulin still is the only thing that will serve adequately. And in some cases it is possible to use less insulin, provided the pills are taken, too.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

WINDSOR, ONT.

The district surrounding Windsor is the oldest continuous white settlement in North America away from tidewater. In 1610 Jesuit missionaries found the Indian town of Khioetoa. Then came the explorers who chose the site as a trading post. A settlement was established between Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie and was named La Traverse or The Ferry. Following the conquest of Canada by the British, the name was changed to Richmond. On Sept. 6, 1836 the settlement took the name of Windsor, after Windsor, England. It was incorporated as a city in 1892.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is one man I want to meet, and that is the owner of the voice who gave the words of command in Halifax on the afternoon the Queen bade goodbye to Canada and presented her colour to the Royal Canadian Navy.

As an old soldier, I am familiar with many a famous military voice of the past. I can recollect sergeant-majors both regimental and company; during my training in the first war, I heard the drill sergeants of Britain as they tried to buff the final polish onto us colonials. There have been colonels I have known with mighty voices that could shock a thousand and ten men into most instant attention, and bring them, as one man, to the present arms.

But this man they have in Halifax, in the Royal Canadian Navy, is in my opinion the greatest of them all. If you were not listening that last afternoon at Halifax, I can hardly describe what you missed.

Unlike the military "caution", which is the long-drawn warning command of such words as "battalion", or "guard" before the rifle-crack "shun!" of the word of command, this navy man sang his caution two, three or even four times longer. His voice was a high, clear ringing tone like a bugle or a trumpet, but it had, properly enough, something of the long-drawn sing of the bosun's pipe in it. It was like the wind in the rigging. By the holy, it had something of the cry of the Scottish pipes in it! Across the parade ground, it soared like a wind. And when the word of command was fired, it was not a rifle crack but a gun shot. And you could literally hear that naval royal guard crash as one sound, in response.

It was a magnificent performance, and the RCN have got themselves a man.

When you say "love seat" there comes to mind one of those cozy, sawed-off sofas that fit so nicely in the cramped corners of the living room.

But that's not the big thing these days. The love seat is really the front seat of the car.

Farm Machinery Exhibit Best In Many Years

Farming is still hard work, but the hand slugging of pre-war years just isn't with us any more.

At least that is the impression gained from a visit to the farm machinery exhibit at the Belleville Fair where everything in mechanized equipment for today's specialized farm operation is on display.

Foremost, of course, is that very necessary piece of modern farm equipment — the tractor. Machinery dealers at the fair have on hand almost any type of tractor that can be imagined. Both the rubber tired and track type tractor are on display.

Possibly most impressive of the farm machinery displays is that of J. J. Trudeau with his J. I. Case line of farm tractors, utility and industrial type mechanized equipment.

This display is on the infield, just across the track from the horse barn and poultry building. Industrial equipment includes both rubber tired and tracklaying tractors with loaders and lift type attachments to get work done faster and easier.

The McKee shredder-harvester and Cockshutt tractor is offered by McKee Brothers of Foxboro, whose display adjoins that of Case.

Jim Begley of Belleville is offering John Deere type farm equipment ranging all the way from tractors and crawlers, front end loaders and spreaders.

Charles Cox of Belleville is offering David Brown farm tractors and spreaders, farm mowers, hay rakes and tedders, hay balers and cultivators bearing the New Holland trademark.

A Hastings county girl and a Prince Edward county boy won the 4-H club judging competition held at Belleville Fair Tuesday when about 60 juniors took part in the day's junior fair program.

Winner for the girls was 12-year-old Lynda Gunning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gunning of Tweed, while the boy's winner was Lyle Vanclief, 15, of Ameliasburg.

Last evening prior to the opening of the grandstand show the two young people were in the spotlight before a crowded grandstand when they were presented with awards for their day's prize winning efforts.

Lyle Vanclief was a double winner for the day, not only being top point getter, but also ranking high in giving of reasons for his judging. As top boy he received 15 silver dollars from the Northern Electric Company here and for being high in reasons was presented with a silver tray by the Bank of Montreal.

Miss Gunning as high girl received $15 from Northern Electric.

Entrants in the day's junior program were almost entirely 4-H club members with few in the Junior Farmer club category registering for the competition.

During the day the 4-H boys and girls judged several classes of beef and dairy cattle and other farm stock, and then just to make things a bit more difficult were asked to give reasons for the way they placed the animals.

Wedding

HAMILTON — HODGES

DESERONTO — A lovely midsummer wedding took place at Deseronto United Church on Saturday afternoon, August 1, 1959, when Helena Beryl Hodges, of Deseronto, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hodges, formerly of Belleville, became the bride of John Clarence Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, of Napanee. Rev. Wesley Neelands officiated at the ceremony, with a background setting of white gadioli which graced the altar and flanked the steps of the chancel.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Gerald McCaul at the organ, and baritone soloist, Alan Aylsworth, sang Malotte's setting of the Lord's Prayer after the brial party had arrived at the chancel steps. During the signing of the register, Mr. Aylsworth sang the hymn "O Perfect Love".

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. G. E. White, of Trenton, was radiantly lovely in her gown of white Chantilly lace, fashioned with Chantilly lace, fashioned with fitted bodice, flared street-length skirt, and matching lace mitts. Her waist-length veil fell gracefully from a bandeau of rhinestones, seed pearls and sequins and her bouquet was of red rosettes and white baby 'mums.

Sisters of the bride, Miss Carol Hodges, of Toronto, was maid-of-honor, and Miss Linda Hodges of Deseronto, was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of printed embossed nylon, with reversed boleros buttoned down the back, and flared skirts. Carol in mauve carrying a nosegay of yellow gladioli and blue ribbon, and Linda in blue, with nosegay of salmon pink gladioli and blue ribbon. Their accessories were white, and their pleated grosgrain ribbon headdresses were studded with seed pearls.

The bridegroom's attendant was his brother, Mr. Frank Hamilton, of Toronto. Ushers were Messrs. Carman Hodges of Toronto, a brother of the bride, and Kenneth Hamilton of Napanee, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception in the United Church Sunday School room followed the ceremony, where the bride's aunt, Mrs. George E. White, of Trenton, received the guests, wearing a navy and white dotted silk sheath with navy nylon redingote, white accessories, and corsage of red roses and white carnations. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who wore an attractive ensemble of blue floral nylon chiffon, with lime green bolero and gloves, white accessories, and a corsage of yellow rosettes and white baby 'mums.

For travelling, the bride chose a turquoise linen suit with short box jacket. Her accessories were all of white, and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following a motor trip to the Muskoka district, the happy couple will make their home in Toronto.

Arts and Crafts Display One Of Versatility

There was a number of fine exhibits in the Arts and Crafts display in the Horticultural Building this year at the annual fair, among which was that of the Camera Club's colored slides, showing flowers, (pink poppies and yellow tulips) ;moonlight scene; winter scenes, — one of sunlight on the snow between trees, and one of a winding creek between snowbound banks; a sailing scene, with choppy waters; a harbor scene, and a colorful autumn scene, also a boating scene.

Besides the color slides were scenes in black and white photography showing shadows on snow from a frost covered wire fence; a bird feeding her young; a gunsmith; "white waters" and others.

Silk screening with pleasing designs and pretty backgrounds were noted: wrought-iron work showing fireplace tongs and bookends; pretty ceramics; aluminum etching on a round tray; leather work, (squirrel and animal brooches); copper tooling; felt work; and enamel on copper.

The art work in oils included flowers; scenery; still life; animal life and a sailing ship.

The fine arts displayed a well-drawn collie head with lolling tongue; a woodland winter scene depicting a wide, frozen stream between snow-bound banks; a pleasing still life of a group of red and yellow apples; an elm tree scene; an autumn scene of red maples; a harbor with moored sailboat; an alerted deer; summer in the woods; a tree study, well done and most attractive.

Portraits, especially the head and shoulders of a young girl with fair hair was arresting; ballet dancers caught the light and airy movements. The copper work of tiger lilies, bird in flight, and the Indian figures were all well done.

Other handicrafts which drew the attention was that of the 'driftwood centres', the 'Mosaic vase; the little doll in pink as a bed ornament; the stuffed cat; TV shell lamp; shopping bags of felt; leather purses, and gloves; and many others.

Lady Golfers Win Awards At Watertown

Carrie Mahoney won the low gross in the third flight with Lib Gladney winning low net.

Some 77 lady golfers took part in the tourney with three Canadian golf clubs, Quinte, Napanee and Trenton being well represented.

The Quinte ladies were not lax in their praise of the Watertown hospitality.

In the Picton Golf Club's annual "Mr. and Mrs." tournament, Mac and Heather White of Quinte, won the Quinte Milk Products Trophy for the best low net score. Helen and Val Smith came home with the second low gross award.

Turkish Nurse Enjoying Life In Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — It probably was inevitable. Around the Ottawa General Hospital dark-haired Keriman Palister, a graduate nurse who came to Canada from Turkey six months ago, is nicknamed "Turkish Delight."

Keriman told a reporter she has noticed many differences between life in Turkey and in Canada, particularly in pay and status. "A stigma is still attached to the nursing profession, and therefore few girls enter it," she said of her native land.

For a 12-hour day as head nurse in a 950-bed hospital at Ankara, she said, she was paid the equivalent of $50 a month.

Among other impressions of Canada, she finds Canadian newspapers have so much material that she saves her reading for her day off. Kerala says she was accustomed to much smaller newspapers in Turkey.

Canadian men, she said, are handsome and charming. But her heart seems to be in Turkey. She is hoping to help Galip Alisan, a young chemical engineer, to get to Canada. He has to have a job waiting before he can emigrate.

"If I marry and have children, I would like to bring them up in Canada," she said.

Mmmm . . . good! Mrs. Gordon McCubbin of Warkworth, a judge in the food contests, is obviously enjoying her job as she tastes one of the winning entries in the jelly division.

The busy clerks at this table were: Mrs. William Davern, Mrs. Gladys McFaul, Mrs. Dorothy Post, and Mrs. Vi Marvin.

Mrs. Vi Marvin drew the ticket for the door prize, Mrs. Clinton Pickle being the lucky winner.

The members of Lakeside Chapter wish to thank all who helped make this event so successful.

Ladies' Section Display One Of Exquisite Needlecraft

Fine needlework, coupled with exquisite tatting, dainty crochet and artistic arrangement made of the "Ladies' Work" section in the Horticulture Building, a most attractive exhibition, consisting of nine displays: women's clothing; household linens; quilts; bedspreads; rugs and cushions; children's wear; men's and boys' wear, a miscellaneous section, and that of the new exhibitors.

In the women's clothing were seen heavily-knitted white sweaters with grey yokes and ornamental colorful design; aprons of many styles, some in prints, and others in organdy, fancy and dainty; cosy bed jackets; pleated skirts; sun dresses for mother and daughter; knitted gloves and fancy handkerchiefs with crochet and tatted edgings.

LOVELY LINENS

The household linens were a delight to the eyes and included embroidered luncheon cloths, some in cutwork style, others with lace edges; crochet table cloths of Pineapple and Queen Marie design, in white and ecru shades; tatted centrepieces filmy as a cobweb; sets for chesterfields and dressers; pillowslips by the dozen, all with either embroidery or lace edges or done in cut work. There were dainty guest towels, and a collection of articles made from sugar bags or factory cotton, a clothespin bag and aprons.

The rugs and cushions were both lovely and useful. These included rugs in oval shape, braided of pleasing shades; round and oblong in grey with floral borders and hooked with floral centres on grey backgrounds, one with green border and fringed ends. Others were shown in hooked geometrical large rugs in rectangle style with grey centres. One with colorful pansy design, and the other with a cluster of flowers, and black border which were most attractive.

PRETTY CUSHIONS

The cushions, especially the tufted type of colorful satin, red, green, gold, mauve and blue sections. There were others made from foam rubber with foam rubber roses, yellow and red.

PRETTY QUILTS

Among the quilts shown were many newcomers, as well as some of long acquaintance; each one a work of art in its own line. Exceptionally pretty quilts were the crochet rose-centres in white with fringe; and the green and white rose-centred on white blocks, bordered with flower blocks set on in angular fashion. A padded crib comforter in pale pink and blue was also pleasing. The old favorite rainbow star quilt was in evidence, a quilt which never loses its appeal.

The bedspreads were in white and ecru shades, crocheted and knitted, taking one back to grandmother's day with the high beds and heavy spreads.

CHILDREN'S WEAR

The children's wear showed play suits in cotton or linen; dresses and bloomers; baby clothes; sets in crochet in white, pink and blue; pyjamas and pretty smocked dresses; while the men's and boys' section displayed shirts for both work or play, pyjamas, socks, heavy and light weight and pullovers.

There were also samples of lovely tatting; of fillet crochet; needlepoint and many others.

The section allotted to the new exhibitors displayed a crib quilt, a hooked rug, a wool skirt, pleated; knitted sweater, doilies, and a pretty pink smocked girl's dress, to mention but a few, demonstrating what women of today are interested in save watching TV.

The over-all display was interesting and nicely arranged.

Open Letter!

TO MOTHERS OF
5 to HIGH SCHOOL AGE...

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and and give her a baby soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rain storm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks as pretty as she can will be as smart as she can — and happier — in school.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rose K. — I think I should contribute to my board.

Irma Z. — You shouldn't have to contribute until you get out of high school.

Rose K. — My friend and I are having a controversy about money. We are both 16 and have summer jobs at which we are making pretty good money.

I feel that as soon as you are old enough to make money you should start to contribute to your board at home. I have given my mother $10 a week throughout the summer. Mother said I didn't have to, but she accepted it when I said I wanted to give it.

Irma is spending all her money on clothes. I think that is selfish. She owes something to her parents for all they do for her.

Irma Z. — I don't think you should have to pay for your board until you at least get out of high school. Your parents are supposed to support you until then.

It might be different if your father is out of work. My parents don't need the money — and neither do Rose's. My mother said she wouldn't take the money from me, even if I tried to give it. I am saving her money by buying all my own clothes for the summer and for fall as well.

My mother agrees with me that it is selfish of Rose's mother to take her money when she can get by without it.

The Council: We think it is good for teenagers to make a contribution to their home and it is not at all selfish for parents to accept this money. It helps the youngster build up his sense of independence and makes him feel more vitally a part of his family.

It is true in our society today that 16 is young to start making such contributions when they are not particularly needed. It is also true that the young wage-earner can save his parents the expense of clothing and various extras. But the same youngster would have a much better feeling about himself and his family if a portion of that money went into the family budget.

Many parents make the mistake of being somewhat huffy about accepting money from working children. They may repeat trite phrases about their desire to avoid ever taking any money from a child. They may also think in simple, practical terms that the child has plenty of independent needs to look after. Taking care of his own needs can give a child satisfaction, but not quite as much satisfaction as making a real contribution to the household.

In many homes today a working youngster's contribution might seem hopelessly and pathetically small. He may have the feeling that this money would just go down the drain. In such a case, he might be encouraged to save up enough to buy something that will be seen and used throughout the year by all members of the family. This will get around the business of actually taking the cash from the child's hand — and this can be distasteful to some parents.

Mother's Helper

IT'S DIFFICULT for most children to part with toys, even though the toys have been outgrown or broken. But to avoid hopelessly cluttered rooms, it's wise for you to step in occasionally and remove such items—when their owner is absent. Put them in a carton and store it for a few weeks, in case you've mistakenly whisked away a vitally important object.

One Broiled Turkey Goes a Long Way

by Mary Moore

One recent weekend all of the supermarkets were selling turkeys weighing from five to fourteen pounds at 39c per pound, because we have a surplus in storage in Canada.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Meat Loaf with Mushroom Soup Sauce; Parsleyed Carrot Coins; Oven French Fries; Celery Hearts; Chilled Compote of Lombard Plums; Lady Fingers; Coffee.

I bought a seven-pounder for less than $3. to boil because we had a guest coming who is on a strict salt-free diet. Before I was finished with that bird it had served fifteen individual meals. At less than 20c per serving I thought it was an inexpensive luxury.

For the first meal for five of us I sliced it hot and those of us who could have salt sprinkled on their own. The second meal was a turkey salad for three. The third was a turkey pie for four and the fourth was thick turkey sandwiches for three. There is yet to come soup for my lunch tomorrow.

Those of you to whom salt-free diets are everyday headaches will have tried boiling all types of meat, fish and fowl, but to others the idea of boiling a turkey may seem a little bit sacrilegious. Actually it is not. It is a good practical meat, at current prices, to have on hand in the summer to slice from and to make dishes.

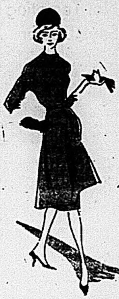
TURKEY PIE:

One of the tricks I learned from Gerrit Krielaart, chief cook • K.L.M's Schipol Airport, was to use rich boiled-down chicken or turkey broth with rich cream for the sauce or gravy to pour over the meat in deep fowl or game pie. Gerrit said to make it like a medium thick sauce: for 2 cups heat together 4 tablespoons each butter and flour and when blended stir in 1 cup each rich fowl broth and cream until thick. Season well with salt and white pepper, then pour hot over plenty of "flesh" in the baking dish. Top with rich pastry, well-gashed, and bake at high heat — 450 deg. F. — for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. F. to finish.

TURKEY SALAD DE LUXE:

To serve 6 blend together in bowl 4 cups diced turkey (or chicken) meat (no skin), 1-2 cup boiled salad dressing, 1 teaspoon each salt and sugar, 2 teaspoons each prepared mustard and very finely chopped mild onion, 1-4 cup chopped sweet pickle, 1 teaspoon vinegar. When well mixed cover and put in refrigerator to marinate and chill for 2 hours. When ready add 1-2 to 2-3 cup mayonnaise, 2 cups diced inner celery, 1-4 cup slivered, toasted almonds. Toss gently. Drop lightly into crisp lettuce cups and serve at once. A popular accompaniment and garnish are a spiced pear or a small mould of cranberry jelly.

Street Dress



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Brown tissue-weight woolen has been worked into this street dress marked by a sophisticated silhouette. The scalloped closing takes an off beat turn on the bodice and the skirt flares away from its lap-over, showing a straight skirt beneath. Jeweled buttons in matching tones add a sparkling note.

Women's Activities

SALEM W. A.

The August meeting of Salem W. A. was held in the church hall in the afternoon with a fair attendance.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Bert Heagle, welcomed everybody and read a verse.

Reports from the visiting committee and card convener were heard.

Mrs. M. Johnston and Mrs. Frank McGee were appointed on the visiting committee for September.

Mrs. Harold Holden expressed thanks for a box of cards she had received while ill. It was decided that the August meeting be withdrawn for next year.

A letter of appreciation was read from the Children's Aid Society and thanks from the W.A. for donations.

The program was presented by Mrs. B. Heagle and included Scripture reading, John 4: 7-14 given by Mrs. M. Roy; meditation notes by Mrs. H. Holden; prayer by Mrs. E. Broadworth; readings were given by Mrs. M. Johnston, Mrs. Twiddy; piano music by Linda Sine and Mrs. V. Hagerman were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Thomas Clements gave the topic, "Making Sure of Things."

Offering was $2.05.

Mrs. Wright expressed thanks to the hostess Mrs. A. Twiddy, and her assistants, and all who helped with the program.

Smart Season Spanner

By TRACY ADRIAN

The younger set should love this frock, a perfect choice for late summer and early fall.

The dress is made of a new no-iron wonder fabric in checks of either brown and black, blue and black, or green and black. It is classically styled with a demure white collar and self-fabric tabs on the bodice and full skirt.

English Cuisine Not Tempting Says Doctor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dr. Cyril Hamwee, an Englishman who has settled in Manitoba, says "English cookery lost its battle without ever fighting for it."

The Baldur, Man., physician was critical of English cuisine in comments he made recently to a joint meeting of the chambers of commerce of Boissevain, Man., and Dunseith, N.D.

"If you are ever tempted to go to England on a holiday," he told the members, "I had better describe to you the typical English luncheon."

"If you are given a salad, you will be perfectly justified in losing your temper, because the English have not yet learned that tomatoes and beets can't be kept for four days in a lettuce salad."

SODDEN CABBAGE

Dr. Hamwee said the English luncheon is a "cut from the joint with two vegetables."

"One of the vegetables is sodden cabbage, wretchedly boiled in water. It is malodorous in the cooking, disgusting to the eye, revolting to the palate, and a burden upon all the digestive activities of the human body."

The typical English luncheon is undoubtedly "the basis of something or other—whether it be of the British Empire or of British indigestion."

With minor alterations, breakfast and dinner are the same as luncheon, Dr. Hamwee said, except that they are eaten at different times.

English culinary defects are masked with bottled sauces "splattered indiscriminately in soup, on fish, over poultry, and even on salads," he added.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: THE "BREAD-AND-BUTTER" LETTER

Have you been visiting? If so, as soon as possible after your return . . . the very next day, if possible . . . you must write that important thank-you letter to your hostess, thanking her in general for her hospitality and then specifically for the happiness she and the members of the family gave you by their thoughtful plans for your entertainment and comfort. Remember that neither the verbal thanks you said when you were leaving, nor the gift you took — or are sending on your return — are substitutes for the gracious and enthusiastic note of thanks you should write. Happily you'll find that, if you write your "bread-and-butter" letter promptly it will be vastly easier to write than a postponed note . . it's easier to make the prompt note glow with spontaneous appreciation, since memories are clear and fresh in your mind.

SHOULD WEDDING GUEST TIP WAITER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to the wedding of the daughter of my husband's employer. After the ceremony there is to be a wedding breakfast which is to take place in a private suite of rooms in a large metropolitan hotel. We have been wondering if, at this breakfast, my husband should leave a tip on the table for each waiter. Should he? — Uncertain

No. All tips in connection with the wedding breakfast are taken care of by the bride's parents, who are the hosts of the wedding.

Mrs. Howard Green, Wife External Minister, Always Busy Whipping up Things

TAWA (CP)—The wife of da's new external affairs minister easily explains her culinary interests.

"Chemists like to mess around . . . I've never minded whipping up things," says Mrs. Howard Green, a biochemist whose scientific speciality is bacteriology.

Chances are that Mrs. Green will be busier than ever "whipping up things"—she anticipates more entertaining in this part of her new career.

FORMER LECTURER

She is used to adapting to new situations.

Three years ago she gave up her work as assistant director of British Columbia's public health laboratories and lecturing at the University of British Columbia to marry lawyer Howard Green, 63, veteran Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver Quadra, an opposition member.

an interview she said she misses her work, "in a way." But new interests have kept her busy. "I spent the first year learning about government."

When the Progressive Conservatives came to power in 1957, Mr. Green became public works minister and Mrs. Green stepped into her part as a cabinet minister's wife. Last June, Mr. Green became external affairs minister.

LIKES TO ENTERTAIN

A hazel-eyed, brown - haired woman with a lively sense of humor and a warm personality, Mrs. Green says they have always done quite a lot of entertaining. They live in a centretown Ottawa apartment and maintain a house in Vancouver.

She prefers small gatherings for teas and luncheons, and likes entertaining during the session when she can bring her Ottawa and Parliamentary friends from nt ridings together. She likes know the wives of her husband's department members.

Now that Mr. Green is external affairs minister, more travel may be added to the tempo of life, along with the social commitments.

Mrs. Green says that previously as a career woman with three weeks' annual holiday her own travelling was somewhat restricted. But she still managed to cover most of North America, and feels she knows it well.

Enthusiastic about a possible first trip to the United Nations at New York this fall, she says:

"I'm anxious to see and hear what people from other countries are thinking."

SCOTTISH DESCENT

Overseas, she would like to see Scotland—"but not really because of my ancestors."

The former Donna Enid Kerr, she was born to Scottish parents in Rossland, B.C., an interior community near her husband's home in Kaslo. She had known Mr. Green for years, and was a college classmate of his first wife, who died in 1953.

Her dentist father was active in Conservative politics, but he never ran for office. His daughter didn't have any political ambitions, either.

Not too sure just why she turned to science, Mrs. Green followed UBC studies with postgraduate work at the University of Toronto and has a master's degree.

Tall and trim, she is an ardent golfer and likes skiing.

This summer she has been wedging in as much golf as possible, "but not as much as I'd like."

It hasn't been as easy to fit in skiing.

"Last winter I took up curling as a substitute for skiing. I told my husband it's a good sport, one you can keep at until you're 80, so I think it will last me the rest of my life."

With her husband she shares a love of concerts and the theatre. When there is an idle hour, she helps out at the Ottawa Superfluity Shop, a second-hand shop run by volunteers for the Red Cross.

Trips back to Vancouver are part of her busy life. The trip is fast by plane, but there are drawbacks.

"You get home in time to do so much work in the same day," says Mrs. Green.

PREPARE FOR TRAVELS — External Affairs Minister and Mrs. Howard Green look over a map during a moment of relaxation in Mr. Green's office on Parliament Hill. Mrs. Green, whose travelling as a career woman had been restricted to her annual holidays, is looking forward to more trips now that her husband has moved from public works to foreign affairs. She is now enthusiastic about a possible first trip to the United Nations t New York this fall. (CP Photo).

BIG WELCOME

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters) — The people of Brisbane hauled office chairs and tables into the streets Tuesday and stood on them to welcome Princess Alexandra as she drove into the capital of Queensland. The princess flew from Canberra to attend the state's centenary celebrations.

Past Matrons' Club Holds Chicken Dinner

WELLINGTON — The Past Ma-t ons' Club of Lakeside Chapter 81 O.E.S. held its annual dinner party on Monday evening at Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

After the delicious chicken repast with all the trimmings, the members travelled to the home of Miss Norma Foster, the president.

The roll call was answered with a donation of a tea towel for the chapter's kitchen.

There were 3 contests enjoyed with Mrs. Gladys McFaul, the lucky winner of two, and Mrs. Ella Norton winner of the third.

The next meeting will be in October at the home of Mrs. William Davern. It will be the election of officers. The hostess served cookies and tea. All agreed it had been an enjoyable evening.

Lives of Greek Women Vary According to Their Location

ATHENS (CP) — Like Greece itself—a mixture of ancient and modern — the lives of Greek women vary enormously, depending on which part of the country they live in.

In Athens and other big cities such as Salonika, Greek women follow careers, are free to choose a marriage partner and often blend careers with running a home.

But in remote villages and on the numerous islands, life for many has not changed through history.

Their parents arrange their marriages and after they marry, their lives are one long drudgery. Such women have the double burden of being bread-winners and home-makers.

TOWNS DIFFERENT

"We who live in towns are fortunate," says Olga Koya, a 26-year-old secretary who speaks English, French and Turkish besides her native tongue, and now is studying German.

"You just have to learn other languages if you want a decent job in Athens because life is so competitive here." Olga earns $34 weekly. A typist who knows only Greek will make around $14.

A large part of Olga's salary goes towards the rental of the centrally heated flat she shares with her parents, which costs $68 monthly. She can afford to go to the hairdresser only once a month, and buys three pairs of shoes a year.

A relative makes all her clothes, including coats, "because you can't buy well-fitting clothes in the shops."

"Another reason I like to have things made," says Olga, "is that I can buy good-quality materials and then the clothes last longer."

Although she is planning to marry soon, Olga has a special "savings box" for a European vacation. "This is a dream many Greek girls have," she says.

LIVING COSTS HIGH

Mrs. Mania Oratis, 29, wife of a former tennis champion, finds life in Athens agreeable but expensive.

"You can buy everything here, even English tinned kippers, but prices are high," says Mrs. Oratis, mother of two small children. "One pair of baby shoes costs about $2.40."

The Oratis family lives in a modern, airy flat, furnished with English and French antiques, in the sedate Kolonaki area of Athens where most of the embassies are housed.

Although she has help with the housework, Mrs. Oratis does her own cooking and shopping and devotes her time to caring for her children.

A former secretary and daughter of a Greek engineering professor, Mrs. Oratis says when she took a job in 1950 "many people thought it rather a shame for a Greek girl to work."

"But my parents encouraged me."

SHARES WORK

Maria Argyropoulos is a 33-year - old architect who works with her husband, Thallis, from their contemporary-furnished flat in Athens.

"We haven't an organized life at all," says Maria. "People drop in to see us at all times of the day. We often eat out because it's cheaper and we never budget as we like to enjoy life."

Maria is not fond of sewing and hires a dressmaker for the day, a popular practice in Greece. The dressmaker comes for breakfast and works all day for a fixed fee plus meals.

Maria works with her husband because she feels there is some prejudice against professional women and they are frequently paid less than men for the same job.

"It isn't possible yet for a professional woman to have a successful firm of her own as most people prefer to go to a man."

FALL FAIRS COMING — As autumn approaches, Canadians from coast-to-coast are getting ready for the more than 410 annual fall fairs scheduled for this summer. They range in size from the monster Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto to smaller local fairs like this one at Woodbridge, Ont., where the crowd watches an open-air jumping exhibition. Nova Scotia, planning 12 fall fairs, had North America's first agricultural fair at Windsor in 1765. (CP Photo).

Summer Fades, Thousands Of Canadians Start to Prepare For Schedule of Fall Fairs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Summer lingers through the land but thousands of Canadians are preparing in barns and farmyards and exhibition buildings for the annual fall fairs.

More than 400 fall fairs are scheduled in Canada, wherever agriculture is carried on, across the country. They range from picturesque fairs maintaining local traditions to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, world's largest annual exhibition.

While prize livestock and grains retain a feature place, fairs and larger exhibitions nowadays play a part in showing citizens new industrial developments, and the new ways in which the country's mineral and manufacturing resources are being used.

All continue to provide prize money and other forms of encouragement to those who excel in raising livestock, pet stock and field products.

PIONEER EVENT

Nova Scotia had the first agricultural fair in North America, in 1765, at Windsor on the Minas Basin 50 miles north of Halifax. Nova Scotia residents will see 12 fall fairs this season, the largest being the Nova Scotia Provincial Exposition at Truro, Aug. 25-28.

For New Brunswick eight events have been arranged, the season opening with the Saint John exhibition Aug. 26-Sept. 5 Saint John had its first provincial industrial exhibition in 1851. Another large N.B. show is the Fredericton Exhibition Sept. 7-12, which features special grandstand performances and harness racing, as does the Saint John fair.

In Newfoundland the government - sponsored Newfoundland Agricultural and Homecraft Exhibition will be held in October.

For Prince Edward Island, the provincial exhibition at Charlottetown opened the schedule with its Aug. 10-15 run.

QUEBEC FAIRS

Most of the 68 exhibitions scheduled in Quebec province this year are held in August and September, with Sherbrooke planning a winter fair in October.

Oldest and largest of these is the nine-day Quebec Provincial Exhibition at Quebec City, Sept 4 to 13. Attendance is expected to be more than 500,000.

During the Quebec exhibition provincial government trophies—the Quebec agricultural merit awards and young farmers' award — will be presented to farmers who rate the best in annual contests sponsored by the Quebec agriculture department.

In Ontario the Niagara Agricultural Society, founded about 1792 apparently held the first fair in Upper Canada and by 1840 there were fairs at London, York, Guelph, Ottawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brantford, Hamilton and several other places.

The Toronto exhibition to be held Aug. 25 to Sept. 12, was first held in 1846 and was incorporated in 1878 as the Canadian National Exhibition.

WORLD'S LARGEST

Today it is the world's largest annual exhibition. Land, buildings and equipment, occupying 350 acres, are valued at $50,000,000.

Every year more than 19,000 commercial, industrial and government exhibitors buy up the exhibition's 2,250,000 square feet of display space. The average yearly attendance is about 3,000,000.

Ottawa's Central Canada Exhibition, Aug. 21-29, will go heavy on grandstand and midway events and commercial displays, and will also include livestock exhibits and competitions. The exhibition is expected to be attended by about 400,000.

The Ottawa Winter fair, this year Oct. 26 to 31, will stage a championship livestock show, entered by ribbon - winners from smaller fairs throughout eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. It will also present what is believed to be Canada's largest 4-H calf club show, with more than 500 youngsters taking part.

Elsewhere in Ontario there are about 160 fall fairs, some of the largest being the Lindsay Central Exhibition Sept. 23 to 26, the Norfolk County agricultural fair at Simcoe, Ont., Oct. 6 to 10; the Peterborough exhibition which ran from Aug. 12 to 15; the South Waterloo agricultural society fair at Galt, Sept. 24 to 26, and the big Western Fair at London, Ont., Sept. 14 to 19. The latter draws an annual attendance around 450,000.

WESTERN CELEBRATIONS

Manitoba has scheduled three principal fall fairs, Winkler opening with an agricultural society event on Sept. 3. Others are at Altona and Kelwood. The Calgary Stampede was first on the Alberta list of celebrations, opening last July 6, and the list of more than 28 fairs ends with the show at Vauxhall, in the Medicine Hat area, Sept. 9.

British Columbia boasts 30 exhibitions this season, with more dates to be set. Among the largest, the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver runs from Aug. 22 to Sept. 7. This 15-day Vancouver exhibition was first held in 1910, and has been known as the PNE since 1946.

Eight fairs are being held on Vancouver Island, another seven in the Fraser Valley, eight in the Okanagan area, four in the Kootenays and nine in northern B.C. and the Peace River region.

Crown Advises Three Youths To Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Roberts said Monday the Crown will appeal a $500 fine to a merchant on a false pretences charge and will advise three youths convicted of breaking and entering the man's store to appeal their convictions.

Bernard Schreiber, 26, of suburban North York, pleaded guilty and was fined Monday by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake in Newmarket court. The charge concerned a $989 insurance claim.

Ronald Stork, 16, Gary Gibson, 19, and Reginald Hicks, 17, were sentenced for breaking, entering and theft by the magistrate in July but Magistrate Hollinrake ordered further investigation of the case.

Attorney-General Roberts said Monday:

"The ends of justice have not properly been met in my opinion. We are going to appeal the sentence and I have instructed the warden of Guelph reformatory to advise the three youths to appeal and apply for bail."

"The evidence indicates the store owner was clearly in the picture," Mr. Roberts said. "If this is so, these youths were not guilty of breaking and entering. It is not a crime to break and enter with consent."

When passing sentence Monday Magistrate Hollinrake said he felt there was "insufficient evidence to prove Schreiber had been involved in the actual theft" and there remained a doubt in his mind about him trying to defraud the insurance company.

STONE-CUT PRINTS — An Eskimo artist at Cape Dorset, N.W.T., prepares a stone-cut print, one of many which will be distributed by the department of northern affairs for sale in public and private galleries and museums across Canada this fall. Both stone-cut and sealskin prints, are expected to become popular with the public. To create the stone-cut print the Eskimo etches the design from a block of soapstone and stencils for the sealskin prints are cut from sealskin. Commercial pigments and seal oil are mixed for coloring. (CP Photo).

Eskimo Sealskin, Stone-Cut Prints Go on Sale This Fall

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Eskimo sealskin and stone-cut prints may become rivals for the already popular Eskimo carvings in soapstone or ivory. . .

The prints go on sale this fall for the first time, in public and private galleries and museums across Canada.

Created by Eskimo artists at Cape Dorset, N.W.T., the picturesque prints, or designs, carry the official "Eskimo Art" tag of the federal northern affairs department.

GIFT TO QUEEN

Some of the Dorset prints form part of the department's Eskimo art exhibit at this season's festival in Stratford, Ont. One — a sealskin print of geese in flight— has gone to Buckingham Palace, a gift to the Queen in connection with her recent Canadian tour.

Judging by inquiries from visitors to the Eskimo exhibit, department officials say they believe print sales will go well.

Only about 30 prints are made from each design, and about 40 designs are expected to be ready for sale this fall.

Dorset, a comparatively isolated community on Foxe Peninsula along Baffin Island's southwest coast, 1,300 miles north of Ottawa, is the only place now creating the prints. About 20 people live in the settlement and some 300 Eskimos live in the general area.

The community is becoming a major Arctic arts and crafts centre, sparked by the interest and leadership of James Houston, Dorset's northern service officer.

JAPANESE TECHNIQUE

Mr. Houston, an artist himself, earlier this year visited Japan to study that country's centuries-old print-making techniques.

Eskimo artists may incorporate some of the techniques, but the finished print—in color, design and art materials—is their own.

For sealskin prints, for instance, stencils are cut from sealskin. Commercial pigments and seal oil are mixed for colors. Polar bear or sealskin hairs serve for brushes.

When an Eskimo artist goes to work on a stone-cut, he etches his design out of a block of soapstone—or steatite—which can be pried out of the snow near Dorset.

Eskimos also carve the soft stone. Dorset's craftsmen in addition produce such articles as duffle parkas, slippers and Eskimo dolls.

Laos Armistice Control Board May Be Revived

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility is seen here that Laos' recourse to the United Nations in—its troubles with Communist-backed rebels could lead to reactivation of the Laos armistice control commission.

Canada has been opposed to reconvening the commission, which adjourned indefinitely about a year ago, on grounds Laos does not want it. Other members of the commission are India, the chairman, and Communist Poland, both of which want the armistice body reconvened.

A government spokesman said Laos' dispatch of an emissary to New York to ask the United Nations to send an observer to the small Indochina state changes the situation.

It was considered possible Laos could call for reactivation of the commission.

It would be difficult in such circumstances, said the spokesman, for Canada to further resist reconvening of the control body, which it took the lead in having withdrawn last year.

On the other hand Laos' move to the United Nations could be interpreted as re-emphasizing its determination not to have anything to do with the control body, which it has often accused of meddling in Laotian domestic affairs.

The Indochina kingdom's request for dispatch of a UN observer was supported by Britain, which sought Soviet backing for the move. Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference which ended the Indochina war between France and the Communist Vietminh.0

Lamprey Eel On Way Out in Lake Superior

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The lamprey eel, scourge of the lake trout, may be on the way out in Lake, Superior.

The Great Lakes Fishery Commission was told Monday there has been a decisive decrease in the lake's lamprey population.

Commissioner Donald McKernan of the United States fish and wildlife service predicted a more startling decrease next year.

At the end of July the tape of lampreys from 26 streams at the eastern end of the lake had dropped by 14 per cent from the 1958 figure, according to a report from the bureau of commercial fisheries of the U.S. fish and wild life service.

"The most striking change occurred in six streams which were treated with larvicide last year," the report noted. Total catch of lampreys in these dropped to 10,452 from 28,822 for corresponding periods, or 57.9 per cent.

The lamprey eel kills its victim by affixing itself to the side of a fish and sucking the blood and juices from its body.

The fishery commission was told thunderstorms in this area have caused trouble in the application of larvicide.

Tre storms cause water levels in small streams to fluctuate violently and "only a combination of good luck and good management has kept several treatments from going down the drain," said a report from the fishery research board of Canada.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1959

MR. GREEN THUMBS OF THE NORTH — Up in the land of permafrost and a short summer's growing season, Arthur Oliver has earned the name Mr. Green Thumbs because of his garden. Every year his garden produces thousands of pounds of vegetables for the people of Yellowknife. Here he is shown with his power cultivator. (CP Photo).

'Mr. Green Thumbs' Fights Permafrost, Short Summer In Garden North of Edmonton

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) Arthur Oliver is known as "Mr. Green Thumbs" to citizens of this mining centre in the north shore of Great Slave Lake.

Undaunted by the permafrost and the short summer in this area 600 miles north of Edmonton, he grows thousands of pounds of vegetables—potatoes, turnips, celery, carrots, beets, lettuce, onions, cucumbers and tomatoes.

He also grows bushels of flowers to add color to the houses in Yellowknife.

"The land is so poor it is practically held up by fertilizer," Mr. Oliver says of his 10 acres of cultivated land. ',Ten acres may not sound like much, but in this country where arable land is at a premium you take it where you find it." In the growing season he uses about 900 pounds of fertilizer per acre.

EARLY START

The season's work begins in March when 45,000 bedding plants are started in the greenhouse. After they are well started, they are transferred to hotbeds until the first week in June, when they go to outdoor gardens.

In early June, Great Slave Lake is still frozen over and a chill reminder of the long winter comes with each off-ice wind.

Radishes and onions are ready by mid-July; turnips, carrots, cabbages, tomatoes, beets and cauliflower by Aug. 1; celery by mid-August, and potatoes by the end of August.

The 15-hour day Mr. Oliver puts in during growing seasons is rewarded by beautiful vegetables.

"The head lettuce we grow here are twice the size of those in California and average about two pounds each.

"Turnips average about four pounds each and are pure and sound as a dollar."

SUMMER FROST

"In a good year potatoes can run 300 bags to the acre, but a bad summer frost can cut the yield to half.

"Cabbages are picked when they are about five pounds, but I've had some that weighed 15 pounds.

"Some years, the tomatoes are so thick they look like clusters of giant-sized grapes."

The size of the vegetables is partly attributable to the long summer days in the north.

Mr. Oliver came north in 1950 from Windsor, Ont., with his wife and four children.

"I wasn't getting anywhere there," he says. "I heard the north was a place where any man could succeed if he had gumption and the will to work."

He worked in nearby gold mines for six years, then turned to his first love—gardening.

"I don't know what we have, but we're still here after nine years and enjoying every bit of it."

Candidates Add Personal Touch In Campaigning

By IAN MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland's record number of election candidates continued house-to-house campaigning today for Thursday's provincial election.

Radio and television programs returned to normal at midnight after being crammed for the last three weeks by political speeches. Broadcasting laws prohibit political broadcasts 48 hours before voting begins.

The hectic task of campaigning is over as far as Liberal Premier Smallwood is concerned.

"I'm through," said the fiery fighter, who freely forecasts all 33 Liberal candidates will be elected. "The election is over."

PC STILL WORKING

But his opponent in St. John's West, Conservative Leader Malcolm Hollet, continued his personal door-to-door visits. He leads a slate of 32 Conservative candidates who support the federal government's decision to discontinue Newfoundland's special Term 29 grants after five years, in 1962.

The premier called the election when Mr. Hollett and Rex Renouf, the only PCs in the 36-seat House, refused to support his resolution which said the grants should be perpetual.

The United Newfoundland party, born when James Higgins and A. M. Duffy split with the PC party over the issue, [illegible] it does not agree with Lib[illegible] policies in general, but its nine candidates are backing Mr. Smallwood's Term 29 stand.

So are the 19 Newfoundland Democratic party candidates, who entered the battle little more than two weeks ago in an attempt to repeal what they term "anti-labor" laws passed unanimously by the legislature last March.

1955 VOTERS' LIST

In all, 95 candidates will be seeking the support of an unknown number of eligible voters. The last voters' lists were drawn up in 1955 when 190,000 people were listed.

Speculation here is that as many as 10,000 people are eligible but unregistered.

There were 31 Liberals, two PCs and two United Newfoundland party members at dissolution. One seat was vacant.

ADMITS REVENGE BINGE

BUFFALO (AP) — A 16-year-old boy has admitted, police report, that he did more than $14,500 worth of damage to Pennsylvania Railroad freight cars. Police said Frank Bartosiewicz of Buffalo sought revenge because a railroad policeman once had ordered him out of the Pennsylvania's freight yard here. The boy was charged with third-degree burglary and second-degree arson.

Deadline Set For Submissions To Governors

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors has announced a deadline of Oct. 16 for interested groups and individuals who want to make submissions on proposed regulations for television broadcasting.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, board chairman, announced the deadline Tuesday with a reminder that the board has set public hearings Nov. 2-3 to hear oral representations in support of written briefs.

Dr. Stewart, in an interview, invited written submissions on the principles of the proposed TV regulations, which include a minimum of 55 per cent Canadian content in any weekly TV program schedule.

PRESSED FOR TIME

He said the board will accept written representations from interested groups and individuals, although, due to the limitations imposed by time at the November hearings, only spokesmen for the former likely would be heard.

The board announced July 28 the broad principles on which it plans to rely in setting the new TV regulations. It said then the regulations would be announced by Nov. 15 and that they would come into effect about mid-1960 when second TV stations are expected to start operating in the major Canadian cities.

The board expects written representations from the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, prospective applicants for TV stations, and such groups as the Canadian Federation of Agriculture the Canadian Labor Congress, the Canadian Broadcasting League and various educational groups.

TWO PRESCRIBED HOURS

The board proposes that up to two hours of broadcasting time each day during the peak viewing period, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., be reserved for purposes prescribed by the board.

Programming during these two hours must be at least 55 per cent Canadian. For purposes of the minimum of Canadian content, programs from Commonwealth countries or from French-language countries will be counted as 50 per cent Canadian content.

No private or CBC TV station would have any direct program connection with U.S. networks without permission from the board.

For the first year of operation, TV broadcasting would be prohibited before noon, except for religious programs, children's programs on Saturday, school broadcasts, special events approved beforehand by the board and programs of straight advertisement approved by the board.

Permission would be required for every U.S. program shown on private or CBC television stations.

Severely Burned In Explosion

COOKSVILLE (CP) — Arthur Johanson, 52, was severely injured Tuesday in an explosion at the T. W. Hand fireworks plant in this Toronto-area town.

He was in fair condition in hospital with burns to his legs, arms, chest and face and severe shock.

Company officials said Johanson was filling star shells in a small shed when the blast occurred. A fire was quickly extinguished.

Diversified Fishing Holds Key to Future in Cape Breton

CHETICAMP, N.S. (CP) — Fishermen in this Cape Breton community hope to haul a $1,000,000 payload from the Atlantic next year.

Ten years ago the fishing fleet's profit stood at $200,000. Then came new ideas, boats and diversification. Earnings are expected to reach $850,000 this year.

New methods are clicking and the fishermen hope to have a million-dollar industry within a year.

FUTURE GOOD

Capt. Henry Aucoin of the vessel St. Theresa, a $30,000 boat built under special provincial loans, says "it's diversified fishing that holds the key to our future . . .and our future sure looks good."

The Cheticamp fleet, made up mostly of longliner-type vessels built mostly since the Second World War, roams the rich waters between the western Cape Breton shore and the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Longliners, considered the most versatile fishing boat ever developed on the east coast, and new fishing methods have combined to boost catches and earnings.

The major step was use of a net method developed by Denmark called the Danish seine. Fishermen lay a circle of net two miles in diameter and haul on ropes until it closes into a small scoop. The fish are trapped in the centre.

Cheticamp fishermen were the first Canadians to use the method. Others are switching to it.

LOW COSTS

"It's a great way to fish," says Capt. Aucoin. Among the overhead items it eliminates is costly bait.

Maintenance cost for the gear is comparatively low, "and we can catch fish where the trawlers can't," Capt. Aucoin said. Trawlers drag steel mesh equipment behind them.

Major catches are flounders and sole. But fishermen hope to use the method in the valuable cod and haddock industry.

The vessels here have been averaging $650-$700 a trip.

Banks Caught In Squeeze, So Ration Loans

MONTREAL (CP)—Bank loans are being rationed across Canada. That's the basic result of a tight money situation.

Canada's chartered banks are caught in a squeeze. They claim it's not of their own making.

Normally they have so much money to lend and so many people wanting to borrow it.

At the moment, more people want loans than the chartered banks can reasonably satisfy. So they have to decide who gets how much. They have to ration the money available for loans. How they ration it is up to the individual banks — and in the last analysis, it's up to the individual bank managers.

NO SET RULE

Banking officials say there is no hard and fast rule as to who gets a loan and who doesn't.

"We have to make the best judgment we can in a very difficult situation," said one top banker.

He said banks would try to satisfy "legitimate" loan requests. In this sense, there is no real definition for a legitimate loan.

The present tight money situation means there is a limit on the supply of money. This policy originates with the Bank of Canada. It reflects what the federal government views as the national interest.

RECORD BANK RATE

It is measured in the bank rate—the cost of borrowing money from the Bank of Canada. That rate has now reached 6.41 per cent — the highest it has ever been.

Chartered banks are limited to six per cent on the interest they charge on loans. They can charge less but not more. High demand for loans has pushed the interest rate to its maximum.

Normally, the interest rate—the price at which money is borrowed—discourages many borrowers when it rises.

But now—with the interest rate at the six-per-cent limit — banks still are flooded with requests for loans.

The interest rate no longer acts as a built-in rationing device.

To meet the rising demand for loans, banks can sell some of their government bonds as they have been doing. But the growing sales have pushed down the price of bonds—and the banks are finding it unprofitable to sell them any more. They are also dipping into their reserves, and there is a limit on that, too.

Woman Drops Head-First Over Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) A woman crawled to the brink of Niagara Falls Tuesday night and dropped over head-first. Nearly 200 honeymooners and tourists watched in horror.

Minutes later, a policeman lowered himself from Prospect Point with ropes. He said her body, lying motionless and face-down, was on a ledge about 30 feet below the brink.

The pounding waters washed her to the bottom of the 167-foot American Falls, however, before rescuers with special equipment could reach her.

She was identified from papers in a purse left on Prospect Point as Mrs. Helen Gorski, 49, of Buffalo. Police said she had been in ill health.

Some of the tourists told police that just as the last of a battery of floodlights was going off at 11:15 p.m., they saw the woman crawling on her hands and knees toward the brink.

They said she looked back over her shoulder at them once and then went head-first over the edge.

Police said it apparently was a well-planned suicide.

"She knew what she was doing," one said. "It was a one-way ticket."

The body was not recovered.

IMPATIENT SUZANNE — Mrs. Hugh Ector, 27, of Argenta. B.C., smiles happily as she rests in a hospital bed holding daughter Suzanne, born 10 days ahead of time aboard an airliner 9,000 feet over Missouri. Suzanne was born August 16 in the stewardess' compartment at the rear of the plane, with the stewardess and two male passengers as midwives. Mother and daughter are doing fine. (CP from AP).

HANGING ON ROPES FOR LIFE —Fingers clutching rope to keep his chin and nose out of suffocating wet sand, Ralph Longo, 50, laborer at a sand hopper in Long Island City, awaits rescue by shovel and bucket brigade during 90-minute entrapment. Wet sand and cement started sliding down on him when he went 15 feet down into hopper to dislodge some big stones that had toppled in to it. Life and death struggle during which he was completely buried at times was won by the rescuers. Despite his plea to return to work immediately he was sent home after treatment at a hospital. States African Congress Behind Natal Rioting

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters)—The deputy head of the South African police force said here Tuesday night that race disturbances in Natal province, in which two natives have been killed by police, were inspired by the African National Congress.

Brig. C. J. Els, assistant police commissioner, said some of the leaders o fthe disturbances, and "at times all the leaders," were dressed in congress colors or wore congress armbands. The congress is the main African political organization in South Africa.

Fires still were burning on five white farms this morning as police searched for arsonists. More than 300 African women have been arrested in the last two days, most of them charged with trespassing and obstruction.

PROTEST TAXES

African Negroes started riots Friday in widely separated parts of Natal, in protest over higher taxes and restricted entry into towns and cities.

Africans say the laws are aimed at forcing them to work for white farmers at lower wages than they could earn in the cities.

Women have been in the forefront of the demonstrations. About 100 women attacked African sugar cane workers in the Umtwalumi area, demanding they should strike for higher pay. All work in the fields stopped.

Arrested women have been sentenced to either fines or jail sentences up to four months. No fines have been paid so far.

WHITES ORGANIZE

White farmers and residents, meeting Tuesday in country areas, pledged their support to police in preserving law and order.

Douglas Mitchell, leader of the opposition United party in Natal said police were "numerically inadequate to cope with the demands made on them."

The government would be held responsible if civilians were forced to use guns to defend their property, he said.

Police Repel Food Rioters

BOMBAY (AP) — Police used tear gas to repel 4,000 food rioters Tuesday at Cuddapah in south India.

Officials said the rioters were led by Communists and there was speculation they were retaliating for the anti-Communist campaign that brought the dismissal of the Red government of Kerala state by Prime Minister Nehru's government.

Cuddapah is on the opposite side of the Indian peninsula from Kerala, a few hundred miles to the northeast.

The mob shouted demands for lower grain prices. Business throughout the town was shut down in support. Police later banned meetings of more than five persons.

Conference Fails to Ease Bitter Hatreds of Caribbean

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Santiago conference of foreign ministers had enunciated great principles but it failed to ease even slightly the blood hatreds of the Caribbean, espeecially between Cuba and the Dominican Republic.

With Caribbean events in flux, to say the least, there were apparent impossibilities in this meeting of the organization of American states, which includes 21 self-governing nations of the western hemisphere, Canada being a notable exception.

The central cause o fCaribbean troubles, diplomats say, is the collision between the dictatorship of Rafael Trujillo in the Dominican Republic and the revolution of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Military sideshows—minor "invasions"—occurred in Cuba and Haiti even as the foreign ministers worked. Their emergency meeting had been called after similar forays in several countries including Panama, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic.

LEGAL TRICK

The conference once more condemned intervention of one state in the affairs of another—thereby stirring the hostility of Cuba and Venezuela who believe this is merely a legal trick for the protection of dictators.

The conference also condemned dictatorships but decreed in effect that such regimes could be toppled only by their own peoples. The Dominican Republic, along with Paraguay and Nicaragua, the two other states described as dictatorships, found it possible to vote for tris resolution which was embodied in the "Declaration of Santiago."

The declaration lists democratic principles so that people can be guided in assessing their governments. But it is questionable whether such a list will be useful, for instance, in the Dominican Republic where all media is controlled.

Regarding non-intervention, the ministers empowered an existing committee to study "methods and procedures to prevent activities originating abroad designed to overthrow constituted governments," dictatorships or not.

TROOPS TRAINING

Castro professes to have no plans for a Cuban invasion of the Dominican Republic, but it is known that irregular forces in Cuba have such an aim. It is also reported that troops [illegible] in the Dominican Republic w[illegible] the hope of invading Cuba.

Observers are baffled as to how non-intervention can be enforced under these circumstances without some sort of a watchdog force or patrol, which presumably would be drawn chiefly from the United States and might itself be open to the charge of intervention.

The U.S., although now an ardent supporter of non-intervention, has traditionally taken a different view and is still accused from time to time of meddling in the domestic affairs of its latin neighbors.

It was as late as 1941 that the U.S. gave up the last of its treaty rights in Latin America—in the Dominican Republic—and before that it often took direct action south of the border, in Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua and Panama.

Diplomats, while confident that the Santiago conference is bound to have a colling effect on Latin passions, fear that unrest in the Caribbean is inevitable while present conditions continue.

Brockville Gets 2,380 Acres By Annexation

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brockville almost doubled in size Tuesday by order of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The town was granted annexation of 2,380 acres of Elizabethtown Township, less than half the requested 5,350 acres town council had sought.

By township figures the addition of 2,380 acres of land to Brockville will mean about $500,000 in new assessment and possibly 1,000 more in population. It would put the town's population over 17,000.

Brockville is quite capable of serving the entire area asked for, the OMB said, but the board was reluctant to grant full annexation because of the heavy financial outlays which would be involved in servicing rocky areas.

URANIUM DISCOVERY

KIRKCUDBRIGHT, Scotland (Reuters)—A geologist of the atomic energy division of the geological survey confirmed Monday night that uranium has been discovered on the Scottish coast of the Solway Firth. "We have found sufficient indication of uranium to warrant further search," he said.

60 Candidates Entered in P.E.I. Election

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — A full field of 60 candidates will contest the September 1 Prince Edward Island general election.

When nominations closed on Tuesday, the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives had entered two ccandidates in each of the 15 voting districts. Voters select a councillor and assemblyman for each district, a total of 30 legislature seats.

No other political parties are taking part in the election called August 3 by Liberal Premier Alex Matheson who will run in Kings Fourth district. The Liberals will be gunning for their sixth straight term of office since taking over from the Conservatives in 1935.

At no time since the Liberal sweep in 1935 have the PCs had more than 10 seats.

In the last election, the Liberals elected 27 members and the PCs three. The Conservatives lated picked up a Liberal seat left vacant by the death of a member.

The PCs, headed by Walter R. Shaw, are banking on the Conservative sweep of the four federal seats in the last dominion election.

Retired Civil Servant Will Return to College at 81

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A retired Ottawa civil servant has returned to university to prove a person is never too old to learn—even at 81.

D. C. Maddox, druggist-turned-mining - engineer, is taking an arts course in philosophy and psychology at Queen's University here to fulfil a pledge he made when he attended the university in the early 1920s as a geology student.

Mr. Maddox, who retired in 1946 from the borings section of the geological survey department in Ottawa, came to Canada from England in 1907. He worked as a druggist in Toronto and at Winnipeg and other Manitoba centres, including Melita, Beausejour, Transcona, Portage la Prairie and Neepawa.

LIKED PROSPECTING

During his Winnipeg stay he became interested in metal prospecting and took lectures in geology and mineralogy from Dr. R. C. Wallace, then head of that department at the University of Manitoba.

In the First World War he joined the Canadian Army and went overseas with the 10th Field Ambulance Depot. When the war ended, he entered Khaki University, Ripon, Yorkshire, England, and took a first-year course in applied science.

He returned to Canada in 1919, entered Queen's as a geology student, and worked two summers at the Creighton mine near Sudbury, on a geological party with Dr. T. L. Tanton in the Schreiber-Silver Islet area, and in the Moncton, N.B., area.

WENT TO OTTAWA

Graduating in 1922 in science, he was invited to join the borings section of the geological survey department in Ottawa. The same year he married Blanche Nichol of Glanworth, Ont., a cousin of a classmate. He has a daughter and a 33-year-old son. His wife died some years ago.

It was at Queen's he made the vow to return to take philosophy as part of an arts course. While arguing with an arts student, he made the remark that "this philosophy looks to me like a lot of useless junk." The student argued the values of philosophy and Mr. Maddox said he would return to study it.

But even today "my opinion hasn't altered very much," he said.

"The ethics portion is rather interesting because it deals with human situations, but the logic is difficult and confusing although it does teach you to argue."

Mine Workers Union Fined Large Amount

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The United Mine Workers Union was freed Monday of a criminal contempt charge but its District 30 was fined $5,000 after it pleaded no contention.

Seven union members pleaded guilty to contempt and received sentences ranging from $1,000 and six months' imprisonment to 60 days and no fine.

The charges arose from alleged dynamitings, fires and other interference with Louisville and Nashville Railroad operations in the eastern Kentucky coal strike area.

The UMW is striking in seven counties for a clause prohibiting handling of non-union coal and a $2-a-day pay raise to $24.25.

Meanwhile, four more suits seeking $3,291,000 damages against the UMW were filed Monday in federal court by non-union companies.

The suits contend the UMW threatened and intimidated employees and trespassed on their property during the eastern Kentucky strike.

A number of similar suits seeking additional millions of dollars have been filed since the strike began.

BACK TO SCHOOL AT 81 — D. C. Maddox, is taking an arts course at 81, keeping a promise he made in the 1920's to study philosophy some day. Mr. Maddox, a retired Ottawa civil servant, is taking courses in philosophy and psychology at Queen's University where he studied geology after the First World War. He made the vow then after arguing the value of the course with an arts student. (CP Photo).

Shortage of Blood in Banks Across Canada Being Eased

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Repeated appeals for donors have slightly eased the shortage of blood in banks across the nation, but the seasonal slump continues.

A Canadian Press survey shows most blood banks in short supply—especially of rarer-type blood—but in at least two areas where the shortage reached the critical point service personnel helped out.

Officials remained confident their main worries will end with the peak holiday period.

RCAF stations in Manitoba came to the rescue of Red Cross officials there when the blood stocks in Winnipeg dropped to 11 pints—50 is considered critical. Service personnel contributed 617 pints and officials hope to answer all demands until completion of a swing through northwestern Ontario this week by a mobile unit expected to obtain 1,000 bottles.

NAVY HELPS, TOO

Supplies at Halifax were low this week until the navy came forward. A clinic aboard HMCS Stadacona Monday was expected to produce 800 pints and another aboard HMCS Algonquin should yield 200 bottles.

"After that we'll be fine," said a Red Cross spokesman.

In Toronto the Red Cross reported a shortage of types B negative and AB negative but there was no great urgency. Several clinics were expected to help out within the next few days.

No other Ontario cities appeared in immediate trouble.

MONTREAL SHORT

Montreal was in trouble, with blood bank stocks almost depleted and citizens ignoring general appeals. Emergencies were being met at the last minute but little improvement was expected until after Labor Day.

Only Ottawa reported conditions near satisfactory. There was no emergency, supplies were constant and mobile clinics were operating smoothly throughout the city.

Falls Under Tractor

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Steven James McIntyre, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntyre, was killed Monday afternoon when he fell beneath the wheels of a tractor near his home at Greenbush, 15 miles north of here.

The boy was riding with two other lads on a tractor driven by 15-year-old Ralph Irish when he lost his balance.

SAY NO PARTY ELECTION

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Free Press says the Manitoba CCF Party may decide against electing a new provincial leader this fall, as had been expected. The CCF has been without a leader since Lloyd Stinson suffered a personal defeat in the spring elections. Russ Pauley was chosen house leader and a leadership convention had been expected this fall.

Third Major Baseball Loop Starts Organization Work

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of the Continental League vowed today to move full steam ahead to organize their embryo circuit with eight teams and acquire the necessary players to operate as a major league by 1961.

Encouraged by support from baseball's top brass at Tuesday's day - long meeting, Continental League President Branch Rickey and organizer William A. Shea said they will go to work adding three cities to their current five-team circuit "right away." Then they will huddle with American and National League presidents Joe Cronin and Warren Giles to workout a system for acquiring players.

Acceptance is subject to the newly-formed league complying with requirements, including minimum stadium capacity, financial setup requirements, population of franchise cities, and a pension plan for the players.

SUPPORT PROMISED

Commissioner Ford Frick and his major league committee promised baseball's full support provided the new league met requirements.

Rickey, named president of what may become baseball's third major league, termed the results of the meeting with his former associates as "splendid."

Rickey did not say how or by what means his league would acquire players. It is believed, however, that the new league would be permitted first draw in the annual minor league draft. Players from the National and American League would be available through purchase. Then there's the open competition for free agents through bonuses.

"The majors made it clear they are not going to give them any of their players," Frick said meaningly.

Don Grosso Named Coach Soo Greyhounds

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Don Grosso has been appointed coach of the new Sault Ste. Marie team in the professional Eastern Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday.

The announcement by Sault Hockey Promotions, Ltd., also said the new club's team name will be the Thunderbirds. The name was chosen from several submissions to a name-the-team contest.

Grosso coached Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Ontario Hockey Association-NOHA senior A series last season, piloting them to a third-place finish.

Chicago Black Hawks, the new club's parent team in the National League, chose Grosso as coach and the decision was backed by the team's executive.

Lacrosse

BRAMPTON (CP) — Welland-Crowland Switsons defeated Brampton Excelsiors 10-5 Tuesday night to deadlock their Ontario Lacrosse Association senior semi-final at one game each.

Third game of the best-of-seven set will be played in Welland Thursday.

Ron Roy led Welland scorers with three goals. Garry Carr and Jim McMahon had two each and singles were scored by Frank Benedict, Dave Hall and Mike Damico.

Gord Thompson rapped in two for Brantford. John Ford, Clark Pulford and Fraser Rock got the others.

Kingston Mare Wins Fast Class In Two Straight

The racing was formful, the crowd was large and they enjoyed the race program sponsored by the Fair Board under the chairmanship of James Barber. The fans saw a glibe trotter in Lucky Glee, owned by Charlie Heath of Marmora, who although outdistanced in the first heat of the 2.30 class, came back to establish his authority over the field.

The horse was not responsible for the "break" made in the first heat. He was simply forced off stride, when he got into close quarters going up the backstretch on the second lap. The owner could not get him "squared" in time and he finished last behind John De Kyper, the heat winner. All this was changed in the second heat. The horse was taken away slowly from the gate, settled into his stride and then gave the fans the reason why harness racing is popular. The horse was like a well-oiled machine as he came from far back and coming through the "lane" was poetry of motion.

In the 2.25 class Archie McDonald of Kingston, uncovered a smart "cookie" in Linda McDuff. This mare simply toyed with her opposition, winning both heats in even time. Interspersed with the racing was a splendid program on the platform, along with judging of Hackneys, ponies and roadsters. It can be safely said that outside of the Royal Winter Fair no finer classes of horseflesh can be seen anywhere in this province.

During the past few years the popularity of the pony has increased and now nearly every boy or girl has a pony to care for, ride and show at the fairs. The children with the help of parents go to great lengths to make their favorite animal look good to the judges.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Wonder Where, Canada's champion three-year-old filly, will step out of her class to run against the four-year-old Yummy Mummy and seven other fillies and mares in the $7,500 Duchess Stakes at the Fort Erie Jockey Club today.

Wonder Where, owned by Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe of Toronto, has seven wins and two seconds in nine starts this season.

Yummy Mummy is rated "the horse to beat" in the 1 1-16-mile test after returning from a year's absence to score a handy victory over a good field.

Coast Golfers Chief Threat To Ontario 4-Time Winners

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia golfers today loom as the chief threat to snap the string of four consecutive Ontario winners in the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Heading the list is the easy-swinging, easy-going Bob Kidd, 31-year-old veteran international competitor, who carded two successive rounds of 69 over the Marine Drive course to grab medalist honors in the 36-hole, two-day qualifying round.

Kidd, who has twice reached the semi-finals of the Amateur, was the only one among the 146 starters who managed to crack par both days, carding a four-under 69-69—138 total.

Other B.C. golfers who fared well were John Johnston, 143; Joe Jeroski, 144; Ron Willey, 146 and Bert Ticehurst, 147.

ONTARIO SCORES

A trio of youngsters appears to be Ontario's best bet. Bobby Panasiuk, 17-year-old Windsor sensation, and diminutive Phil Brownlee of Toronto Scarboro each toured the par 36-35—71 layout in 71-73—144.

The third is Gary Cowan, of Kitchener who had a 73-76—149 qualifying score.

Defending champion Bruce Castator of Toronto was well off his game in posting rounds of 78-76—154. So was Nick Weslock of Windsor who had a 76-75—151 score.

Manitoba, British Columbia and Ontario each saw its entire Willingdon Cup team advance. In all, 22 of the 32 Willingdon Cuppers who started remained in the battle today.

Two rounds of match play will be held today and another two Thursday. The 36-hole semi-finals will be played Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Kitchener's Bill MacNaughton failed to qualify with an 82-81—163.

WATER SUPPLY SAFE

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's water supply still is safe although lakefront pollution has increased, A. B. Patterson, deputy commissioner in charge of waterworks, said Tuesday night. The city's water intake pipes extend into Lake Ontario for 1½ miles, well beyond the dirty water limit of 3,000 feet, he said.

Rider Manager Turns Down Full-Time Post

OTTAWA (CP) — James P. (Jim) McCaffrey, part-time general manager of Ottawa Rough Riders, has declined the Big Four Football club's offer to take the job on a full-time, salaried basis.

Club president Barry O'Brien said Tuesday McCaffrey, however, has agreed to continue in the post on a part-time basis for the remainder of the 1959 season and to rejoin the board of directors.

McCaffrey, 63, who is close to retirement age as registrar of trade marks in the federal state secretary's department, has been managing the Rough Riders for more than 35 years.

O'Brien said the club feels that with a budget of close to $500,000 it needs a full-time general manager. The post was offered to McCaffrey earlier this year, but the veteran football executive turned it down.

The club executive has decided to seek provincial incorporation as a company. Until now it has been run by a group of civic-minded sportsmen.

Man Bites Dog, News? How About This!

TORONTO (CP)—Here's a switch.

The Toronto and District Soccer Association has suspended referee James McGinty for the balance of the season. T and D secretary Rod Robertson said McGinty was found guilty of "using obscene language to players."

Earlier this season, the Brampton team in the senior league had complained McGinty's words were offensive to the players. Last week the team complained again.

Robertson noted it was the first time a referee has been suspended for such an offence.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The post-mortems on the Moore - Durelle fight last week included a bit of nonsense about a million - dollar fight in Toronto between old Archie and world heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson. They should have left this until a lingering odor had left Toronto.

The smell is still around following the 1956 Moore-James J. Parker "battle" at Maple Leaf Stadium for the laughed-at "heavyweight championship of the world." That one was the bust of the half-century.

In case memories are short, the promoter of that thing was Dave Rush, a Toronto millionaire who took a financial beating. The front men were Jack (Doc) Kearns, London promoter Jack Solomons, Bill Daly, a fight manager from Patterson, N.J., and the forgotten man of the whole business — Charley Johnston, Moore's manager.

WILY PROMOTER

Doc Kearns, a wily old boy in his 80s who hasn't lost any of his sharpness for gimmicks after more than 50 years in the fight game, did most of the talking and promoting. Rush, mentioned as financial backer, paid the bills.

And he was burned.

They tried to sell ringside tickets at $20 a throw. The night of the fight, these were selling wholesale at the box office, at anything up to $15. The income-tax department, fully aware of the fancy business, dropped in at the stadium and counted the receipts, scanned the expenses and got its share before anybody got out of town.

Kearns's gimmicks included a red carpet from the dressing rooms to the ring. Newspaper men were asked to wear white jackets and black ties, compliments of the promoters, and a few of them fell for it.

The jackets weren't so white after the fight. They were spotted with Parker's blood as Archie cut up the Barrie, Ont., heavyweight before sending him down for keeps in the eighth round.

"Never again," said Rush after paying the bills. "I've learned my lesson."

LONG CHANCE

Now, according to the reports, Rush has confirmed that he is interested in promoting a Moore-Johansson match. He can confirm it, knowing as well as anybody else that the odds of such a fight happening in Toronto are about 100 to 1.

For one thing, Toronto hasn't a stadium or arena large enough to handle a million - dollar fight. Then, of course, there is Floyd Patterson, who is supposed to have a rematch with the Swede late September.

The Moore - Johansson fight sounds a lot like political talk in Toronto about staging the Olympic Games. The only hitch there is that Toronto has nothing to stage such a world sports festival—no stadium, no regulation 55-metre swimming pool, no cycling track. In brief, nothing.

Dick Clark Likes Teen-Agers Because They Act Their Age

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Take me to your leader," I said to the teen-ager, and there I was, talking to Dick Clark.

The Clark cult is something unparalleled in entertainment history. Seldom has any one person wielded so much power over a segment of the population. Since teen-agers practically support the pop record field, Clarke exercises vast influence over it through his TV shows.

Obviously, this is a man to be reckoned with. Clark is here to make his first movie, Because They're Young, and I found him to be a smooth, no-nonsense type of 28-year-old who knows his way around.

LIKES TEEN-AGERS

But doesn't it bug him to be around teen-agers so much?

"Not at all," he replied. "They rarely exasperate me. I get more put out with old people who try to act young. I like kids because they act their age."

He doesn't take his expertmanship in teen-age matters lightly.

"I'm with teen-agers on the average of five and six hours every day," he explained. "It's like working in a bakery; if you're around it long enough, you'll learn how to bake. I've learned how teen-agers act. And I know that most pictures about teen-agers are wrong. They are older people's concept of how teen-agers act."

HAS BIG SAY

Clark said he will try to avoid such pitfalls in his film. He's a partner with Columbia in it, so he has plenty to say. But he admitted that it won't be a completely accurate depiction.

"I doubt if there ever can be a truly honest portrayal in films," he said. "Not all girls are beautiful or all boys handsome as they are in films. Not all schools are freshly painted and whitewashed, as the one we are using is."

A Strange Manager Is Solly Lauds Hand That Fines Him

By SANDY GRADY
Of the Philadelphia Bulletin

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Anything may happen now. Rocky Marciano will get a job in the bolshoi ballet. Nikita Khrushchev will join the Daughters of the American Revolution. Nelson Rockefeller will become a beatnik.

None of these events would be so incredible as the conversation in the Cardinal clubhouse Monday night. Solly Hemus was overhead saying kind things about umpires. Why, tears of sympathy practically welled up in his eyes when he protested that umpires were—get this—underpaid.

Is this the same Solly Hemus who has been thrown out of seven games this summer (two short of Leo Durocher's record) for assailing umpires' character, heredity and eyesight? Yep.

It is also the same Hemus who remarked a few weeks ago of an umpire, Mr. Stanley Albert Landes: "He's so out of shape he can't get off a dime. He's clogging up the infield. I'll bet he weighs ten pounds less than a horse" (Mr. Landes later demurred that he weighed 60 pounds less than a horse.)

"I'm not going to take back anything I said," Solly flared Monday night. "That was the only way I could retaliate — I thought Landes was out to get me. But I sympathize with umpires in general.

"I don't think they get paid enough. Raise their salaries to $15,000-$20,000 a year. Make it a desirable, attractive job. Then they'll be happy and they won't chase a ball player for a little complaint.

"They've got the toughest jobs in baseball. I wouldn't be an umpire. No sir! there are too many other things I could do for the same salary."

For Hemus such sympathy is as astonishing as Lucky Luciano, say, praising the FBI. The little man has fought a running war with the umpires in the classic Frisch - Stanky - Durocher-Bragon tradition. Only a few hours earlier he had heard of a fresh $100 fine.

REAFFIRM CHINA STAND

SOX FILE PROTEST

CHICAGO (AP) — An official protest was filed Tuesday with baseball commission Ford Frick by Chicago White Sox President Bill Veeck over a ruling that the New York Yankee makeup game here next Monday be played in the afternoon instead of at night. American League president Joe Cronin sided earlier with Yankee players in ruling the replay of a 4-4, six-inning affair rained out July 23 be in the afternoon of Aug. 24.

CUP PLAY IN WEST

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—This year's Mann Cup final will be played in Western Canada, Joe Potipco, president of the Peterborough Mercuries senior lacrosse club, said Tuesday.

He said he was advised of the general location by Les Gilmure, president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

The Ontario Lacrosse Association did not want the final held in the east, as that is where it plans to hold the junior Minto Cup finals.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — The Guelph entry Vanity Riddell took the fourth race at the Blue Bonnets Raceway Tuesday night—a $500 mile D trot—in a time of 2:10 4-5. Driven by Bill Habkirk, the Guelph entry paid $6.00 to win.

TORONTO (CP) — The best horse to show at Old Woodbine Park in the last three years, Buddy Gilmour's six-year -old pacer Howard Rosecroft, skips into Toronto Raceway today for Saturday's $7,000 added Canadian Cup pace, the top attraction of the track's 49 evenings of harness racing.

With lifetime earnings of more than $59,000, the chestnut pacer will be seeking an unprecedented third straight victory in the 10th running of Ontario's top pacing event. Last year he set the track record at Old Woodbine Park, pacing the mile in 2:01.1. He won for the first time in 1957.

Opposing him is the star of the Miron Brothers' stable of Montreal, Champ Volo. Also expected to be nominated are Elgin Armstrong's Captain Wright, J. C. Cameron's Ezra Deen and Dunc Campbell's Argyel Duke.

TORONTO (CP)—Racing secretary Court Smith threw the swift front-runner Danny Brook M. against a field of seven pacers in a 6½-furlong feature at Old Woodbine Tuesday night, figuring the distance might be just right for the gelding that often gets 10 lengths in front in the first half-mile and then fades.

Danny Brook M, owned by Carrie Fox of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and driven by Bill Harvey, faded this time, too, although once again he led by 10 at the half. He was caught by the pack at the head of the stretch when outsider Success Eloise, owned and driven by Archie Young of Toronto, came on to win and return $33.40.

By ART PEEVER
(as told to G. H. C.)

Several incidents took place in those good old days but one that sticks out in memory is the now famous night here when the Belleville Percivals were playing the Guelph Royals for the Ontario intermediate championship.

Before I tell you about this incident, there is no truth in the story Harry (Senator Claghorne) Rollins told about Big Bawdy stealing home, falling and bouncing twice on his midriff before landing on the plate. Bawdy did even better than that.

Anyway, here is the picture. It is the last of the ninth with the score tied three-all. Manager, the late Harry Knott, was pacing up and down behind the Belleville bench like a caged lion, chewing his fingernails. The Percivals had to have this run, and could they do it?

There were two out. The big end of the Guelph batting order was due at the plate in the next inning, if there was one. Suddenly there was a long drawn "Ah" from the crowd. The Percivals on the bench leaped to their feet, eyes abug with the very audacity of the play. Big Bawdy had decided to steal home on a daring win-or-lose gamble. He streaked for the plate (Bawdy was more streamlined in those days), his legs pumping like the side-rods of a 5700 locomotive.

The fielder threw a perfect strike. Bawdy sensing this goes into the plate with both feet in the air. He makes a perfect two-point landing, the Guelph catcher flying one way—and the ball the other. Bawdy had won the Ontario title for the Percivals.

I don't know whether there is any truth in the story but it was said the Guelph catcher after he came to murmured, "I get off here." He thought he was on the train going home. However, later it was said, the catcher gave them the brainwave for the first flying saucer.

The Percival's second-baseman hit two doubles past the centrefielder in that game. After it was over the fielder walked out of the park with Herbie "The Ole Clucker" Henn.

Not knowing Herb in his "civies" he remarked, "that Belleville so-and-so hit that ball past me twice.. "The - - - couldn't hit a cow in the slats with a tennis racket in the other games. He didn't have horseshoes, he was a whole blacksmith shop."

Herbie agreed. "That's right," he chuckled. "I'm from Belleville and I know him. They brought him up from the juveniles— and should have left him there. Why he only batted .113 with the 14 year-olds." The Guelph player didn't know the Clucker was the second baseman.

Belleville had its unforgettable characters, too. There, for instance was Wiener St. Denis who could lay down a bunt and if you as much as batted an eyelash he was on third. Wiener took up umpiring and on this particular occasion went to Peterborough.

Johnny Bawden was having trouble with his control and Wiener, behind the plate, wanted to get home. He called a high one a strike on a 3-2 pitch and 1,500 blood-seeking fans roared on the field from the stands. They were all for chucking Wiener into the river, and would have done so if saner heads had not intervened.

Yes, sir, them were the days, with that one-woman cheering section from Point Anne, Gabby Bennett, and Freddie Vasil, the Barriage boys and others. If you never saw these, 'you ain't seen nuthin'.

There was that unforgettable day in Kingston with the Ole Clucker, Shud, Tuttle, Bill Whalen, Murney Green and the rest of the crew on hand. Big "Bawdy" is behind the plate.

About 4,000 people are at the Cricket field and a young riot starts. They almost killed poor Bawdy and maybe would have if it hadn't been for an army padre. A lot of the crowd were soldiers.

Big Gene LeBonne was there and when the riot starts, says to me, "Peeve, what are yuh going to do?" I said, I don't know what you're going to do, but I'm getting myself a coupla bats. So we go into action.

Unlike the days when I went hitless with the Goyer Marines, I got myself seven clouts that day. Five from stones and fists and two when I conked a couple of guys with those bats.

To top the day, we stop at Napanee to eat and are standing in a crowd outside the restaurant when a cop comes along, and he looks as though he's ready to draw a gun on us. He asked a lot of questions, and not until we proved who we were did he let us go. It seems a bunch of German prisoners of war had escaped that day, and that flatfoot thought we were 'it.' And me not able to speak a wold of Golman.

Yep, them were the days. The guys had their fights, fun and fireworks. They played the game hard — and played to win. They were real guys, every man jack of them—and they proved it later when the war broke out. They fought the big game of life with the same fine spirit and desire for victory they showed on the softball diamond. And some of them stayed there where the poppies grow. Guys like Pop Robinson, and others.

Yep, them were the days.

Redlegs Collar Frisco Kids As Dodgers Edge Milwaukee; Yanks Win, Tribe Drops 4th

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Don Newcombe is back in business helping the Dodgers along in a National League pennant scrap, even though his paycheck now comes from the Cincinnati Reds.

Newk, the big guy of the Dodgers' staff before he was "washed up" because of arm and back trouble, pitched an eight-hit shutout for the Reds Thursday night, whipping San Francisco 7-0 and trimming the Giants' lead over second - place Los Angeles to two games.

The Dodgers closed in with a 7-6 victory over third-place Milwaukee in 13 innings, beating southpaw ace Warren Spahn, the Braves' seventh pitcher, for the fifth time this season.

BRAVES FOUR BACK

That left the Braves four games behind the Giants, who open a two-game set at Cincinnati against the six-place Reds.

Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 2-1 in the only other National League game scheduled.

Newcombe (11-6), winless for almost a month, walked none and struck out four while beating the Giants for the fifth time in six decisions this season.

The Reds won it quick, scoring six runs in the first three innings. Gus Bell drove in three with a double and home run, his 19th.

The Dodgers, booting away what was left of a 5-1 lead when the Braves scored an unearned run in the ninth, put it away when Wally Moon tripled and Rip Repulski singed off Spahn (16-12).

AARON RAPS HOMER

Rookie Norm Sherry (1-2) won it, blanking the Braves without a hit for 2 2-3 innings in relief of Don Drysdale after Hank Aaron's second home run of the game, his 33rd, had deadlocked it 6-6 in the 11th.

Duke Snider hit a two-run homer for the Dodgers, his 20th, and tied Ralph Kiner for third on the all-time National League list with 351 behind Mel Ott (511) and Stan Musial (402). Wes Covington also homered (No. 7) for the Braves.

The Phillies won it on Richie Ashburn's two-out single in the seventh, breaking a 1-1 tie and beating rookie Bob Miller (1-2). Jim Owens (9-10) went all the way for the Phils.

Time was when folks knew Gerry Staley as the starting pitcher who always just missed being a 20-game winner in the National League.

Now, as a reliefer, he has become the lock-up guy for Chicago White Sox in their run for the American League pennant.

The six-foot righthander, two days shy of 39, helped push the White Sox into the largest first-place lead of the year Tuesday night, giving up just one hit in three shutout innings of relief for a 6-4 comeback victory over Baltimore and a 4½-game bulge over Cleveland.

SCORED WINNER

Staley scored the winning run, breaking a 4-4 tie on Nellie Fox's two-out double in the eighth inning.

Cleveland meanwhile, was clubbed to its fourth straight defeat, 11-4, by Washington. New York Yankees, 12½ games behind, broke a tie for third with Baltimore by beating Detroit 5-3. Boston tied Kansas City for sixth by defeating the A's 5-4.

Staley, who won 19 for St. Louis Cardinals in 1951, 17 in '52 and 18 in '53 before being peddled first to Cincinnati, then to the Yankees and finally the White Sox, now has a 6-3 record with a 1.48 earned run average for his 85 innings in 49 games.

SIX-RUN SIXTH

Jim Baxes's 13th home run gave Cleveland a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning, but the Senators then walloped across six runs in the sixth against loser Jim Perry (8-5). Lennie Green counted three with his second home run and Roy Sievers scored two with his seventh to help Russ Kemmerer (7-12).

A two - run homer by Yogi Berra, his 17th, and Hector Lopez's solo 16th wrapped it up for the Yankees in the third against Don Mossi (11-7). Art Ditmar (8-8) won it.

Gene Stephens' sacrifice fly did it for Boston in the ninth after the Red Sox blew a 4-0 lead. Mike Fornieles (3-2) won with Ray Herbert (10-9) the loser.

Moore Risks Featherweight Title Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore risks his title tonight against the man he dethroned five months ago, Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria.

The 15-round television scrap is scheduled at the Olympic Auditorium, scene of the last encounter, at 7 p.m. PDT (10 p.m. EDT).

The 25-year-old champion from Springfield, Ohio, remained a 3-to-1 favorite to keep the title. He overpowered his 27-year-old rival and stopped him in 13 rounds in a brawl last March 18 that was a sizzler all the way.

Moore, with a record of 13 knockouts in his 36 wins in 42 fights, is rated the harder puncher. But Bassey has stopped 20 foes in 67 bouts.

TOOK TITLE IN 1956

Bassey won the vacant featherweight title in 1956 when he stopped Cherif Hamia of France in 10 rounds. He successfully defended it here when he knocked out Pajarito (Little Bird) Moreno of Mexico in three rounds.

In their last meeting Moore was from four to seven points ahead on the officials' scorecards when Bassey's manager, George Biddles, had the contest stopped midway between the 13th and 14th rounds.

The match will be scored 10 points "must" per round—10 to the winner, nine or less to the loser.

There is no return match agreement. Each fighter get 30 per cent of the gate and television receipts. The first match grossed $65,602. Matchmaker George Parnassus predicted it would be about the same tonight.

Record Football Crowds See Argos, Ti-Cats Win Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quarterbacks filled the air with footballs and the fans turned out in record-setting swarms Tuesday night for the opening games of the Big Four season.

A crowd of 22,126 all but filled Hamilton's Civic Stadium to see the Tiger-Cats begin defence of their league title with a 22-16 victory over Montreal Alouettes.

There were 20,675 on hand at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa as Toronto Argonauts edged the Rough Riders 21-20 in a game that went right down to the wire and was decided by the margin of an unsuccessful Ottawa convert attempt.

KNOX PASSES CLICK

The Argonauts, rejuvenated last year by the arrival of quarterback Ronnie Knox but not in time to get out of last place, scored all their touchdowns on short Knox passes into the end zone. Boyd Carter, despite the handicap of a cast on his broken wrist, caught two and Corky Tharp the other. Cookie Gilchrist, obtained this year from Saskatchewan, kicked three converts.

Don Clark, the Ohio State speedster, exploded out of scrimmage the first time Ottawa got the ball and barrelled 55 yards for a touchdown.

Clark got another on a one-yard plunge in the third quarter after Bobby Simpson scored in the second on a 49-yard pass play from quarterback Frank Tripucka, the former Notre Dame star who came to Ottawa this year from Saskatchewan. Mack Yoho kicked two converts but was wide on the third.

O'GARRO THROUGH

Toronto added to its injury list, already numbering five key men, when end Pete O'Garro was carried off the field in the first quarter. He suffered two broken bones in his left leg and will be out indefinitely.

Ottawa picked up 163 yards on ground plays but more than 100 was accounted for by Clark's two long runs. Tripucka completed 18 of 26 passes for 270 yards.

Knox' passing record was 17 out of 30 for 259 yards. Argos' ground yardage was only 88 with Tharp piling up the biggest gains. Ottawa had a 24-21 edge in first downs.

The Tiger-Cats had things their own way in the first half when they rolled up a 20-0 lead, but Sam Etcheverry started clicking with passes thereafter as Montreal fought to close the gap.

CANADIANS SCORE

Hamilton quarterback Bernie Faloney threw touchdown passes to Canadians Tommy Grant and Ron Howell, the latter an 82-yarder. Gerry McDougall barged over from the one-yard line for the other. Steve Oneschuk kicked a convert and Cam Fraser punted for a single and a safety touch.

Etcheverry threw for touchdowns to Red O'Quinn in the third quarter and Ivan Livingstone in the fourth. Bill Bewley kicked a convert and a field goal to end the Montreal scoring.

Hamilton got good mileage from McDougall and Don Schaeffer and fine defensive work by Ralph Goldston and Duane Wood, although Goldston tipped the ball into Livingston's hands in the end zone on an attempted interception of Etcheverry's toss.

The schedule continues Friday night with Hamilton in Toronto and Ottawa at Montreal.

Point Anne Faces Mr. Judd Here Saturday

The OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns will commence here Saturday night when the Point Anne Cementmen play host to Lakefield and the fantastic Ray Judd in the first game of a two-of-three series.

Arrangements have been made to play the game at the CNRA diamond here in Belleville, beginning at 6.00 p.m. The second game is slated for Peterborough a week from Thursday.

RACING RECORD

YORK, England (AP) — Aly Khan's Petite Etoile won the 1½-mile Yorkshire Oaks Tuesday and became the top money-winning filly in the history of British horse racing. Petite Etoile's victory in the race was worth $19,734 and boosted her total winnings on British tracks to $129,452—$8,909 more than the record prize winnings of Meld in 1954-55.

Latta, Read Meet for South Hastings Title

Lata qualified to meet Read in the South Hastings baseball league finals last night by handing Cannifton a 4-1 setback to oust the Clippers three games to two.

Read won their series from Foxboro three games to one.

The finals will be a four-of-seven affair with the first game at Latta Friday night at 6.30 p.m. The next game is at Read Monday, the third at Latta Wednesday and the fourth in Read the following Saturday.

Stan "Lefty" Read hurled the victory for Latta in last night's deciding tilt. He gave up three hits, struck out eight and walked three.

Paddy O'Connor started for Cannifton with "Itchy" Cole taking over in the sixth. They allowed ten hits, fanning four and walking four between them.

Cam Buskard led the winners at the plate with a double and two singles while Gary Gow had a brace of one-baggers. The other Latta hits were shared by Ross Parks, Wayne Gow, Bob Sullivan, Orly Glass and Doug Rollins.

Don Forsythe hammered a double and single for Cannifton. Win Harder had the other base knock.

Cannifton took a 1-0 lead in the fourth frame with Latta plating a trio in the fifth and adding a singleton in the sixth.

Bobcats Turn Back Trenton Threat With 10-4 Win in Finals Opener

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats got a strong two-way effort from Bobby Hull and took advantage of wild pitche and passed balls on their way to a 10-4 victory over Trenton here last night in the first game of their B. and D. finals series.

Second game in the four-of-seven set is slated for Trenton Thursday night at 8.15 with the third back here Friday at CNRA Park.

Hull shut Trenton out for seven innings last night and had a one-hitter going. Meanwhile the 'Cats had built an 8-0 lead, mainly on Trenton mistakes and Hull's tremendous home run. Trenton burst the bubble in the eighth however with four runs. Two in the bottom of the frame sewed it up for the 'Cats.

Hull ended up with a three-hitter and 13 strikeouts over the distance. He allowed a scratch single by Drake in the first and was untouchable after that until the eighth. He issued five tickets to first.

Starter Howie Cole took the loss in 5 1-3 innings, allowing four hits, six runs, fanning three and walking five. A tantalizing slowball kept the 'Cats off stride. Ron Wannamaker was rapped for seven hits over the remainder nipping one on strikes.

Hull who reached base every time at the plate and scored four runs, hit one of the longest homers of the season in the seventh frame. Denny Haydon opened the frame with a single and Hull drove a Wamamaker pitch for a towering blast that hit the left-centre field fence on one short hop. He had an earlier double, a walk, sacrifice and reached first on an error and a sacrifice.

Bert Faulkner had a brace of doubles to help the cause while Denny Hayden and Jean-Paul Lamirande rapped two solid singles apiece. Floyd Crawford collected two bunt singles. Lou Smrke rounding out the attack with one safety.

Roger Drake beat out two infield singles for Trenton while Doug Alexander slammed a two-bagger for their only other safety.

Cole caused a lot of his own trouble early in the game. He walked Hull in the second, wild pitched him to third. A passed ball scored the lead run. Crawford beat out a bunt in the third and went all the way around on wild pitches. Hull's double, a passed ball and wild pitch made it 3-0 in the next inning.

Another walk, two fielder's choice plays to the wrong bases, sacrifices by Hull and Cousins and hits by Lamirande, Smrke and Crawford made it 6-0 and left three runners stranded in the sixth.

Hull's homer increased the lead before Trenton struck back. Alexander's double followed two walks and scored the initial Garrett marker. Drake's bunt single made it 8-2 while Mitts drove in another and was safe on an error. Passed balls scored the fourth of the inning.

Faulkner's double, Hayden's single and three Trenton miscues completed the scoring.

Trenton's left fielder Billy Mitts brought a roar from the crowd in the eighth when he ran full speed into the stream chasing a long foul ball off Brown's bat.

In the top of the eighth Drake of the losers tried to score on a passed ball. Cousins recovered and met the runner head on with both players ending in a pileup just short of the plate. Drake was called out and suffered bruises to his leg and chest.

NO VISAS TO REDS

ROME (AP)—The Italian government said Tuesday night it will not grant visas for athletes from Red China and North Korea to participate in next year's Olympic Games. The Italian government indicated it's reason is it cannot grant entry visas to representatives of countries it does not recognize, and neither country belongs to the International Olympic Committee.

Leafs Blanked By Buffalo; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo's Jack Phillips is a crowd pleaser.

The Bison outfielder drew 9,651 fans into the stands at Buffalo Tuesday night for Jack Phillips night.

Then in the third inning, with Buffalo leading Toronto 1-0, Phillips stepped to the plate with the bases loaded and — of course—smacked a grand-slam homer.

The 6-0 Bison victory over last-place Toronto snapped a three-game losing streak for the International League leaders and boosted their edge over runner-up Havana to 6½ games.

The Sugar Kings split a doubleheader with Richmond, winning 6-3 after losing the opener 3-2. Third-place Columbus remained 7½ back with a 4-3, 10-inning triumph over Miami. Montreal defeated Rochester 14-4.

GREEN'S SHUTOUT

Dallas Green pitched the shutout for Buffalo, limiting the Maple Leafs to seven hits. Phillips also had a double, and Bobby DelGreco went 4-for-5. Ron Negray was the loser.

Lefty Ed Dick checked the Sugar Kings with four hits in the first game. The Virginians scored three in the first, Fritzie Brickell driving in two with a double.

The Sugar Kings wrapped up the nightcap with a four-run sixth inning featuring Borrego Alvarez' two-run double. Reliever Luis Arroyo allowed only one Virginian to reach base over the last four innings.

John Jaciuk's two-out single drove in Ken Hamlin, who had doubled, with the winning run for Columbus. The Marlins had tied it in the nnth when a throwing error by catcher Danny Baich allowed Fred Valentine to score.

Despite George Wilson's three homers, which scored all the Red Wings runs, the Royals had an easy time of it. They scored six in the fifth inning—three on a Sandy Amoros' homer — and wound up scoring seven in the ninth.

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) Rush For Gold precipitated a gold rush at the Charles Town Racetrack Tuesday when he figured in a $2,603.40 daily double. Rush For Gold won the first race, a 4½-furlong sprint for four-year-olds and up and paid $104 for $2 to win.

Dempsey Back in Ring Game Returns in Promotional Role

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — An old-time promoter was back in the fight game today to help solve some of the confusion surrounding the heavyweight championship.

You may remember the name —Jack Dempsey.

The Manassa Mauler, now 64, was hired Tuesday as promotional director and adviser to the embattled Rosensohn Enterprises which still hopes to stage a return world heavyweight championship bout between Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson on Sept. 22. Johansson won the title from Patterson last June 26.

Dempsey has been out of the promoting game for a long time but he had a couple of good ones in his day. His last one was the Max Baer-Max Schmeling bout in 1933.

When Tex Rickard died suddenly in 1929, Dempsey took over the job of running the Jack Sharkey - Young Stribling fight in Miami.

WORKING FOR SALARY

His new job is a salaried post for the ex-heavyweight champion and he emphasized he has no stock in the corporation.

"I have accepted this job because I believe somebody has to do something to restore the public confidence in what I believe is the greatest of all sports," he said.

"I did not take the job until my legal advisers assured me the men running the organization were upright characters, men of integrity with whom I could be properly associated."

He was referring to Vincent Velella, president of Rosensohn Enterprises, and Irving Kahn, head of TelePrompTer.

Right now Velella and Kahn can use some help. They want to stage the fight in exactly four weeks and six days. But they have no site and no champion.

The company has had its promoter's licence suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission because of "statements" made by Bill Rosensohn, former head of Rosensohn Enterprises, in a magazine article.

As for Johansson, he said in another magazine article that there probably wouldn't be a fight because "I can't fight Patterson and the mob, too."

He didn't explain the mob.

"I am prepared to go anywhere in the world to help the fight," said Dempsey. "I may fly to Sweden next week to talk to Johansson."

Olmedo, MacKay Head American Davis Cup Team

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Captain Perry Jones Tuesday named Alex Olmedo, Barry MacKay, Earl Buchholz, Jr. and Bernard (Tut) Bartzen to the United States Davis Cup tennis team to oppose Australia.

Jones made the announcement as he and Australian non-playing captain Harry Hopman exchanged lineups for the challenge round at Forest Hills, N.Y. Aug. 28-30.

Hopman named Neale Fraser, Roy Emerson, Robert Mark and Rodney Laver.

The U.S. upset Australia in the challenge round last year in Australia, with Olmedo, the young Peruvian master, leading the way.

Meanwhile in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's national doubles tournament here Tuesday, the top U.S. and Australian doubles teams advanced without serious difficulty.

Olmedo and Buchholz stumbled only once in whipping 17-year-old Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., and Paul Palmer, Phoenix, Ariz., 6-2, 6-2, 9-11, 6-2.

Fraser and Emerson beat Californians Al Driscole, Hollywood, and Roger Werksman, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

BACK BOXER FUND

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Commissioner Abe J. Greene and President Ward Wylie of the National Boxing Association Tuesday threw their weight behind a proposed fund for retired boxers. They said plans for setting aside a percentage of gate receipts for a national fund would be revealed at the NBA convention opening Sept. 1 in Toronto.

OIL FROM ATOMS — An American oil company which holds part of the exploration rights of the fabulous oil sands of the Athabasca region of northern Alberta hopes to use an atomic bomb to free the oil from the sand. So far, no physical or chemical method has been found that will economically separate the oil and sands.

Soon the Canadian cabinet will study the plan of Richfield Oil Corporation of Los Angeles to use nuclear energy in the oil sands.

Inset map at left locates the sands which cover 17,000 acres of land and are estimated to hold 300,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

Diagram at right shows how the attempt will be made, if Canadian and United States authorities give permission. A four-foot shaft will be sunk 1,400 feet deep through the oil sands and the underlying limestone. A bomb will be planted at the bottom of the shaft and detonated.

The explosion is expected to create a great underground cavity walled in by rock melted by the heat of the blast. Oil, separated from the sand by the heat, is expected to trickle into the cavity where it can be pumped out. (CP Newsmap.)

MOST OF QUAKE'S

At one time 150 were reported trapped below Hebgen dam, but many had reached safety by Tuesday night.

The dam took a severe pounding from the mighty shocks. For a time officials feared it might go out, unleashing a flood down the canyon. It forms a lake holding 337,000 acre-feet of water.

Montana Power Company officials said one abutment of the 87-foot-high dam was jarred loose but that it still held.

The shocks tilted land behind the dam, raising the south shore to 15 feet from six and dropping the north shore by the same amount.

The Rock Creek campground, about seven miles downstream on the Madison from Hebgen dam, was the area hit hardest.

Officials said as many as 30 to 35 automobiles and trailers park at the camp ground nightly.

SURVIVORS' ACCOUNTS

Warren Steele, 37, of Billings, Mont., told how he and his wife were asleep in their tent when "I was awakened and realized the ground was shaking. I rushed out and found rocks and dust flying off the mountain."

A wall of water battered Steele and his wife. Their night clothing was ripped off by jagged rocks.

Miss Verona Holmes, 35, of Billings was asleep in her trailer when aroused.

"I yelled, thinking it was a bear," she said.

Then the trailer was engulfed by rocks and mud. Miss Holmes said she "was swept under water for a long way" until she reached safety. She was injured, as were Steele and his wife.

B.C. FAMILY SAFE

Mrs. Joseph H. Armstrong of Victoria, B.C., camping with her husband and two children, described how "I was knocked off my feet and rolled and rolled" by the tumbling earth.

Then she heard her husband calling her name. She said the children, Patricia, 18, and Donald, 11, were all right but "looked like drowned rats."

In Yellowstone Park, Old Faithful spouted on its regular schedule today, unharmed by the earthquakes. Park rangers said the terrific shocks easily could have shut off the centuries-old geyser.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

WITH THE CUBS AT QUIN-MO-LAC

On arrival Saturday evening the 10th Law of Scouting (a Scout is clean), was promptly put into effect by the leaders so that the cabins would be ready for the 97 Cubs who arrived later. Sunday morning was spent in tidying up the camp grounds. This insistance on camp cleaning is not just a fad on the part of your camp Akela. It is a necessity in order that we may all learn, and stick to the habit of tidyness.

CUBS ATTEND CHURCH

A Cubs own service was held in the chapel and was attended by everybody in camp. The R.C. boys were taken to Tweed by ACM Jack Harris to their own church. Cubs always enjoy this service and march to church fully uniformed, all neat and clean, and conduct themselves like the little gentlemen they are. The address was "Do Your Best," and was intended to convey the fact that if you do your best it is not too important if you do not win.

In this open air chapel there is an atmosphere of reverence and respect seldom experienced even in our own churches.

MRS. ASHLEY CAMP COMMANDANT

This is Mrs. Ashley's ninth consecutive Cub camp. Her experience and love of boys makes her a very capable camp Akela. She is also a Lt.-Colonel in the St. John Ambulance Brigade, and with her this year is Sgt. Mary Ann McGuire and Crusader Jo Mary Reid. A competent staff to attend to the Cubs' welfare. There is also a water safety instructor, Bob Alexander. We are sure that parents will be pleased to know that their boys are happy and healthy and well cared for. The camp program will keep them very busy all week and "Mr. Grouch" has been effectively destroyed.

Camp leaders are: Bob Townsend, Gerry Thorne, Arnold Welch, Ireland Wadsworth, Murray Maw, Murray Angus, rie Simpson, Mabel Lucas, Joan Faulkner, and Elsie Elliott.

We are fortunate in having the same kitchen staff as in previous years, Mrs. Ed Holmes, Mrs. Arthur Holmes and Miss Karen Ash. Our boys are assured of well prepared and balanced meals.

NOTICE TO PARENTS

Please do not arrive at the camp on Friday before 7 p.m. There are many things to do and the schedule is carefully timed. Akela Ashley requests your co-operation and invites all parents and visitors to the closing camp fire at 7.30 p.m.

HUNT SNOWMAN

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Two Irish brothers, Peter and Brian Byrne, tea planters from Darjeeling, India, have a new permit from the Nepali government to hunt the ever-elusive abominable snowman. They plan to set out Oct. 1 toward Mount Everest on their fourth expedition.

TO MOVE TOMB

TORONTO (CP) — An ancient Ming tomb, which has been displayed in a Royal Ontario Museum gallery, is to be moved outside to the museum grounds. The move, which entails knocking out a wall and laying foundations to support massive stone figures, is being made because the tomb was never supposed to have been displayed indoors and gallery space is at a premium.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

PRIME MINISTER ADDS TWO TO CABINET

Elephant Runs Amok At Festival, Twenty Killed

Enraged Animal Charges Into Big Religious Group

KANDY, Ceylon (AP) — A maddened temple elephant charged into a crowd of 200,000 at a religious festival Wednesday night. Twenty persons were reported killed in the crush and thousands injured.

Several persons were reported missing. It was feared some had fallen or jumped into Kandy Lake.

The elephant was one of more than 100 participating with dancers and drummers in an annual Buddhist pageant called Perahera.

RESENTED HOT FOOT

The animal became infuriated when it stepped on burning coals which had dropped from a flaming torch. It wheeled about and charged, and the crowd ran screaming in panic, seeking shelter in nearby buildings, atop walls and in trees.

Two mahouts clung to the elephant's tail and trunk. They finally stopped it and chained it to a lamppost. But the noise of the surging crowd set the beast off again and it broke loose, smashing shop fronts and trampling obstacles in its path.

Police finally shot and killed the animal on the street.

SACRED SPOT

The Perahera pageant centred on the Temple of the Holy Tooth, one of Buddhism's most sacred spots. The temple houses a tooth supposed to have come from the jaw of Buddha, who founded the religion 25 centuries ago.

The temple is one of Kandy's busiest sectors, surrounded by shops and near the popular Queen's Hotel.

A similar incident occurred during a Buddhist procession five days ago near Colombo and 100 persons were injured.

Malayan Govt. Wins Sweeping Victory at Polls

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—The Chinese-Malayan-Indian Alliance party, which has governed Malaya since the country became an independent member of the Commonwealth two years ago, scored a sweeping electoral victory Wednesday.

With two results still in doubt, the Alliance had 71 seats, three by acclamation, in the 104-seat House of Representatives. The leading opposition group, the pan-Malayan Islamic party, trailed with 13 seats while the Socialist Front elected eight members.

Smaller parties and independents elected nine members.

Alliance party leader Tunku (Prince) Abdul Rahman resigned as prime minister to lead the campaign but he will return to office. The alliance is pledged to wipe out the last pockets of Communist guerrilla opposition by next year.

PEACEFUL VOTE

Polling was peaceful and no incidents were reported. An estimated two-thirds of the 2,177,790 persons registered cast ballots.

Rebels in the Chinese community failed to disrupt the alliance. The group earlier this year resigned from the Malayan-Chinese Association, which with the United Malays National Organization and the Malayan Indian Congress forms the Alliance party.

The rebels won only three seats, despite campaigning on claims of discrimination against Chinese education and culture.

FLYERS WILL TRY TO GRAB CAPSULE FROM PACIFIC

Sent Aloft Wed. In Discoverer VI

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (AP)—A small capsule dangling from a parachute was expected to drop slowly toward the ocean today from out of the Pacific heavens.

And waiting in Hawaii was a team of flyers with a seemingly impossible assignment—to go out and try to catch it before it hit the water.

The capsule went aloft Wednesday, fixed in the nose of the Discoverer VI satellite, which is flashing around the earth once every 95 minutes in an egg-shaped north-south orbit.

This afternoon, 26 hours after the launching, the capsule was to be kicked loose from the 19-foot satellite.

TRY FOR CATCH

And, for the second time in less than a week, a squadron of U.S. Air Force C-119 Flying Boxcars was set to take off from Hawaii and try to execute an incredible catch. Each plant was equipped with a recovery net—a trapeze-like affair.

The project is aimed at solving the re-entry problem—how to get a man in space and, once he's there, get him back.

The air force hoped to have more than the remote chance of sighting the capsule during its descent. The capsule was equipped with a radio built to send signals giving the recovery team an idea of its whereabouts.

Such a recovery was planned following the successful launching of Discoverer V last week. But the radio in the falling capsule evidenty broke down. Nobody got a signal from it. The capsule presumably tumbled into the sea.

MONTH OF LIFE

Discoverer VI is expected to remain in orbit at least a month. It comes within 138 miles of earth at its closest approach and goes as far out as 537 miles.

An air force official said after the launching:

"The successful orbiting of two Discoverer satellites in less than a week marks a tremendous forward step in the scientific study of space vehicles and their applications."

Batista on Way to New Home In Exile in Madeira Islands

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Fulgencio Batista was on his way today to a new home in exile in Portugal's Madeira Islands, where the climate is mild, the wine sweet and the tensions of his native Caribbean thousands of miles away.

Immigration officials said the ex-dictator of Cuba took off in a special plane for Portugal Wednesday night, soon after Washington squelched any hopes he had of gaining admittance to the United States.

Batista has been an exile in the Dominican Republic since fleeing Cuba last New Year's Day to escape the revolutionary forces of Fidel Castro.

The 57-year-old former army sergeant, who ruled Cuba for nearly a quarter of a century, left his uneasy refuge here amid rising tensions between the Dominican Republic and the Castro regime.

The Madeira group is about 400 miles west of Morocco, in the eastern Atlantic. Sources in Ciudad Trujillo said Portugal granted the Cubans political asylum.

In Havana, Cuban government quarters said reports indicated one of those left behind was former Gen. Eleuterio Pedraza, described as the mastermind of the recent abortive attempt to overthrow Castro. Rumors circulated in Havana that Pedraza had been imprisoned by the Dominican dictator, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, because of the failure of the anti-Castro conspiracy a week ago.

A Dominican rebel radio heard in Cuba said Batista's position in the Dominican Republic had become delicate because he refused a demand from Trujillo for $10,000,000 to offset costs of the invasion that flopped. The rebel radio said Batista had contributed $200,000 to the conspiracy but refused to give any more.

Batista and Trujillo had been personal enemies for years and Dominican officials made no secret of the fact that the deposed Cuban was not welcome in the country.

When Batista fled from Havana, his wife and most of his family went to Daytona Beach, Fla., where he has a luxurious home. Mrs. Batista tried without success to get her husband a U.S. visa.

Castro has been trying to get his hands on the deposed dictator to try him as a war criminal, but Trujillo refused to extradite him.

Batista's flight still leaves the Dominican Republic with one other deposed Latin American dictator, Argentina's Juan Peron. Peron has openly declared he is mapping plans to regain power in Argentina.

Free Polio Shots for Adults Not Favored by Officers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto and suburban medical health officers are almost unanimous in agreement ~~that free~~ polio vaccine clinics for adults would be untimely and unnecessary.

This followed the opinion of Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, medical officer of health, who told a Toronto board of health meeting Wednesday that adults inoculated now would have no protection before the end of October and no full immunity until the booster or final inoculation next spring.

He said there is no reason to burden the taxpayer with the cost of a mass adult inoculation program.

"Polio is basically a child's disease," he said. "It occurs in adults up to 40 years of age, but the strong program among children has given this community good protection."

Other medical health officers in Metropolitan Toronto municipalities generally agreed with Dr. Boyd, who said adults should seek polio immunization but should pay their own doctors for the $6-$10 three-shot series.

The board of health suspended action on the free clinic proposal until Dr. Boyd discusses it with the Ontario Medical Association, the Academy of Medicine and the March of Dimes organization.

The March of Dimes group offers free polio inoculations to employees in business and industry but not to private individuals.

Alderman Harold Menzies, board chairman, disagreed with Dr. Boyd. He said the trend towards free clinics in Montreal and growing concern among unprotected adults would make a similar program here valuable to the public.

The polio trouble in Montreal could be duplicated in Toronto next year, he said.

OTTAWA (CP) — Residents of Ottawa up to age 50 will get free polio shots starting Monday.

Establishment of free clinics at five health centres follows a decision by board of control to set aside $10,000 to provide free Salk vaccine shots for adults. Free shots already have been given to children through pro-

GUARDS HELPLESS AS 6 PRISONERS WRECK MACHINES

Guelph Reformatory Shop Scene of Riot

GUELPH (CP)—Five inmates of Guelph Reformatory who went on a stool-swinging rampage in the tailor shop Wednesday, causing about $5,000 damage, were charged today with creating mischief by damaging government property.

Superintendent Charles Sanderson identified the five as David Wyse, 19, Toronto; James Chalton, 17, Galt; William Partridge, 20, Toronto; Robert Donnelly, 20, and William Boutette, 18, both of Windsor.

Windows were smashed, window frames damaged and machines toppled as four unarmed guards stood helpless against a wall with 140 other prisoners during the 10-minute eruption.

The five were led off to confinement without further incident after seven more guards arrived. No one was injured.

Superintendent Charles Anderson termed the riot, apparently pre-arranged, a "senseless thing, done because the men were determined to cause damage."

He said it would have been "ridiculous" for the four guards to have tried to stop the prisoners because of the large number of other prisoners in the shop.

The superintendent said all of those involved were serving terms for breaking and entering and entering and theft and at least three of them had caused trouble before.

Red Sub Surveys Barents Sea

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported today a Soviet submarine has completed a 10,000-mile underwater survey of the North Atlantic and the Barents Sea.

The broadcast described the vessel, the Severyanka, as "the first scientific survey submarine in the world." It said the cruise was the sub's fourth.

"Soviet scientists in this submarine laboratory have surveyed the depths of the seas and their fauna and prospected for new fisheries," the broadcast said.

"During the fourth cruise the scientists undertook the study of light, which plays a great part in the life of the inhabitants of the sea. Knowledge of the light structure of the sea will in many ways help to explain the behavior of fish in natural conditions.

"On the basis of data obtained, chrts will be made of the visibility of the surveyed areas of the North Atlantic and the Barents Sea."

The Barents Sea is an area of the Arctic Ocean north of the Scandinavian peninsula and Russia.

BORDER PATROLLED

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Police patrolled the border with Brazil today to prevent Brazilian cattle entering British Guiana because of a reported outbreak of foot - and - mouth disease.

David Walker, Pierre Sevigny Are Sworn In

Will Have to Appoint New Deputy Speaker

OTTAWA (CP)—David Walker of Toronto Rosedale was sworn in today as federal public works minister and Pierre Sevigny of the Quebec constituency of Longueuil as associate defence minister.

The swearing-in ceremony took place at Government House in the presence of Governor - General Massey and Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The oaths of office were administered by Robert Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council.

Mr. Walker, 54-year-old Toronto lawyer and long-time friend of Mr. Diefenbaker, fills a post held by External Affairs Minister Green since the Progressive Conservatives were elected June 21, 1957.

Mr. Sevigny, deputy Commons Speaker until his appointment, is the first associate defence minister in the Conservative cabinet. The post, vacant since the 1957 general election, last was held by Paul Hellyer, Liberal MP for Toronto Trinity.

NOW FULL STRENGTH

The two appointments bring the cabinet back to its full strength of 23. Besides the public works post, another vacancy was created Wednesday by the resignation of Hon. J. M. Macdonnell, minister without portfolio.

In announcing Mr. Macdonnell's resignation, Mr. Diefenbaker said the 74-year-old MP for Toronto Greenwood felt he should make way for a younger man. Mr. Macdonnell will continue as a private member of the Commons.

Appointment of Mr. Sevigny, who will be 42 next month, increases Quebec representation in the cabinet to six members.

That is the same number Ontario has. British Columbia has three, Saskatchewan two and the other six provinces one each.

Mr. Diefenbaker's last cabinet

Eight Reasons Why a Ship Is Called She

VICTORIA (CP) — Ever wonder why ships are usually referred to as "she"?

J. N. Fraine, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, told a chamber of commerce audience here Wednesday that "ships are feminine because:

"There's always a great deal of bustle about them; there's usually a gang of men around them; they have a waist, and stays; it takes a lot of paint to keep them good looking; with them it's not the initial cost, but the upkeep.

"They're all decked out; it takes a good man to handle them right . . .

"And when coming into port, they head straight for the buoys."

Renew Perilous Hunt for More Quake Victims

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—Searchers moved back today into the still-shaking earthquake area of southwestern Montana to renew a perilous hunt for undiscovered victims.

The ground parties searched above and below Hebgen dam, focal point of the hardest-hit area in Monday night's shocks. They will not attempt to dig into the huge landslide below the dam until the comparatively slight tremors subside.

Bodies of eight victims have been recovered from the devastated mountains and canyons. Reports from survivors indicate the toll may rise.

Coroner Charles E. Raper says he believes the body of Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, is in the Madison River. He reported the family car and her belongings have been found in the stream. Her husband was killed.

A woman reported missing and presumed to have been drowned was found alive Wednesday night. Mrs. Grace Miller, whose home was washed away in a wave of water propelled by a landslide, walked 15 miles to a ranch.

Officials have said they believe more bodies may be found by digging into the landslides and probing Hebgen Lake and the Madison River.

Skin divers are planning to go into the lake when the muddy water clears. They will check a report that two persons were drowned in a car submerged in dirt and water.

All of the known survivors—about 300—have been moved out of the earthquake area. Some roads, buckled and twisted by the shocks, have been made passable by the use of bulldozers.

Many highways in the western part of Yellowstone National Park were blocked by landslides, and the damage there was expected to run into the millions.

32 Persons Die In Plane Crash Into Mountains

PICO DEL SOMBRE, Spain (Reuters)—Father Parellada, a Jesuit priest, stood amid the smouldering wreckage of an airliner today giving absolution to the 32 persons killed when it crashed Wednesday.

The middle-aged priest from Barcelona had looked in vain for some trace of his brother Jesuit, Father Massana, a Spanish priest who died in the crash on the 5,200-foot Pico del Sombre Mountains.

All 29 passengers and the crew of three were killed as the chartered DC-3 plunged to the ground. Most of those aboard were British college students returning to London from a vacation on the Island of Majorca. The crew members also were British.

The plane crashed in dense fog only 300 feet below the summit of the mountain soon after taking off from Barcelona. Only one wing and the rudder were intact.

ESCAPED FLOODS, DROWNS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chen Kuan-Jou came to live with relatives in Taipei after his home in central Formosa was destroyed in floods 10 days ago. He went for a swim Wednesday in the Tansui River and was drowned.

Order Restrains Township From Digging Drain

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Walsh granted a court order Wednesday restraining West Nissouri Township from constructing a drain across an oil pipeline operated by Interprovincial Pipe Line Company.

The Supreme Court of Ontario judge said the injunction will continue until the Board of Transport Commissioners rules otherwise or until a court trial.

An affidavit filed before the court stated a ditch-digging machine might sever the pipeline which carries 69,000 barrels of crude oil daily from Sarnia to Port Credit.

40 Smugglers To Be Beheaded In Four Towns

DAMASCUS, Syria (Reuters)—Forty smugglers sentenced to death in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, for killing a driver will be beheaded in public, the Damascus newspaper Al Nasr reported today.

The smugglers, from Yemen, were charged with killing the driver and trying to kill his assistant, the newspaper said. Ten will be executed in each of four Saudi Arabian towns.

Find Trees Will Grow in Bad Soil Providing Water Is Bad as Ground

MONTREAL (CP)—Trees can grow in the world's worst ground with the world's worst water.

The Israeli husband-and - wife team of Dr. Elizabeth and Hugo Boyko proved it by growing 180 species of trees in the Negev Desert, watering them with sea water. They have grown grasses on sand dunes, watering them with water saltier than any ocean.

The Boykos are here to describe their work to the International Botanical Congress, a 10-day conference of the world's leading plant-life experts, which opened Wednesday.

In an interview, Dr. and Mrs. Boyko said previous researchers had made the mistake of working with salt water in good soil, or fresh water in bad soil. "Bad ground needs bad water," Dr. Boyko said.

He said his wife have been named winners of the John Fleming Medal for scientific advance contributing to human welfare. Their discoveries open the possibility of making the Sahara and other great deserts green again.

The experiments were started 10 years ago in Elath, a Red Sea port where temperatures go as high as 110 degrees and where the ground is 60 per cent gravel and 35 per cent sand. They sprinkled their seedlings with brackish water trucked in from a saline spring 18 miles away.

The sand and gravel are not a handicap but a necessity, Dr. Boyko said. Salt water percolates down through it. The trees take what they need and the salt drops away.

A group of Soviet scientists, interviewed through interpreters, said several collective farms are operating in Russia's Arctic regions north of the tree line.

The Arctic farms are still on an experimental basis, they said. Scientists are developing plant strains that will flourish under harsh northern conditions.

A new form of hardy potato has been developed as a staple in the tundra farms, they said.

The botanists said results of their work are being made available to Canada.

Rail Union Heads Meet to Draft New Demands

MONTREAL (CP) — Ninety union leaders met today to draft new contract demands on Canada's major railways.

The general conference committee of the 15-union "non-op" group was discussing possible wage increases for 130,000 railway employees across the country.

"We hope to finish today," said Frank Hall, chief negotiator for the big railway union team.

He said the meeting will set policy targets for the non-op negotiating team to seek in forthcoming negotiations with the railways.

The non-ops' contract with the railway will expire Dec. 31. The unions may serve whatever demands they want anytime after Sept. 1.

The last contract, signed late last year, was finally settled more than a year after the unions first approached the railways with their new demands. That contract provided for wage increases in stages totalling 13 cents an hour.

The 15 non - operating unions represent railway workers in a wide range of jobs—from machinists to maintenance workers, from clerks to freight handlers. Almost every railway worker not involved in the actual running of trains is represented by non-op unions.

Khrushchev May Stop Twice In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev may stop in Washington twice during his visit to the United States, giving him extra opportunity for private talks with President Eisenhower.

The Soviet premier is scheduled to arrive in Washington Sept. 15 for the start of a 12-day tour. When he returns from his coast-to-coast travels, Eisenhower may take him to secluded Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains for a final chat.

This would afford Eisenhower a chance to speak to Khrushchev personally after the Russian sees the United States first-hand.

An original estimate that Khrushchev would spend two to three daxs in Washington now has been lengthened to three or four days.

Exact details on where Khrushchev will go and when still are being worked out. The Russians have set the time limit of 12 days on his visit.

Khrushchev likely will cross the country by airplane, with only limited auto travel, taking in New York, Las Angeles, San Francisco, Iowa farmland and perhaps Pittsburgh.

The Russians have not yet said where Khrushchev will go from the United States. There is some speculation he might fly to Peking, but the Russians have shown no interest in Alaska's proposal that he stop there.

CNR Will Seek Approval for Toronto Bypass

TORONTO (CP)—The "southern" route of a 35-mile bypass around Metropolitan Toronto is to be submitted to Parliament by the CNR, J. W. G. Macdougall, counsel for the railway, said Wednesday.

He made the announcement following a Metropolitan Toronto planning board protest meeting which heard nine deputations.

The route, attacked during the last six months by residents of Markham, Vaughan and Pickering townships, cuts through the centre of the village of Dunbarton in Pickering Township and a residential area in Markham Township. At least five other routes were considered.

Went to Jail to Prevent His Child Being Born While Wife in Prison

LONDON (Reuters) — Teddy Brown's wife was expecting a baby. She also had filched £74 from the firm she worked for as a bookkeeper.

Teddy, 26, decided to save her and his child from the embarrassment of having the youngster born in prison.

The result was that Teddy was sentenced to a total of 12 months in jail.

The story came out Wednesday when Teddy appealed against being given two consecutive six-month sentences — in effect 12 months — instead of two concurrent terms which would have worked out to six months.

When he found out about his wife's trouble with the law, he decided he had to shift the blame to himself. And, as he put it:

"I had to make out I was a rotter, otherwise the police wouldn't have believed me."

So, with his 20-year-old wife, Mary, he cooked up a story in which she said:

"I have never had any of the money myself. I have given it all to Teddy, who went out drinking and to the dogs (greyhound races)".

Teddy backed up the tale, saying:

"She told me she was handling money and I asked her if she could fiddle some for me."

When she refused, he said, "I then threatened her that if she did not steal money there would be trouble and I would probably leave her."

"She is a good wife and would never have done this if I had not pressed her," he said, adding:

"I am the one to blame and not her. It is entirely my fault and I want to take responsibility for her."

The court obliged by placing her on probation and sending him to prison.

The whole of his story was a fable. He doesn't drink and doesn't bet.

It all came out right before the appeals court Wednesday. Teddy was placed under a suspended sentence for 12 months instead of staying in prison.

Ken Clarke Returns Home As Best Barker in Business

Ken Clarke, a polio victim, the first crippled child looked after by the Rotary Club here, returned to the city this week after an absence of nearly 20 years, operating a dare devil sideshow at the fair and recognized as "the best barker in the business."

He was born and brought up here. As a child his first crutches were 18 inches long. He used crutches until he was 12 years of age and then the Belleville Rotary Club sent him to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. He subsequently walked much better.

He attended Queen Mary School and the Ontario Business College. After school hours and on Saturdays he shined shoes at Bill Cook's cigar store and Maraskas' pool room.

In the show business he started with snakes, operating a snake pit, the girl shows, freak shows, all kinds of shows. "My favorite is the dare devil show," he says, "but I can take any show on midway and sell it. I'm recognized as the best barker in the business."

TALKS QUIETLY

When talking to the crowd along the midway, giving his "spell," as it is called, Mr. Clarke does not shout or even raise his voice or use persuasive tones. He speaks clearly and quietly into the microphone in a friendly, conversational manner.

Thus he has travelled through all 50 of the United States, including Hawaii, that is, and in Bermuda; and in Canada from Victoria, B.C. to St. John's, Nfld. "Hawaii? Oh, it's just another stand. Nothing different but nice weather. The native people are mulatto, you know, lightly colored. They live just the same as we do. It is a beautiful place to be just the same as any other place."

"Yes, the colored people come to the shows, just about the same as white people. In Bermuda it's about fifty-fifty, white and colored. They both come about the same."

WINTERS IN TEXAS

During the winter months, when this kind of show business comes to a standstill, Mr. Clarke has made his headquarters in Dallas, Texas. "It's a lovely state, sociable people, beautiful weather. Everyone talks big and acts big. They shoot a lot of blather about their state. But you can't blame them. It's a lovely state."

"Of all the shows I've been with, and I've been with many, I've never been with one more considerate and fair than Conklin.

In Belleville after such a long absence, he has noted many changes and renewed many acquaintances. "No matter where I go I always hold a soft spot in my heart for Belleville, where I was born and raised."

His father, the late Ed "Teddy" Clarke, died here in 1938. His mother, at 94, is living in Toronto with his sister, Mabel, who used to be a reporter on The Intelligencer before it was The Ontario Intelligencer.

"How am I feeling? Fine! I'm feeling wonderful — thanks to the Belleville Rotary Club. In fact, I probably would not be here now if it were not for that Rotary Club."

Dial Telephone System Planned For Madoc in '60

The dial telephone is coming to Madoc.

G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager for this region, announced that first step in an extensive construction program intended to provide dial telephone service in Madoc and vicinity by the summer of 1960 has been taken with the awarding of a contract for the construction of a new exchange building at the corner of Prince Albert and Davidson Streets.

The manager said that the contractor, John Entwistle Construction Ltd., of Cornwall, are scheduled to start working on the building site very shortly, for completion in the beginning of 1960. Skilled telephone craftsmen will then start the complex task of installing the intricate dial switching equipment which will connect all local calls placed in Madoc and vicinity.

Of modern design inside and out, the new one-storey building will be fire-proof contruction with a reinforced concrete structure and brick walls. It was designed with a view of enhancing the general appearance of the neighborhood.

The new building will be 52 feet long by 44 feet wide.

Mr. Proctor pointed out that, in addition to the construction of the new building, many other design, engineering and construction projects will have to be carried out as part of the conversion program. The community's entire network of outside telephone wire and cable must be re-arranged and the switching equipment must be designed and manufactured to meet Madoc's specific telephone needs.

Initially, there will be sufficient dial equipment to serve more than 1,300 telephones but the building will have an overall capacity of 2,000 terminals — each representing a telephone number.

"This new exchange will enable us to keep pace with the rapid development which is taking place in this region, and it will also provide facilities to improve our servce to residents of Madoc and vicinity", the manager stated.

When the dial office opens, automatic switching equipment will take over the task of connecting all local calls, and operators will no longer be needed here. However, Mr. Proctor explained every effort will be made to assure that the change to dial operation causes a minimum of disruption to the Bell's Madoc operating staff.

After dial conversion most of the permanent operators in Madoc will be offered positions in other offices.

DAVID WALKER

appointments were May 12, 1958. At that time he appointed two Quebec representatives — Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and State Secretary Courtemanche—and moved Mrs. Ellen Fairclough from state secretary to the immigration portfolio.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Sevigny arrived at the prime minister's office 30 minutes before the swearing-in ceremony and drove to Government House for the 11 a.m. function. Both were accompanied by their wives.

The appointment of Mr. Sevigny means that a new deputy Commons Speaker must be found for the next session of Parliament, expected to open early in January.

An industrialist, Mr. Sevigny was first elected to the Commons in the March 31, 1958, general election. He has been deputy Speaker since May, 1958.

A resident of Westmount, Que., Mr. Sevigny ran in the 1949 and 1957 elections and was defeated.

Mr. Walker, 54-year-old native of Toronto, was first elected to Parliament in 1957 and was made parliamentary assistant to Justice Minister Fulton.

He was re-elected in 1958 and took a leading part in the investigation by the Commons public accounts committee into the construction of the $17,000,000 printing bureau in Hull, Que.

Mr. Macdonnell will continue as a front bench member in the Commons and is considered likely to be named to the Senate when a vacancy occurs for Ontario.

Grounds, Grandstand Packed For Third Day of Local Fair; Ride of Mounties Thrilling

Third - day attendance at the Belleville Fair yesterday crowded the 10,000 mark, approximately 1,000 short of the record 11,074 established in 1956.

Some 9,936 adults paid their way through the exhibition gates as compared to 7,492 of last year. The figure in 1957 was 7,514.

Slightly under 4,000 paid admission onto the grandstand for the afternoon and evening shows, about 500 short of the 1956 figure. However many people were turned away at the night performance, due to lack of seating and standing facilities.

It was estimated that over 5,000 patrons saw the evening grandstand performance. The bleachers were packed to capacity while spectators stood four and five deep behind the snow fence across the tracks. They spilled over on the track at each end of the performance area.

Popularity of the spectacular "Ride of the Mounties" is evidenced in the grandstand figures. In 1956 when the "Musical Ride" was featured, the crowd numbered 4,445. Last night it was, as mentioned, 3,962. In the two intervening years, third - day grandstand attendance was 1,821 in 1957 and 1,846 in 1958.

Tonight the four - day exhibition comes to an end with a full program of stage and other entertainment.

A solid fan of the fair has been the weather man. Rain threatened Monday morning when the exhibition was getting its legs, but it cleared away and perfect weather has been in order since.

According to a prominent fair official, no small factor in the success of the exhibition, has been the efforts of those who labor the hard way.

DONE WONDERFUL JOB

Over 100 "hands", some paid, a lot doing their work gratis toil day and night doing the various jobs so important to the successful operation of any fair. These, outside of the directors many of whom have "rolled up their sleeves and dug in "to help the common cause.

"We owe a big debt of gratitude to these men", the offical said. "They have done a wonderful job, and without them we do not know what we would have done".

He also paid tribute to the Quinte Sea Cadet Corps who have done and are doing a magnificent job in aiding with the traffic problem inside the fair. Outside, city police officers have done sterling work keeping traffic moving and under control.

Again a standing ovation from the grandstand and vociferous and other applause from bleachers and other points of vantage greeted the Royal Canadian before and after their "Ride". Mounted Police 'spectacular".

The outstanding horsemanship of the riders; the perfect timing of the horses and the unfolding of the different patterns such as the Shanghai Cross, drew gasps of admiration from the packed spectators. The "Ride" will conclude it's Belleville performances at tonight's show.

The stage performance highlighted by a spectacular high dive (85 feet) into a six foot tank, drew well merited applause.

PERFECT DIVE

"Golden Boy" Terry Merrill executed a perfect dive from the dizzy height while the three other members of the diving troupe gave outstanding exhibitions interspersed with comedy.

The Five Falcons, a singing rock 'n' roll ensemble were well received as was juggling and dancing acts. Paul Kohler, versatile master-of-ceremonies again at his colorful best.

The Midway with its corridors of illuminated entertainment was the mecca for crowds during afternoon and evening. It was packed with fun-seeking numanity after the grandstand show was over. Rides, sideshows and other thrill-giving attractions were well patronized.

Kingston Driver Badly Injured At Harness Meet

A crash helmet probably saved the life of Archie McDonald of Kingston following a spill in the second heat of the harness racing at the fairgrounds on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. McDonald suffered a broken shoulder, two or three cracked ribs and a fractured hip when he was thrown heavily into the rail posts, when his horse, Linda McDuff was forced off stride and fell over Smithfield Boy, who shied and came over into McDonald's position.

He was rushed to the hospital in Bush's Ambulance after being attended by Dr. E. G. Kennedy at the scene and later was taken to Kingston General Hospital to be nearer his home. The field went away sharply in this heat with Lee Mac S, the eventual winner, on top and the field well bunched. Smithfield boy, racing on the outside and near Linda McDuff, shied at a water spot on the track and came over a little and after stumbling went down in front of the mare. The mare hit the bike wheel and jumped clear but McDonald was thrown heavily from the bike into the fence on his head. The crash helmet took the force of the blow but his body was thrown into the fence and carried for some distance. It was a bad accident and the first one that has been seen here in some time.

Lee Mac S was easily the best in the 2.28 class with Duke Dillard and Smithfield Lass supplying the opposition. The racing was more keen in the 2.24 class when the heats were divided. Jim Herd's mare from Peterborough, Patsy Gratton H. won the first heat in a long stretch drive with a good trotter, Tim Belwin, but in the second heat the trotter easily won the second canto in another keen duel down the "lane." The times of the races were considered good, considering the use made of the track for other events on the program. The starts during the two days were handled in an excellent manner by Lorne Urch with the starting gate and the judges kept a wary eye on any wrongdoings by the drivers. The results:

Newfoundlanders Will Settle Today Two Most Contentious Issues Facing Province

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The weatherman predicted sunny skies for Newfoundlanders who go to the polls today to settle one of the most contentious issues this province has faced since Confederation in 1949.

A record turnout is expected.

An official source said there are about 220,000 people of 21 or over who could be eligible to vote. But there have been no new voters lists since 1955.

The Liberals have 33 candidates in the race, the Progressive Conservatives 32, the Newfoundland Democratic party 19, and the United Newfoundland party nine. There are two independents.

Premier Smallwood threw his Liberals into battle when the only two PC members of the last House voted against his resolution condemning the federal government's handling of special grants under term 29 of the Confederation agreements.

PCs backed the federal government's Newfoundland Grant Act which gives the province a total of $36,500,000 over a five-year period ending March 31, 1962.

The United Newfoundland party was formed when James Higgins and A. M. Duffy left the PC party to support Premier Smallwood's term 29 stand.

Democrats, supported by the province's small CCF following and the Canadian Labor Congress, entered to protest what they term "anti - labor" laws passed unanimously by the legislature last March.

The Democrats' sudden birth more than two weeks ago forced other parties to take a stand on the contentious labor laws which, among other things, decertified two locals of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) while one of them was on strike.

Liberals reiterated ealier promises to review the legislation with a view of softening it. The PCs promised to repeal the laws. The UNs promised only a review.

A victory today could start Premier Smallwood on a Canada-wide speaking tour aimed at toppling Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government. A loss would mean his retirement, he said.

The Canadian tour was outlined by Jack Pickersgill, federal member for the Newfoundland riding of Bonavista-Twillingate. Mr. Smallwood would tell Canada about the "unfair" treatment Newfoundland has received from Ottawa.

There were 31 Liberals, two PCs and two UNs in the House at dissolution. One seat was vacant.

Eoka Leader, General Grivas, Again Dabbling in Politics

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gen. George Grivas, leader of the terrorist organization Eoka which fought the British in a bitter guerrilla campaign in Cyprus for four years, is dabbling in politics again.

He has been in Greece for several months, ostensibly writing his memoirs. Now he says he is ready to become head of the Greek government. He insists he would try only by legal means and "if I am convinced that the majority of the people actually ask for me."

Grivas is using the still-inflammable Cyprus issue to attack the present administration of Konstantin Karamanlis with the hope that he can whip up popular support in his bid for power.

TROUBLE AHEAD

But what he and his extremist supporters on Cyprus are saying can cause trouble for the Mediterranean island.

The British colony is to become an independent republic by next February. An agreement signed in London early this year by Britain; Greece and Turkey ended the armed conflict of the island. It also calmed tempers between Greek-descended Cypriots, who make up four-fifths of the population and wanted Cyprus made part of Greece, and Turkish-Cypriots who comprise the remainder and wanted the colony divided between the two ethnic groups.

For a time Grivas supported the London agreement but now claims that Karamanlis is guilty of selling out Greek interests under British and Turkish pressure.

He accuses Archbishop Makarios, once exiled from Cyprus by Britain and now back there as a leading advocate of moderation, as being too eager to placate the Turks and the British.

PROTECTION CLAIM

"What I am doing," Grivas told a meeting in northern Greece a few days ago, "is protecting the freedom of Cyprus. Already my warnings have compelled the Greek-Cypriot leadership to refrain from making concessions."

Archbishop Makarios shows every sign of wanting the London agreement to be a success. He has condemned a renewed Eoka-style campaign which is again demanding union of the island with Greece as a "plot against our island's peace."

At the moment, the vendetta Grivas is waging seems mainly designed to advance his political ambitions in Athens. But it does help the cause of the extremists who are trying to upset the plans of Makarios and others to bring the new republic into being without strife.

Some of Grivas' supporters in Cyprus are hoping he can gain power before February in time to repudiate the London accord and try again to annex the island to Greece.

Nude Woman Found Wounded, Man Charged

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Dalton 35, was charged Wednesday night with wounding after a nude woman was found lying in a pool of blood on a bed with severe internal injuries suffered when she was kicked or knifed.

Police tentatively identified her as Josephine Hamilton, 50.

Hospital officials described her condition as critical.

Const. George Kipling may have saved the woman's life. He spotted a man on the sidewalk with blood on his shirt and, after questioning, had him lead the way to his home where he found the woman.

Police were unable to find any weapon.

17th Anniversary Of Dieppe Raid Quietly Observed

DIEPPE, France (AP)—A quiet ceremony in this channel city marked the 17th anniversary Wednesday of the famed Canadian commando raid on Dieppe.

The raid, one of the biggest and bloodiest of the war, occurred on the night of Aug. 19, 1942. France was then under the German occupation.

Col. M. la Haie, attache of the Canadian embassy, and Capt. Rene Guynemer, who led a delegation of French-speaking Canadians residing in Britain, placed a wreath at the foot of the war monument.

The monument, dedicated to the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, the outfit that led the raid, stands in Canada Square in Dieppe.

Three religious ceremonies—Roman Catholic, and another for Anglican and general protestants—were held Tuesday in the cemetery of Hautot - Sur - Mer where many of the soldiers who were killed during the raid are buried.

Police Probing Theft of $163 From Gardens

TRENTON — Trenton police are investigating the theft of $163 in cash and merchandise which was stolen from the Trenton Community Gardens recently.

Al Hockaday, who works there as maintenance man, discovered the theft when he opened the Gardens Tuesday morning and it is believed that the building was entered some time late Monday evening or early Tuesday morning.

Trenton police report that $63 worth of cash and about $100 worth of merchandise was taken from the snack bar. Damage to the property was extensive. Windows on the west side of the arena were broken. The north door of the building was forced for the thieves to gain admittance. A section of the front of the snack bar was broken and the stock room door forced open and the stock disarranged. A locked cupboard in the manager's office was broken open to get the cash which was kept there.

Manager of the Gardens, Ron Thornton, reported the theft to the Trenton police department, who are investigating the case.

Another break-in occurred in Trenton late last week. Thieves entered a store on North Front Street, known as Harry's and broke open a soft drink machine, obtaining a very small amount of cash. Thieves forced the rear door of the building and went through the store to where the machine stood. No other merchandise was taken and no other damage reported. The Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are investigating the incident.

Hockey Club Needs $4000 to Operate Juniors

TRENTON — The hockey committee of Trenton is working desparately to raise $4,000 in the near future so that all arrangements for a Junior B team for Trenton will be made in time for the start of the season.

The committee feels that it needs this amount for operating expenses and present debts. Paul Tripp of the hockey committee said that a team will not be iced until there is suffcient money in the bank to cover operating expenses. Included in the amount that the committee is trying to raise is the debt still remaining against the Junior B team of last year which amounts to close to $1,000.

At a recent meeting of the Community Gardens Board the board discussed the five proposals brought before it by the hockey committee and made minor changes.

The board decided that the Community Gardens would be rented for Junior B hockey at a price of $75.00 each evening on Saturday evenings.

The Community Gardens will provide police protection at these games and such services as dressing rooms as asked for in the brief. Five hours of free practice time each week will be donated to the team by the Gardens Board. The hours for this practice must be mutually agreed upon. Admission prices will be set and maintained by the committee and the Gardens Board working together.

It is expected that service clubs will be approached in an endeavor to raise this sum of money within the allotted time.

It has also been agreed upon that the players will come from a 50-mile radius and will have local boys on the team.

MAJOR M. JACK

Major M. Jack of Belleville, will attend a two-year course at the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, commencing in September.

An officer of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Major Jack is now with the Directorate of Personnel at Army Headquarters, Ottawa.

This is the first of the newly extended courses at the Staff College. Canada's growing commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the United Nations and various standardization and joint planning staffs both at home and abroad have made it necessary to double the length of the course from its previous 45 weeks duration.

Fifty Canadian officers have been selected to attend the course as well as a number from other Commonwealth and allied countries.

"Mom" Names Directors for Her Mission

TORONTO (CP) — Names of a board of directors for Whytehaven Mission, closed since a recent court ruling that some of the children there were neglected, were announced Wednesday by Rev. James Spiers of Winnipeg.

Mr. Spiers, an associate of Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte who operated the home, said the directors had been elected about a year ago when Mrs. Whyte first applied for incorporation of the home near Bowmanville.

The directors are Mrs. Whyte and her husband Robert, Mrs. Sharon Rogerson, Miss Ingrid Carlson and Allan Shank.

Mr. Spiers said an advisory committee has also been named. Members are George Tonks, architect; Archie Thompson, chartered accountant; E. H. Van Slyke, businessman; and Dr. V. Sorbara, obstetrician, all of Toronto; and A. T. Jackson, engineer, of Whitby.

Mr. Spiers said he thought the advisory committee would "help alleviate some of the pressure."

He said Mrs. Whyte plans to rectify whatever aspects of Whytehaven have caused complaint and her lawyers will see Dr. Gordon Brown, deputy minister of health, on Friday about re-opening the home.

It was made known also that the Ontario government has set up a $10,000 fund to care for the 107 children taken from the home about three weeks ago.

Paddy and Frank Conklin In Carnival Game Since '07

The largest carnival operators in North America, one might as well say the world, would well describe the Conklin brothers of Brantford, who operate the midway at the Belleville Fair. This reputation is not easily earned and has taken a long time to develop. From 1907 when their father established the first travelling carnival with rides and sideshows until now the brothers Conklin, Paddy and Frank, have lived and breathed show business. There are two divisions to the Conklin Shows—the amusement parks, which Paddy takes care of, and the fairs or road shows, which Frank manages.

The Conklin show first came to Belleville in 1933 and continued to return intermittently until 1940 since which year the road show has made an annual visit to this city. There are 25 rides at the Fair this year, including one, the Mite Mouse, which is a new ride now in its second week of operation. This is the first portable ride of its type in the world. Some 75 per cent of the rides are ones which the Conklin brothers have introduced to North America. The rides are imported from Germany, Switzerland and from France. What the average fairgoer has seen during this fair only comprises about 10 per cent of the total number of rides which the Conklin organization has travelling across the Dominion and the United States.

The introduction of new rides plays an important part in maintaining the Conklin Shows suzerainty in the carnival field, and a ride is usually replaced after three to four years. "We are always looking for new rides," stated Frank Conklin in an interview with this paper. "You have to give the people new rides to stay in business . . and maintain leadership in the business."

FEW STAPLE RIDES

There are, of course, a few old regulars such as the ferris wheel and the merry-go-round, which never lose their appeal to the public. Maintenance of the rides is always carefully attended to and no machine is allowed to operate if its safe condition is at all suspect. There are 40 top men, electricians and mechanics, who are permanent employees of the Conklin Shows, and are responsible for the first class condition of the equipment. This attention has earned the show the lowest insurance rates for this type of business in the world.

Conklin's have about 125 rides and control some 50 more, and together with some 40 sideshows cater to the North American public at Belmont Park, Montreal, Crystal Beach, London, San Diego, California, Rye Beach, New York, and, of course, the Canadian National Exhibition. These places form the more or less "permanent show" sites. There are also 70 to 80 stops at fairs between Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and Quebec City, and in the United States.

The show which is in this city travels by highway, although the Conklins have a private train of some 50 cars for transportation use. The equipment arrives and departs loaded onto between 65 and 75 trucks. The entire midway can be set up in a matter of six hours and, as Frank Conklin says, "is always ready when the public is ready."

FRANK CONKLIN

More use of highways for transportation is seen for the future as the railways' rates have become too high for the economical use of the shows.

Of the 2,500 persons employed by the business during the course of the year about 350 are required to operate the local fair's midway. The show also employs a number of local people to assist in the erection, running, and breakdown of the equipment.

When asked how business was doing, Mr. Conklin commented that it was going well and felt that there was a parallel between the increasing success of the fairs and his business. "As the fairs get better, our business increases . . . as our rides improve the fairs' business increases. We go out of our way to co-operate with the fairs in order to stay in business."

Frank Conklin prefers the management of the road show because there is lots of action going on. There are lots of problems, of course, but one learns to live with them. "When we have a problem we can't wait for a board of directors' meeting . . . we have to solve it right away . . . soon you find what you once thought was really important is just another problem we have more in a day than most businesses have in a year".

Is there something else which Mr. Conklin would prefer to the carnival business? "Yes. I'd like to raise thoroughbred horses and purebred cattle . . . this would be preferable". This must be what comes of attending so many fairs.

Have Recording Of Blast on Ship

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (AP)—An unusual recording of the explosion and fire that killed two men and injured 28 aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp was being studied today by a U.S. Navy investigation board.

The sound of tre blast and the spontaneous reaction of the men near it was recorded because a tape - recorder microphone had been opened as a joke to pick up the voices of officers playing cribbage near the deck hangar.

The explosion forced the officers to seek safety but the microphone remained opened, picking up sounds at the blast scene for another two minutes.

The Wasp was on anti-submarine manoeuvres 250 miles off Virginia when the engine of a helicopter exploded while being tested in a hangar Tuesday.

Unemployment Insurance Problem

The August issue of "Canadian Business," official magazine of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, contains an editorial dealing with amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act passed at the last session of Parliament.

"Canadian Business" has praise for some of the amendments, but is critical of others, including the extension of the maximum duration of benefit from 36 weeks to 52 weeks. This change, it says, "raises an issue of fundamental policy; one which requires not only a study of the Act but of the whole unemployment problem."

"Just what kind of unemployment is a full-year benefit designed to meet?" asks Canadian Business. "Certainly it is not seasonal unemployment. Is it depression-type, recession-type, area, plant or technological unemployment that's envisioned by this provision? It makes a difference, because some of these contingencies are insurable risks, others are not."

There is certainly a fundamental issue raised here, but the point which needs study may perhaps not be precisely what "Canadian Business" appears to envision. It is evident from the above quotation that the magazine regards "seasonal unemployment" as a fit and proper field for the operation of unemployment insurance, and, indeed, a moment's reflection will convince even the most casual observer that it is in this spirit that the principle of unemployment insurance has been applied. Perhaps, though, if we are going to consider fundamental policy, we might commence by asking ourselves whether seasonal unemployment ought not to be the last, rather than the first, field in which unemployment insurance should operate.

Seasonal unemployment is, by definition, relatively short-term unemployment. For this very reason, it is the type of unemployment in which those made jobless could, or should, be best able to fend for themselves. That it affects a much larger number of Canadians than other types of unemployment does not alter this situation.

In keeping with the principle common to most sound insurance schemes in other fields, it may well be that unemployment insurance should concern itself first with protection against catastrophe, rather than against inconvenience. This would certainly cover depression-type and recession-type insurance, with the longer the duration the more greater the need for this coverage. Similarly protection would have to be given, although perhaps not for indefinite periods, to area-type unemployment. Whether the coverage under this principle should extend to plant or technological unemployment, except perhaps for brief periods necessary for relocation or retraining, is problematic.

Those who will object that in Canada the volume of seasonal unemployment makes it imperative that protection be given to workers thus affected have a telling point, but it is a contention which needs to meet two tests before its validity is granted. Firstly, we need to know whether the workers in these seasonal occupations are receiving monetary compensation for the fact that their jobs do not last the year around. If they do, if their wage rates are high because of long layoffs, the case for unemployment insurance protection is weakened. Secondly, if wage rates are low, as is the case in some seasonal occupations, we need to ask ourselves whether the industries employing them cannot afford higher rates, and whether the present unemployment insurance scheme is not in effect subsidizing those industries at the expense of people who work fifty weeks a year and of employers who provide jobs for a like period. Even if it is determined that the seasonally-employed worker does not receive sufficient to permit him to live for a full year on a season's pay, and even if it is determined that the industry which employs him cannot shoulder the responsibility of paying him on such a scale, we must ask ourselves whether such seasonal unemployment should be covered by the over-all unemployment insurance scheme, or whether its costs should be met from a special fund, raised in other ways than by contributions from full-time workers and their employers.

Such a policy would not really break new ground. School teachers have never applied for unemployment insurance during the summer holidays, although lake mariners have done so as soon as their boats tie up for the winter. Labor's "guaranteed annual wage" plan would have been a shining example of the extension of the school-teaching precedent to industry, except that it foundered, in most cases where it is effective, on the opportunity to make the state pay part of the cost, dipping into unemployment insurance funds.

A BIRTHDAY GREETING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I wish you all you'd like to know,
Each joy that now you lack;
Sigh you for smiles of long ago?
Then, friend, I wish them back.

I wish the best in life for you,
The charms that you'd call good,
And I would make each wish come true
This birthday, if I could.

I wish you gentle skies above,
A level path to tread,
A home that is endowed by love,
A lifetime free from dread.

A never-ending round of bliss
So long as you shall live,
And oh, my friend, I wish all this
I had the power to give.

Explorer Often Cried

Montreal Gazette

"I never knew a man who cried so easily as Scott."

This is a surprising statement, when it is learned that the Scott so described was none other than Captain Robert Falcon Scott, whose courage amidst cold, blizzards and starvation, as he struggled towards the South Pole in 1912, made his failure his triumph.

Yet he was really an extraordinarily sensitive man. If a horse was down on the street, or a dog run over, Scott would go at once to do whatever he could to help. But when the trouble was over, and he walked away, out would come his pocket handkerchief.

His heart was torn, on one of his early journeys in the Antarctic, when the sledge-dogs had to be shot. He could not bring himself to carry out "this horrid duty;" it had to be done for him by others. When the last of the dogs was shot, Scott wrote: "This was the saddest scene of all; I think we could all have wept."

He seems also to have suffered from an abnormally keen sense of apprehension. When his sister was about to give birth to her first child, he was, with another sister, in the waiting-room of the nursing home. The doctor came in. The child was born, he announced; everything had gone very well. He no sooner made the announcement than Scott collapsed into his arms in a dead faint.

Yet this was the man of action, who set for himself, and the companions of his journeyings, tasks beyond endurance, who made discipline a faith, and who, in the greatest dangers, seemed always the most serene.

These contradictions in Scott's nature only reveal the contradictions that lie in human nature itself. No one is ever quite what he may appear to be.

The British Army knew no man of greater courage than Field Marshal Earl Roberts. Yet Earl Roberts had a curious dread — he was terrified of cats. This fear was so great, and so insistent, that it could by no means be concealed. Everyone came to know about it, and wherever he went elaborate precautions were taken so that no cat could come near him.

In 1882, when he was Commander-in-Chief at Madras, he was to dine with the old 44th (1st Essex Regiment) in Fort St. George. The order at once went out that all cats were to be kept out of the way. The barracks, it so happened, had only one cat; it was a large Persian belonging to the adjutant. This cat was tied with a cord in the adjutant's quarters.

Earl Roberts arrived. In the middle of the dinner he put down his knife and fork. He could eat no more, he said; there was a cat in the room. The Colonel assured him that this could not be; the only cat in the barracks had been securely tied. "Very sorry," said Lord Roberts, "but I feel there is a cat in the room, or close to it, and I must go away if it is not removed."

A search was made. In an anteroom a cupboard door was found ajar. When they opened the door, the Persian cat was found fast asleep, with a broken cord attached to its collar.

Of all portraits of famous men perhaps none gives a greater impression of confident composure than the face of Sir Henry Irving. When off the stage no man's features were more composed; they were almost like marble. He had often a mocking air, expressing the sort of cynicism that comes from one who is almost detached from the world, with a slight but cold smile playing about the lips.

Yet those who acted in his company, though feeling a certain chill in his presence, also noted a surprising nervousness in him, every time he made ready for his entrance on the stage. And a woman who was his partner at dinner has disclosed Sir Henry's odd fear of mushrooms.

She was Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich of Boston (whose husband was, for a time, the editor of The Atlantic Monthly). At that dinner she had noticed that Sir Henry was only playing or toying with the dish of mushrooms before him.

When she remarked upon his hesitation, Sir Henry, in a half-melancholy voice, replied: "I cannot eat it. I am an arrant coward. In other things of life I dare to do all that becomes a man. Liking mushrooms better than any other food. I can master and force my will to put the tempter in my mouth; then a panic forcibly takes possession of me, and I cannot swallow it. Having been placed in this embarrassing predicament many times, I no longer play with fate.

It may seem a little disturbing that people should be found at times so very different than they appear. Yet these may not be contradictions in character, but the very stuff out of which character is made. Unless there are conflicts and struggles, there can never be any triumphs, and there could be no courage among those who had no fears.

About Women, Clever Men And Fools

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is ironic that slum dwellers who commit crimes are promptly sent to jail in most cases; but slum landlords, who perpetuate the living conditions that make crime attractive, are able to evade the law for years or escape with trifling fines.

The most useless accessory in an automobile is a dashboard clock; and the most essential is a sideview mirror, which should be made standard equipment as a safety measure.

Too many after-dinner orations bear out the truth of Ambrose Bierce's definition of a "lecturer" as a man "with his hand in your pocket, his tongue in your ear, and his faith in your patience."

Most of us believe that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear — but till we naively expect the schools to perform this magic with our children, even though we can't do it ourselves.

No other word in the entertainment world has been so abused lately as "festival," which is often just an excuse for three consecutive days of bad music at exorbitant prices.

It seems to be a psychological fact that the persons with the most exciting and vital personalities, who always generate activity around them, are at bottom the most lonesome of individuals, and the most inclined to depression and suicide when by themselves.

One of the shrewdest comments on the relations between the sexes in marriage was made by Kipling, when he observed: "The silliest woman can manage a clever man, but it needs a very clever woman to manage a fool."

It's hard to know which is worse — to be snubbed by influential people when you are a nonentity, or to be bored by the same people when you are a celebrity.

To protect a child from the result of his folly (except in the case of clear and present danger) is to create an adult who will persist in committing follies with no thought of their consequences. Emotionally speaking, there is no salvation without suffering.

The only qualification I can detect for becoming a disk-jockey is the ability to say "great" twenty times to the minute.

Rural Voters Privileged

Calgary Albertan

Discrimination against city voters is not confined to Canada. Many states of the U.S. have it.

Georgia, for instance, provides for representation in the state legislature by counties, and most of the rural counties have as little as 10, or even 5 percent of the population of the big urban counties. Thus the small rural population runs the state. Only the state legislature can change the system, and naturally the over-represented rural people are not going to vote away their own tremendous political advantage.

TODAY'S TALK

BODY PRIDE

This body of ours is one of the greatest of all miracles, yet how we abuse it. We often give greater care to our automobile than this outstanding creation. It serves us well if we pay loyal attention to it. Wonder of wonders is this body of ours. Treat it kindly and it will return its gifts a thousand fold.

This body pride is something that is all too often neglected. A clean mind and inward reverence for this body of yours, will pay you dividends every day of your life. There are endless influences that contribute to the health and happiness of this wonder of all creations. Oil it with kindness and courage. Take care of the thoughts with which you nourish it and give to it its strength.

The human body is a beautiful thing to behold. Do not abuse it. Keep anger out of it. Think of it always with pride. Guide it in terms of The Golden Rule. Influence others with it. Character is behind the treatment that you give to your body. Do not forget that it is God who planned this greatest of all created things.

Body pride influences every organ and nerve centre. Thoughts are deeds. They give to us the background to all the activities of mind and heart. Learn to relax. Sleep without worries. Make that body of yours a genuine friend. Inspire others to follow in your pathway.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

SASKATOON, SASK.

The name is derived from the Cree 'Mis-sask-quah-too-mina' or 'Mis-sask-a-too,mina.' The name was given by the Indians to the berry which is found in such profusion in this vicinity, which resembles somewhat the blueberry. According to a member of the original townsite survey party, the Indians used to gather large quantities of these berries and walk through the camps selling them, crying: 'Saskatoons! Saskatoons!' On the occasion of the recent visit of Queen Elizabeth to Saskatoon, she was presented with a jar of berries.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TODAY IS BETTER

"The good old days of yore!"

Yes, there was much good in them. More than thirty centuries ago the matchless Moses heard God speaking and under divine direction established a nation and a way of life which was to bless humanity. Two thousand years ago Jesus Christ came, performed His miraculous ministry, suffered death, experienced resurrection, and ascended into heaven to assume the glory of which He had temporarily divested Himself. Then there was the growth of the Christian church. In later years came the rise of democracy and the thrusting aside of the doctrine of the divine right of kings. Little more than a hundred years ago the scientific age began. Those of us who can remember before the year 1900 recall many things which gladden us in retrospect. There was much in the old way of life which was good.

But there was much in those days of yore which was evil. Cruelty, slavery, torture, and the degradation of women and children went on unrebuked for centuries. Business was unregulated in the old days and many a fortune was conceived and brought forth in dishonesty. Politics was worse in the old days than it is now (in fact, politics is not nearly so bad as we sometimes think it is).

Don't look back at the good old days of yore. Good? Yes, but evil also. We have problems today but our faces are turned toward the light.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

MYOCARDIAL INFARCTION MEANS PART OF THE HEART MUSCLE HAS BEEN DESTROYED

"Dear Dr. Molner: I was much interested in your column explaining what is meant by 'fibrillation'. You always make everything so clear and easy to understand.

"Would you be good enough to explain, when you find it convenient, just what 'myocardial infarction' covers? And after the heart injury is healed (the age is 65) is one ordinarily able to carry on routine household duties? — R. T. M."

If I weren't so happy about letters like yours, I'd have omitted the first paragraph — but the thing I try hardest to do is to make medicine explainable, and when I happen to hit the target, it pleases me immensely to hear about it. So much for my own ego.

Now for "myocardial infarction". Let's break it down into pieces. "Myo" means we are talking about muscle, and the "cardial" part means we are talking about the heart - cardiogram and the like use the same root.

Hence "myocardial" means reference to the heart muscle. The heart muscle, as distinguished from the valves, chambers, outer covering, and so on.

"Infarction" means that part of the muscle has been destroyed by having its blood supply shut off. Frankly, this is a very free translation of the word, but for medical purposes it is accurate. (Look up "infarct" or "infarction" in the dictionary, and you'll agree with me, I am sure.)

BLOOD PUSHED ALONG

Anyway, the heart, in its essentials, is a beautifully wrought group of chambers and valves to carry the blood, and around the whole business is the heart-muscle, big, strong and drable which contracts, or squeezes, at suitable intervals, so the chambers and valves, under this pressure, push the blood along.

In a sense, the heart muscle is like any other part of the muscle structure of the body. It must have a blood supply to nourish it, and give it energy. It doesn't have first claim; it must get its blood supply from the total circulation of the body.

And yet — in a way — it is, quite properly, favored in that it gets its supply from a branch artery leading from the main artery out of the heart itself. (I hope that's clear).

If that big branch artery were to be shut off, the heart would stop very quickly. But there are lesser ones from the branch artery. If one of them is shut off (clogged, let us say) one part of the heart muscle loses its blood supply. That part of the muscle fails. It dies.

The shock to the entire heart muscle is severe. This is a "heart attack". But presently the rest of the heart muscle recovers. The damaged part develops scar tissue. But since the heart muscle, to begin with, has perhaps 30 times the strength it needs, a moderate "heart attack" is not fatal, and is not subsequently incapacitating.

Is one "ordinarily able to carry on routine household duties" after recovery? In 75 per cent of the cases, yes. I use this figure loosely. Maybe it should be 80 or 85 or 70 or 75 per cent.

Yes, but be careful. Part of that wonderfully rugged heart muscle has been destroyed. Don't be foolhardy and overwork the part which remains, but don't underestimate its ability to carry on for years if you don't overload it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it all right to have a penicillin shot and a polio shot at the same time I heard they counteract each other. — I. S."

No, they do not counteract each other, and there is no reason why the two could not be given at the same time. Polio vaccine, indeed already contains a very small amount of penicillin to make sure that it will keep in good condition.

Alas, Poor 'Enry' Iggins

Montreal Gazette

The 700 pupils of Hatfield Grammar School, England, are to have their speech habits taken seriously in hand by the appointment of a full-time speech 'doctor,' David Shaw. Slovenly pronunciation in general will have a thorough treatment, with particular attention to the malady of the dropped 'aitch.'

From now on it would seem that Hatfield is to turn out an annual contingent of linguistic purists, whose easily recognizable "school badge" will be the finesse with which they handle the Queen's English.

This is no doubt very sound, but where does it all lead? Is Hatfield to be the centre from which ardent missionaries are yearly to plunge intrepidly into darkest England, intent on reforming its diction?

Many years ago Shaw set it down in the preface to "Pygmalion" that "the English have no respect for their language, and will not teach their children to speak it." Is Hatfield the answer? And, if so, what is to become of our friend "'enry 'iggins?"

Somehow or other — though this is heresy of the deepest dye — the world would never be quite the same without the richness and the pungency of Cockney speech.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A traffic engineer tells me that within fifteen years we will have to obtain a permit to own a car. And in order to obtain such a permit, we will have to show cause why we should have a car to be operated at public expense on the public highways and public streets.

"What's more," he says, "the cost of these permits will be expensive and in accordance with the use to which the car is to be put. For instance your last year's mileage, as shown on your government sealed speedometer, will have an important bearing on the cost of your permit. The larger the mileage, the higher the cost. We are now taxed through our gas consumption in something the same way, but it is not a fair estimate of taxation, because while two cars may both have covered 30,000 miles in the year and used the same amount of gas, one was performing a useful service to the community — say a delivery truck or a doctor's car; whereas the other may have been a sheer pleasure car, taking up valuable space on the highways and subjecting the pavements to wear and tear with no profit whatever to the community. Thus, a doctor's car with 30,000 miles on it will have its permit renewed for only $300 for the next year, whereas a sport car with 30,000 miles on it will have to pay $600 for the coming year's permit. This will greatly reduce the number of cars burning up the streets and highways at public expense."

"Are you crazy?" I asked the traffic engineer.

"No," he said sadly. "Only dreaming."

Historical Plaque Honoring Capt. Meyers Will Be Unveiled in City on Sunday

Next Sunday commencing at 2.15 p.m., ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of an historical plaque to commemorate Captain John Walden Meyers, U.E.L., the founder of Belleville, will be held in the city.

This plaque, situated in Victoria Park, is one of a series being erected throughout the province by the Department of Travel and Publicity acting on the advice of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario. It is hoped that the markers will stimulate an interest in local history among our own citizens and provide an attraction to tourists.

Sunday's ceremony is being sponsored by Hastings County Historical Society, whose president Mr. Gerald Boyce, will act as program chairman. The Archaeological and Historic Sites Board will be represented by Mrs. J. R. Futcher, a past provincial president of the Women's Institutes. Other persons who are expected to take part in the ceremony are Mayor Gerald Hyde, W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P., and the Rev. A. S. McConnell, Rector of St. Thomas' Church. The plaque will be unveiled by Mr. Glenn Meyers, a descendant of the city's founder.

BORN IN ALBANY

John Walden Meyers was born in Albany County, New York, on January 22, 1745. His father was an industrious farmer in that region and it is believed that the family was originally of Dutch or German descent. Little is known of his early life except that at the age of 20 he married a local girl, Mary Cruger, and started to farm on his own account.

The family held strong Loyalist sympathies and at the outbreak of the American Revolution, Meyers made the long trek through the wilderness to join General Burgoyne's army at Ticonderoga. In company with other Loyalists from New York and Vermont, he was enrolled into the battalion being formed by Ebenezer Jessup. He later obtained permission to join Sir Henry Clinton's forces which were operating out of New York City. Meyers saw much action during the next four years and was entrusted with many secret missions on behalf of various commanders. In May 1782 he was appointed captain in Edward Jessup's corps (Loyal Rangers.)

Peace was restored by the Treaty of Paris in 1783 and Meyers, with many other Loyalists who had served so actively, abandoned all hope of being able to return to his former property. Accordingly, in August 1783, he petitioned the commander-in-chief for land in the Richelieu Valley, south of Montreal. Here he built a cabin and prepared to settle once again as a farmer. However, his hopes were somewhat short-lived, for after disputes regarding his tenure, Meyers had to relinquish this holding.

RECEIVED GRANT OF LAND

In 1787 he received, under an order made out by John Collins, the deputy-surveyor general, a grant of land in Sidney township where he settled during the course of that year. A prominent and trusted member of Loyalist society, he was appointed a justice of the peace for the old district of Mecklenburg.

In 1788 he petitioned the government for permission to erect mills on his property. It appears that this was refused for he moved in 1790 to lot number 5 in Thurlow township and began to build mills on the adjacent stream. The latter became known as Meyers Creek and is now the River Moira. Meyers first erected a sawmill from which he was able to obtain lumber for the construction of a grist mill. This was the beginning of the present city of Belleville, for here, as in many other communities in the province, the mills provided a centre around which the settlement could grow.

A resourceful man Meyers soon occupied himself and his numerous family in a succession of enterprises. Apart from operating the mills, he is reputed to have established a thriving mercantile business dealing in lumber, potash, grain, livestock and furs. He shipped most of these products to Kingston in bateaux and a small schooner which he construced himself. He erected a hostelry for the reception of travellers and a trading post where he did business with the Mississauga Indians of the region. It is said that he also established a brickyard and built one of the earliest brick houses in this part of Upper Canada.

ABLE ADMINISTRATOR

In view of the growth of his settlement and the leadership displayed in his various enterprises, it was not surprising that he was entrusted with many administrative posts. In 1792 he was reappointed a justice of the peace for the Midland District and when the Militia was organized in Hastings County some six years later, he served with them as a captain. In 1802 he was chosen as the first Master of the local lodge of the Free Masons.

Meyers Creek, as the settlement was known, grew and prospered under the direction of its founder. It did not suffer from any destructive action during the War of 1812 and soon became a sizable community. It had never been named officially although, like many early centres in the province, it was identified by the name of its founder. In 1816 the citizens decided that the time had arrived when their community should be recognized by an official name and Belleville was chosen in honor of Arabella Gore, wife of Lieutenant-Governor Francis Gore.

Meyers died in 1821 after a long, active and useful life. Members of his family attained prominence in administrative and commercial circles and some of his descendants still reside in this province.

Junior Farmer Program Varied And Enjoyable

Demonstrations in rope halter making, hoof clipping, and preparing livestock for the show ring, were features of the Junior Farmer program at the Belleville Fair Wednesday.

All demonstrations saw keen competition on the part of the juniors entered and all contestants came in for commendation on their efforts from the judge in charge.

The Junior fair program continues today with achievement days for the Hastings county Swine Club and for the Belleville Calf Club.

Two Codrington district boys in Northumberland county copped the livestock showmanship preparation contest during yesterday's fair program. The winners were Owen Carr, and Boyd Nelson, whose preparation of their eight -months old Polled Angus bull caught the judges' eye for first place.

In second place in the livestock preparation contest were Lloyd Spencer and Lyle Vanclief of Ameliasburg township, while two Sidney township juniors Ronald Hamilton and Fred Phillips, took third place.

Lyle Vanclief of Ameliasburg won the rope halter making competition. Juniors are given an eight foot section of rope and within minutes come up with a series of splices which transform the rope into a calf's halter.

U.K. SCHOOLBOYS ON TOUR

MONTREAL (CP)—A party of 48 boys from the upper forms of England's secondary schools disembarked from the liner Carinthia Wednesday to start a 16-day tour of Eastern Canada under the W. H. Rhodes Canadian Educational Trust. Niagara Falls and Ottawa are on their itinerary.

Calf Throwing, Hoof Clipping Contests Held

Another phase of the Junior program in which competitors were allowed to choose their own particular phase of livestock preparation, saw Ronald and Robert Hamilton of Trenton 2 win out with a calf throwing and hoof clipping demonstration.

Second and third place winners in the rope halter competition were Barbara Chambers, Stirling 4, and Ronald Heath, Stirling 1.

Second winners in the demonstration competition were Paul McKeown of Campbellford, and Ronald Heath of Stirling. Their demonstration was "Labor Saving on the Dairy Farm".

In third place in the same competition were Lloyd Spencer, Belleville 1, and Lyle Vanclief of Ameliasburg who demonstrated electric de-horning of calves.

Associate Agriculture Director of Hastings county, Clinton Nesbitt of Stirling, noted that all demonstrations were keenly competed with the number of entries up considerably over last year.

Promise Farmers More Protection

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Police and Natal province members of Parliament have promised isolated farmers more protection and better communications during the African unrest.

A delegation from several villages near Pietermaritzburg told them Wednesday that white farm communities are prepared to evacuate their homes unless they get better protection.

Police chiefs replied they are ready to reinforce detachments in such areas and would set up a trouble warning system. Whites are outnumbered about 30 to 1 in rural areas.

White Leghorns Said Best for Egg Production

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doreen Cooper is conducting experiments on turkeys and hens, aimed at reducing the producers' costs.

Research by Miss Cooper, a 1950 graduate of the University of British Columbia here, is being conducted under supervision of Prof. Jacob Biely, chairman of the poultry department.

She has also worked with the Canadian government pathology laboratory, and at the Houghton poultry research centre near Cambridge University in England.

"Lengthening of the turkey-hatching season will give more poults per breeding which will increase the farmer's output," she said in an interview.

"This in turn would reduce production cost, which would be highly desirable from both producer and consumer viewpoints."

FAVORITE TURKEY

Experiments have been conducted since last September with the broadbreasted bronze, a market favorite.

Since March some 4,500 poults have been hatched and used for nutritional experiments. The flock has also been used for genetic studies in an effort to produce a bird of good consumer size with efficient feed conversion.

Research for low - cost rations has been coupled with maintenance of hen's egg quality, and university experts have found that white leghorns are best for egg production. The breed gives a maximum number of eggs for a minimum amount of feed.

David Mumby Clan Holds Reunion Picnic

On August 16, 56 descendants of the late David Mumby met for a family dinner in the Orange Hall at Springbrook with five daughters and four sons present. George, the eldest, passed away last year.

There are 14 grandsons and four granddaughters living; one deceased (Gladys Bateman); 31 great grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Mr. Lindsay Mumby, the only surviving uncle, was invited to meet with them.

At 12.30 they sat down to a bounteous dinner which was enjoyed by all.

The afternoon was spent in reminiscing and music supplied by Mesdames Angus, Lorne and David Mumby. Delbert Mumby and Everett Boldrick had their Model T 1923 coupe there, which was an added attraction for the younger ones, some going for a ride.

Some were unable to attend due to illness.

Mr. Lindsay Mumby was the eldest present and Carol Ann Boldrick the youngest.

Members were present from Toronto, Belleville, Tweed, West Huntingdon, Moira, Stirling, Springbrook and Bonarlaw, who plan another reunion next year.

Women Don't Want Premiums In Soap Boxes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Housewives who despair when they see the number of different sizes for soap packages have the sympathy of at least one consumer - expert here.

Dr. Isobel MacArthur, president of the Manitoba branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, says: "I'd like manufacturers to standardize on sizes, so that king-size boxes of soap or detergent would all be the same weight in different brands."

Retail merchants at a June meeting of their Canadian association said they object to the "multiplicity of sizes and brands of soap" now on the market. Shelf space and invested capital is increasingly strained, they told manufacturers.

Dr. MacArthur agrees. "You can't compare terminology," she says. "One king-size box may contain four pounds, four ounces; the other, three pounds, 10 ounces. We advise consumers to figure out the unit cost—how much is it per ounce?"

She says weight of the contents is usually marked in extremely small print on a corner of the package.

Complaints also come to the consumer association from purchasers who don't want premiums in their soap boxes. Dr. MacArthur echoes the words of such housewives: "We want soap, not all these extras."

Antiques With Personal Histories

In a little niche under the grandstand at the Fair several historical objects were noted: an early issue of the "Daily Intelligencer", first edition published in 1837 with the front page devoted to little ads. In 181 the outstanding news item was the opening of the bay bridge, which was a toll bridge. This illustration was accompanied by a drawing of the bridge, which occupied a major portion of the page, and pictures of the people instrumental it its erection.

Two other interesting articles not so evident, were a gold, locket-medal, and an iron-gold wedding band worn by Mrs. W. N. Ponton, a member of the Historical Society, who kindly gave the history of each.

The medal was presented to William Hutton, grandfather of the late Col. W. N. Ponton, in September 1851 at Brockville, by the Agriculture Society for the best essay on "Agriculture as a Pursuit", by the Johnstown Agriculture District Society, during the provincial exhibition of Upper Canada.

MEMORIAL RING

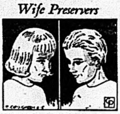
The wedding band is a memorial ring made in 1738, which has been in the Ponton family since that time. In 1923 it was used as Mrs. Ponton's wedding ring, and is made of iron with an 18 karat gold overlay with the Ponton family coat of arms in colored enamel, depicting a white swan feeding her young with the blood of her breast. The exact meaning of the crest is not known.

Other articles of antique interest included a rocking churn, looking much like a baby's cradle; a dasher churn which preceded the barrel churn; several crockery jars with handles and designs in blue; an apple peeler which was a great help when dried apple quarters festooned the old-time kitchens and the happy get-togethers where neighbors worked and visited, and later swung to the gay square dances; a butter printer and laddle; old-time candle molds with which grandmothers made the candles — a far cry from the present day modern lighting and an encrusted hook from a logging pole.

CRACKED WHEAT

Cracked wheat is made from cleaned whole wheat grain which has been coarsely cracked into angular pieces during milling.

Wife Preservers



Gray hair, to look smart, should never be worn in ultra-youthful styles such as the pageboy or a kittenish mode or any extreme style.

CROSS — HUMPHREY

Roslin United Church, Roslin, Ontario, was the setting for a lovely summertime wedding when Norma Elaine Humphrey, of Belleville, formerly of Schumacher, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Borden R. Humphrey, Schumacher, Ontario, became the bride of Earl James Daniel Cross, of Roslin, R.R. 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cross. The Reverend D. C. McLellan, of Trenton, assisted by the Reverend E. Wannamaker, of Roslin, Ontario, officiated before a background of gladioli and ferns. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows and streamers.

Mr. Jack Clark, of Plainfield R.R. 1, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, provided the wedding music, singing "I Love You Truly," and "I'll Walk Beside You," accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Bates of Roslin, at the organ.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Jack Wilson, Belleville, the bride was radiant in white Chantilly lace over satin featuring a fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline accented by sequins and seed pearls, with long, lily-pointed sleeves, and floor-length skirt with crinoline effect, enhanced by a lace apron front panel, and back panel of tiered net. She wore a small headdress in tiara style encrusted with sequins and seed pearls, and elbow-length veil of scalloped nylon net bordered with flowers outlined with sequins and seed pearls. Her flowers were of red roses backed with fern and white lace.

Miss Doris Norridge, of Belleville, attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing pale blue nylon over net in waltz-length with wide straps over the shoulders, and large bow and streamers at the back, of matching material. She wore a matching headdress and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white Shasta 'mums, with white accessories.

Mr. Donald Cross of Roslin, R.R. 1, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Messrs. Leonard Humphrey of Schumacher, Ontario, brother of the bride, and Mr. Sam Cross, of Roslin, R.R. 1, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held in the Orange hall at Roslin, where the bride's mother received, wearing a beige dotted dress with full skirt accented by a side sash, yellow hat, and beige accessories, with corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in grey silk jersey, with pleated skirt, pink picture hat and pink and white accessories, with pink rose corsage.

The happy couple are residing at Roslin; R.R. 1.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at three miscellaneous showers: at the home of Mrs. Jack Wilson, 132 Albert St., Belleville, with Mrs. Jack Wilson as hostess, and Mrs. Vernon Wilson as co-hostess; at the home of Miss Maxine Cross, Roslin R.R. 1, and at the home of Mrs. C. M. Bright of Timmins, Ontario.

She was also presented with a white chenille bedspread from the co-workers at the Northern Electric Company, Belleville.

18 Friends Hold Farewell Party

A farewell party was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, 31 Meyers Street, in honor of Mrs. Grace Wilson, who is leaving the city, where she has resided for a number of years, to make her home in Ottawa.

The evening was spent in crokinole and cards on the lawn and in the enjoyment of a corn roast, followed by ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Wilson was presented, on behalf of the 18 friends and neighbors present, with a lovely gift and a pretty card expressing their best wishes for happiness in her new home and their regret at losing her from the community. She will be greatly missed.

Irene Salemka Making Good As Soprano

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP) — Irene Salemka, an operatic soprano who now makes her home in Frankfurt, Germany, is a Canadian singer who has made good.

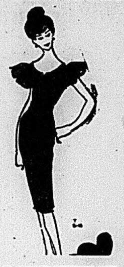
Miss Salemka, born in Steinbach, Man., and raised in Weyburn, has just been back here for a visit with her parents. Her singing career began here with an amteur radio appearance in 1946. Now she is associated with the Frankfurt State Opera.

In the years between, she has enjoyed notable successes. A New Orleans newspaper critic described her as "a captivating Mimi" in La Boheme, and a British reviewer praised her voice as having "the freshness of spring flowers, the sparkle of jewels."

She was tops in her class at the Saskatchewan music festival in 1947, and by 1953 had won an award on a national Canadian radio talent show for amateurs.

In 1955 she sang at Carnegie Hall in New York, her performance earning her a role with the New Orleans Opera. The next year she invaded Europe, and since then has sung at Sadler's Wells in London, the Basel State Opera in Switzerland and the Berlin State Opera.

Wizard Wardrobe



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The little dark dress, well cut and lending itself to accessory changes, is a wardrobe backbone. This one is done in either black or a dark blue that is just a bit lighter than navy and the fabric is a soft, pliable crepe. The full sleeves are this season's sartorial signature. The notched, scoop neckline makes a nice foil for a necklace, as does the snug bodice for a sparkling pin. Seaming shapes the bodice and the belt is of self fabric.

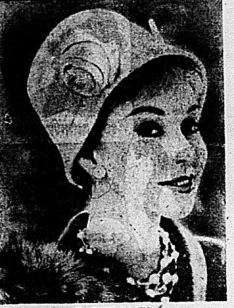
Hats in Balance



By ALICE ALDEN

Balance is the duty of the new hats — the lines tall to set off the new wide-shouldered clothes. Miss May designs a tall cloche with this axiom in mind. It is in white beaver felt, with a tiered crown. A large rose of the same felt marks the centre-side. The hat is set straight on the head but worn slightly back to reveal wisps of hair on forehead and sides.

Frozen or Jellied or Pickled Fruits

by Mary Moore

For freezing an "xxx" rating ("retain good quality") is given to two varieties of plums available on the Canadian markets: Italian Prune (Fellenburg) and Pacific Prune. Girls with freezers in their kitchens and plum trees in their gardens may want to freeze some for winter.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY (Guests)
Melon Ball Fruit Cup with Lime Juice; Sliced Boiled Turkey; Cranberry Jelly or Sauce; Creamed Cauliflower with Pimiento; Corn on Cob; Cocoanut Flake Layer Cake; Coffee.

SUNDAY (Patio or Garden)
Turkey Salad Deluxe (see Wednesday); Homemade Hot Rolls; Tossed Garden Salad with Parisienne Dressing (see Friday); Sliced Peaches and Cream or Homemade Fresh Applesauce; Butter Tarts (see Friday); Iced or Hot Tea.

TO FREEZE PLUMS:

Plums must be ripe before freezing. See varieties above. Damsons are given and "xx" rating (fair to fairly good). Cut the ripe plums in halves and remove pits, making only a small pack if this is your first try. Pack in heavily-waxed, cylindrical freezer cartons with slip-over or slip-in lids or glass jars. Drop halved and pitted plums directly into cartons or jars and pour over thin syrup made with 1 cup sugar and 2 cups water stirred to dissolve, and chilled. This yields about 2 1-2 cups and for each 16 fluid-ounce container allow 2-3 to 1 cup syrup. Be sure that syrup covers fruit and that head-space is left for expansion. Work quickly preparing only enough plums to fill 3 or 4 containers at a time. Cover, seal edges with freezer tape and freeze at once. Care must be taken in storing glass jars as there is always a danger of breaking them. In some provinces the use of glass jars in frozen food locker is prohibited by law. Freezer life of plums is one year.

Here is a lovely all-purpose Chili Sauce with Fruits in season that appeals to those sporadic canners whose sum total of "doing down something" amounts to about one item per year.

FRUIT CHILI SAUCE:

Two quarts ripe tomatoes peeled and quartered, 1 cup diced onion, 2 cups each diced celery, peaches or apricots peeled and diced, pears, peeled and diced, sweet red peppers chopped, 1 cup chopped green peppers, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-2 cup whole pickling spices tied in cheesecloth. Combine all ingredients except sugar. Simmer 2 hours. Add sugar and boil 30 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Year in and year out you buy green mint jelly to serve with lamb — at a stiff price — and resolve each time to make your own "next year". Here's your chance.

APPLE MINT JELLY:

Five lbs. tart underripe apples washed and unpeeled, 5 cups cold water, sugar warmed in oven, fresh sprigs of mint — plenty, green food coloring. Wash apples and cut into quarters, leaving peel, seeds and core intact. Put in kettle with cover, add water, and cook gently 25 minutes. Pour into into jelly bag and let drip over night. Do not squeeze bag. Measure juice and add 3-4 cup warmed sugar for each cup — but do not cook more than 4 cups juice at one time. Boil until syrup will "sheet" — adding about 8 sprigs fresh mint during last 10 minutes, and green food coloring during last 2 minutes. Pour into sterile glasses and seal with paraffin.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: QUESTION FOR YOU

In today's world, in which the humane and kindly virtues are having a struggle to survive, are you the gracious and attractive kind of person who really wants to make life fair and comfortable for other people? Are kindly social amenities important to you? Are you more interested in "oiling" the way of life than in "vinegarizing" it? Do you try always to remember to be tactful in deed and word? Is it your natural and spontaneous and pleasant habit to say "Thank you" and "Please" and "I beg your pardon" when you should say them? Are you more comfortable when you do and say things that make other people more comfortable? Are you happier when you do and say things that make other people happier? "Think on these things."

THANK-YOU NOTE CHARMINGLY IMPORTANT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married in the Fall, and I would like to ask a question about bridal showers. If, as I open each gift, I thank the giver personally for the gift, is it necessary that I write thank-you notes for these gifts? — Lulu

It isn't absolutely necessary that you write these notes . . . but it's mighty important. A socially-wise bride-to-be knows that she should make the gracious and graceful gestures that show her relatives and friends that she is an appreciative person — courteous and considerate.

And here's an important opportunity . . . to write a thank-you note, a day or so after the shower, to every giver of a shower gift: "I want to tell you again, dear Ruth, how deeply I appreciate your goodness to me, your dear thought. Such a lovely present you gave me, the radiant yellow breakfast set, place mats and napkins. They are so 'sunny' they'll start the day brightly for us! Jim and I both send our thanks to you, and our devoted greetings. You're such a dear friend!"

Your words of enthusiastic appreciation will linger in the memory of your friend . . . and she'll be so glad you wrote to reassure her that you so very much liked the gift she chose.

SERVING CHAMPAGNE ONLY FOR THE FIRST TOAST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married soon, and we have a question concerning the serving of champagne at the sit-down dinner at the wedding reception. The bride-to-be and the groom-to-be like very much the idea of following the traditional procedure of serving all the guests champagne for the drinking of the first toast — the toast "To the Bride and Bridegroom." However, neither they nor the others of our circle of family, relatives and friends, are particularly enthusiastic about champagne, though we do very much enjoy other wines, both red and white, and are quite accustomed to serving them.

So, Mrs. Beeckman, do you think it would be entirely out-of-order if we were to serve a glass of champagne to all the guests just after the best man proposes the first toast at the beginning of the dinner, and then, with each course of the dinner, serve a wine appropriate to that course? Would you approve? — Reader

Indeed I would entirely approve of your plan to serve the one glass of champagne to each guest for the drinking of the so-important first toast (thus making a bow to tradition!), and then serve the other wines during the dinner as you would at any other formal dinner. There is nothing that could be criticized about this plan, and I'm fairly sure you'll find many people who will be very enthusiastic about your idea not to concentrate on serving champagne.

A CHARMING IDEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Have you ever heard of an engaged girl giving her fiance an engagement gift when he gives her the engagement ring? A close friend of mine says she would very much like to give her fiance an "engagement gift," but does not know whether this would be the right thing to do. — A. R.

Indeed I have heard many, many times of an engaged girl giving her fiance an engagement gift when he gives her the engagement ring. Although this is not actually customary, it's entirely proper, and I think a charming idea. As the ring he gives her symbolizes the engagement, she can choose an important, lasting kind of gift that will also symbolize the engagement. Perhaps she will choose something she can have marked, with his or their initials and the date of the engagement.

PAYING "LAST RESPECTS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you go to a funeral home to pay your last respects to someone who has passed on, and the member of the family whom you know best says, as you are leaving, "Thank you for coming," what should you reply? — L.

You may say, for example, "I wanted to tell you of my deep sympathy. And I wanted to tell you too that if there is any service I can possibly do for you these days, please let me be of help." Or, if it might not be appropriate to say the last sentence (the friendship might not be that close), give a warm handshake as you say your "I wanted to come to tell you of my deep sympathy and understanding."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gloria S. — John has terrible manners.

Mrs. M. S. — The right woman can teach him.

Gloria S. — Is it silly to consider little personal habits when you are thinking of marrying a man?

John is quite good looking, makes a good living and says he is very much in love with me. I have gone with him for about a year. But I have never been able to get used to certain things he does, like picking his teeth in public, coughing long and loud and then spitting into a handkerchief, blowing smoke into my face and scratching himself.

When I gave him a hint about how I felt, he just laughed and ignored it. My mother thinks I'm making a mountain out of a molehill.

Mrs. M. S. — Gloria is 28, well past the age when she should allow such nonsense to come between her and a good chance for marriage I doubt whether she'll be getting better opportunities than this.

Often in the past Gloria has let other little things like this prevent marriage. One man was madly in love with her, but she couldn't stand his foreign manners and the way he dressed. Another had a very slight physical defect. Both these men are now happily married and make good husbands.

This man, John, comes from a very poor home and was probably never taught any better. The right woman can teach him manners.

The Council: In her eagerness to see her daughter married, Mrs. M. S. appears to be lumping too many things together.

It is true that young men and women often accept or reject one another for petty or foolish reasons, but manners of the kind Gloria describes are not necessarily a superficial aspect of the personality.

Possibly good manners weren't drilled into John, but it is inconceivable that he cannot have discovered by his late 20's that many people are offended by the behavior Gloria describes. Whether or not he admits it to himself or others, John knows that his actions are disagreeable to observe. He may have a perverse desire to offend others or he may want to flaunt his own poor opinion of himself and his background.

In any case, this is no longer a question of surface things like a slight physical defect or foreign mannerisms. John's manners — or lack of them — are an expression of a real personality disturbance. This disturbance may not make him totally unfit — for marriage, but it is certainly something to think about seriously. We would not recommend any girl's plunging into a marriage with a man whose behavior repels her. Contrary to Mrs. M. S.' notion, such men are not easily taught after marriage.

Instead of pressuring her daughter into marriage because of her late age, we think Mrs. M. S. would be wiser to stick to the sidelines and point out teh good characteristics of Gloria's men friends when she feels her daughter overlooks them. If the marriage is to be a success, Gloria must heed her own taste and judgment.

Women's Activities

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The regular meeting of the Eggleton WMS and WA was held on the evening of August 13th at the church with seven members and five visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley presided over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Harry Clarke, and opened the meeting with Mrs. Clancy as pianist.

The Scripture lesson from 1 John, 4:2-21 was read by Mrs. Maurice Clancy after which Miss Audrey Stapley read the meditation on the lesson.

Marilyn Stapley and Barbara Reid gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer by the president.

Mrs. Harry Clarke gave a very interesting reading on missionary work being done by a devoted pastor, who ministered to a number of isolated rural communities in Brazil.

All enjoyed the lovely solo contributed by Miss Annamae Clarke, with Mrs. Stapley playing her accompaniment.

A reading, "If You Ask Me— We do not know our neighbors well Enough" — was given by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett.

Another missionary reading, "The training of Students who later go as Ministers and Instructors to the rural areas in Cuba", was given by Mrs. William McMullen.

Business period followed with W.A. president, Mrs. McMullen, in charge.

The invitation from Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker was gladly accepted, and the September meeting will be held at her home in Stirling; Mrs. Bruce Stapley offered to prepare the program.

Bills for box of fruit and other things were presented and a motion was made that these be paid.

Friday, October 30th, was decided on as the date for the annual bazaar, which is to be held at the home of Mrs. William McMullen.

Supply secretary, Mrs. F. Stapley, reported that an eight pound parcel of nylons had been sent to Toronto; also that postage for sending them on overseas had been sent to the Toronto office.

At this time, the president thanked the program convener, those who took part on the program, and also on behalf of those present, and herself, she voiced a warm welcome to the five young girls who had attended.

Ex-Miner, Stoker, Policeman

Strong Scottish Alderman Starts Highland Gatherings

By STEPHEN SCHOFIELD

They call him "Lofty" John MacMillan and there is good reason for this. He stands six feet-seven and carries himself like a banner. First he was a miner in Cape Breton, then he went to sea as a stoker with the Canadian Navy, and later became a member of the shore patrol in Saint John, N.B.

Off duty one night, he became drunk and caused a disturbance in a restaurant. Two city policemen were detailed to "pick him up." Thoroughly aware that dealing with a 280-pound Scot, the tallest man in the Navy, would be no easy matter, they brought along a third man to help.

Lofty beat up the three of them. One of them he lifted over the counter and pushed his face into a frying pan, fortunately empty on the stove. Not long after this, he gave up liquor entirely. Today he drinks only tea, coffee and orange juice.

One day a city police officer invited him to join the force and Lofty was more than surprised when he said, "You don't remember me? I'm one of the [illegible] you beat up that night . . ." He joined.

He was promoted to sergeant, appointed president of the Saint John Police Association, organized and became president of the New Brunswick Association of Policemen, and finally union organizer for municipal and civic employees of the Atlantic Provinces.

PLEADS FOR SEVEN YEARS

Meanwhile he simmered with the idea of holding a highland gathering. For seven years he had pleaded with various organizations to sponsor a gathering, always in vain. Then something happened in Rothesay, a charming residential community about nine miles from Saint John.

The local branch of the Canadian Legion is a good one and Lofty decided to appeal to it. [illegible] present the idea of a highland gathering, he thought it would be well to look like a Scotsman himself. So he donned his kilts, his scarlet jacket and cocked his Tam o' Shanter, and that night the Legion members beheld a striking figure.

He spoke for 15 minutes. He made it plain that everyone would have to participate and work hard — icemen, carpenters and stockbrokers, all.

They did: The thing was a gamble and well they knew it. Expenses presented a terrifying total to the Legion. Lofty helped here by asking the owner of a bus line to provide transport for three girls' bands from Nova Scotia. A grandstand, booths, stands for Scann Triubhas were erected by businessmen working in spare time. Legion members and many others bent their backs and brains in an infinitude of arrangements.

PINK CHEEKS PUFF

Hence it came about that pink cheeks puffed and gay kilts skirled on the Rothesay green. Bands countermarched quick and slow, the players clad in velvet jackets, plaids swaying from the shoulder and white spats moving in unison a joy to behold. The girls were all pretty but each intent, grim as the crags of Scotland. Wee lassies in the pristine flush of youth unsheathed their swords and danced around in perfect time to a burly piper, tapping a hefty shoe. The costumes alone would move a heart of stone. Older folk bowed and twirled through Scottish country dances, the Glasgow Highlander and the Jessie Hornpipe, the same simple dances that have prevailed for centuries. Here were the traditions of Scotland being propagated in Rothesay. The affair was a great success. A tartan was composed for Rothesay in red, green and white.

Upon invitation the next year there came a champion Highland dancer, Betty Chan, from Saskatoon, Sask. She won one first and two seconds.

This summer, for the fourth consecutive year, the traditions of Scotland blazed afresh in Rothesay. Variety was added: A judo show by a local YMCA; a riding display by a local pony club, and the Legion Fair, incorporated with the gathering from the start, added many attractions. The crowd increased to 7,000 and the gathering, now a fixture, has become one of the most outstanding in Eastern Canada.

SOURCE OF SPORT

Lofty competed at first. Of late he has been too busy as an official. He derived his love of sport and a good fight in Judique, Cape Breton, where one of his heroes was Willy B, only five-foot-two and very strong. Willy was a member of the New Glasgow Amateur Athletic Association, coached by James Laidlaw; and because he was small and light, the coach taught him to box like Dempsey, using a hard punch and sidestepping smartly, to make up for his lack of weight.

When Willy attended Mount Allison University he sold vacum cleaners around Sydney during the summer to pay for his tuition. One day, after making a good many sales at Glace Bay he decided to treat himself to a taxi back to Sydney. The fare was worth about $2. When the taxi arrived in Sydney the driver demanded $5.

Willy said he would not pay it. The driver said he would. An argument ensued, and the driver, a hulking man of 190 pounds, took a wild swipe at Willy, which he quickly sidestepped, drove a hard left into the driver's stomach and followed throught with a right hook to the jaw. The driver collapsed. The police arrived. The two were brought up in court.

REFUSED TO PAY

The driver told the judge that Willy had refused to pay his fare and had hit him twice. Willy said he had been grossly overcharged and had been hit first.

"Then what did you do?" asked the judge.

"I hit him in the stomach, sir."

"What did you hit him in the stomach with?"

"My fist, sir."

"And what did you have in it?"

"Nothing, sir—just my fist."

"Then what did you hit him on the jaw with?"

"My other fist. My hands were bare, sir."

"You mean to tell me that a little fellow like you could lay out a big man like this and break his jaw!"

Willy nodded.

"Well,' said the judge, "I offer you my congratulations. You are discharged. And you," he said, turning to the driver, "are charged with attempted embezzlement and assault and fined $25."

The New Glasgow Amateur Athletic Association was invited to compete in a meet at Judique. The team had just been to Inverness and had cleaned up most of the events. Hence they were wanted as an attraction for the opening of a new track at Judique. The track itself was almost perfect (one 15-year-old boy ran the 100 yards in 10 seconds flat), and it was built by Angus Rankine, an engineer. And supervising the meet was Father Stanley MacDonald, priest of the parish and a brother of the late Angus MacDonald, premier of Nova Scotia.

SPRINTERS WARM UP

The New Glasgow boys were boarded in the presbytery and about half-past nine in the morning the coach went out to look over the track and jump pits. Not many people were present, perhaps a score or so, and the meet was soon to begin. The sprinters were warming up, but they were disappointed at having come so far to compete before a paltry score of people.

Suddenly the sound of bagpipes broke the stillness of the morning. Across the way the church doors opened and three pipers emerged, followed by 1,500 young people and parents, who had been kept in church by Father MacDonald until just the right time.

There were neither seats nor grandstand, nor any kind of fence around the field — just a post to mark where the ticket seller stood. Nobody passed him by. Everyone passed the post and bought a ticket.

There is a local custom called "Judique on the floor," and it occurred that afternoon, after a good many spectators had been drinking a Scottish beverage called usqubach, commonly known as moonshine, locally distilled. Two of the spectators started to argue. The argument sizzled until one of them took off his hat and threw it on the ground with a cry that all could hear, "Judique on the floor!" This meant a challenge to fight. Everyone formed a circle around the fighters as they rolled around on the grass, ensnared in each other's grip. Father MacDonald, however, came along and broke it up.

FLUENT IN GAELIC

But this was a fleeting event. The meet was a great success. And this was the life in which young Lofty learned to fight and to love good sport. It is said that Gaelic is spoken more in Cape Breton than in Scotland. Certainly Lofty can speak it fluently, and he does whenever he meets a similarly educated highlander. Another of his skills is with a drum-major's mace. Leading the pipe band of the Royal New Brunswick Regiment (Carleton and York), which Lofty organized, he twirls the mace with great dexterity; and it is considered a very fine band.

He loves to talk about Scotland, and when he starts there is no stopping him. It pours out. He knows a great deal of Scottish history and tradition, and because he is friendly and an easy mixer, his home is a constant rendezvous for Scots of the Maritimes, and often from the U.S. and Scotland. Sometimes they play catch the ten, an old Scottish card game, which has been played in Cape Breton since the time of Robert Burns. For two old Scotsmen visiting Saint John one night last spring, it was rather surprising to find themselves playing the same game, exactly the same rules they had learned long ago in the Hebrides, in the home of John MacMillan.

FRIENDS IN BOMBAY

One of his friends happened to be in Bombay, India, and there met two other Scotsmen about to embark for a place called Saint John in Canada.

"Have ye ever haired of it?"

"Saint John, New Brunswick?"

"Aye."

The two were promptly informed and told that if they wanted a proper Scottish New Year's Eve, to be sure and look up John MacMillan. They did, and they got it.

Mrs. MacMillan herself is nearly six feet tall. They have a daughter, Martha, 13; and two sons, John 5 and James 3. Whenever the family goes out, their contrasting dimensions invariably attract attention.

Running on the labor ticket for the Saint John Common Council last fall, Lofty polled the second highest vote; and now one of the political parties is "very interested" in him.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1959

One of the highlights of a very well executed series of precision movements may be seen above as sixteen mounts and riders cross each other's path on the jump, going in four different directions. Needless to say, this exhibition of timing and horsemanship drew a well-earned ovation from the spectators at yesterday afternoon's matinee performance.

Roman riding also brought the applause of the crowd as two riders managed four mounts through a series of movements at a brisk pace. Weeks of intensive training are required to develop this sort of co-ordination between riders and their horses

Besides those who perform "out front" there are also those who play a vital part to the success of the RCMP ride behind the scenes. Here Constable John Dunlop shoes "Hindu", while Constable Joe Horton, Hindu's rider, looks on.

Months of Constant Practice For Mounties, Horses Before Ride Shown to the Public

Those who have attended the grandstand show at the Belleville Fair have undoubtedly been most favorably impressed by the magnificent display of horsemanship and timing of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Exhibition Ride. One might wonder however how such a ride is organized. To be sure it is not just a matter of gathering a few horses and men together and saying "Let's have an exhibition ride."

The decision to have such a display originates in the office of the Commissioner of the R.C.M.P. and is dependent upon the number of requests received for a ride from the various exhibitions and agricultural fairs throughout Canada and the United States amongst other things. Once this decision has been made the training of the group is turned over to an Officer-in-Charge and a Riding Master, such as Inspector N. O. Jones and Staff Sergeant R. R. Van Patten. The men are then selected from their records in the force. Such things as their conduct, attitude, size, appearance and equestrian ability as displayed during training are carefully examined before final selection is made. Previous experience in musical or exhibition rides is not required. As a matter of fact few officers are selected more than once for any ride unless they have demonstrated exceptional ability and have personally requested such duty. Their application is then considered with the rest of those selected.

Around the first of March, to take this year's ride as an example, the men are assembled either at Rawcliffe or Regina and assigned their mounts. Then begins a strenuous session of practice, practice, and more practice up to about the end of July. Every week-day there are four hours of riding in the saddle. This is accompanied by grooming and care of the horses, stable fatigue and foot drill. Each man is responsible for the first-rate condition of his mount and equipment. After about two and one-half months of training and practice jumping the first details of the exhibition ride are laid down. Then comes more practice to get the precision patterns and movements down to perfection. The long period preceding this, the actual rehearsing of the ride, is used to thoroughly accustom the rider to his horse and vice-versa.

The selection of horses for the ride is quite a job. The mounts all of which are trained saddle horses, are first of all required to be jumpers. Then their size and color is considered in an attempt to have as closely matched a troop of horses as possible. The mounts are then introduced to a conditioning program.

MOST DIFFICULT RIDE

The exhibition ride is considered to be much more difficult for mounts and men than the musical ride. There are 67 jumps to be performed during a 10-minute ride. On occasion there are two performancs a day. This, of course, requires endurance and stamina of a high order.

Following the training period the tour gets underway. Some may consider this to be a romantic event, travelling about the provinces with the occasional side trip down to the United States. There is, however, an entirely different angle to this if one might view it through the eyes of a member of the ride. There are the problems of transportation of 24 horses to begin with. Then there is also the care of these mounts so that they constantly present an impeccable appearance. Horses have to be taken care of — cleaned, exercised and fed — seven days a week — there are no Saturdays or Sundays off. There is also the care of the equipment and an officer's personal uniform to be kept spotlessly clean and brightly polished. These things must all be attended to.

A good and worthwhile thing is not easily come by. Through hard work and a keen interest in their duties the RCMP officers concerned have produced what is probably the finest display of precision riding to be seen anywhere.

The history of the horsemanship displays which have become an annual occasion with the RCMP began in 1876. The show seen by fairgoers is the first of its type to be taken on tour as a change from the musical ride, which has come down through the years since the first RCMP riding academy was established in Regina. The idea of a ride was borrowed from the British cavalry regiments as an ideal winter training program. Gradually the rides became known to more people and soon requests were coming in for them to be put on at various fairs and exhibitions. In recent years this demand has been steadily increasing and this year's tour will not conclude until the Royal Winter Fair in November.

This year's ride had an extra performance required when they were a rather singular recognition in being selected to form the nucleus for the Queen's escort whilst she was in Ottawa. In November, however, the ride will be disbanded and the men will return to their police divisions to take up their normal police duties. And next year? Well . . . another year . . . another ride . . . one sincerely hopes.

Royal Commission Report Absolves Govt. of Charges Of Political Interference

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett released Wednesday a massive royal commission report absolving his Social Credit government of charges of political interference in the publicly operated British Columbia Power Commission.

But the report said blame could be laid at the government's door for failure to properly direct the power commission in its role in power-rich British Columbia.

On the other hand, the report blamed former power commission officials for laxness and faulty judgment which it said cost B.C. taxpayers millions of dollars because of inflated costs for power commission projects.

The premier announced immediate action to implement one of the main recommendations of the report—establishment of a five-man, non-salaried provincial energy development.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, dean of graduate studies at the University of British Columbia, who headed the three-man royal commission, was named chairman.

Also appointed were Hon. James Sinclair, one-time federal Liberal fisheries minister who now is president of the Fisheries Association of B.C.; Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the public utilities commission; Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, chairman of the power commission and A. F. Paget, comptroller of water rights in the province.

The royal commission reported charges made last fall by former power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs that the government tried to force an unfair rearrangement of financing on the commission was "based on a misinterpretation of events."

"Although there has been no political interference by the government in the affairs of the power commission, there has been a lack of awareness and appreciation by the government of the problems and accomplishments of the power commission . . ."

U.S. Government Figures Show Wages, Prices, Profits In Steel Going Up for Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government turned loose a mass of figures Wednesday to show that in the strike - closed U.S. steel industry wages, prices and profits have been going up for years.

Both labor and management hailed the figures as supporting their arguments in the dispute.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell made the statistics public at the direction of President Eisenhower in the hope this would lead the striking Steelworkers Union and the steel companies to bargain harder for a settlement.

Mitchell refused to say a word about what he thought either side should do in the way of give-and-take.

PUBLIC HAS INTEREST

He did point out the U.S. public has an interest in the strike, which has been going on for 36 days, costing $300,000,000 worth of production and $70,000,000 in wages each week.

Mitchell said in reply to a press conference question as to when a national emergency might result from the strike, that it could occur by the latter part of September or early October.

The government statistics included:

Wages—"gross hourly earnings in steel rose $1.43, or by 85 per cent, from January, 1950, to May 1959 . . . real hourly earnings rose by 50 per cent. . .

"From January, 1950 to the summer of 1959, steel wages as a whole rose by greater percentages and by greater absolute amounts than wages in most of the economy . . .

"In terms of average hourly earnings, steel wages are higher than those in most other industries. The May average of $3.10 in the steel industry compared with $2.23 in manufacturing as a whole, $2.68 in automobiles."

Prices — "steel prices have risen higher and faster than wholesale prices in general and much more than retail prices.

"Comparing the first half of 1959 with the 1940 average, the prices of all commodities at wholesale advanced by 134 per cent. In the same period, the consumer price index rose 107 per cent, in contrast with the 178 per cent rise for steel."

Profits—"In the three years 1955, 1956 and 1957 combined, the 20 largest steel companies had a rate of return on net worth of 12.8 per cent, compared with 14.7 per cent for the 25 largest industrial firms in the nation.

"In the first half of 1959, the steel companies increased their rate of return, both in relation to their 1955-57 average and in relation to the rate of return for the group of the largest industrial firms.

"During the post-war period steel industry profits (after taxes) per dollar of sales have been higher than the comparable ratio for all manufacturing. The difference has widened in recent years, starting in 1955".

UNION STATEMENT

In New York, United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said of Mitchell's report:

"The report presents a positive contribution to acquaint the American people with the facts of the tremendous productivity record achieved in the steel industry and the overwhelming ability of the steel industry to share a portion of such gains with the public, industry workers and stockholders of the industry.

"It documents the soundness and equity of the position of the steelworkers union in the controversy with the steel industry."

R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the steel industry, said Mitchell's report shows steel wages have put steelworkers "at the top of the list."

In a statement, Cooper also said increases in employment costs have exceeded increases in output per man hour, thereby forcing up steel prices.

He called the increase of output per man hour lower in steel than in the national economy as a whole, and said competition from foreign steel producers with lower employment costs has been increasing.

Meat Processing Industry Faces Long Walkout

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—A walkout of nearly 200,000 workers in the giant meat processing industry next month was threatened today on issues similar to those involved in the continuing steel strike.

Union officials said the industry's two major unions, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and the Packinghouse Workers, have met much the same management wage freeze and other proposals for stockyard workers as were experienced in the steel dispute.

AFL-CIO leaders, meeting in summer session here, exprssd concern that the steel strike is a symptom of what they consider a growing management refusal to give workers a share in expanding industry profits.

The International Union of Electrical Workers, voting a $100,000 donation to the steel strikers, said big business generally has decided to "wreck the hard-won gains of workers" and reverse the system of sharing profits with labor.

The two meat industry unions, after nearly a month of bargaining, have met an almost solid front to freeze present wage rates, averaging about $2.50 an hour.

The packing unions say they also face company proposals to give employers a freer hand in achieving manpower and other economies.

grams in schools.

It is expected that the five clinics will be able to inoculate 2,500 persons nightly.

There have been six cases of polio in Ottawa this year with no deaths.

KITCHENER (CP) — Dr. C. C. Belyea, Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital's chief of medical staff, said Wednesday that three patients are in the hospital with polio symptoms.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Victoria Hospital officials Wednesday said hospital officials Wednesday said two women had been admitted with suspected poliomyelitis symptoms. One is from Kincardine and the other, believed to be from Western Canada, was on vacation at Grand Bend.

MONTREAL (CP) — Forty-three new polio cases were admitted to Montreal hospitals in 24 hours bringing the number of cases beign treated here Wednesday night to 351.

One person died, raising the death toll to 24.

Dr. Adelard Groulx, Montreal city health director, said the outbreak "has not yet reached its peak" but still must be considered an epidemic.

Dr. Groulx said "95 per cent of all the cases being treated in Montreal hospitals were not immunized with Salk vaccine.

"The city health staff alone has given 105,000 polio shots since mid-July and another $145,000 children were vaccinated by our staff between 1955 and the beginning of July."

Long lines of people waited for vaccinations Wednesday night at five city health clinics and one in suburban Lasalle.

Reuther Wants To Tell Nikita Of Opposition

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP) — Some American labor union leaders are hoping to meet with Soviet Premier Khrushchev next month despite official AFL-CIO disapproval.

Walter Reuther, head of the auto workers union, said he felt spokesmen for American labor should tell Khrushchev "straight from the shoulder that they are irrevocably dedicated to human freedom and opposed to Communist slavery."

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and the bulk of the federation's high command were known, however, to intend to boycott the Khrushchev visit. They feel they should have nothing to do with a leader they say bars freedom of labor in his own country.

Reuther and some other union chiefs, including James Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, ignored an official AFL-CIO policy and met with Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas Mikoyan during his January visit.

Mikoyan later was quoted as saying the union leaders gave him the roughest going over of any group he met in the U.S.

AFL-CIO leaders aired their viws about Khrushchev's impending visit at a closed meeting Tuesday. The union chiefs are holding summer sessions here at a union-operated summer camp.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Take one summer, shake up well, garnish with a schedule or two of softball and baseball decorations, throw in two weeks' vacation, trim it with diamond playdowns and what have you got? Before it is properly digested, hockey stares you in the face again.

It hardly sounds possible, but in a little over eight weeks from now, or probably less, the 1959-60 edition of the Belleville McFarlands will be cavorting on Memorial Arena ice in the first of their practice grinds.

Nothing definite has come as yet from the team headquarters or management, as far as this column is concerned, but a very authoritative player source informs us that the greater majority of the world champions players, have received notice to report for training camp at the arena, the "first or second week in October."

And regarding that "four corners" rumor to the effect that Kingston Frontenacs, as the Limestone City's new Eastern Ontario Professional League team will be dubbed, will do its early training in Memorial Arena, Alderman Claude D. Tice, arena commission chairman, told this department that nothing to date regarding the matter has been received from Kingston hockey big-wigs.

We have been given to understand that two of last year's McFarlands did not receive the training camp invitations. One is Fiori Goegan, the other name was not immediately available. Consensus of a half dozen players whom we contacted on the matter, was that Johnny McLellan and Bart Bradley will be back. Both Johnny and Bart spent the summer at their respective homes in Timmins and Port Arthur.

At the two senior "A" hockey meetings we covered in Toronto, the McFarlands and Whitby Dunlops were quoted as being the two strongest senior "A" teams in Canada. This on the strength of the Macs winning the world title in Europe last spring, and the Dunnies copping their second Allan Cup in three years.

However, the Dunlops will more or less stand pat on their 1958-59 organization, while the McFarlands must needs have reinforcements to fill the vacancies caused by the departure of the "old pros." We say this on the premise that Dewsbury, Graham, Conacher will not be back. Denis Boucher won't wear a Mac uniform either this season, since it seems he was only on loan last year from Cornwall, and was picked up by Windsor Bulldogs when the Cornwall team received a year's leave of absence, and its players distributed among the other teams of the league.

Significantly, the McFarlands representatives at these meetings, which included Manager Keith MacDonald, director Harvey McFarland, Jr., and playing coach Ike Hildebrand, did not select any of the Cornwall players put "on the block" at that time. The story that went the rounds after the meeting was to the effect that if Kingston went pro, and it looked as if they would at that time, and did later, some of their senior players who would not, or could not turn pro, would be available.

The story went a bit farther and the names of Bus Gagnon, Roy Partridge, Billy Colvin and Moe Savard were mentioned as possible additions to the Belleville club. However, Ike Hildebrand, contacted later wouldn't say "yes" nor would he deny the story. Gagnon wouldn't hurt the Macs. He's brainwise and hockey-wise with a lot of hockey left in him—and that uncanny ability of being able to put the puck in the net.

Meanwhile up in Western Ontario the "bird-dogs" haven't been idle. Johnny Horeck of the Chatham Maroons has signed Joe Zorica and Joe Malo of the Sudbury Wolves, and goalie Bill Tibbs of the Soo Greyhounds. This is probably an insurance move since Jim Hendy of the Cleveland Barons is mighty sweet on Don Head, last season's Maroon goalie.

Peter Horeck has lined up Birdie Dimma of the Soo Greyhounds for his Charlotte, N.C., club, and is also interested in Dennis Dejordy, clever little goalie of the St. Catharines Teepees junior "A" squad last season. If Dejordy does not turn pro with the Chicago Black Hawks he will likely turn out with Horeck.

Kitchener Dutchmen would like to land Don McLean of the Greyhounds for their Olympics squad but McLean is quoted as saying he prefers going to Switzerland to play hockey next season, in fact, he has his papers all ready. Somebody asked the other day if Moe Benoit had received a like invitation from the Dutchmen hockey headquarters. Said he had heard such was the case.

AWAY WE GO:

And now, so long for a while. The next two weeks we'll be battling giant lobsters in, on and around the coast of Maine, on that annual vacation.

The Jets moved into a tie with Havana for the runner-up spot as they nipped Miami 5-4 Wednesday night while the Sugar Kings were losing to Richmond 7-3.

League - leading Buffalo retained its 6½-game lead despite being stopped on four hits by Don Johnson in a 6-1 Toronto triumph. Montreal nipped Rochester 9-8.

The Jets, sprung to an early lead by Bob Throrpe's three-run homer in the third inning, had to score a run in the ninth without a hit to win it. The Marlins closed to within a run in the ninth on Leo Burke's two-run homer but with two on and two out pinchhitter Jose Valdivielso grounded out.

A six-run uprising in the fifth, highlighted by Fritz Brickell's grand-slam home run, gave the Virginians' Bob Wiesler his 12th win. Yoyo Davalillo's two - run single in the fifth capped a three-run Havana rally.

Toronto backed Johnson's pitching with three homers, two-run shots by Ron Henry, Jim King and Archie Wilson. Johnson, who has won only seven while losing 14, struck out 11 Bisons and walked only one in his best performance of the season.

The Royals scored four runs in the first and fourth innings to build a seemingly insurmountable lead. But reliever Paul Lapalme had to survive Luke Easter's three-run homer in the ninth to win it. Angel Scull got four hits in five innings, and Bob Aspromonte also had four for Montreal.

Squeeze 5-4 Win From Nats As Orioles Dump Leaders 3-1; Burdette 6-Hits Frisco Kids

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Lew Burdette's done his share. Now can Warren Spahn return Milwaukee's two aces to normalcy?

It was Burdette and Spahn, winning back-to-back, who put the Braves in command through the first half of the season. But they haven't been able to win in tandem in more than two weeks and Milwaukee has skidded from first to third in the National League race.

Burdette got half of the comeback job done Wednesday night, winning his 17th, tops in the majors, with a six-hitter that beat San Francisco 5-2 and pushed the Braves within three games of the first-place Giants.

Now Spahn, working with a day's rest, is to come back as a starter in the finish of the two-game series tonight. The lefty ace needs a victory to match Burdette's 17-12 record.

DODGERS HELD BACK

Burdette's victory also closed the Braves within a game of second-place Los Angeles. The Dodgers were held two games back of the Giants when Cincinnati exploded a seven-run eighth inning for a 9-4 victory.

Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 4-2 after the Cards had won the completion of a July 12 suspended game 8-6 in 10 innings. Philadelphia defeated Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the opener of a twinight pair, then played a 7-7 tie stopped after 12 innings by curfew.

A fifth-inning home run by Del Crandall, his 15th, cracked a 1-1 tie for the Braves and Burdette's single then brought home the clincher in a two-run seventh. Joe Adcock whacked his 18th homer for the Braves.

Burdette walked two, struck out four and was tagged for both runs on homers by Orlando Cepeda, his 24th and 25th.

BLOW LEAD

The Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead built with Chuck Essegian's first homer, a two-run shot in the second. The Reds scored two in the fourth, then beat Sandy Koufax (6-4) when a two-run pinch single by Jerry Lynch put them ahead in the eighth. Reliefer Jim Brosnan (7-5) was the winner but needed bases-loaded relief from Brooks Lawrence in the ninth.

Four singles gave the Cards two runs in the 10th inning of the suspended game against Bob Porterfield (0-2). Lindy McDaniel (13-11) won it. The Pirates won the regular game on Smoky Burgess' RBI single in a two-run sixth after the Cards had taken a 2-0 lead against Vern Law (14-7).

Earl Averill's homer cracked a 6-6 tie for the Cubs in the 12th, but the Phils deadlocked it again on Harry Hanebrink's triple before the curfew sounded. The Phils won the opener on a three-hitter by Gene Conley (12-7) and a three-run sixth.

A right reluctant bunch of pennant contenders, these Cleveland Indians. They lose four in a row, blowing leads in three of them, and almost make it five—getting the cushion they needed on a bases-loaded walk.

Cleveland jumped the slump with a 5-4 decision over last place Washington Wednesday night, moving within 3½ games of Chicago in the American League race after the White Sox had been spilled 3-1 by Baltimore in an afternoon game.

New York came from five runs back and beat Detroit 10-5. Kansas City beat Boston 6-3.

Rookie Larry Locke saved it for the Indians and Cal McLish (15-6), coming on with none out in the eighth after the Nats had scored three runs on Bob Allison's 28th homer, and Harmon Killebrew's 37th. That moved Allison within three of matching Ted Williams' AL record for rookies.

TWO HOMERS HELPED

Woody Held's 22nd home run broke a 1-1 tie for the Indians in the second inning against loser Bill Fischer (8-9), who also gave up Jim Baxes' two-run poke, his 14th, in the third inning.

Baltimore beat the White Sox and Bob Shaw (12-4), who had won six straight, on Bob Boyd's two-run single with two out in the first. Billy O'Dell (7-10) was the winner.

Frank Lary (15-8), who had won seven in a row from the Yankees since July of last year was chased in a four-run fifth. Marv Throneberry and Hector Lopez hammered two-run homers for the Yankees while Whitey Ford (13-6) won his fifth in a row with 5 2-3 innings of shutout relief.

Bud Daley (15-7) beat the Red Sox with a four-hitter, giving up Dick Gernert's 10th home run and Jackie Jensen's 25th. The A's won it in a two-run seventh against Frank Sullivan (7-8).

WANT NO SHAM

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Athletic Commission has turned down two proposed opponents for lightweight champion Joe Brown for a scheduled YMCA benefit match in Baton Rouge. Emile Bruneau; secretary of the commission, said the two foes offered were preliminary fighters and "this match is a benefit and the commission wants it to be a fight, not a sham."

Hutton Says He'll Whip Mr. O'Connor

"They say he is fast and they say he is scientific, but I say he is lucky. I intend to soften him with plenty of rugged going in the first fall and he'll have to be lucky to get as far as the third. You will see a new heavyweight champ come Friday evening."

This was Dick Hutton talking and the "he" was none other than the world heavyweight wrestling champion, Pat O'Connor.

O'Connor will do his talking in the ring when he meets the confident Mr. Hutton in a title defence at Memorial Friday night. Always one of the greatest in the game, O'Connor has improved even more since he captured the crown from this same Hutton a while back.

Mike Valentino will have his share of trouble in the semifinal when he clashes head on with the 290-pound Don Leo Jonathan. This has all the earmarks of a second main bout.

Popular Don Jardine, the young Canadian who was such a hit here early in the season, returns against ruffian Tiger Tasker.

Action gets under way at 9.00 p.m.

Moore Still Feather King Stops Bassey In 11th Round

By PATRICK McNULTY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A title fight with lightweight champion Joe Brown may be in the works for world featherweight champion Davey Moore, who stopped Hogan (Kid) Bassey in 11 rounds Wednesday night.

Moore stopped Bassey so convincingly that the little battler from British West Africa was asked to retire by his manager, George Biddles.

Bassey, who appeared at a press party with dark glasses hiding a swollen right eye and a bandage over a badly bruised right hand, said:

"This is not a decision I can make in a moment. I must think it over."

COUNTER-PUNCHES WIN

Sharp - shooting Moore, who took the title from Bassey last March, counter-punched Bassey into a tottering derelict at the end of the 10th round. Bassey sprawled on his stool and refused to come out for the 11th.

When referee Frankie Van asked whether he was all right, Bassey peered up with a partly-closed right eye and said:

"No, I don't wish to go out."

A second shouted, "Go, go" and tried to put the mouthpiece into Bassey's mouth. But the battered Nigerian merely shook his head.

By this time the bell had sounded for round 11, Moore had rushed across the ring and was jigging happily in front of the anxious knot before Bassey's corner when Referee Van turned and raised Moore's arm in victory.

DEPENDS ON MONEY

After the fight, Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum, said a fight with Joe Brown would be all right with him, "providing the money is right."

Moore said he isn't trying to invade other divisions. But he added:

"Frankly, I'd like to meet (world bantamweight champion Jose) Becerra for my featherweight championship. But, I'm in this business for the money and I'll fight anybody if the price is right."

Matchmaker George Parnassus, who masterminded the Moore - Bassey meeting, said a Moore-Brown battle for the lightweight title would be a natural.

"It took Moore seven times on the scale to make the 126-pound limit for Bassey," Parnassus said. Moore finally weighed in at 126, a pound more than Bassey.

FULL OF CONFIDENCE

Moore, who had stopped Bassey last March on eye cuts said later that he was confident of beating the Nigerian in the rematch.

"If he had come out for round 11, I would have knocked him out," Moore said, matter-of-factly.

A crowd of 7,450 paid a gross gate of $47,100.40 to watch the scrap, which was televised nationally.

TV receipts totalled $40,000. Each fighter got 30 per cent of all revenue.

Bassey knew that, as challenger, he had to take the title from Moore, who hails from Springfield, Ohio. He tried gallantly to nail Moore, but the champion played a waiting game and picked Bassey apart with savage counter-punches.

When Bassey decided not to continue he was losing on all cards by three to seven points.

In The Dressing Rooms

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A deliriously happy champion, Davey Moore, jumped for joy in the centre of the ring after stopping determined Hogan (Kid) Bassey in the world featherweight title rematch Wednesday night.

Bassey, dejected, sprawled on his stool in his corner after refusing to come out for round 11.

The two little warriors then met in an embrace while the crowd warmly applauded both for one of the most gallant title fights in the 126-pound division's history.

In the dressing room, when a sportswriter asked what made Bassey decide not to come out for the 11th round, he replied in his British West African accent:

RIGHT HAND HURT

"I could not see out of my right eye and I could not throw my right hand because it hurt very much."

Bassey said he hurt the right hand when he bounced it off the champion's head in the seventh round.

"The gloves didn't fit. They just weren't right," Bassey said. He was quickly seconded by trainer Charley Fox who said:

"Hogan hurt his hand because the Gloves didn't fit."

When the writer asked if manager Biddles had any complaint about the fight and especially the gloves, he replied:

"No, it was a good fight. We lost to a great champion."

CHAMP'S REMARKS

Down the hall, the champion, unmarked and smiling, affably met the press.

"The difference was the body punches," Moore said. "They really slowed him down.

"I wasn't trying for a knockout because I didn't want to take chances and I knew Bassey was very determined," Moore said.

McFarland Wants Team But Will Run It His Way

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

H.J. MCFARLAND

Harvey J. McFarland, Sr., wants a good hockey team next season — and he is going to get it if possible.

He will sponsor it — but he will operate it like he does a huge construction company — strictly along business lines.

"It is my team, and I intend running it my way. No outsider player or otherwise is going to have anything to do with it's operation", Mr. McFarland said yesterday in a telephone interview.

"I do not mind spending $10,000 or $15,000 to make the team a success. I do not want to make any money out of it. If there is anything left at the end of the season, the players will share it".

"But" he added a trifle grimly. "the players and others will have to co-operate. I do not mind paying a decent salary to good hockey players — the golden days are over for a lot of them. If they do not want to meet my terms . . ."

He has called a special meeting of the players for Saturday night at the Royal Hotel, Picton. Playing Coach Ike Hildebrand, who was signed two weeks ago will be there, as will, it is expected, the greater majority of last year's world champions.

The meeting will precede a testimonial dinner being tendered the club by Mr. McFarland.

Following the dinner, he will present the players and officials of the club with handsome gold rings engraved with their initials and a crest bearing "1958 World Champions".

Meanwhile Ike and the club management have not been idle.

Hildebrand told this reporter last night that the Macs have signed Billy Colvin of the Kingston Merchants. Roy Partridge and Moe Savard have been approached by Kingston pro interests — and are undecided.

Local scuttlebutt to the effect Bus Gagnon has been signed by the Macs was denied by Hildebrand.

"Gagnon wants to play for Belleville," Ike said, "but is undecided. He disposed of his businesses a year ago — and security is what he wants. A good job here, and he would probably play with us."

Marv Edwards, the North Bay goalie who made the European safari with the Macs, also wants to play with Belleville.

"North Bay may enter the Porcupine League" Ike said, "and Edwards does not want to play with them. We're practically sure he will be with us". Edwards will be the sub-goalie.

And big Al Dewsbury wants to return to the hockey wars with his old buddies of the Macs.

"Al says he will play with us, but will be unable to play the full schedule on account of business interests. He would play the majority of games" Ike said.

Flori Goegan is the only player of last year's team who has been given his release.

Quinte Men's Tournament Attracts Record Field

Some 156 golfers from seventeen country clubs of the district will tee off on the Bay of Quinte Country Club links Saturday when the club's annual men's field day tournament gets under way. The field is a club record.

Seventy-four title aspirants from the host club are entered with the balance coming from Trenton, Forest Hills, Napanee, Kingston, St. George's, Whitevale, Uplands, Markham, Peterborough, Glen Lawrence, I.B.M., Gatineau, Picton, Perth, Lindsay and other clubs.

John Kindred of Peterborough won the tournament title last year. Kindred is the sensational young golfer who is rapidly making a name for himself in golf circles

Kindred will renew golf acquaintanceship with a young rival of the links in Quinte's Gary Bowerman, who shaded him by one hole in the OGA junior qualifying tournament this summer.

The first foursome will leave the first tee at seven a.m. sharp with the rest following at brief intervals. The last four will go into action at 2.38 p.m.

The winner will be presented with the handsome Corby Trophy at a post-tournament ceremony.

Charges Third Major League Ignores Minors

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, today charged the newly organized Continental League with ignoring the minors in its efforts to gain major league status.

Trautman's accusation came after chiefs of top individual minor circuits said they would demand damages totalling about $8,000,000 from the proposed circuit for invasion of their territories.

"I keep reading about a number of our cities being considered for inclusion in this new league," said Trautman, "but never once have we been approached by these people. I think it would be a sort of courteous thing if we were considered. There have been numerous conferences but we've never been invited to attend any of them.

"We've never resisted any of our cities that desired to become major," he said. "But we've got a structure that must be preserved . . .

"We want to help this new league and we can but at the same time we don't want them to destroy us. All we want to do is survive."

Ed Doherty, president of the American Association, said Wednesday he already has demanded $1,000,000 indemnity for each of the cities taken by the Continental League.

The association may lose six of its 10 franchises. Houston, Denver and the twin-cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul are among the five founders of the new league. The Dallas-Fort Worth also is being eyed by the new organization.

President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League said he also would ask for approximately $1,000,000 for the loss of Toronto and the same for any other cities. Toronto is among the five charter members of the Continental League and Montreal and Buffalo are being mentioned as possible members.

"They claim they've got millions," said Shaughnessy. "Well, they'd better get ready to spend some of it."

City Commercial Softball League

Belle Cleaners overcame a six-run deficit to edge Mead-Sportsmen 9-8 last night as the City Commercial round-robin semi-finals got under way. The third team in the round-robin is the Sports Centre.

Five singles, a double and three errors scored six runs for Belle in the sixth to tie the score at 8-8. They pushed across the deciding run in the top of the seventh.

Doug Ellis pitched the victory, scattering 11 hits, striking out five and walking four. "Bunk" Young also gave up 11 hits for the losers, nipping five on strikes and passing but one.

C. Tracey paced the Cleaners' attack with a double and two ingles. Chuck Rowbotham, Deacon Whiting and Peters had a brace of singles apiece while Ellis doubled and Leo Goyer singled.

Lloyd Worsley slammed a home run and two singles while Warren Snell doubled and singled twice for Mead-Sportsmen. Vandervoort and Young had two-baggers, Larry Lougheed two singles and A. Moynes one.

Comedian Stepin Fetchit Launches New Career at 66

By STAN KOVEN

CHICAGO (AP)—Stepin Fetchit shambled and shuffled through an era when mumbling in dialect thick as cornpone and sporting a floppy, disreputable grey felt hat were staples of comedy.

They aren't anymore, says Fetchit, who at 66 is out of retirement and launching a new career as a television and night club entertainer.

"The character as I did it is out," he says, with no regrets. "This is a new world. The Negro has advanced way past that stage.

SOMETHING FOR OLD FANS

"I'll still leave part of the old routine in, just for the benefit of those who remember it. But mainly I want to be a white collar comedian. Nowadays, you've got to be able to come out looking like a Negro doctor and get laughs."

The man who made a fortune playing types based on a man with an aversion to work has already won critical acclaim on television with his new format.

"If you saw me on the Jack Paar Show, you know what I mean when I talk about my new act. I did the old routine when I made my exit, but I got just as many laughs before that on straight comedy."

Stepin Fetchit, born Lincoln Theodore Andrew Perry, got his start in a minstrel show in Montgomery, Ala., more than 50 years ago, teaming with Ed Lee in an act billed as "The Two Dancing Fools from Dixie, Step and Fetchit."

"I guess I got the lazy idea from my partner," he recalls. "He was so lazy he used to call a cab to get across the street. Pretty soon it got so bad he wasn't showing up for performances. It was embarrassing. Here they'd be announcing the 'Two Dancing Fools' and I'd be the only one there.

"So I told them finally to say 'The Dancing Fool, Stepin Fetchit' instead, and that's how I became a single."

Silent pictures were at their zenith when he got a part in MGM's In Old Kentucky. Other movies followed in rapid succession.

Then, in the early 1940s, the bubble burst. He sank a wad into a planned film biography of Satchell Paige, the great Negro baseball pitcher. Step was to play Satch, but he went bankrupt instead before a camera rolled.

It's been steadily downhill since. In 1950 he made his last picture, then retired to write songs for other entertainers.

BAN 15-YEAR-OLDS

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian National Exhibition's sports committee has banned persons under 15 from competing in the annual CNE water ski show.

The committee met to discuss the application of 11-year-old Judy Moll of Toronto who last weekend won the Canadian junior trick skiing championship at a Grand River competition.

The ruling said the Toronto waterfront was "too cold and dangerous" for juniors.

Parents Say Portland Mason Just Normal Ten-Year-Old

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Does Portland Mason really do all those things attributed to her?

The celebrated daughter of James and Pamela Mason has been a controversial figure since babyhood. Only recently she was reported flouncing around a movie premier in a vampish dress with a 30-year-old "date."

Portland is a pudgy 10.

I decided to pin down some of the Portie legends with her mother, the outspoken author-actress Pamela. Of the most recent report, she said:

LIKES PREMIERES

"It's easy to explain. Portland likes to go to premieres—James says they're for children, anyway. He wouldn't go to one if he were paid, and I hate them, too.

"Portland has to have someone to driver her there. I don't like her to go with women, because they're so helpless about finding the car and all that. So a friend of the family took her.

"As for the dress, it is one that I got in an exchange with Zsa Zsa. Portland has had her eye on it for years; she loved the tassles on the skirt. Recently she was giving a demonstration of the Charleston at an Arthur Murray party, so I cut it down for her."

NORMAL GIRL

Mrs. Mason added, "Portland is a normal 10-year-old. She does do modern dancing, which some people think is odd. But she behaves the same as anyone else her age. She's a 10:30-to-bed girl, and if she watches television too long, I pull the plug.

"I've tried to figure how the whole thing started. I concluded it was because we taught her to swim at six months. It wasn't unusual. Other children were doing it. It was a safety measure; we had a pool and I was terrified of the water.

"Portie swam for a year and a half, then for two years she wouldn't even wash her hair. She was terrified of the water."

The girl has appeared on the stage with her parents for the last three summers and will open soon with them in Murder in the Red Barn in Hollywood. She has been acting since she was four.

Kidd Eliminates Castator, Now Favored to Win Crown

By NAT COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elimination of defending champion Bruce Castator of Toronto left the field wide open today as the third round of the Canadian amateur golf championship got under way.

The field will be cut to four from 16 after two rounds today. The 36-hole semi-finals will be played Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Despite a shaky Wednesday afternoon round in which he scraped through with a narrow one-up victory over Castator, Bob Kidd of Vancouver, perennial B.C. Willingdon Cup representative, reigned as favorite today.

LONG PUTT SAVES HIM

Two up on Castator after 11 holes, Kidd went out of bounds twice for costly penalties to lose his lead, then won the match with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th.

"I've seen parts of this course today that I never knew existed," he said. Marine Drive, site of the championship, is the 31-year-old B.C. veteran's home course.

Kidd today was to meet Ron Fiddler of Winnipeg, Manitoba champion.

Unranked Vancouver player Ron Woods scored a big upset with a one-up win over Bert Ticehurst, B.C. Willingdon Cup player and medalist in Saturday's interprovincial team championship.

Despite Castator's defeat, Ontario still had three representatives in the championship hunt going into the third round.

COWAN BEATS BATHGATE

They were Gary Cowan of Kitchener, who defeated Andy Bathgate and Joe Jeroski, both of Vancouver, by identical scores of 2 and 2, Phil Brownlee of Toronto and Nick Weslock of Windsor. Cowan meets Woods today.

Apart from the loss of Ticehurst, B.C.'s top amateur contingent was still intact.

Doug Bajus of Vancouver meets Weslock today.

Bill Parkes of Woodstock was eliminated Wednesday by Jay Easterwood, Seattle, 6 and 4.

SETTLE WITH KWONG

EDMONTON (CP) — President Eric Duggan of Edmonton Eskimos announced Wednesday that an "equitable arrangement" has been reached with Normie Kwong over a $2,300 fine imposed on the fullback at $100 a day for the 23 days he failed to show up at the Eskimo camp. The China Clipper had held out hoping to be traded to British Columbia Lions, but returned to Edmonton three weeks ago when negotiations for a swap failed.

If your child is born today . .

The delightful child born today is the type who will ever be at something and keep you quite amused. Here is a rare combination of imagination and thoroughness. Career Opportunity

Some people hesitate to take a sales job because they have never sold before, don't know whether they have the makings of a salesman and therefore don't want to take a chance of switching to a sales career.

Our company, a nationally-advertised financial institution, has sales positions open. Full commissions are coupled with a monthly training grant during the learning period.

We can't afford to take chances either! That is why applicants for a position in this company take a special test to determine their qualifications. This is supplemented by a complete training plan, part of which you can undertake before giving up your present position.

If you are a university or high school graduate, between the ages of 25 and 40, presently employed but desirous of the larger rewards and the freedom to exercise your initiative which a sales career offers, apply in writing to:

Rioters Stopped With Tear Gas At Reformatory

Heavy Sentences Meted Out to Ringleaders

GUELPH (CP) — About 300 rioting prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory here were stopped with tear gas early today as their ringleaders stormed a dining room door.

Two guards were injured when the prisoners rushed the door. One of the guards, George William Andrews, is in the institution's hospital suffering a possible ruptured kidney.

Superintendent George Sanderson said the disturbance, the third in as many days, was over in 15 minutes.

The prisoners, herded out in to a large yard, pleaded they had enough after police pelted them with tear gas.

The 300 prisoners were in the dining room for breakfast when the sudden flareup began. Shouting and chanting, the men threw dishes and plates at windows and milled about. The unarmed prison guards were powerless.

POLICE REINFORCED

Provincial police reinforcements arrived just after the rioters were driven out into the yard with non-rioters.

About 40 men rushed the dining room doors from the prison yard and two guardss were injured in the general rush. Police and guards fired tear gas bombs.

Minutes later Mr. Sanderson, with an armed guard, went into the compound and identified 40 ringleaders of the riot who were carried off to solitary confinement.

BACK TO NORMAL

Mr. Sanderson reported later that things had returned to normal with the prisoners sitting around the yard talking.

A few hours after the disturbance three prisoners received three-year penitentiary terms for their part in Thursday's riot in the institution's tailor shop.

Three others elected trial by a higher court on the same charge of damaging government property.

Thursday five prisoners received penitentiary terms from three to five years for their part in another disturbance in the tailor shop Wednesday.

Mr. Sanderson said total damage in the disturbance, not including today's riot, was $12,000.

Thirty - one sewing machines, used for making prison uniforms, have been smashed beyond repair, a number of windows broken and material used for uniforms destroyed.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT?

Magistrate A. Stewart Mitchell today advocated the return of corporal punishment for prison rioters after a spokesman for the prisoners pleaded the men were forced to work long hours.

Those sentenced today for Thursday's disturbance were Robert Gough, 20, St. Catharines; Lyle Place, 20, Brockville; and Istvan Czupor, 20, Winnipeg. All pleaded guilty.

Paul Waters, 21, Niagara Falls; Marvin E. Sharpe, 18, Belleville, and Gary Corey, 18, Toronto, elected trial by a higher court.

Waters is also charged with assault in connection with an incident in the shop when a prisoner menaced Superintendent Sanderson with broken scissor blades.

Czupor, who acted as spokesman for those in court today, said

Govt. of Haiti Orders Arrest Of Archbishop

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The government has ordered the arrest of Haiti's leading Roman Catholic prelate in a widening split with the church in this predominantly Catholic Negro republic in the Caribbean.

The archbishop of Port au Prince, Most Rev. Francois Poirier, was ordered seized after he ignored a summons to appear before officials.

There was no immediate indication whether the archbishop, a French national, had been found and taken into custody. Church sources declined comment.

A justice department spokesman said the arrest was ordered because the archbishop had criticized the government for expelling two priests.

PRIESTS IN NEW YORK

The priests, Rev. Etienne Grinenberger, rector of Saint Martial Co[illegible] and superior of the Holy Gh[illegible] Fathers in Haiti, and Rev. Joseph Marrec, both French citizens arrived by plane in New York Thursday night. They said the government apparently is waging a campaign against the Catholic Church in Haiti.

President Francois Duvalier personally ordered the two priests out of the country "for reasons of internal security." Father Grinenberger said he and Father Marrec were not given any official explanation for their expulsion but he learned they were accused of being involved in a bombing plot. He gave no further details.

Vatican circles were reported grav[illegible]isturbed over the developments in Haiti.

INVADERS KILLED

Meanwhile government troops were reported to have killed or captured a band of about 40 revo[illegible]onaries who invaded the so[illegible]west coast a week ago. The invaders were believed to have come from Cuba.

Tre army said 12 rebels were killed before they could fire a shot when they were surprised near Tiburon while roasting a goat. Other sources said 25 of the invaders were killed and 16 either wounded or captured.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A high Vatican source today said Haitian government leaders might incur automatic excommunication from the Roman Catholic church if the archbishop of Port au Prince is arrested.

Haitian authorities have ordered the arrest of the archbishop, Most Rev. Francois Poirer, for allegedly criticizing officials of the Negro republic. He is the highest Roman Catholic churchman in Haiti, a predominantly Catholic country.

Vatican officials refused to c[illegible]ent officially on the arrest order.

However, a high Vatican source said that if the archbishop were arrested "without good reason," officials of the Haiti government might suffer excommunication.

Excommunication, the denial of the sacraments, is one of the most severe penalties of the Roman Catholic Church against erring members.

IMPOSE TARIFFS

TUNIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba Thursday said Tunisia is ending its customs agreement with France and will impose new tariffs. In a broadcast he added that Tunisia will trade freely with countries in the dollar zone.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The hot humid air mass covering southern Ontario and the southern sections of Northern Ontario is being forced slowly southward by a high pressure area near Hudson Bay. This will result in a cooling trend in Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions tonight and Saturday. The remainder of southern Ontario will continue to have hot humid conditions and cloudy cool weather will persist in Northern Ontario.

GOVT. AIMING AT LOWER BANK INTEREST RATE

Limiting Calls for Short-Term Loans

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is aiming at a reduction in the Bank of Canada's interest rate by limiting its calls for short-term loans and by drawing on its big bank balance. The interest rate fell Thursday from last week's all-time high.

The bank announced that the rate it charges for the infrequent loans it makes to chartered and savings banks eased to 6.29 per cent from 6.41. It was the first decline in seven weeks.

Included in its announcement was a brief statement by Finance Minister Fleming saying that the government's decision to reduce next week's offering of treasury bills—to which the Bank of Canada rate is geared—reflects its view that "the recent rise in interest rates on treasury bills has gone farther and faster than conditions warrant."

The statement added:

"At this week's tender, for the same reasons, a number of bids were not accepted as involving too-high interest rates."

HOPE TO CUT RATE

Later, in an interview, Mr. Fleming told a reporter the government is reducing its treasury bill issue next week in the hope of bringing the interest rate on the bills down further.

"The effect of it (the treasury bill rate) has been greatly exaggerated," he said. "we've got a very sound economy in Canada."

He indicated his belief that undue attention has lately been focused on the treasury bill rate. He said there has been nothing like the movement in the treasury bill rate in the prices of other government bonds. They had remained far more stable.

There were indications from other financial sources that the main view in Ottawa is that the current interest-rate situation is only a temporary one, which might move downward as quickly as it rose.

SUPPLY DECLINES

Meantime, the Bank of Canada's latest weekly money market statistics showed that on Aug. 12 the money supply totalled $13,380,000,000, a decline of $22,000,000 from Aug. 6. But it was up $380,000,000 from Aug. 13, 1958.

This appeared to indicate that the Bank of Canada, which exercises control over the money supply, was unmoved from its current policy by last week's statement of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The bankers said they would have to curtail their loans, giving as the reason a combination of a central bank rate higher than the statutory six-per-cent maximum on the rate the chartered banks can charge their borrowers and the relatively stationary position of Canada's money supply.

Economists and financial experts explain the present money and credit situation—the high interest rates indicate money is currently tight — as being a result of government and Bank of Canada policy intended to stretch out the current boom in the Canadian economy.

BATTLESHIP JUNKED

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—The old battleship Maryland, hailed as the world's most powerful when launched in 1920, was towed into San Francisco Bay Wednesday for junking. Two Seattle tugs brought the 31,500-ton warship from Bremerton, Wash., and eased her into a berth at Todd Shipyard, Alameda.

U.S. House Extends Program For Surplus Food Disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives voted Thursday to dispose of $2,800,000,000 worth of government-owned food surpluses through sales and donations abroad and a food-stamp plan for the needy at home.

It passed and sent to the Senate by roll-call vote of 305 to 53 a bill extending until Dec. 31, 1960, a 1954 law allowing the agriculture department to sell surpluses to friendly nations for foreign currencies and to donate a smaller amount to famine-stricken or otherwise needy countries.

Both those provisions had been requested by the president.

But, over administration opposition, the House added another provision permitting distribution of surpluses to needy Americans under a food-stamp plan administered by the agriculture department. The provision authorizes, but does not direct, the administration to start the stamp plan.

The House refused to write into the bill a provision which would have had the effect of restricting shipments of surplus grains abroad from Great Lakes ports.

The measure, due for early Senate consideration, authorizes the sale of $1,500,000,000 worth of surpluses for foreign money, the donation of another $300,000,000,000 worth to impoverished foreign areas, and use of $1,000,000,000 worth for the domestic food stamp program.

Labor Says Inflation Scare Robs U.S. of Years of Growth

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP) — The AFL-CIO charged today that incessant scare talk about inflation has frightened the United States out of several years' normal economic growth and curbed job opportunities.

A statement by the federation executive council said President Eisenhower's administration and big business have been trying to "brainwash the country" into falsely believing it was about to be engulfed with calamitous inflation.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said inflation is a problem but by far not the only or most important problem. The chief one, he said, is what he called the economy's failure to grow and provide jobs at a rate keyed to the rapidly growing population and labor force.

"This inflation thing is just being over-emphasized," Meany said.

The AFL-CIO leaders wound up week-long meetings here Thursday and released their statement on inflation today.

It said industrial leaders are seeking to impose a freeze on wages and salaries, "piously proclaiming" this must be done to protect workers against inflation.

Actually, it said, there has been very little inflation for some time. In the last decade, the statement said, it has amounted to less than two per cent a year, or well under the historical annual increase.

Sport-Shirted Bandits Get $3,775 in Haul

TORONTO (CP)—Two bandits wearing straw hats and sports shirts held up a branch of the Toronto-Dominion bank on Yonge Street Thursday and escaped with $2,923 of the bank's cash and $852 from a customer.

While one man herded the staff and a customer into the vault with a threat to kill them, the other emptied drawers in two of the three tellers' cages.

Sam Rich walked into the bank with a bag of money for deposit as the men were herding the staff into the vault with threats.

The gunmen escaped in a stolen car. Police surrounded the north Yonge area in the belief the car has been abandoned and the men have changed cars.

"They jumped at me as soon as I walked in," said Mr. Rich. "At first they demanded I lie on the floor. Just when I got down, they told me to get up and go to the vault with the staff."

Says Red Agent Sent to Cuba

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A U.S. intelligence spokesman said today that Moscow sent a Soviet intelligence officer to Cuba last may to guide local Communists on how to penetrate the government of Fidel Castro.

He also said the Russians are secretly training more and more Latin American Communists in Russia on how to set up Communist dictatorships at home.

Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, in a speech prepared for a meeting of the American Legion's national security commission, named the Soviet intelligence officer as Vadim Kotchergin.

"Primary targets for Communist penetration in Cuba are the agrarian reforms, trade unions and the army," he said.

He said Communist Chinese propagandists also are setting up a newspaper in Cuba.

Ninth Victim Of Quake Dies

WEST YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont. (AP)—National Guardsmen moved into this earthquake-ravaged area today to prevent possible looting.

The death toll meanwhile reached nine. Mrs. Ray Painter, 42, of Ogden, Utah, died Thursday in a Bozeman, Mont., hospital. She was hurt when the earthquake split a mountain and sent it thundering down on Rock Creek Campground and into the Madison River.

Can No Longer Wait for Miracles, Food Problem One for Best Brains

MONTREAL (CP)—An American botanist Thursday urged the world to put its best brains to work at producing food.

Dr. E. C. Stakman of the University of Minnesota told the International Botanical Congress it is no longer possible to ignore the millions of people starving in the underdeveloped areas of the world, or to ignore the fact that more and more people are being born.

There can be no more waiting for miracles, Dr. Stakman said. Science must be put to work.

"I do not think the world has reached as civilized a state as 't could," Dr. Stakman said, "when there is no international body working to bring the best men of the world together to solve our most pressing problem."

There were 45,000,000 new mouths to feed each year, most of them in nations which cannot even feed their present millions properly.

The better-off nations such as Canada and the United States tried to help the underdeveloped countries develop technically and intellectualy but "how can we teach what we do not know?"

There was a need for more basic research, and more international co-operation to apply it.

Plants must be bred better, fed better, and protected better.

A Japanese botanist described tiny plants so hardy that they can grow on glass and iron.

Dr. Torao Ohtsuki, of Tokyo, reported his isolation of the fungus that causes cloudiness on lenses of cameras, microscopes, telescopes, binoculars, prisms and other optical instruments.

He has discovered an antidote but it is expensive.

Welland Canal To Be Improved During Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—The Welland Canal of the St. Lawrence Seaway system is to be improved next winter to increase its potential ship passage capacity by about 25 per cent, Transport Minister Hees announced today.

In this year's first shipping rush on the new waterway, the canal bypassing Niagara Falls between Lakes Ontario and Erie has at times proved a bottleneck.

An announcement from the office of Mr. Hees said that at certain locations additional tie - up walls will be constructed, with construction due to be completed by the start of the 1960 navigation season.

The work is expected to cost about $7,500,000, the announcement said.

It would permit a reduction in the time that locks now stand idle awaiting the arrival of a ship to enter following the clearance of a ship travelling in the opposite direction.

TIE-UP WALLS

Mr. Hees said tenders will be called in mid-October for the construction of some 7,000 feet of tie-up walls. These would permit the movement of a ship into a lock or through a guard gate as soon as the lock is ready to receive it.

At present, the Welland's capacity is 27 or 28 vessels a day, 13 or 14 each way. The new facilities should boost this immediately by 25 per cent.

"Intensive study will also be made of the possibility of reducing lockage time by improvement in the hydraulic characteristics of the lock filling and emptying system," the minister said. "This, however, will require considerable time and its immediate effect, if possible, would not compare with the result anticipated from the extension of tie - up walls.

MAINTENANCE REVIEW

"A complete review of the maintenance pattern of the equipment for lock operation is also being undertaken, in order that the possibility of breakdowns will be reduced to a minimum.

"Under operating regulations in effect this year, certain equipment, calculated to assist in the expeditious passage of vessels through the locks was recommended, but not made compulsory.

"The seaway authority is giving close attention the experience this year of the various types of ships transiting the Welland Canal and the new seaway. Some changes in the regulations are contemplated, particularly as regards the required equipment, to be effective commencing with the opening of navigation in 1960. The shipping trade will be given advance notice of such changes."

RED CHINA WARNS AGAINST SENDING UN MEN TO LAOS

Action Would Have Serious Results

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China warned today that "serious consequences" will follow if United Nations observers are sent to Laos, where Red insurgents have been battling government troops.

China challenged Britain to accept the Soviet Union's proposal to re-establish the international armistice commission for Laos.

The Laotian government and Britain already have rejected the Red proposal.

In New York, Laotian Envoy Ngon Sananikone asked Un Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold for suggestions on how to meet the problem of Red infiltration. Sananikone and Hammarskjold were to meet again today.

In Vientiane, royal Laotian troops were braced for what they fear will be an all-out offensive by Communist rebels now moving on an unexpectedly broadened front.

The pro-Western government announced that Communist guerrillas now are operating in a half dozen provinces along the nation's mountainous backbone, some as deep as the South Viet Nam border.

The skirmishing that flared last month in two northern provinces —Sam Neua and Phong Saly—threatens to spread over a 500-mile line.

REBELS OUT-NUMBERED

Man-to-man, the rebels would not have a chance in regular battle, the army of Laos believes. But that isn't the way they fight. They were estimated Wednesday to number only 3,500, against 25,000 in the American-equipped Laotian army.

The general staff said the Communits have used the relative quiet of the last two weeks to reinforce and resupply the guerrilla battalions.

"Now that the preparations have ended," a staff communique said, "the enemy probably will unleash a major offensive".

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—King Sisavangvong of Laos—at 74 the world's longest-reigning monarch—is seriously ill and has appointed the Crown Prince as regent, an information ministry spokesman said today.

The last 20 years of the king's 55-year reign — he ascended the throne in 1904—have been stormy.

The country was under Japanese occupation during the Second World War and since then has been disturbed by militant communism.

A spokesman said the king, who has been confined to bed for several years, had a serious attack of rheumatism.

The spokesman said the decree appointing the Crown Prince as regent would enable the Crown Prince to sign acts.

The Crown Prince has represented his father at official functions for nearly five years now because, the spokesman said, the king has been unable to walk or stand.

CUBAN BAN

HAVANA, Cuba (Reuters)—The Cuban Workers Confederation Thursday night ordered dock workers not to handle ships flying the flags of Nicaragua, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic because these countries have "dictatorial governments." The confederation also banned the operation of the telephone and cable service between Cuba and tre Dominican Republic.

Smallwood Wins Strong Mandate In Newfoundland

PC Leader Beaten by Premier in Own Riding

By DON HOYT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood has won a strong mandate from the Newfoundland electorate in his campaign to convince the Canadian people that the federal government has betrayed his province.

It was an easy victory Thursday for the controversial premier who scored his fourth successive election victory since leading Newfoundland into Confederation 10 years ago.

Here are the party standings:

	1959	1956
Liberals	31	32
PCs	3	4
United Nfld. Party	2	0
Total	36	36

"Canadians are noted for their tradition of fair play", the jubilant premier said in a victory statement. "It is very strong in Canada and we want to arouse the people of Canada to the fact that Newfoundland has been betrayed."

The voters answered Mr. Smallwood put new life into the PC ent" Progressive Conservative opposition in the legislature by defeating the two members sitting as PCs at dissolution.

PERSONAL VICTORY

Mr. Smallwood, who left the Bonavista North seat he held since 1949 to challenge Conservative Leader Malcolm Hollett in St. John's West, won easily and was the first of his cabinet to be re-elected.

He outpooled the PC leader 4,347 to 2,298.

Mr. Hollett said the premier's attempt to eliminate the Progressive Conservatives "failed completely." The party still formed the opposition. "Actually Smallwood put new ife into the PC party."

A second Conservative member of the last House, Rex Renouf, was defeated by John O'Dea, former treasurer of the PC association here and a candidate for the United Newfoundland Party.

The UN Party, making its first election try, elected three members but lost its founder, James D. Higgins. Mr. Higgins, who with A. M. Duffy quit the Conservative party to back Premier Smallwood's resolution condemning Ottawa's decision to end the special financial aid to the province in 1962, was beaten by Conservative James Greene in St. John's East.

Mr. Greene was counsel for the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) during a loggers strike in central Newfoundland this year.

LOSE POPULAR VOTE

A drop in the popular vote of the Liberal and Conservative parties went to the splinter UN and Newfoundland Democratic parties. The UN, created by the Newfoundland Federation of Labor and backed by the CLC, failed to elect any of its 19 candidates. In labor union areas Liberal candidates received big majorities.

Ed Finn Jr., ND Party leader who was beaten in western Newfoundland's Humber West by Labor Minister Charles Ballam, said a struggle would be necessary to overcome "an entrenched political machine." The labor-backed party would continue building "to offer something to Newfoundland-

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Here is Term 29 of the terms of union under which Newfoundland became a province of Canada in 1949—central plank in the platform on which Premier Smallwood called Thursday's election:

"In view of the difficulty of predicting with sufficient accuracy the financial consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a province of Canada, the government of Canada will appoint a royal commission within eight years from the date of union to review the financial position of the province of Newfoundland and to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance, if any, that may be required by the government of the province of Newfoundland to enable it to continue public services at the levels and standards reached subsequent to the date of union, without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to the capacity to pay, than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island."

The royal commission called for by the term was appointed in 1957 and reported in 1958. It recommended additional financial assistance of $8,000,000 a year, less certain sums already being paid as a transitional grant, for the fiscal years 1957 to 1960 inclusive; and "thereafter $8,000,000 per annum."

Federal legislation to cut off this special assistance in 1962 and then review the situation sparked Premier Smallwood's decision to go to the people for backing in his fight for grants in perpetuity.

Princess Marks 29th Birthday

BALLATER, Scotland (Reuters) Telegrams, greetings and flowers poured into Balmoral castle today for Princess Margaret's 29th birthday.

The princess who, like her mother, was born in Scotland, has spent all her birthdays at Balmoral since she was seven.

Prince Charles, 10, and Princess Anne, 9, usually buy their "Aunt Margot's" birthday presents here—often a piece of jewelry.

The family present-giving took place at breakfast this morning.

Later, the whole family — the Queen, Prince Philip, their two children and the Queen Mother —was expected to join Princess Margaret in a birthday picnic on the Balmoral estate.

Tonight, after the children were put to bed, a birthday dinner was planned.

LONDON (AP)—For her official birthday portrait, Princess Margaret posed at the piano.

Released to all British newspapers, the anniversary photograph showed her in a pensive mood and wearing a low-cut gown, with her right hand picking out a melody mostly on the black notes.

Her dress for the birthday picture was white taffeta with tangerine and green flowers. Around her neck she wore a diamond necklace and single pearls hung from her ears. At her bosom was a huge diamond-studded brooch.

Her left hand was hidden, but it is unlikely she was hiding an engagement ring. There haven't even been any rumors of romance for the princess lately.

Stalks Hair-Like Worm for Months Before Anyone Will Believe Story

FARNHAM, Que. (CP) — For the last four months Dr. Luc Fortin has been stalking a hair-like worm suspected of bringing a frightening foreign disease to Canada.

His practice suffered and other medical men have been skeptical but Dr. Fortin, a balding family doctor of 32, stuck to his microscope and stayed doggedly on the trail of the tiny creature.

Now he feels his point has been proved. Experts at the University of Montreal's microbiology department, he says, have confirmed that five of his patients have microfilarial parasites.

"It may not be loa-loa," Dr. Fortin says, "but it definitely is a microfilarial disease."

The loa-loa parasite is a minute worm of the microfilarial family, the doctor explains. Other bugs in the same family produce roughly similar ailments.

Thursday two other doctors, one in Ottawa, the other in Truro, N.S., reported treating cases of loa-loa in Canada earlier.

The first stage of microfilirial disease is like the grippe. In the second the parasite may reproduce near the skin, causing a prickling sensation and a rash if scratched. At this stage it is like the itch.

In the third and chronic stage the parasite slips into the bloodstream and the victim's legs and feet swell when it clogs the lympatic blood vessels.

Dr. Fortin described Thursday night how he detected the parasite.

A girl asked him to remove splinters from her thumb. They were tiny, similar to slivers from a metal wool scouring pad. The next day she was back with

Ditching Crews Finish Program In East End

Ditching crews of the Department of Public Works have just completed an extensive program on Bradgate Road, Elizabeth Crescent, Monroe Avenue, Bridge Street East, and along Herchimer to Farley. The department hopes that by the end of next week all the public roads east of Farley Avenue will have their ditching operations completed.

Preparations for the installation of traffic lights at the intersection of College and North Front streets will be commenced next week. Some delay has been experienced due to the slow delivery of the materials required. Although some of this has yet to arrive the bases for the lights will be built so that the traffic control units may be installed without delay once they have arrived. They are expected to be in operation by early September.

The trench inspector has been quite busy during the past while with the extensive operations of the Bell Telephone firm and the Lakeland Gas people along North Front Street. A large number of gas line installations are also being made in the annexed areas.

Other crews of the department have been busy also during the past week. The sewer crew has been installing many new connections for new houses. Road crews have been carrying on general patching operations on asphalt roads. The weed inspection crew have been busy throughout the city in their work. In the past five weeks 120 weed notices have been issued.

Achievement Days for Calf, Swine Clubs Held at Fair

Bay of Quinte District Junior Farmers wound up their four-day Junior program at Belleville Fair on Thursday with Achievements Days for the Hastings County 4-H Swine Club, and for the Belleville 4-H Calf Club.

In the evening at the commencement of the final grandstand show the Prince Edward county square dance team won out over the Thurlow Township Juniors and were presented with the Chas. Bishop Trophy.

Preliminaries in the dance contest had been run off during the wek with the two finalists competing on the stage in front of the grandstand last night. Judges for the event were Mrs. Cameron Bunnett, Belleville, Elmer Gerow of Picton, and Gordon Mitz, Stirling, caller for the compulsory call numbers. Introducing the square dance competitors was Doug Harry, fair director.

Sixteen club members turned out for the Belleville 4-H calf club achievement day which saw the Hamilton brothers, Ronald and Allan, sons of Sidney reeve Harleigh Hamilton, walk off with both the day's and year's honors.

Ron was high for the year's work while Allan proved himself the best showman of the day and received a handsome silver tray for his effort.

Thirteen pairs of gilts were shown in the Hastings County Swine Club achievement day, which saw two Moira district boys, Don Farrell and Owen Ketcheson win.

Don was the best showman of the day and received the fair board silver tray from Agricultural Representative Sid MacDonald, while the best pair of gilts were shown by Owen Ketcheson.

A good crowd of interested spectators was on hand for both events which saw the junior exhibit top conditions swine and calves.

Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton presented cash awards totaling $10 to the second and third place winners in the Swine and Calf clubs.

Mr. Hamilton also pulled the winning ticket for a purebred Holstein calf raffled off by the Sidney Township Junior Farmers. The lucky winner was Ray Reeves of Trenton. He accepted the $100 alternative prize.

Bath Reeve to Erect Gibbet To Recall Tragic Old Error

This Saturday a gibbet will be erected in the Village of Bath—"as a symbol of a tragic miscarriage of justice which took place there about 1790, the first hanging in Upper Canada."

An announcement to that effect is made by Reeve R. W. Green of Bath in a letter to the Ontario Intelligencer, in which he states that he has written to Hon. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice, informing him of his intention to erect the gibbet.

"While much has been written on the issue of capital punishment," says Reeve Green in his letter to the Intelligencer, "I have not seen mention of Bath.

"Surely Bath has the strongest case for the abolition of the death penalty. The man who was hanged here was later proven innocent of the crime for which he lost his life . . . stealing a watch.

"I am taking this action because I believe Parliament should abolish this barbaric practice of capital punishment, or else re-introduce the system of public hangings, which is the logical answer to people who insist that the death penalty is a deterrent to murder."

Reeve Green enclosed with his letter a quotation from "History of the County Lennox and Addington" by Walter S. Harrington, K.C., describing this miscarriage of justice.

"The old village (Bath) has the distinction, we will not say honor, of being the scene of the first execution by hanging in Canada. The man was charged with stealing a watch, circumstantial evidence pointed to him as the thief; but he protested his innocence, claiming that he had purchased it from a pedlar. The evidence could not have been conclusive and consisted mainly of the finding of the stolen article in his possession; but this, in the opinion of the judge, cast upon the accused the onus of providing how he came by it. The pedlar belonged to the itinerant class, and had passed on to some other section of the country, where he could not be reached. The prisoner could not, under the law as it then stood, give evidence on his own behalf, so, by reason of his failure to establish his innocence, the general rule of law was inverted and he died upon the gallows. While the judge was pronouncing sentence a spectator in the court interrupted the proceedings by protesting against the conviction; but the audience was in sympathy with the findings of the court and hissed him down. A few months later a pedlar repassing through the neighborhood confirmed the words of the unfortunate man by stating that the watch in question had been sold by him under the circumstances alleged by the prisoner at the time of at the time of his trial."

Bridge St. West People Complain Of Heavy Trucks

Residents along Bridge Street West from Highland Ave. to Yeomans Street are up in arms about loss of sleep caused by the rumbling of heavy trucks during the night.

This was learned at a special meeting of city council Thursday afternoon when a petition bearing the names of a large number of residents in this area was read to members. Firms whose trucks offended most were Wilson Concrete and Toronto - Peterborough Transport, it was stated.

Council later passed a recommendation that no motor vehicle over five tons gross weight be allowed to use any streets in the city except highway connecting links unless for the purpose of picking up or delivering merchandise.

Alderman Robert Temple as chairman of traffic, said the recommendation would have to go to the highways department for approval and proper signs would have to be erected before it could become legal.

Alderman Jack Ellis, official of the Wilson Concrete Company said his firm would be happy to sit down with city officials and work out routes for trucks which would cause the least inconvenience to residents. At the moment his firm was using streets which were the shortest routes to highways.

He said the simplest answer to the problem possibly was making Sidney Street a through artery to both No. 2 and 401 highways.

Sales and Ad Club Members Visit Guelph

Twenty members of the Sales and Ad Club journeyed to Guelph by bus on Wednesday to join with clubs from Barrie, Orillia, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Toronto and Hamilton for an enjoyable day as guests of the Guelph members. The party was held at the Cutten Golf and Country Club and the golfers in the Belleville party brought home some of the loot. Ken Pinder won the fourth low net and Bill Meagher the title of the most honest golfer.

The greatest honor won was the trophy for the club travelling the greatest distance. The bus trip was most enjoyable and the members depended a great deal on a committee of Bill Spinelli, Wally Partridge, Armand Duffy and Bob Farquharson set up before departure.

The Guelph Club members were hosts to the visitors and they could not have done a better job. It was a most enjoyable day.

Obituary

MRS. SAMUEL BENSON

An aged and highly respected resident of this city for many years, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Benson, 226 William Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday afternoon after a lengthy illness. She was a native of Rawdon township, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cranston but spent most of her life in this city.

Her husband, Samuel Benson, died in 1916 and Mrs. Benson continued residence in the city and took an active part in the church social and civic life in the city. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was keenly interested in the work of the Missionary Society and was made a life member of that branch of the church. In her social life, she enjoyed the friendship of a wide circle from practically every walk of life. Although she never sought public office she was keenly interested in the affairs of her adopted city and could talk most intelligently on many subjects.

She was a kind and lovable woman and was always willing to assist in worthwhile projects especially in church work. She was affable with a ready wit and was a firm and lasting friend.

Surviving are three brothers, John Cranston of Smiths Falls, Andrew Cranston of this city, Robert Cranston of Harold and one sister, Mrs. Frank (Annie) Doxtator of Shannonville. Two brothers and one sister predeceased her.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Arena Operating Deficit Wiped Out by Motion

Autherization for the transfer of sufficient funds from the general account of the city to the operating account of the Belleville arena to allow payment of arena accounts up to August 31st, was given last night by city council.

At the same time council passed a second recommendation that as of September 1st no more overdraft be allowed the arena at the bank.

Result of this, according to Mayor Gerald Hyde, would be that if the arena required money at any future date to pay its bills, the commission would have to come to council. Thus council would at all times know the financial status of the arena.

The mayor stressed that only the arena operating account was considered in the recommendation. The senior hockey account was a separate item entirely and was not included in the motion.

"A bit late," commented one alderman as the two recommendations were read in council. The remark related to the alleged deficit which the Arena commission had run up in the past.

"Yes," returned Mayor Hyde, "but at least we are now preventing it from happening again."

Mayor Hyde said the transfer of funds from the general account had been advised by the city solicitor.

He noted that the action meant only a book transfer. The result would be that the arena operating deficit would be wiped out and in turn added to the city's general account.

Minor Baseball

The Dodgers shaded the Giants 7-6 in a bantam baseball fixture that was called because of darkness at the end of five innings last night.

Robinson hurled two-hit ball for the Dodgers in a well-pitched game. He also had two of his club's hits while McBride hit a home run.

McGuire started and lost for the Giants, relieved by Jacoley in the fourth. Fitzpatrick had a double for the Giants.

Resignation of Dog Catcher Accepted by City Council

The resignation of city dog catcher Charles Thorn was officially accepted by city council at a special meeting last night after the background story leading up to the resignation was heard by council members.

Mr. Thorn told council the reason for him tendering his resignation was that he had objected to direction from Mayor Gerald Hyde, who through the city solicitor, had ordered him to break a padlock on private property and take away two dogs which were disturbing neighbors by night barking.

Other complaints on the dog catcher were listed as not receiving sufficient car allowance to take care of additional mileage caused through annexation and the fact that he had not been supplied with uniforms as promised by the city.

Mr. Thorn said he had been advised by police against entering the property to take away the two dogs in question. Police had told him he would be liable to prosecution, he said.

Mayor Hyde, however, said he had accepted full responsibility in ordering Mr. Thorn to take away the dogs which were disturbing a person who must have rest after a serious operation. He said the dogs were owned by a man who had moved to Trenton and who returned only every two or three days to feed the animals.

Alderman Robert Temple claimed His Worship could not promise Mr. Thorn immunity from resposnibility in doing an illegal act.

But the majority of council supported Mayor Hyde and Mr. Thorn's resignation was accepted, although he told councillors he would be willing to withdraw it.

A committee of Aldermen Ellis, Tice and McCabe was named to screen applicants for the position of dog catcher.

Mr. Thorn's resignation is effective as of August 31st.

New Exhibitors, Big Crowds Make Fair Splendid Success

Simply wonderful!"

That was the reaction today of Belleville Fair President Dr. J. Russell Scott as he commented on the success of the 1959 edition of Belleville Fair.

"It was simply wonderful", Dr. Scott said. "Not only was the attendance up considerably over last year, but there was a very pleasing increase in the number of exhibitors in the ladies' classes, while livestock exhibits were also up."

Fair Treasurer Robert Phillips reported a total of 27,185 paid admissions with 9,045 paid admissions to the grandstand.

This compared with 23,148 ground admissions and 5,656 grandstand admissions last year; 26,215 grounds and 10,095 grandstand admissions in 1957.

The year 1956 was an all time high for paid admissions at the fair. That year there were 29,447 paid admissions to the grounds and 11,896 to the grandstand.

This year children under 12 were admitted free on all four days of the fair and this was noticed in the increased attendance of children of public school age and younger.

Fair president had high words of praise for the RCMP Exhibition Ride as an attraction for Belleville district fair-goers.

"It was better than the Musical Ride. It had all the show, glamor and color of the Musical Ride and in addition had the terrific thrill of the finely executed jumping

"Undoubtedy the people came to see the Exhibition Ride and while they were there we treated them with a fine agricultural display", Dr. Scott said.

During the fair there was a total of 314 cattle quartered on the grounds as well as 247 show horses, and 25 harness racing horses.

U.S. SOVIET EXPORTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States exported goods valued at about $19,000,000 to the Soviet bloc during the first three months of this year, the commerce department reported today. Imports from that area totalled just over $22,000,000. These are tiny figures, compared to trade with non - Communist countries.

Licence By-Laws To Be Revised By Committee

Sale of cigarets is illegal in Belleville on Sunday!

The city by-law covering this condition as well as a number of other by-laws dealing with licensed services, is about due for a revision by a special committee appointed last night to look into the matter.

The observation regarding the illgeal sale of cigarets on Sunday was made yesterday by Mayor Gerald Hyde at a special meeting of council called to deal with routine matters coming up during the summer recess.

He said this by-law was "only one" of the "ridiculous" regulations which are still existent in the city.

A special committee of Aldermen Wishart, Collins, Grandame and Argue was named by the mayor to review all existing by-laws governing the regulation of various services within the city and to report back to council.

Their report will include proposals for a consolidating licensing by-law with fees for each category to be adjusted to be comparable with fees charged in other municipalities.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Banks were the industrial leaders as the stock market climbed higher today in light morning trading.

All sections were up on index with industrials gaining more than 1½ points. Base metals were up almost one-half while golds added nearly one-quarter. Western oils were ahead a few decimal points.

The 11 a.m. volume was 552,000 sh[illegible] slightly better than Thursd[illegible]485,000 at the same hour. Speculative mines moved in a narrow price range and volumes were light.

Banks gathered strength following Thursday's cut in the Bank of Canada interest rate which will have the effect of easing slightly the pressure on loans by banks. Royal added 2½ at 84¼ while Nova Scotia, Commerce, Imperial and Montreal were up at least 1½ points.

Among other industrials steels added fractions as did papers. Dominion Stores led losers, off 1 at 65.

Senior base metals were mixed. Hudson Bay dipped ½ at 52¼ but Consolidated Mining was up ¼ at 20 and Steep Rock added ⅛ at 12¼.

Hollinger was ahead ¼ at 32 and Kerr-Addison was up ⅛ at 20¾ to pace golds. In western oils Canadian Husky lost ⅛ at 10⅞ b[illegible]riad gained 10 cents at $4.40. L[illegible] priced oils were generally quiet.

Industrials spurted ahead Thursday, breaking a five-day losing streak.

Industrials, after losing almost 25 points in the last five sessions, advanced 8.61 to 530.13.

The final volume was 2,005,000 shares, compared with Wednesday's 2,842,000.

Banks, steels and papers provided the industrial strength as all five of the most active issues gained. Alberta Gas Trunk Line had the big win among the most active, up 1¼ at 27¼. Massey-Ferguson was the most active issue, up ½ at 13⅞ on a turnover of 20,950 shares.

Algoma Steel was ahead 2 at 37¾. Canadian Tire dipped 5 at 185 while Canada Malting and Loblaw Inc. were down 3. United Steel lost 1½ at 10 as the company, blaming tight money, deferred its scheduled third quarter 20-cent dividend.

Falconbridge added 1 at 29 while International Nickel an Noranda gained ½. Hollinger added ¼ at 31¾ and McIntyre was up ⅜ at 88⅜ in golds.

Home B. Pacific Pete and Hudson's Bay were up fractions but Calgary and Edmonton lost ½ at 23½ and Canadian Husky gave up ¼ at 11.

Index gains: Industrials 8.61 to 530.13; golds .23 to 87.58; base metals .80 to 172.55; western oils .80 to 115.09.

CLOSING THE RING — Fifteen years ago — on August 21, 1944—the Canadian Army helped to close the trap around the German Seventh Army in the Falaise pocket. This picture shows members of the Fusiliers Mont Royal behind a Sherman tank in a back street of Falaise as they flush out snipers. The tank later hit obstructions and had to back out. (CP from National Defence).

Closing of the Falaise Gap 15 Years Ago This Evening Greatest Disaster to Nazis

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"It was fantastic to watch so dreadful a slaughter," a Canadian regimental war diary records.

"The carnage was indescribable," says another.

Fifteen years ago this evening, the Canadians, British, Americans and Poles closed the Falaise gap in Normandy, inflicting on the Germans the greatest disaster since Stalingrad.

The battle of Falaise from Aug. 8 to 21, 1944, cost the Canadian army some 4,600 casualties, of which nearly 1,500 were fatal.

But the Canadians helped to eliminate two-thirds of the German Seventh Army. The Germans never fully recovered from this blow though the war went on for another 8½ months. Among the divisions destroyed was Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer's 12th SS Panzer. Meyer served nine years in prison for his responsibility in the shooting of Canadian prisoners.

LATER DOUBTS

Till this day, a gnawing doubt about Falaise persists.

It was perhaps best expressed by Australian historian Chester Wilmot in his "The Struggle for Europe":

"Could the gap have been closed earlier?

"It seems that it could, for the evidence suggests that the thrust from the north was not pressed with sufficient speed and strength.

"In the final stages Montgomery had British divisions to spare, but Simonds (Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of 2nd Canadian Corps) was not reinforced. Nor was the Canadian attack as vigorous and venturesome as the occasion demanded . . . .

SERIOUS DELAY

"After the final drive to Chambois there was serious delay in 'thickening up' the barrier on the Dives. Crerar (Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of First Canadian Army) acknowledged this by relieving the commander of the 4th Canadian Armored Division on Aug. 20 but by then the chance of extracting the maximum advantage from the enemy's plight had gone."

Maj.-Gen. George Kitching, commander of the 4th Division at the time and now chairman of the Canadian joint staff in London, privately makes no bones about the fact he was fired.

But there is no reference to Wilmot's charge or to Kitching being relieved of his command—the actual date was Aug. 21—in any Canadian Army history so far published. Even a confidential report on the Falaise operation prepared in 1953 makes no reference.

New light on the battle of Falaise may be provided by the final volume of a new official Canadian Army history expected to be published before Christmas. It was written by Col. C. P. Stacey who has just retired as Army historian.

FORCES CONVERGE

Swinging southeast, forward elements of the 1st Polish Division, on the Canadians' left, reached Chambois at dusk Aug. 18.

The next morning, Gen. Crerar ordered 2nd Canadian Corps to seal the front between Chambois and Trun, to the northwest, thus closing the ring around the German Seventh Army. The U.S. 5th Corps to the south was driving the Germans north and east toward the Canadians and Poles.

Gen. Simonds passed on Gen. Crerar's orders to his divisional commanders at 11 a.m. Aug. 19, emphasizing that encirclement must be complete.

Column after column of grey-clad German infantry tried to force their way through and were cut down at point-blank range by Canadian machineguns.

CANADIAN VC

With 175 men and 15 tanks, Maj. D. V. Currie of the South Alberta Regiment stormed St. Lambert-sur-Dives, more than half way from Trun to Chambois, for six hours and took half the village. There he drove off ceaseless German counterattacks and won the first Canadian Victoria Cross of the Northwest Europe campaign.

RAF Typhoons in aerial cab ranks over the killing ground waited their turns to strafe the hundreds of German vehicles clogging the roads on the only escape route between St. Lambert and Chambois.

The Germans' success in keeping a two-mile gap open has been partly attributed to the fact that on the morning of Aug. 19 three Canadian field regiments were on the move and thus not available to lay down heavy artillery fire. The next day there was a heavy ground mist and flying was difficult. Showers turned the fields into mud and the tanks could not operate.

The Poles captured Chambois the evening of Aug. 19 and linked up with 90th U.S. Infantry Division. All that remained to seal the Falaise pocket was to establish a firm line between St. Lambert and Chambois.

FIERCE ENEMY

But the Germans never let up in their furious assault to escape the trap. Those who broke out turned around and attacked again. Because of the enormous mass of the German retreat the St. Lambert-Chambois gap could not be sealed off. In fact, the Germans widened it slightly Aug. 20.

The Poles in Chambois were in desperate straits. There was confused fighting the night of Aug. 20 and a group of German tanks, variously estimated at between 20 and 100, escaped the noose.

It was not until the evening of Aug. 21 that the gap was finally closed. A Canadian regimental diary records:

"Horses and men lay rotting in every ditch and hedge and the air was rank with the odor of putrefaction."

RIOTERS STOPPED

the prisoners object to working long hours in the tailor shop. A native of Hungary who has been in Canada two years, he said also the guards are over critical of the prisoners.

Magistrate Stewart said he strongly disagreed with idealists who object to the use of the strap to discipline prisoners.

"I believe if they were thoroughly strapped or knew they could be such acts would not take place."

The magistrate noted the guards are unarmed and completely at the mercy of the prisoners who fear no retribution in a physical way.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Authorities accused a San Antonio couple Thursday of deliberately starving their two-months-old son to death. Bond was fixed at $10,000 each for Manuel Quesada, 55, and Mrs. Francisca Martinez Quesada, 39, on a murder charge. Their son, Juan, died Thursday.

Four Stowaways End Five-Month Search for Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Four stowaways who have wandered the high seas on a Danish freighter for more than five months will land here today and head for a new life in Austria.

The four—one of them an expectant mother—are political refugees from Yugoslavia. They slipped aboard the freighter Olav Bjarke before it sailed from Le Havre, France, last March 7 and have since visited half a dozen ports in as many countries without being permitted to land.

The Austrian government and the office of the United Nations high commissioner of refugees finally heard of their plight last week and worked out an arrangement to end their strange odyssey.

The four will go under guard today to the Austrian consulate where they will be given visas to enter Austria.

The wandering of the group started Nov. 30, 1956, when Yvo Pujic, now 22, entered Italy illegally. He went from Italy to France a few months later. There he met a second of the four, who now is his wife, Mileva, 29. She is expecting a baby in January.

The other two left Yugoslavia separately in 1957, but later met in France. They are Mate Akrap, 29, and Slavko Svarka, 32. They boarded the Olava Bjarke at Le Havre without any knowledge that the young Pujic couple was stowing away.

Since then the vessel has visited ports in Germany, Venezuela, the Dutch West Indies, Mexico, Britain and Canada. In each case, the master of the ship was unable to get permission for them to land.

STALKS HAIR-LIKE

more. And still more the day after that.

Dr. Fortin put the splinters under his microscope and saw them squirm.

He began doing research and watching for similar parasites in other patients. He took microscope slides, and he and his pretty wife Jacqueline worked endlessly on them in their home.

Other doctors were skeptical, and not until Dr. Francois Somlo, tropical diseases professor at the University of Montreal, returned from Europe Aug. 1 could he convince anybody he had found something unusual.

MDs UNCONVINCED

Farnham doctors remain unconvinced. "I want to see the evidence," Dr. Jean-Louis Cardin said Thursday. Dr. Cardin, Farnham's mayor, was one of three doctors who submitted a statement to health officer Dr. Elphange Jacques that they had seen nothing similar to loa-loa.

Townspeople began thinking Dr. Fortin was a little dotty, he says. He was away from practice for two months with a leg ailment and devoted all his time to the parasite hunt instead of opening his office after he recovered.

A rumor circulated that he performed strange rituals with a bathtub full of DDT.

Dr. Fortin grins at the rumors. He is Farnham's newest and youngest doctor and thinks this partly explains them.

His father was mayor of Farnham for 13 years, and Dr. Fortin returned there to practise as soon as he graduated from the University of Montreal in 1953.

Unlike many doctors, he did not sell his microscope when he graduated.

Non-Op Unions Draft Demands For Negotiations

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Top negotiators of 15 non-operating railway unions are drafting new contract demands to be handed to Canada's major railways next month.

The unios are expected to seek wage increases and other changes in their 1960 agreement with the CPR and CNR.

The broad lines of their policy objectives for next year's contract were outlined Thursday at a day-long meeting of the 15-union policy committee.

MANY OBJECTIVES

They discussed higher wages, severence pay, longer vacations with pay, more paid statutory holidays, better health and welfare benefits and other matters.

Then they told the negotiating team to go ahead and put the proposals into shape for submission to the railways.

The demands may be served on the railways any time after Sept. 1. The contract does not expire until Dec. 31, but "non-op" negotiations usually go past the expiry date.

With 130,000 workers affected, and pay boost or rule change in the contracts involve millions of dollars.

The non-op workers — men who do not actually run trains —won a three-stage wage increase last year. It amounted to 13 cents an hour—less than half what the unions originally asked.

The unions will base their wage demands on earnings in Canada's durable goods industry—automobiles, refrigorators, etc. This yardstiew was originally proposed by the railways but denounced by them in recent negotiations.

The railways last year offered an alternative wage yardsteik, and are expected to elaborate on it this year.

Minister Admits Making Error In Endorsation

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Secretary Dr. Mackinnon Phillips said Thursday in a statement that he had erred when he endorsed a home-dispenser fluoride machine in letters last week to editors of Toronto's three daily newspapers.

In a formal statement which also contained a copy of a separate letter to Dominion Fluoridation Limited, makers of the unit, Dr. Phillips officially withdrew his endorsation.

Dr. Phillips said: "My letter of July 16, 1959, to this firm (Dominion Fluoridators) was certainly an error on my part, which I greatly regret. It arose due to the fact that I had dealt with the matter hurriedly and without a study of the situation which had grown up over the years . . ."

The endorsement, in a letter made public last week, said Premier Frost felt "there are altogether too many people against communal fluoridation for this or any other government to have it on a province-wide basis," and that the household unit was the only answer for those wishing fluoridated water.

Publication of Mr. Phillips' endorsement came as a committee set up at the last session of the legislature continued its study into the merits of fluoridation. Premier Frost said last week he still had "a completely open mind on the subject."

Take Option on Park Site For Police and Fire Hall

TRENTON — A start, however small, has been made in the direction of erecting a combination police station and fire hall for Trenton. Council recently approved a recommendation to take an option on Victoria Park on Division Street for a site for this building.

The council decided many months ago to erect a new building to house both the police and the fire department, but since that decision there has been virtually no action.

Council after an inspection of the police station early this year decided that the cost of repairing this building would be too great as the repairs would only make the building last approximately five years longer.

The buildings now in use by both of these departments will be torn down and the area used for a municipal parking lot. Concern has been voiced as to what will happen to the area now used for the market. The persons who are interested in this have been assured that an area covered with a canopy will be allotted for the market, thus assuring that Trenton will continue with a market as in former years.

The property which is to be optioned has an area of approximately 20,000 square feet which will provide ample room for the building and for parking nearby.

Unofficial estimates place the cost of the new building in the neighborhood of $100,000. This will be compensated in some degree by the added revenue received from the extra parking meters in the market square and by the increased revenue of businesses in this area.

SMALLWOOD WINS

ers that will be better than Smallwoodism."

ND candidates, pledged to rescind controversial legislation passed during the IWA strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, lost by wide margins even in areas where the labor vote was considered strongest. Supporters of the premier in the strike won handily. Max Lane, president of a loggers' union formed as an alternative buffer to the IWA, buried Conservative and ND candidates in Write Bay North.

Mr. Smallwood called the election after failing to win unanimous legislature support for a resoution which said the federal government had betrayed Newfoundland by passing a bill which would end the province's "perpetual" special aid in two years.

URGED TO CO-OPERATE

Mr. Hollett urged Premier Smallwood in an after-election statement to try "to co-operate more fully with the Diefenbaker government." He said both political leaders should "bury the hatchet and fight for Newfoundland."

It is doubtful that Mr. Smallwood could win full endorsation from the legislature for another motion condemning Ottawa. PC candidates had subscribed to Mr. Holett's statement that the federal government would not desert Newfoundland financially after 1962.

Just before dissolution, the legislature endorsed the motion introduced by the premier 33 to 2, with one of the 36 seats vacant. In the new House it seems likely the vote would be 33 to 3 in favor, with the UNP backing the Liberals on the issue.

A record 95 candidates were in the field. There were no women although they have contested seats before. The Liberals had 33 candidates, the PCs 32, NDs 19 and UN three. There were two independents.

Community Gardens Lost $317 in July

TRENTON — A financial report released by the Community Gardens shows that the Gardens is still operating in the red. During the month of July the gardens lost a total of $317.85, despite an income of $1,448.90.

The operating deficit has been lessened since the appointment of the latest manager here, Ron Thornton, and board members feel confident that within the next few months the operations will show a profit.

CAN NO LONGER

The fungus is causing serious troubles in Japan, which since the Second World War has become one of the world's largest manufacturers of cameras and optical instruments.

It can become a problem elsewhere also, since Japan is one of the largest exporters of optical goods, and fungi spores can travel with the export goods.

Dr. Ohtsuki's researches established that only one particular fungus strain — aspergillus glaucus, variety tonophilus—preferred glass. Dr. Ohtsuki said he has found the fungi can establish themselves on plates that are perfectly flat and have been cleaned with chrom-sulfuric acid to kill all living things.

FEED ON DUST

They get their food from minute particles of dust that are always present in the atmosphere, he said. The dust has organic matter attached to it.

The fungus flourishes at humidity levels of 65 to 95 per cent. The same specie of fungus was introduced onto razor blades and swords, and survived.

Dr. Ohtsuki said the "arms" the fungus puts out exude tiny drops of fluid. This contains weak acids such as citric or oxalic acid, which corrode lenses and metals.

He has invented a process to prevent fungus growth on optical surfaces.

"It is quite expensive," Dr. Ohtsuki said. "It is a fuming chemical which is placed inside the lens mouth. The fumes prevent fungus. It is good for about 10 years."

On outer surfaces, the chemical is unnecessary since fungi can be wiped off with a soft cloth and mild soap, provided the lens has not been corroded.

The "Sins" of the Fathers

In Britain during the past ten years 22 sons of bus conductors and window cleaners applied for Foreign Office jobs; only two made the grade. Of the 365 sons of clerks and civil service workers who tried, 12 were accepted. Of 778 sons of teachers and business managers, 42 were successful. And of the five sons of garbage men who tried, all were turned down.

Now the St. Thomas Times-Journal reports that this year one of the applicants was a young man who had graduated from a Scottish university and was highly recommended by the principal. He was an outstanding scholar, passing first in the whole of Great Britain in his written examinations; he had an honors degree, was an expert in debating and he had a "blue" in sports. But he was rejected.

Why?

Because, laments The Times-Journal, he was not an old English "public" school boy nor a graduate of Oxford or Cambridge. To this it might be added that this British bias is a perpetual impediment to the development of Britain as a whole.

In this regard a curious paradox prevails in the United States. A "high-born" politician suffers a distinct disadvantage. Any such implication is dangerous. Once when Adlai Stevenson was campaigning, it was rumored that he had attended Oxford university. His party immediately investigated. Had he attended? No! The denial was announced and Stevenson was politically "saved."

Right now the fact that Nelson Rockefeller, Governor of New York, has a son about to marry the daughter of a Swedish grocer is definitely advantageous to his politically.

The American voter wants a leader of his own kind. He has more confidence in one who has toiled and struggled in ways similar to his own. Thus anything can happen in America. This spirit pervades the land. A citizen sees a great leader up on the platform and he says to himself, "Look at that guy up there! He is a big man now. You bet your life he is. And he was just like me a few years ago. Sure he was. I might be up there some day. Why not? Just wait till I get going . . . ."

And he might. It happens. It happens more often in America because more believe it possible.

Help, Facts!

The following report appeared in the Toronto Telegram:—

"Norman Dubee, 30, of Garnock Ave., went to the aid of a cab driver he thought was being kidnapped The 'kidnapper' turned out to be a policeman making an arrest and Dubee's rescue attempt cost him $25 in court today. Dubee was arrested by a second policeman as he stood holding on to the first policeman and yelling: 'Help, police!' Magistrate Elmore dismissed a charge of obstructing police, but fined Dubee for causing a disturbance."

That's all there is to the report—there isn't any more, which is a situation as unsatisfactory, and leaves us as puckered up with disappointment as we would be if the anticipated slug of gin did not follow the preparatory bite on the lemon.

Our first reaction is to join Dubee in yelling for the police, for on the face of it a decent, courageous citizen has been hijacked out of twenty-five bucks and right in court, at that. The voice of experience, though, cautions that magistrates are not in the habit of taking unkindly to attempts by citizens to uphold law and order and that, though Dubee evidently believed a kidnapping was being perpetrated, there may have been some good reason why he should not have suffered this delusion.

We are consumed with curiosity as to what this reason could be. Was the policeman who was arresting the cab driver in plain clothes or in uniform? The report does not say. Was the second policeman who arrested Dubee in plain clothes or in uniform? Once again we get no satisfaction from the Telegram. All this leaves us very thankful that the necessity for condensing the news, so pressing on larger papers, is never so urgent here that we are forced to offer the reader the husk of a story. Let our readers rest assured that any time a Belleville citizen is fined $25 for yelling "Help, police!" The Ontario Intelligencer will provide all the juicy details.

In Arguments Get Your Facts Straight

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The main reason that most arguments get nowhere lies in a five-letter word we frequently use and never think about. That word is "cause."

When we take part in a discussion on "Does Smoking Cause Lung Cancer?" or "Do Slums Cause Crime?", we rarely define which kind of 'Causation" we are talking about.

Indeed, most persons don't even know the difference between necessary and sufficient cause; or among predisposing, precipitating, and perpetuating causes; of unique versus convergent causes; or the idea of correlation.

Does smoking "cause" lung cancer? The most we can say now is that there is a definite correlation. Excessive cigaret smoking seems to "precipitate" lung cancer, but the "Predisposing" cause may well be a certain kind of physical constitution that is inherited.

Do slums "Cause" crime? Only in a limited sense, otherwise most slum dwellers would be criminals. Of two boys growing up in the slums, one may become a clergyman and the other a criminal. But there is no doubt that slums may "Precipitate" and "Perpetuate" crime if a boy is emotionally disturbed or subjected to intense family stresses.

Some causes are merely necessary, while others are sufficient. It is necessary to have gas in your car to go 80 miles an hour, but it is not sufficient — the motor has to be able to take it at that speed. It is necessary to drink liquor in order to be a drunk, but it is not a sufficient cause—which is a fallacy made by the prohibitionists.

Most causes are not unique, but convergent. What we popularly call a 'nervous breakdown." For instance, is caused by a multiplicity of factors: perhaps a weak constitution, plus a bad life situation, plus any number of internal and external pressures to say "This is the cause of that" is always a dangerous over-simplification.

The study of causation is woefully neglected in most academic disciplines, and especially in medicine, where each specialist tends to believe that an illness is solely caused by something in his department, and can be cured by his own special brand of therapy.

Political discussions and in futile bickering for the same reason: each contestant thinks that one factor is the cause of our trouble — inflation, high profits, wage increases, foreign spending — because it is easier to find a devil to blame than to analyze a situation that is compounded of a dozen complex and conflicting causes that defy any simple and swift solution.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

OAKVILLE, ONT.

This thriving industrial community owes its name to the prevalence of excellent white oaks which grew in great profusion in the district. Col. William Chisholm and his partners evaluated the worth of this excellent timber and began the manufacture of barrel staves and oak masts for ships, which were shipped to England. It was only natural that the thriving community should adopt as its name the principal primary product of the region.

Princess Margaret Rose is nine years today. At Balmoral Castle, where the royal family is in residence, a birthday party in pink was arranged. Pink is the favorite color of the princess, and she helped pour icing over the cake, ("Mummy, said she could"), and punctuated the glossy surface with nine pink candles.

Information was received of the death of Senator Frank O'Connor, in Toronto today after an illness of more than a year. Senator O'Connor was appointed to the Senate December 5, 1935, the first appointment by the Mackenzie King Government after it took office that year. He was born in Deseronto, Ont., April 9th, 1885, the son of Patrick and Ellen O'Connor. At a young age he went to Peterborough where he attended Separate School for only a few years before he started his life work. Most of the political activities of Senator O'Connor were behind the scenes. He was an intimate friend of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, and was credited with being a major factor in the Liberal victory in Ontario in 1934. Senator O'Connor credited his wife for much of his success. He married Ellen Hayes of Belleville, who predeceased him in September, 1931. Two children survive, Mrs. Frederick Neale and William O'Connor.

Tea Cures Radiation?

Calgary Albertan

A report from two Japanese scientists that tannin, a chemical present in quantity in tea, is effective as a cure for the ill effects of strontium-90 radiation could change the drinking habits of the world.

The British, of course, have long known that tea is a cure for almost everything so doubtless the Japanese report will come as no surprise to them. But the effect on the coffee-drinking and wine-drinking countries could be considerable.

Indeed if the findings of the Japanese scientists are substantiated, it is possible to imagine a change in the tactics of the Cold War with both sides bending every effort to secure access to tea-growing areas.

Dreadful Toll In U.S.S.R.

London Times Weekly Review

The veil has been lifted from the statistics of the Russian population, and the profile it reveals is even grimmer than has been imagined. In May the results of the first census held for twenty years gave the population of Russia as less than 209 millions. Detailed analysis of this figure by the Population Reference Bureau in Washington and by Mr. Warren Eason in the July number of Foreign Affairs have now brought out some of the implications. In 1940, Mr. Eason estimates, after the incorporation of the Baltic States, the population must have been some 194 million. In 1950, working back from the present figures, it can have been only 179 million instead of the 224 million which a normal rate of growth would have reached. Thus, even allowing for a margin of error, Russia must have lost up to forty-five million of her potential population during the war. In this figure Mr. Eason includes the loss of twenty million babies who were not born or who died in infancy. But this still leave perhaps twenty-five million deaths directly attributable to the war. He estimates that ten million of those who died were in the armed forces; the rest must have been civilians.

There are now twenty million fewer males than females, a gap which is confined to the age-groups which were over eighteen at the end of the war. Between the wars more men than women died under the burden of forced collectivation in the transfer of labor from the country to the unhealthy, over-crowded new towns, and in the forced labor camps.

Protected To Death

Fort William Times-Journal

A naturalist estimated there were between 1,000 and 3,000 moose on nearby Isle Royale in 1929. Came the year 1944 and the herd had dwindled to an estimated 30 to 100. And not one hunter had been on the island all that time.

As an official of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests says, to protect game it must be shot.

When some influence does not offset an increase in numbers as the carrying capacity of the range is approached, real catastrophe threatens.

This is a story of how a great moose herd was protected to death.

Isle Royale is a part of Michigan, 18 miles off the Canadian shore near the eastern end of Lake Superior. It is 45 miles long and a third of that in width at various points.

How or when the moose arrived is not known but it is assumed they crossed from the mainland about 1900.

By 1915 the population was guessed at 300. By 1922 the estimate was 1,000 and the Michigan Conservation Commission requested the legislature to permit limited hunting.

This was violently opposed by groups of people who unknowingly thought that game crops could be stored for future use and consequently no further action was taken.

In 1929 a top ranking naturalist, Dr. Adolphe Murie began a study of the Isle Royale moose. He estimated that the island contained at least 1,000 and if an actual count were possible, might contain 3,000 or more moose. It was probably the greatest concentration of this species.

Murie called attention to the greatly overbrowsed condition which others had been doing for six years.

In 1939 only a remnant of the herd was left. In 1944 the estimate of the herd ranged from 30 to 100. This magnificent band of animals had eaten itself out of house and home.

No one can attempt to guess when the vegetation will permit the herd to start rebuilding.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ACHES DON'T NECESSARILY DENOTE PRESENCE OF ARTHRITIS

An old medical adage says, "All that wheezes is not asthma".

We might paraphrase it to say that "all that aches is not arthritis".

Pain in the joint strikes terror in many patients. There is the fear of being helpless, disabled. The musician, the artist can be more fearful of that than of danger to life itself. I've seen it happen; I've seen this terrible fear develop. And I've had occasion to observe relief when the victim learned that the pain was not arthritis at all.

What to do about it? First, we as physicians must, I think, be a little more careful not to say, of a trivial pain, "Oh, just a twinge of arthritis", if we know the patient winces at the word.

And, at the same time, you as patients will help the whole situation by not becoming alarmed, either at the twinge of pain, or at your doctor's remark that "it's just a twinge of arthritis".

True, there are far too many people who are indeed crippled by arthritis. Some of them have been the victims of acute rheumatoid arthritis, which is a thoroughly disagreeable disease. But it isn't something that sneaks up silently and leaves you helpless. Such an acute case makes itself known at the time, without any room for doubt, and it has to be treated with the greatest care until the acute stage has passed.

Many others, who never have had this acute disease, fall victim over the long years by giving in to the gradual pain and stiffness instead of gritting their teeth and not letting the joints stiffen. It hurts, but later on they avoid being crippled.

But sometimes I suspect that the biggest volume of worry comes from pains that aren't arthritis at all. Ankle pain often is from inadequate shoe support, and painful knees from the same.

EXCESS WEIGHT GUILTY

Excess weight, so common in our well-fed part of the world, can be the cause of pains, on a purely mechanical basis, in the hips, ankles and knees.

The "do-it-yourselfers", bless 'em, sometimes tackle rugged projects before they have conditioned themselves physically. Sudden joint strain causes aches — but not arthritis. Fingers, shoulders, arms, wrists may hurt. Painting ceilings or walls can make the shoulders ache if you aren't used to employing the muscles in just that way.

One recent case that made me sit and pay attention to the "arthritis that isn't arthritis" involved a young married woman who, for 15 years (since adolescence) had complained of joint pains.

No morning stiffness, no swelling, no deformity after those years — but she "had pains" and was frightened. Taking a very thorough medical "history" showed she had always been surrounded by illness of some sort. Her father's arthritis was real and severe.

She was induced thus to worry too freely about herself and others. A most careful examination showed no sign of arthritis (or any other "itis" which means infection) and [illegible] she needed was to have the truth pointed out to her.

For your health, nerves and happiness, don't fret and worry about arthritis unless you know you have it. It may be something else.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the cause of vitiligo and is there a cure? — Mrs. G. J."

The cause of vitiligo (white spots or white patches appearing in the skin) is not known. It does no harm except so far as it may be unsightly. Certain drugs are still being studied, but as yet there is nothing that can be called a cure. Covering the spots with cosmetics is probably the best answer.

No Logic In Decision

Winnipeg Free Press

The Department of Immigration and its officials move [illegible]d think) in a mysterious [illegible]y, their wonder to perform.

Recently Canadian immigration officials refused to let a 17-year-old English girl come to Canada to look after the children o fher dead sister. The officials' reductance was apparently based on the ground that they felt it unwise for the girl to stay with her late sister's husband.

Such apparent concern for the properties (or ofr what immigration officials deem to be the proprities) is refreshing. It shows, doesn't it, that the immigration department has a heart, that it cares what happens to newcomers to this country?

But, also for any credit that might be due it, the department's nicenellyism extends only so far. It's not wise for the girl to come to Canada no[illegible] stay with her brother-in[illegible] and his children. But it will be all right three months from now, when she has turned 18.

Is there any logic to be discerned in this decision? Of course not. And that puts it on a par with many other crack-brained decisions that the department comes up with in the course of a year.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In England I ran into a gentleman who was very astonished at my accent.

"Why," he said, "you speak very much like an American"!

I assured him that I spoke the familiar Canadian speech, though with rather a gravelly voice and possibly a slight inclination to dropping the final "g" from words ending in "ing".

"Not at all," said the Englishman firmly. "I am acquainted with many Canadians, and I find they speak English very much as we do here in Britain."

I asked him how many Canadians he was acquainted with.

"I have met thirty or forty," he declared, "and I am intimately acquainted with at least a dozen."

On enquiring further, I learned that the gentleman was engaged in the saddlery business and sold all sorts of riding gear, saddles, harness, hunting horns, flasks in leather cases to be attached [illegible] the saddle, crops, whips, hel[illegible] caps for riding to hounds. . .

"Aw," I realized, "the Canadians you have met are the well-to-do sporty type who adopt a sort of English accent as naturally as they adopt hunting pink coats. It is an affectation."

"You are an American," he insisted," and you are pulling my leg."

In truth, I can't say cawn't if I tried.

ENVY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

"He is a lucky dog," you say
Of him who now can rest,
Who whiles away the summer day,
Contentment in his breast;
Who owns a cottage by the lake
And there, beneath a tree,
Is able now his rest to take—
A lucky dog is he.

But envy is a vicious jade
Who leads us far astray;
For discontentment is her trade,
Though rosy seems her way.
She does not show to us the strife,
The endless toil and care
That he who knows this peaceful life
Endured while climbing there.

My boy, as on through life you go,
Brush envy from your way;
The ease that other men may know
Can well be yours some day.
You, too, may rest in later years,
And then you will have learned
The man, who lucky oft appears,
His resting time has earned.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINKING WITH YOURSELF

We ought to have serious moments, from time to time, when our thoughts are concentrated upon ourselves. A personal interview, when we give over ourselves to critical examination. Who knows us better than we ourselves? Self improvement is something we all should welcome.

There are many who live a "lone wolf" life, both independent and dependent. We can always think alone, but to invite ourselves to the inner chambers is quite another thing. If we knew ourselves better we would be more charitable to others, for we would try to meet them in their world.

Thinking is a great art, but all thought should originate in each one of us. As this Talk is written a great industrialist, Cyrus Eaton, from Cleveland, has invited an unusual group of men from all over the United States to discuss problems at his birthplace at Pugwash, Nova Scotia. These men gather to think things out. It's a think conference, not a debating bout. To think is to learn. That idea of Mr. Eaton's is a fine one.

Thinking a plan out should serve us all. Good luck follows every well planned project. To think these things out with that other self of ours, however, should give the greatest gain. Each one of us is a noble creation! Let us not fail to exhibit it in action and good deeds. That is the joy of achievement because it is so personal. Get to know yourself better, and think your way to the minds and hearts of the deserving.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ADJUSTMENT — WHICH WAY?

One of the most common sights at the beaches in the summer is the bather who steps hesitantly into the water, gingerly wetting his toes, and then leaps out shrieking about how cold the water is. Gradually he goes in up to his knees, then to his waist, and finally, after many heroics, he plunges in. A few moments later, he is swimming around in perfect comfort.

Such is the human capacity for adjustment, and it is a capacity which we have morally as well as physically. The carefully brought up young man or woman with high ideals who gives way to indulgence finds the first shock of deliberate sin a chilling one. But if he keeps on his course of lying, drinking, gambling, illicit sex, and so on, he soon feels fairly comfortable in a moral atmosphere so low that it would once have frightened and disgusted him.

Fortunately for those who do not live as they know they should, but hope to do better, the capacity for adjustment is quite as great in the other direction. Giving up our favorite indulgence or vice seems at first as painful as stepping into icy water. But the better way of living which appears so impossibly uncomfortable at first becomes even pleasant as we accustom ourselves to it.

Strength and weakness both are results of practice — why settle fo rweakness. We can make out of ourselves almost anything we want to — it depends on the will, or rather on the willingness.

Wedding

LOCKE — JOHNSTON

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday, August 3rd, in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, when the Reverend T. F. Townsend united in marriage, Norma Almeda Johnston, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnston, to Ralph Ross Locke, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Locke.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend provided the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gerald Johnston, was charming in her bridal gown of lilac-flocked nylon over taffeta in waltz-length, with matching headdress and accessories. She carried a cascade of salmon-colored gladioli florets centred by a Talisman rosebud in each flower, with trailing ivy and satin tie.

She was attended by Mrs. Shirley Walt, of Glen Miller, Ontario, as matron of honor, wearing a mint-green waltz-length gown of summer linen with lace bodice, matching feather cap, and accessories, with nosegay of white and tinted-green carnations.

Mr. Roy Locke, of Toronto, attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. Carl Johnston of Belleville, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Club Canara, where a buffet luncheon was served from tables decorated with Sweetheart roses. The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake adorned with pink roses, and topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and encircled about the base by white satin ribbon and large bow. Tall white candles in silver holders added a lovely nuptial accent.

The bride's mother received, attired in white and blue taffeta with white accessories and corsage of white 'mums with blue sparkle tips. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who chose a powder blue chiffon with white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums.

For motoring to Nashville, Tenn., and the southern United States, the bride wore a blue sheath with matching bolero, white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Locke are residing in Rossmore, Ontario.

Guests from out-of-town were present from Niagara Falls, Toronto, Cold Springs, Trenton and Glen Miller.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at miscellaneous showers given by friends in Toronto; and at one given by relatives in Belleville.

PRUCHA — EGGLETON

Beaches Presbyterian Church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, August 15th, at 3.00 p.m. when Marilyn Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roy Eggleton, Stirling, became the bride of Mr. Carl Thomas Prucha, Toronto, son of Mrs. K. Prucha, of Prague, Czechoslovakia, and the late Mr. Prucha.

The Reverend J. R. Greig officiated and the traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mr. Jack Levis. The soloist, Miss Sally Bond, sang Handel's "Wedding Hymn" before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, Dr. Healy Willan's setting of "O Perfect Love."

The front of the church was tastefully decorated with tall standards of white gladioli green fern and ivy.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Ceil Chapman gown of ivory silk organza over taffeta, featuring a shirred bodice, with scoop neckline and short sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt was softly draped from the centre front, over the hipline, ending at the centre back hem line. Her headdress was a Fath bow of ivory satin, with stiffened veiling. With this she wore ivory satin pumps and white kid gloves. A pearl necklace and pearl and diamond earrings completed her costume. She carried a cascade bouquet of peach colored roses, stephanotis and fern.

Her attendant, Mrs. Ronald Cumming, was attractively attired in a princess style gown of moss green silk organza over taffeta, with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. A deep band of softly shirred organza encircled the bell-shaped skirt, ending in a large bow at the back. With this she wore a Fath bow of the moss green organza, matching pumps and white kid gloves. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and fern.

Dr. Sydney Prucha acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Eggleton, brother of the bride, and Dr. Alan Hutchison.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at 264 Glen Manor Dr., the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hutchison, friends of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride's mother as hostess, was charming in a sheath style dress of mink-brown silk Chantilly lace over champagne colored satin. She wore a small draped hat of beige and brown satin with feather trim and matching beige-toned accessories. Her corsage was of small pink Pinocchio roses.

Assisting in the receiving line, Mrs. Hutchison wore a two-piece dress of beige lace over taffeta, with large black hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of small yellow Pinocchio roses.

Mr. Fred Devolin, uncle of the bride was toastmaster for the occasion and the usual toasts were proposed.

After the reception, the happy couple left for a honeymoon to points north, the bride travelling in suit of moss green, with beige accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained in Toronto at a luncheon and linen shower by the staff members at Williamson Rd. School, where she is the Kindergarten directress: Also at a miscellaneous shower given by her friends at the home of Mrs. Hutchison.

In Stirling, at a shower at the home of Mrs. Harry Francis and Shirley, the bride was presented with a wool blanket a milk-glass, cake plate and a figurine.

Bethel Women's Association Sponsors Fellowship Tea

RAWDON — Bethel Women's Asociation on the Rawdon circuit entertained ladies from Wellmans and Mount Pleasant to a fellowship tea last Thursday afternoon in the church, which was decorated with asters and gladioli.

The devotional was given by the ladies of Wellman's W.A. Mrs. Jack Durham gave the meditation and Mrs. Clifford Clancy read the Bible. Mrs. Fred Beckett officiated at the piano and all sang "Art Thou Weary?"

The program was presented by Mount Pleasant W.A. with Mrs. Carleton Potts as pianist. Mrs. Garth Joslin sang. "God Hath Not Promised". Misses Carol Sharpe and Mary Ellen David sang a duet "Have You Been in the Garden With Jesus?" Mrs. Raymond McConnell read a humorous poem. "Too Fat to Wear Daughter's Hand-me-downs".

TRIP TO ENGLAND

Mrs. John Mulheron, a member of Bethel W.A., gave a thrilling account of her recent journey to England. She left Britain in 1946 and came to Rawdon township as the first war bride. This was her first trip home since then to see her aged parents and her brother, Professor Marsh of Oxford College. Her daughter Margaret accompanied her on the trip.

She said when she came to Canada London was in ruins and she was delighted to find when she returned that much of it had now been rebuilt.

Mrs., Mulheron and daughter also visited her husband's relatives in Scotland and she showed several interesting pictures of Stirling Castle. She also described a bus tour of Scotland up to the "Rob Roy country", as well as visits to Westminister Abbey, Buckingham Palace where Margaret viewed the changing of the guard, the Tower of London and many other places of interest.

Mrs. Mulheron showed several souvenirs and snap shots. She presented Mrs. Laycock with a collection plate and letter from the ladies of East Grinsteck, and the letter expressed thanks for the pretty quilt which Bethel W.A. had sent them as a gift. Mrs. Mulheron also stated she was grateful for the beautiful diary which Bethel W.A. had given to her prior to her departure.

Mrs. Harold Elliott expressed thanks for the address and program.

Mrs. Don Heath and Mrs. F. Reid gathered the offering and all sang "Wonderful Love".

The group was then entertained in the church hall where light refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

LAST OLD-STYLE MILL

HAMILTON (CP)—A meeting Friday may help decide the fate of Ontario's only remaining water-operated flour mill. Howard Cope, owner of the Ancaster Mountain mill, and representatives of a golf club and sod farm will discuss the water whortage. Tributaries supplying the mill pond have been dammed up on golf property and irrigate the sod farm.

Girl With One Leg Calgary's Top Swimmer

CALGARY (CP)—Eileen Rutberg was five years old when her right leg was amputated near the hip because of bone cancer. Now, at 22, the Bible school student is one of the city's top swimmers.

She is a lifeguard, a swimming instructor and a member of the Calgary Acqua Rockets swimming group.

Almost a year after the childhood operation Miss Rutberg's parents bought her an artificial leg, but she wouldn't use it.

"I couldn't keep up with the other kids when I was wearing it," she explains. "Crutches were much faster. But when I was 16 I wanted to act like a lady, and I've been wearing an artificial leg ever since."

KEEPS BUSY

During the last four years at the Alberta Bible College she has been teaching swimming classes and has collected blue ribbons in provincial swimming meets. Recently she finished second in the Alberta senior women's mile swim. During the summers she works in a department store.

Her studies, work and swimming keep Miss Rutberg busy, but she finds time to sew her own clothes and play volley ball. She hopes to take up golf some time.

Next year she plans to go to the University of Minnesota to compete her studies for her cherished goal of church and youth work

Singapore People's Party Gets New Deal for Women

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—In addition to banning polygamy, Singapore's new left-wing People's Action Party government is planning a new deal for women.

Women in many ways hold an inferior position in Singapore. In the Chinese, Indian and Malay communities polygamy still is practised. Among the Malays, women are the victims of marriage and divorce laws which overwhelmingly favor the men. Women laborers are a common sight in Singapore streets, and young girls frequently are sold to brothel-keepers.

Besides banning polygamy for all except Moslems, who are allowed to have four wives under their religious law, the Singapore government intends to eradicate prostitution and to intensify a campaign for birth control.

LACK EDUCATION

Commenting on this policy in a public speech here, Miss Chan Choy Sing, a 25-year-old PAP member of the Legislative Assembly, said that women in Singapore's "semi-feudal and semi-colonial society" are handicapped by political, economic and religious factors."

"In their homes they are the slaves of husbands and children," she declared. "They are influenced by superstitions, and for many other reasons they are unable to break out of narrow family surroundings to get to learn the world outside.

"Unmarried women are often unable to stand on their own feet economically because of lack of opportunity of employment and of adequate education. Under the pressure of worsening economic conditions and unemployment, many young girls are forced to become prostitutes. Others provide cheap labor for exploiting employers, inevitably part of a colonial regime.

"There is no place in a socialist society for the exploitation of women. From now on both sexes will have equal rights and opportunities, and a government principle will be equal pay for equal work.

"The present marriage laws which permit polygamy will be amended. The People's Action Party believes that a necessary condition for a stable home and family is a monogamous marriage. But of course where polygamy has religious sanctions, as in the case of Moslems, it would not be right for outsiders to interfere with religious beliefs."

DOMESTIC RELATIONS

Stating that marriage-counsel courts are to be set up to advise families in danger of breaking up. Miss Chan noted that "the aim of these courts will be to preserve the marriage wherever this is reasonable."

Concerning prostitution, Miss Chan said: "Most prostitutes take to the streets for economic reasons—there is no other way to make a living. These girls and women are not criminals. But the men who live on part of their earnings are, and they must be punished."

The government would "take firm steps to eradicate the curse of prostitution from Singapore, and will help unfortunate women to regain their self-respect."

BIRTH RATE HIGHEST

On the subject of birth control, Miss Chan said: "Singapore has the highest birth rate in the world. Unless something is done to restrict this, we shall never be able, no matter how hard we work, to provide the schools, hospitals and employment which our people need. The government intends to expand family planning organizations considerably so that they will effectively reach the people all over the island."

Small maternity hospitals and clinics would be set up in various parts of the state to provide free medical treatment for poor women unable to afford visits to a doctor.

"We shall encourage women to take an active part in politics. We shall help them to organize a united women's movement to fight for women's rights. We shall encourage women to play their proper part in government administration. We shall open up new avenues for employment for women.

"The welfare of women and orphans will be the responsibility of the government.

"Married women will be given an opportunity to live a full life, with the right to work on level terms with others."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Harriet R. — I can't stand Mother's new husband.

Mrs. J. F. — He has almost saved my life.

Harriet R. — I am happily married and the mother of two youngsters. My problem concerns my mother who recently remarried.

Mother was a widow for ten years. She owned and operated a small business very successfully. She took in Ralph, a man nearly 20 years her junior, as an assistant. He managed to win her confidence and she finally married him.

Now Ralph runs the business—and Mother as well. She does everything he tells her. He has fallen into gravy for he didn't have a dime of his own. Everyone is laughing at Mother and I feel so bad for her that I just can't bear to face her. I certainly can't stand the sight of Ralph. I love my mother, but she won't visit me without him and I can't visit her.

Mrs. . F. — I certainly never expected to be estranged from my only daughter in my late years. We have always had a warm, wonderful relationship. Now she acts as though she is my enemy. The few times we have been together since my marriage, it has all ended in bitterness and tears.

Harriet is so sure I have married a fortune-hunter. But I have [illegible] fortune and Ralph knows it. I [illegible] 63 and have worked hard all my life. I couldn't go on indefinitely. Ralph learned the business in no time and almost saved my life by taking over some of the heaviest burdens.

My husband has tried to win Harriet over, but she has been nasty to him. I feel I have a right to demand that she respect him.

• • •

The Council: We're with Mrs. J. F. She has a right to demand respect for her husband.

Harriet should also recognize that love and respect for her mother demand that she treat her stepfather with courtesy and kindness — even if she can't muster any enthusiasm for the relationship.

Harriet seems deeply affected by the external appearance of this marriage of her mother's, but we don't see any sign of an effort on her part to delve further.

If Mrs. J. F. has fallen into the hands of a real fortune-hunter who will selfishly use her and show no love and consideration in return, Harriet will be needed. But the critical, hostile attitude she has taken sets up a barrier between her and her mother, and it may prevent her mother from coming to her should she need a friend.

On the other hand, Harriet should recognize that she cannot judge a relationship like marriage purely on the social appearance. It is just possible that this older woman and younger man have much to give one another mentally and emotionally — as well as economically.

Mrs. J. F. seems satisfied with the arrangement she has made—at this time at least. It may be hard for Harriet to accept the fact that her mother could be quite content to let this man enjoy certain economic advantages while she enjoys other benefits. It may also be hard for her to understand that two individuals so far apart in age could love one another sincerely. But life is full of interesting possibilities and Harriet should be willing at least to look at this relationship with an open mind. Outsiders who scoff aren't worth thinking about.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: A THANK-YOU EN ROUTE

You'll make a hit with your hostess if you send her a telegram on your way home, or as soon as you arrive home. There is something refreshingly spontaneous about this thoughtful and friendly gesture. For example: "You and Bill are the world's best hosts. What a thrilling and memorable visit we had with you two dear friends. Many, many thanks for all the happy hours."

P.S. Of course this telegram does not take the place of a bread-and-butter letter. This thank-you letter must be written as soon as possible after you arrive home.

FORM OF INVITATION TO GROOM'S RELATIVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a special problem about the notes I am planning to write to invite some of the guests to our daughter's wedding. To our friends I am writing notes according to the form you have suggested in your column. But you did not say anything about the form of note that the bride's mother should write, for example, to the several close relatives of the groom I haven't had the opportunity to meet. For example, two aunts of his, to whom he is very devoted: one is married; one is a widow. Will you please suggest a correct form for these notes? (Small wedding in our church, then all guests at ceremony invited to reception at our home.)

— Bride's mother

Dear Mrs. Allen,

Our daughter, Beatrice, and your nephew, Peter, are to be married in our church (give name and address of church) on Tuesday, September 29, at 4 o'clock. My husband and I hope very much that you and your husband will be able to be with us at the ceremony, and will come afterward to the small reception here in our home. We are all looking forward to meeting you and to having you with us on this happy occasion.

Cordially,
Margaret Delafield

CONCERNING WIDOW'S REMARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, 34 years old, with a 17-year-old son. I am planning to be married again soon. My groom-to-be is a divorced man. About our wedding plans I have two most important questions to ask you.

1. My son says he would like to see me married in a white dress (informal, of course), and I also would very much like to wear a white dress, as I was not married in church at my first wedding. Do you think it would be good taste for me to wear a white dress?

2. Also my son would like to be the one to give me in marriage. My family thinks this would be a beautiful gesture, but I'd like to ask your opinion about this. The wedding is to be small and informal, with only the members of the families and a few intimate friends present. — Reader

1. You would definitely show best taste and judgment if you do not wear a white dress. Often the bride at her second marriage wears her going-away costume; or you may, if you wish, wear a street-length dress or a suit of a color most becoming to you, a pastel shade perhaps, with a matching or harmonizing small hat.

2. Your vagueness about your plans makes me seriously wonder if you have consulted with the one who is to perform the marriage ceremony. Have you? If you haven't, you most certainly should, for it is his authority you need to explain the permissible procedure, and also the plans you wish to make, including any suggestions made by your son.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

NOTE FROM MARY:

Please include your name and address in every letter you write to me. All of the letters given here today are from readers who gave no name or address. Two girls gave their initials. On Civic Holiday afternoon one of my secretaries and I answered 46 readers' letters by direct mail. This will give you a little idea of why I want your names and addresses — and want to choose the answers that go in this column myself. Please enclose stamped self-addressed envelope. You will receive my answer more quickly if you comply with these easy rules. Okay? No hard feelings.

FRIDAY

Rainbow Trout (wrapped in foil, steamed in ¼" water in covered pan); Tartare Sauce; Boiled Mint-buttered Small Potatoes; Sliced New Beets; Sliced Cucumber Salad; Frosted Grapes; Assorted Crackers and Cheeses; Tea.

QUESTION:

What is wrong with these syrupy butter tarts? I made them, followed the recipe . . . they were not sweet . . . rather flat . . . E. R.

ANSWER:

The feature of the tarts you refer to is their syrupyness. If you prefer sweeter tarts try these.

BUTTER TARTS:

One-quarter to one-third cup butter, 1 1-2 to 2 cups light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups currants or raisins which have been soaked in boiling water 5 minutes and drained and dried, 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond or rum flavoring, 1-2 cup chopped nuts (optional). Beat together butter and sugar, then eggs and remaining ingredients. Fill pastry-lined tart tins 2-3 full and bake at 375 deg. F. about 20 minutes.

QUESTION:

I tried your recipe for Sweet Gherkins . . . they were very much shrivelled . . . was there a mistake in the recipe? . . . your Thousand Island Pickle was wonderful and will make more of it . . . G. C. E.

ANSWER:

Last week on August 13 I discussed pickle shrivelling and gave directions for avoiding this. If you did not see that column would you please give me your name and address and repeat your request.

QUESTION:

Do you have a recipe that is called Nut Smacks or Bars? . . . also a salad dressing that is red not made with tomato soup . . . no signature.

ANSWER:

NUT BARS:

One-half cup butter, 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup shredded cocoanut, 1 cup chopped nuts. Cream butter with 1-2 cup brown sugar, add 1 cup flour and mix to crumbly mass. Pat evenly into well-greased pan 8" square and bake at 300 deg. 20 minutes. Cool. Beat eggs until light, add 1 cup brown sugar and vanilla, then the flour, baking powder and salt sifted together, then the cocoanut and nuts. Spread over cooled base and bake at 350 deg. 25 minutes. Cool overnight. Cut into squares or bars or diamonds.

PARISIENNE DRESSING:

(A red salad dressing). Mix together 1 teaspoon each salt, dry mustard, sugar, paprika, 2 tablespoons catsup, 1-4 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice. Shake thoroughly before using. More paprika, 1 sieved hard-cooked egg yolk and 1 tablespoon pimiento puree may be added, if desired.

SUGAR ADDED

Condensed milk differs from evaporated milk in that cane sugar is added after the milk has been evaporated.

LIMIT ATTENDANCE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Space limitations have forced organizers of a three-day national seminar of the Canadian Labor Congress and the CCF here later this month to limit the attendance to 350 or 400 persons, a labor spokesman said Wednesday. Attendance has been arranged by invitation, and rank and file union members have not been asked to come.

Spode Florence

From the carefully drawn and colored illumination of an Italian Renaissance manuscript — done by some forgotten monk—Spode artists took the graceful scrolls and soft coloring of Florence. The Charlotte shape, with its sparkling reverse swirl and scalloped edge, was named for Queen Charlotte who used silver of this type. Florence is correct for any period from the Traditional styles of the 18th Century to the present.

NEW BALLET SCHOOL FOR TORONTO — Two young student dancers try a ballet exercise on the porch of Toronto's new ballet school. Ellen Messing (left), a 12-year-old student from Montreal and Michelle Starbuck, 11, of Toronto are two probable pupils for the new winter ballet school opened by Celia Franca, artistic director and founder of the National Ballet Company. The winter school, outgrowth of the summer ballet school, will have a limited enrollment of 20 pupils, 12 resident and eight day, for the first year. (CP Photo).

Founder of National Ballet Will Open Winter School

By KEVIN BOLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The time it takes to become an accomplished ballet dancer depends on the dancer's drive and persistence. Celia Franca, founder of the National Ballet Company here, says the time put into such an accomplishment is "one's whole life."

Even after becoming professionals, ballet dancers run through three to eight hours of practice sessions daily.

Recognizing the effort that must go into developing a ballet dancer, Miss Franca, 38, artistic director of the National Ballet Company, plans to open a winter ballet school here this fall in conjunction with her summer school that has been growing steadily since 1951.

"The winter school is unique in North America," Miss Franca said in an interview. "It will be fashioned along the lines of the older established schools in Europe, keeping in mind the Canadian way of life."

The winter school, for resident and day students, has grown almost naturally out of the popularity of the summer school above the St. Lawrence Market in south-central Toronto. Attendance at the summer school increased to 350 this summer from about 100 in 1951.

Students from across North America have flocked to Toronto to attend ballet schools. Sixteen American states and eight Canadian provinces were represented at this year's summer session.

The winter school, however, will have a limited enrolment at the outset. Scheduled to open Sept. 28, it will have room for 12 girl resident students and eight day students, boys and girls. Two who show promise of qualifying to enter the winter term are Michelle Starbuck, 12, of Toronto and Ellen Messing, 12, of Montreal.

Besides the resident and day students there will be room for about 100 other dance pupils.

The new school, remodelled from a Quaker church built in 1911, is on Maitland Street in central Toronto. It has two classrooms equipped with desks and blackboards and two studios for dance lessons. The exterior is graced by a huge oaken door and four magnificent stone pillars.

Pupils entering the school will usually be above - average students, as shown by the 85-per-cent report card that accompanied the application of Shirley Starbuck.

The home for resident students on nearby Jarvis Street is a three-storey brick building. A qualified matron, head cook, and assistant cook are employed here.

Fees for resident students are $1,500, and $800 for day students. The minimum age for residential and day pupils is 10 years, seven for the ballet division.

Hold Shower For Carmel Bride-to-Be

RAWDON — Mrs. Gerald Clancy, Wellmans, entertained Friday evening in honor of her friend, Miss Dorothy Johnston of Carmel, a bride-to-be.

Approximately 30 ladies from the Carmel community and other friends were in attendance. The home was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells.

The hostess was chairman for a short program, and she and Mrs. Harry Brown conducted the sing-song. Selections were read by Mrs. Jack Bush and Miss Jean Grills. Misses Linda Johnston and Sandra Hagerman contributed a piano duet. Mrs. Harry Brown gave several musical numbers on her piano accordion. Mrs. Archie Bailey conducted a couple of contests.

Mrs. Charles Bailey read an address of appreciation and Dorothy was the recipient of a large array of miscellaneous gifts for which she expressed gracious thanks.

The hostess and her assistants served dainty refreshments and the group enjoyed a social half hour.

The Experts Say

Adviser Describes Ballet As 'Refinement of Sports'

TORONTO (CP)—Taxi drivers and ballet dancers must have the same types of co-ordination, says Kay Ambrose, artistic adviser for the National Ballet Company.

She says ballet dancers, athletes and taxi drivers all must learn to co-ordinate the movements of their hands and legs.

"That's why the New York Yankees do some ballet." It helps train the brain to flash the correct signals to the hand and feet at the same time.

Although Miss Ambrose loves baseball, hockey and wrestling, her first love is the ballet, which she describes as "the refinement of sports."

Besides her ballet work, she has been a plumber and a streetcar operator, and says she is a good cook, nurse, masseur and Hindu dancer.

Miss Ambrose says she prefers the Hindu dances since "ballet is a marathon" and her dancing is best accomplished in short spurts.

Ballet has a wider appeal than most people think, she says. "Seeing people on their toes on television is not necessarily seeing ballet," and many people become ballet fans after they've seen an actual performance.

Ballet taught co-ordination and that tended to give a person security.

Children feel secure, she says, when they learn to use their arms and legs properly. "If people are not sure of their arms and legs they are not sure of themselves, and if they're not sure they're selfish, and if they're selfish then they're rude."

Miss Ambrose warns those interested in learning ballet that it is hard work.

Choosing a good teacher is important. "If the teacher is too severe and the child doesn't like ballet," she says, "then the teacher was awful, not ballet."

Not many who registered for ballet ever became professionals. In Engand, ony one in 40,000 went on to the professional ranks. The training, though, is invaluable in late life, she says.

Mrs. Thrasher Hostess for W.M.S. Meet

RAWDON — The August meeting of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, Woman's Missionary Society was held Wednesday at the homt of Mrs. Roy Thrasher with 12 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Herbert Smith arranged and presided over the program. The devotional was based on the theme, "The Joy of Living." All sang "Birds Are Singing" and repeated "The Lord's Prayer," in unison. Mrs. Garth Joslin read Psalm 104, "The earth shall be fair and all her people one."

Mrs. Ira David read a paper on the theme and expressed the deep beauty of God's handiwork in all of nature. A special Litany in the July "Missionary Monthly" was read, followed by prayer by Mrs. John Holmes and a hymn of praise. Mrs. Milton Shaw, Ivanhoe, sang "The Man of Galilee," and later sang a request number. Miss Eleanor Smith contributed a piano solo.

The business period followed and the secretary presented her report. The treasurer reported $2.75 for July. The corresponding secretary read a "letter of thanks." The W.A. was thanked for sending a cash donation to Toronto to ship the clothing bale overseas. The study packet "Africa Disturbed," is to be ordered. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ira David and the first chapter of the study packet will be given. The offering was gathered and dedicated by the corresponding secretary.

The president gave a brief outline of the closing chapter of "Concerns of a Continent."

The discovery of the western hemisphere by Europeans in 1492 gave Christianity a second chance in this new world. A good reason for promoting Christianity in the North American neighborhood is simply that the nations of this area will probably wield more weight in the affairs of mankind through the next few decades then will any other area of the world, the president stated.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, literature secretary of Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S., gave a picture of Africana 1959-1960.

"Africa is a continent four times as large s the United States with a population of 198 million people. The National Council of Churches convened in 1958 at Columbia University and they stressed that members of the Christian churches should give more study to Africa. It was the Christian Church which awakened the desire for freedom in the African soul and now there is a whole new field of assistance needed," she said.

Mrs. MacMullen gave a resume of all the study packets for each of the W.M.S. groups. The bookshelf contains seven books and she gave a brief outline of each. She also referred to "Mission Accomplished," by Millicent Howse in the August monthly.

The president expressed thanks for the study outline and for the hospitality shown the group.

Mrs. John Mulheron a W.M.S. member, gave an interesting account of her recent trip by plane to visit her parents and brother in England and her husband's relatives in Scotland. She showed a number of pictures of Stirling Castle and other interesting views.

She was thanked by the president, and the meeting closed with singing of the hymn "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The hostess, assisted by the lunch committee composed of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. MacMullen, served light refreshments.

Actual Digging Soon to Start On $200,000,000 Extension Of Toronto's Subway System

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—In a few days now actual digging starts on a $200,000,000 extension of Toronto's public transit subway system, after five years of controversy that reached as far as the Supreme Court of Canada.

No one could have blamed any of Metropolitan Toronto's 1,400,000 citizens for retaining a touch of skepticism until construction actually begins. But next week work starts on a 170 - foot test section, with trees to be uprooted and ground cleared on what will become part of the permenent east-west subway.

The new line, expected to bring [illegible]er out of chaos on one of Toronto's most traffic - tangled streets, Bloor and Danforth, has been talked about ever since Toronto completed Canada's first public-transit subway on Yonge Street in 1954.

OPEN STRETCHES

The Yonge Street subway runs north for 4.6 miles from near the Union Station to Eglinton Avenue. Mostly underground, but with some open-cut stretches towards its northern end, it was built in 4½ years at a cost of $58,000,000.

The new subway is to be built in two sections. The first will curve from the southern end of the existing line to run north on University Avenue to mid - town Bloor Street. On the way it travels underneath the Ontario government buildings and legislature in Queen's Park.

The second section will run [illegible]ward for 10 miles along Bloor Street and Bloor's continuation, Danforth Avenue.

Experience with the Yonge Street subway led to the conclusion that an east-west line is the only solution to the surface traffic congestion on the Bloor-Danforth artery, where streetcars can move only 9,000 persons an hour at peak periods.

The Yonge Street subway can move 40,000 persons an hour at peak traffic periods, doing the journey in 16 minutes, compared with 45 minutes for the former streetcar service moving 13,000 an hour.

FIRST STAGE

The University Avenue section of the new subway is expected to be completed in January, 1962, at a cost of $40,000,000. Then a start will be made on the east-west line.

Contention over the new sub[illegible]y line was in two stages: first, the route it should follow and the area it would serve, and second, its financing.

The experts—and the amateurs—used the alphabet to distinguish their schemes. The letters were T, U and V.

The Toronto Transit Commission which operates the subway along with streetcars and buses, wanted a T-shaped subway, the one finally adopted, although the vertical line of the T is actually two lines.

Murray Jones, director of Metropolitan Toronto's planning board, advocated a U-shaped subway dipping at both ends into the heart of downtown Toronto.

Amateur Mrs. Mary Young, a housewife married to a technical teacher, won some support for her proposal of a V - shaped line extending from the downtown centre of the city to the northeast and northwest.

By 1957 at least five survey reports were available. By the end of 1958, cost for plans, studies and estimates amounted to $698,542.

The T-shape finally decided on, the metropolitan council last July authorized a start on construction by the fall of 1958. The Ontario Municipal Board approved the venture in September, 1958, and Allan Lamport, then chairman of the TTC, jubilantly declared: "We'll be digging the subway by Christmas."

Then the controversy over financing threw out the schedule.

The TTC itself built the Yonge St. subway, mainly from accumulated surpluses. But it lacked the funds to finance the extension and called on the Metropolitan Toronto council for help. To avoid heavy debt - interest charges, council planned a two-mill surtax on real estate for 10 years to pay its share of the cost.

That proposal sparked immediate opposition from some of the metropolitan area's municipalities. Mrs. Marie Curtis, housewife-reeve of the village of Long Branch, led the fight and got initial support from the towns of Mimico and New Toronto and the townships of Etobicoke and Scarborough.

FARES ISSUE

Their opposition was linked in part to a battle over the transit commission's present rate structure—a three-zone system with a fare in each zone. Persons in suburban municipalities pay two or three fares to get downtown. The opposing municipalities wanted a single-fare system for the whole Toronto area. If they got that, they would drop opposition to the subway financing plan.

The opposing group took its case to the Ontario Court of Appeal, contending that under Ontario law a municipal council could not commit future councils to expenditure from its current account. It would be legal to raise the money by capital borrowing, they conceded. The Ontario court ruled against the dissidents.

New Toronto, Long Branch and Mimico — adjoining communities on the Lake Ontario waterfront at the western edge of the city proper—voted to carry the battle to the Supreme Court of Canada. It denied their application for leave to appeal the Ontario court ruling. They then decided against appealing that decision, opening the way for the TTC to tackle its project.

Fear 100 Dead As Ship Sinks

MANILA (AP) — A Philippine inter-island motorship sank in stormy waters off the northern coast of Palawan Island, and first reports today indicated more than 100 persons may have died.

The Philippine navy and air force launched rescue operations in what could be one of the country's worst peacetime maritime disasters.

Turkey Price Support Will Be Cut 5 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness announced Thursday that the government's turkey price support will be cut by five cents to 20 cents a pound effective next Jan. 1.

The 25-cent floor will remain in effect until then, he said, but he warned that if turkey production continues to outstrip the domestic market demand, "further action would have to be taken."

The government has not had to enter the turkey-buying business since the 25-cent support was first announced in July, 1957.

Market prices in the first quarter of 1959 remained fairly stable at 27 to 29 cents a pound liveweight, and although they since have dipped slightly below the support level the turkey processors so far have not offered any birds to the government larder.

Thursday's announcement said it is obvious there will be a domestic turkey surplus if farm production continues to clumb at its present rate.

Last year's marketings of turkeys were up 27 per cent from 1957.

Turkey poults hatched to the end of June this year are up 48 per cent for broiler weights and 17 per cent for mature weights over the same period last year.

As a result, marketings to date this year total 25,789,533 pounds, nearly double those in the comparable 1958 period. Turkey marketings for the whole of 1959 will reach record levels, the agriculture department said.

In this situation, the Canadian Turkey Federation proposed to the government recently that the turkey price support be cut to 20 cents a pound immediately.

However, Mr. Harkness' announcement said the existing 25-cent support will be continued until the end of this year because "much of the current production may have been based" on this level of support.

Premier Aware Home Filled Definite Need

GUELPH (CP)—Mrs. Bertha Whyte said here Thursday night she has asked Premier Frost for help in reopening her Whytehaven Mission at Bowmanville.

Speaking to an audience of less than 20 persons, Mrs. Whyte said the premier was aware that the home filled a definite need in the province.

"We have no fight with the Ontario government . . . we're too busy looking after the children," said Mrs. Whyte.

Mrs. Whyte's lawyers and Dr. Gordon Brown, deputy health minister, are scheduled to meet in Toronto today to discuss the fate of Whytehaven.

Mrs. Whyte is on a cross-country campaign to raise funds for a $300,000 home, to replace the mission which was closed by the Ontario government three weeks ago when health and welfare officials removed 107 children following an outbreak of infectious disease.

A court later ruled the children were neglected and closed the home.

Deep Misunderstanding Over Reconvening Laos Board

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

At this point, India is no doubt thoroughly exasperated with Canada for refusing to reconvene the three - nation armistice control commission in Laos.

The commission has stood adjourned for a year now, since Canada persuaded chairman India to vote with her against Poland in favor of pulling out. Canada felt that enough stability had been achieved in the Indochina state to warrant the move.

The control organ was established in 1954 by the Geneva conference which negotiated a settlement of the Indochina war between France and the Communist Vietminh. Similar bodies, with the same three countries as members, were established in Cambodia and Viet Nam. These are still functioning.

DEEP MISUNDERSTANDING

There evidently was a deep misunderstanding on conditions for reconvening the Laos group once it was adjourned. Canada thought she made clear that it should reconvene only if the Laotians agreed — a circumstance that has not arisen. India's understanding was that it would reassemble at the call of the chair.

Several months ago, long before the current fighting in northern Laos began, India began pressing Canada for a renewal of meetings. Canada refused even to name a representative, irritating Indian officials who felt that Canada had broken faith.

The question of good faith, however, can work both ways. Laos, for instance, has often accused the armistice commission of meddling in its domestic affairs. And there is a widespread suspicion among Western diplomats that the Communist world was using the commission, through Poland, as a listening post in strategic, landlocked Laos.

To counter this objection, India has suggested the commission meet in Saigon, South Viet Nam, rather than in Vientiane, Laos, but the suggestion apparently has met with little sympathy in Ottawa.

INDIAN ARGUMENT

One of India's arguments in favor of recalling the commission was that the unsettled situation in northern Laos — which borders on Communist North Viet Nam—could lead to a breach of the uneasy peace.

But while India now may feel entitled to say "I told you so" she is in no mood to chortle.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said Canada's position is unchanged. Ottawa authorities concede, however, that Canada would find it difficult to continue resisting if a call for reconvening the commission grew out of current talks between a Laotian emissary and United Nations officials in New York.

Indian officials complain that theirs has been a tough task in Indochina, trying to reconcile the views of Canada and Poland, with their opposite big-power pulls. At times, probably the Indians have been tempted to say "a plague on both your houses."

Seven-Hour Rain Disrupts Life in Nipigon District

NIPIGON (CP)—A seven-hour torrent of rain ended early Thursday morning, but not before it had disrupted life in this Northern Ontario community.

The rain washed out railway tracks, disrupted power services, broke open water mains, washed out roads, and toppled a house down a 60-foot embankment trapping a mother and six of her children inside.

By late Thursday most municipal services had been restored and hydro power had been turned back on.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed that we get no more rain," said Deputy Reeve James Brennan.

HOME TUMBLES

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Courtemanche tumbled down an embankment after its foundations were weakened by a flood of water.

Peter Courtemanche, 2½, suffered undetermined head injuries and was reported in serious condition in hospital. His brother Andre, 10, was reported in fair condition after requiring 18 stitches to close a wound in his right knee.

Neighbors and police placed ladders against the house and helped Mrs. Courtemanche and the children descend through broken winows.

TRUCKS WRECKED

A transport truck driven by Robert Tosmituk, 24, of Port Arthur was wrecked when it crashed into a 16-foot washout east of this town of 2,800, 60 miles northeast of the Lakehead.

Mr. Tosmituk escaped injury but damage to his truck totalled $30,000.

Another transport crashed through the bridge at Ruby Creek into swirling water. Driver William Bruce Wilcox, 27, of Port Arthur, was taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries to his left arm.

Two other tractor trailers were demolished when they dropped into sections of Highway 17 that had been washed out by the flood waters.

The CPR rerouted its eastbound Dominion through Sioux Lookout from Port Arthur on CNR tracks. The CNR said it had suffered several washouts but none serious. The CNR line through the area carries only freight.

The CPR said indications are that service on its main line will be restored by noon Saturday.

SHAKY TRANSPORTATION

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)—Omer Carriere was fined $35 Trursday when convicted of driving an unsafe vehicle. The car defects listed before Magistrate K. A. Cameron: No brakes, no brake lights, one headlight, the hood wired down and the only bumper wired up. "Perhaps the driver was wired in," suggested the magistrate.

DIEFENBAKER IN WEST

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker left Ottawa by air Thursday on a trip to Western Canada. He will speak in Lethbridge today and open the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver Saturday.

CBC Management Soon Back at Full Strength

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC's top management is scheduled to be back at full strength in a couple of weeks when Vice - President Ernest L. Bushnell, 58, returns to his desk after a two-months leave to rest from "exhaustion."

President J. Alphonse Ouimet, 51, is back in harness as head of the publicly-owned corporation's management following a lengthy illness that kept him away the better part of seven months, first with a mild heart attack, then with a gall bladder operation.

Both Mr. Ouimet and Mr. Bushnell will have their tasks lightened somewhat because their non-executive jobs as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the CBC board of directors have been taken over by other board members.

Robert L. Dunsmore, 65, of Montreal, was elected chairman of the board at a meeting Aug. 14, and Charles W. Leeson, 49, of Stratford, vice - chairman. Both were appointed to the board Nov. 11, 1958, after the new Broadcasting Act was proclaimed.

CONTINUE ON BOARD

They will continue as part-time, unsalaried members of the board and will have no direct managerial responsibilities over the CBC. Mr. Ouimet and Mr. Bushnell, due back after Labor Day, will retain those responsibilities.

Mr. Bushnell was described by Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament for the CBC, as an "exhausted" man when he was granted leave late last June.

The seven - man management committee which ran the CBC's day-to-day affairs during the absences of both Mr. Ouimet and Mr. Bushnell early last July has been disbanded as such. But its members continue to meet a couple of times a week with Mr. Ouimet, as they did before his illness.

Ill Fortune Dogs Man Who Delivered Gem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hope diamond, given to the Smithsonian Institution last year by a New York gem dealer, has a sinister history. It is supposed to have brought death, misfortune or insanity to a long string of owners.

When jewel merchant Harry Winston gave it to the government museum last November he sent it by mail. James G. Todd, 35, was the mailman who delivered the 44½-carat diamond.

Since then, these things have happened to Todd:

His leg was crushed by a truck.

While he was recuperating, his wife, mother of their four children, died of a heart attack. In a later accident, Todd was thrown from his car and suffered a heady injury.

Wednesday night fire swept four rooms of Todd's suburban home.

"I don't believe any of that stuff," Todd said, referring to the diamond's legend of trouble.

Loblaws Give 'Green Stamps' To Get Food Buyer's Dollar; Merchants Will Fight Move

TORONTO (CP) — The battle for the food buyer's dollar was joined today with fresh ammunition in the form of stamps redeemable for gifts.

Loblaw Groceterias Limited started this latest set-to with an announcement Thursday that starting immediately a "lucky green stamp" would be issued with each 10-cent purchase at its 206 Ontario stores. The stamps are to be pasted in books of 1,500 which have a value of $5 to be applied on any of 500 gifts.

Steinberg's Limited and Power Stores Food Company stepped into the fray and said they would use stamps to replace the present system of cash register tapes as premium currency.

TO FIGHT MOVE

The move met opposition from officers of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada.

Arnold Rands, general manager of the association, said foods division, said the association was against the use of stamps because, he said, they invariably drive prices up.

The association was instrumental in getting a judgment against a London grocer in June for redeeming stamps not labelled with any store address, an offence under the Criminal Code. The grocer, fined $50, is appealing.

Mr. Rands said the association would continue to "try to get the federal government to block such gimmicks."

David A. Gilbert, general manager of the association, said "within 48 hours, if we don't like what we find out about this latest stamp plan, we may call for a test case in court and make representations to the federal government."

DENIES PRICES RISE

George Metcalfe, Loblaw president, said that in the company's experience in the United States, the stamps do not increase prices. They were being brought into Canada because of their "phenomenal success" in the U.S.

Power president Leon Weinstein said the stamps would not mean higher prices in the 25-supermarket chain.

A spokesman for A and P Food Stores said stamps mean a two per cent raise in prices. "It is obvious the consumer has to pay for it." He said the company hadn't used stamps in more than 100 years of existence and wasn't likely to now.

Officials of Dominion Stores Limited held a meeting Thursday night but after the meeting would not say what action, if any, would be taken.

Vern Barber, director of merchandising for Independent Grocers' Alliance, said company officials would confer today on Stamps.

Believe Smugglers Using Sub in Lake

LUINO, Italy (Reuters)—Customs officers here are investigating reports that a small submarine is being used to smuggle goods between Italy and Switzerland under the surface of Lake Maggiore.

One report described the submarine as about 20 feet long with a long oval hatch bubble instead of a coning tower.

May Postpone Opening of Montreal Schools

MONTREAL (CP)—The opening of Montreal schools may have to be postponed because of the city's polio epidemic.

Health officials announced Thursday night they will meet Tuesday to decide whether to delay the beginning of the fall term until the epidemic has passed its peak.

They will also discuss stepping up the city's mass vaccination program.

Dr. Adelard Groulx, city health director, emphasized that the epidemic, if it runs true to form, will not reach a peak until Sept. 1.

Eleven new cases were reported Thursday, raising the total of cases recorded in the city and district to 377. Twenty-four persons have died.

HAMILTON (CP)—Only 15,000 adults in this city of 250,000 have taken advantage of the free anti-polio Salk vaccine and twice-weekly health department inoculation clinics so far this year.

Dr. John Bagshaw, chairman of the general practitioner section of the Hamilton Academy of Medicine, said "the figure is disappointing in view of the original target of 90,000 immunized persons."

School programs have protected 32,000 children and industrial programs accounted for the bulk of the 18-to-40 age group, Dr. Bagshaw said.

He said most of those who haven't received shots are housewives and women employed in small businesses and industries.

OTTAWA (CP)—One new case of polio was reported here Thursday, bringing the capital's total to seven cases this year. There have been no deaths.

STEER ON RAMPAGE

HAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—A rampaging 1,800-pound steer which chased a handler through a barn window and charged down the main street of this village northeast of Oshawa was shot to death Thursday on a villager's front lawn.

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian scientists are making plans to build atomic power stations capable of producing enough electricity to serve cities with populations of up to 200,000.

Yet it was only 14 years ago next month that an atomic chain reaction of the crudest form was achieved in Canada. And it was only 12 years ago that Canada put into operation a research reactor with enough power to find a way to harness the atom for industrial power.

Nuclear fission was produced for the first time in Canada—and for the first time outside the United States—on Sept. 5, 1945. Early that morning a low-power reactor known as ZEEP went into action at the Canadian atomic establishment at Chalk River, Ont., 130 miles northwest of Ottawa.

JOINT EFFORT

This small reactor was built under a joint Canadian-American-British wartime arrangement. It was to be used to solve problems in the design of a large reactor at Chalk River to produce plutonium for U.S. atomic bombs.

The Second World War ended before ZEEP - zero energy experimental pile—went into operation. Work went ahead with the large reactor, known by the code name NRX—national research experimental—and it began operating July 22, 1947.

While NRX originally was conceived mainly to produce plutonium, it also was designed to conduct research in peaceful uses of atomic energy. Since the war it has been used exclusively for peacetime research although the plutonium it produces still is sold to the U.S. for weapons.

Canada's atomic program was launched in wartime by an outstanding team of scientists recruited by the Canadian and British governments. Most of these men stayed for a period after the war and guided the program along peaceful lines.

However, only a handful of the former team remains. Chief among them are Dr. David Keys, scientific adviser to J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, and Dr. George C. Laurence, the Crown company's director of reactor research and development.

Other members of the original team hold important scientific and educational posts in Canada and other countries. Two achieved notoriety-Dr. Alan Nunn May, sentenced in England for supplying atomic information to Russia, and Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, an Italian - born physicist who defected to the Soviet Union in 1950.

The original team also included Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the Atomic Energy Control Board; Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council; Sir John Cockcroft, retired head of Britain's atomic project at Harwell; Dr. J. W.T. Spinks, president of the University of Saskatchewan, and a number of physicists now teaching at universities in Canada and other countries.

The startup of NRX—later to become world - famous as a research instrument—is one of the proudest stories at Chalk River.

DRAMATIC DAY

Dr. B. W. Sargent, professor of physics at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., who was present at the historic event, says it was "as if a shackled giant had been awakened from his sleep and was struggling to be free of his chains."

Dr. Keys was director of the Chalk River project at the time of the startup. A specially-trained crew of scientists and reactor operators was on hand to put into operation one of the most concentrated energy sources ever devised by man.

Shortly before 1 a.m. on July 22, 1947, a scientist began to chalk figures on a blackboard showing what was happening inside the reactor.

Dr. Keys decided he could do nothing to help those directing the operation. So he calmly sat down with three other scientists who were "extra cooks" at the event and played bridge.

At 6:13 a.m. the bridge players saw the graph on the blackboard reach the point where the reactor had gone "critical"—in short, it was working.

Municipal Fire Service Problems Debate Subject

WINDSOR (CP)—Demands for reasons why firemen should not be paid as much as policemen featured a panel discussion Wednesday at the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs.

The panel discussion, under Mayor Merle Dickerson of North Bay, had as its topic "municipal fire service problems." Delegates from the floor lost no time in pointing out they consider wage inequity to be their greatest problem.

More than 20 fire chiefs mixed impatience with indignation as they queried the panel of mayors and municipal officers as to why police are paid more than firemen.

"Firemen have to work under conditions every bit as dangerous as those faced by policemen," Fire Chief R. F. Swanborough of Hamilton said.

Chief Swanborough added that while police officers' salaries are rated on the basis of the danger they face, all firemen face the same danger and thus should receive equal pay once fully trained.

The panel agreed with both points, and Mayor Dickerson said he "will see to it that the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities is made fully aware of the present situation."

G. A. Thomson, Dominion fire commissioner, told the 500 delegates to the convention fire death in Canada declined to 529 last year, 119 fewer than in 1957. Loss from fires during the year were also down, to $115,655,461 from a 1957 figure of $33,492,277.

The fire commissioner said 1958 was the first year since the end of the Second World War, that property loss from fire declined. He said the loss per person during the year was $6.75, compared with $8.05 in 1957.

However, T. J. Wheeler of Toronto, chairman of the association's fire prevention committee, said Canada's fire loss remains one of the worst of any nation.

Commissioner Thomson described as "a lot of drivel" talk of uniting police and fire departments. The jobs, he said, "are as different as night and day."

W. P. Donahue, director of the Sherbrooke, Que., fire department, was named president to succeed Chief K. R. Putnam of Kitchener.

Other officers include Chief Alan H. Clark of Lakefield, secretary-treasurer.

American Tells How He Plotted With Trujillo

HAVANA (AP)—Maj. William Morgan, the American who helped smash the recent anti-Castro conspiracy said Thurs. he felt the plotters should not be executed but should serve terms at hard labor on Cuban farms.

Morgan and Maj. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, who also posed as a counter-revolutionary to frustrate the plot, were interviewed on television. Under new laws counter-revolutionary activities are punishable by death before a firing squad.

Morgan and Menoyo, who both fought in Fidel Castro's revolution, reiterated that the conspiracy originated with the Dominican Republic's dictator Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo. But Trujillo's immediate collaborators were so corrupt, Morgan declared, that the plot had no chance of success.

As an example he said he asked Trujillo for $10,000 and got only $4,000—that a Spanish priest acting as go-between kept $1,000 and the Dominican consul at Miami took $5,000.

Morgan said the consul arranged for the purchase of arms, which were shipped out of Miami aboard a private boat. He said he met the vessel on the high seas and brought it to Havana.

This varied from earlier unofficial reports published here. They said the boat had come from the Dominican Republic and Morgan, on board all the time, suddenly turned on the crew, captured them and brought the ship into port with the aid of other Castro men posing as conspirators.

Women Juggle Bank Accounts

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Two women, working with the precision of jugglers, bilked the Jacksonville Texas Bank and Trust Company of $130,516, they admitted to a federal judge Wednesday.

They took the money over an eight-year span, they said, and spent it as they got it.

The money went for living expenses well beyond their modest bank salaries.

The defendants, Yola Renfro, 59, and Mrs. Weldon Conner, 34, will be sentenced Aug. 31.

U.S. attorney William Steger said the investigation showed the two women embezzled and spent approximately $65,000 each.

Each of the five counts to which the women pleaded guilty carries a maximum five-year prison sentence and fines up to $10,000.

Steger said the pair covered personal cheques by withdrawal deposit records on dormant accounts. In this way, the bank's books balanced.

A cashier stumbled on the scheme when he demanded the record of a dormant account, and Mrs. Conner fished it out of her handbag.

All Signals Controlled From Central Point

TORONTO (CP) — All signals on the CPR's line from Smiths Falls to Port Hope will be controlled electronically from one point in Toronto by the end of this year, S. M. Gossage, CPR eastern region vice - president, said Wednesday.

Mr. Gossage told a service club luncheon the system would be extended to the nearby Agincourt area by 1961 to give complete coverage of the main track from Toronto to Smiths Falls.

Its chief advantage, he said, is that the central control point has a complete picture at all times of the position of trains, location of switching points and whether the switches are open or closed.

Charge Police Denied Rights Given Citizens

KITCHENER (CP) — Ontario policemen charged with an offence enjoy far fewer [illegible] and rights—particularly in [illegible] of appeal—than the citizens [illegible] are hired to protect.

This was the contention of a panel discussion Wednesday at the Ontario Police Association convention here.

A private citizen has the right to appeal everything from a parking ticket to a murder conviction to the Supreme Court of Canada if he so wishes. Not so an Ontario policeman.

If a citizen lays a charge against a policeman, the charge is normally heard by the chief who metes out the punishment. If the chief finds him guilty, he can make him work without pay for an indefinite period, reduce him in rank, cancel his vacation, reprimand or dismiss him.

If the officer is not satisfied with the verdict, he has only one body in which to appeal—the police commission. In smaller centres it is usually a council [illegible]mittee or council itself.

Detectives James Bryan of St. Catharines, a panel member, said too many police chiefs refuse to try their own cases. Too often they take the matter up with their commissions or council when they should handle it themselves.

Constable Colin Pitts, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Association, said the Police Act should be amended to provide a policeman with a chance to appeal in circumstances where the officer's case is heard by a commission. He knew of one instance where an officer was charged and his case was not heard for seven months.

The constable maintained most policemen's trials are of the "kangaroo court" type. "It seems a citizen on the street can lodge a complaint and the officer is deemed guilty even before he appears before the chief."

Calgary Stamps, B.C. Lions Share Top Spot With Bombers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

You'll pardon British Columbia Lions and Calgary Stampeders for gasping, but the air is a little rare for them up there atop the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings.

The Stamps and Lions Thursday night earned a share of first place with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Calgary defeating the Bombers 23-21 in Winnipeg and the Lions outlasting Saskatchewan Roughriders 36-21.

Calgary barely made the playoffs in 1957 after a world-beating start. In 1958, the Stamps appeared good early in the season only to be nudged from the playoffs by a poor finish.

Lions have not made the three-team playoffs in five seasons. They dropped their first game this year to Winnipeg but came back to upset Edmonton 12-0 Monday. Thursday night, before 29,131 Vancouver fans, they showed plenty of muscle against Riders.

DUNCAN, JANES COMBINE

Iowa flash Randy Duncan tossed three long passes to end Jerry Janes, two from outside the 40-yard line, for touchdowns. Fullback Don Vicic and defensive halfback Baz Nagle got the other Lions touchdowns. Vic Kristopaitis kicked a 35-yard field goal and three converts.

Import fullback Neil Worden from Philadelphia Eagles, sophomore half Mike Hagler from Iowa and end Menan Schriewer, like Kristopaitis formerly with Toronto, scored Riders' TDs. Two of them came on passes by Duke quarterback Bob Brodhead, making his second start with Saskatchewan. Guard Reggie Whitehouse kicked three converts.

Roughriders added to their long injured list when defensive quarterback Ron Adam suffered a twisted ankle and Schriewer a broken nose.

The yardsticks had Saskatchewan ahead 28-19 in first downs, 476-409 in yardage gained and slightly ahead in the percentage of completed passes.

KAPP SHOWS WAY

Calgary quarterback Joe Kapp, the California Express, did some hard running and threw one touchdown pass in guiding Stampeders to victory before 18,327 fans in Winipeg.

But the placement kicking of guard Doug Brown, a sophomore from Victoria, provided the winning margin. Brown kicked three field goals and converted touchdowns by half Donnie Stone and defensive end Art Scullion.

Canadian fullback Gerry Janes led Winnipeg with two touchdowns. End Ernie Pitts took a pass from Jim Van Pelt to paydirt and Van Pelt converted all three TDs.

Again the losing team had a statistical edge. Bombers had 21 first downs against 17 by Calgary.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Lords, who face their old rivals from Kitchener-Waterloo Saturday at J. W. Little Memorial Stadium here, signed homebrew defensive end Ken Wilson and released import tackle Bob Sedlock Thursday night.

Wilson, who has at times shown he has the capabilities of a top-notch pro, was cut last weekend by the Toronto Argonauts. He is no stranger to the Senior ORFU having performed here and with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Basilio, Fullmer Throw Nothing But Sweet Words

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer probably will wind up in a pier six brawl Aug. 28 for the National Boxing Association's version of the world middleweight title, but right now they're throwing nothing but sweet words at each other.

"I like Basilio a lot personally," Fullmer said Thursday, "and I think he feels the same toward me."

While not quite as enthusiastic, Basilio concedes his worthy opponent really is a worthy opponent and undoubtedly will put up a good scrap.

The two have much in common. They're both family men, raised on farms. In fact, they're still farmers, in a sense. Basilio grows onions in Chittenango, N.Y. Fullmer has a mink farm in West Jordan, Utah.

They both raise dogs as a hobby.

"I was surprised when Carmen told me he owned a wiemaraner," a German shorthair breed," Fullmer said. "We've compared notes on what wonderful hunting dogs they make and how they are gentle as lambs with children."

They are both aggressive in the ring, toe-to-toe types who rarely clinch.

They both limit their bad mouthing to Sugar Ray Robinson, whom both accuse of lousing up the middleweight title picture. Each won and lost to Robinson.

The NBA sanctioned the Fullmer-Basilio fight after stripping Robinson of the world title because of lack of activity. He hasn't fought since beating Basilio March 25, 1958. Only the New York State Athletic Association recognizes Robinson.

BONUS-BABY VS. POINTERS

Ray Judd and his Lakefield buddies hit town Saturday night for the opening round of the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns against the Point Anne Cementmen.

Judd, who it is rumored has been offered a three-figure bonus, plus $40 a game to hurl for one of the Toronto Beaches Fastball league teams next summer, has always been a problem for Bill Shaw's classy Ox-Point squad.

This year has been no exception in the two exhibition games played between these teams. The Cementmen came close in the first tilt, losing only in the bottom of the ninth by a 1-0 score. We'll give you one guess who got the hit that beat them and his initials are R. J. But in the return game Judd tossed a no-hitter. And a fellow whose initials are still R. J. hit a home run to boot.

However the Cementmen are in no mood to bow down just because Judd is probably the top pitcher around today, at least in this neck of the woods. They have had a week to lick their badly-bruised pride wounds after the Trenton upset. Phil Loft, Shaw and the rest of the boys are determined to prove that Judd can be beaten. And they can't think of a better time to do it than right here Saturday.

Bobby Hunter will likely get the starting assignment for Point Anne. "Old rubber-arm" is capable of giving Judd's crew a real run for their money and if his mates can get him a run or two Lakefield will find themselves in a tough battle all the way.

Don't forget, the game is at CNRA Park, not Point Anne, and gets under way at six sharp tomorrow.

PLAYOFFS TONIGHT

Meanwhile, the softball faithful won't have to wait until tomorrow night to watch their favorite sport, there being a top-notch playoff tilt scheduled for CNRA Park this evening at 6.30.

Trenton's comeback kids will be tangling with Bob Temple's Bobcats in the third game of their four-of-seven series for the Bill Ott trophy. Since this was written prior to last night's game in Trenton we cannot say whether the series is tied or if the 'Cats have a two-game lead.

In any case the set is a long way from settled. One thing is certain, the Bobcats will not be taking anything for granted against Charlie Drake's crew. They don't know the meaning of the word quit and, judging from the Point Anne series, do not intend to learn it.

Trenton proved that point again in the opening game of the series here last Tuesday. They trailed 8-0 entering the eighth inning, but came to life for four runs and had Temple's boys worried for a while. While the Garretts played anything but good ball in that first tilt, should they regain the form displayed in the seventh game of their semi-final series, the 'Cats will have a battle on their hands.

Tonight's game is scheduled for 6.30 and it is important that it get under way right on the button. As a matter of fact this will be the last game with a 6.30 start, coach Temple fully realizing that time will not allow a full nine frames. Last time out the clubs completed the game in darkness. It shouldn't happen again.

TOMORROW, TOO

The torrid schedule continues at the CNRA diamond tomorrow afternoon, too, when Peterborough visits Booth TV's in an OASA Bantam "A" playdown fixture. Game time is 3.00 and coach Leo Culhane asks that fans give his hustling young club some support.

Word of another playdown series has just arrived, Cuffer Noakes' Belleville Juniors meeting Peterborough at the Fair Grounds Saturday at 2.30 p.m.

WORLD TITLE MATCH

The wrestling faithful will have the opportunity tonight of watching two of the top men in the game battle for the World's Heavyweight championship at Memorial Arena.

The champion, Pat O'Connor, will face challenger Dick Hutton, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, the chap who held the crown before bowing to the speedy O'Connor in an earlier title match.

Hutton is the bigger of the two men and his style is just the opposite of the champ's. He favors the punishing type, wearing his opponent down with just about anything that pops into his head. His favorite finishing hold is the abdominal stretch which seldom fails to leave his victim a helpless and defeated man.

O'Connor, on the other hand, while less of a "punisher," is one of the most effective of the big time grapplers because of his terrific speed and tremendous amount of knowledge of just about every hold in the game. Scientific wrestling is his game and there is none better.

This should be a classic match, two-of-three falls' duration for the world's title. Don't miss it.

An excellent supporting card is also on tap with Don Leo Jonathan, the 290-pound Mormon, matched against Mike Valentino, while roughie Tiger Tasker tangles with the rising star, Don Jardine.

Fight time is 9.00 p.m.

Tribe 2½ Games Off Pace While Braves Down 4 Tilts; Chicago Sox Miss Pierce

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Warren Spahn couldn't do it.

Milwaukee's 38-year-old southpaw ace, called on for his third start and fourth appearance in 10 days, finally was nailed by Sad Sam Jones and San Francisco's Wonderous Willies Thursday night as the Giants beat the Braves 5-3.

It was Spahn's third defeat in his last four decisions and once again kept him from pairing with Lew Burdette (who beat the Giants 5-2 Wednesday) for the one-two pitching punch that had the Braves in command through the first half of the season.

HOLD TWO-GAME LEAD

The Giants retained their two-game National League lead over Los Angeles while skidding the third-place Braves four games behind again.

It was Jones (16-11) and the Willies — Mays and McCovey — wh. did it.

McCovey, the rousing rookie, had three hits and drove in three runs, putting it away with his seventh homer after Mays had lined his third single with two out in the ninth.

Los Angeles kept the pace, beating Cincinnati 8-5 with seven unearned runs in the fifth inning.

Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 3-1. The Chicago Cubs split a twi-night at Philadelphia, beating the Phils 6-4 after losing 8-5 in the replay of Wednesday's 12-inning tie.

SQUARE WITH REDS

Los Angeles, beaten by a seven-run eighth at Cincinati the night before, squared things when a third strike got past catcher Ed Bailey with two out and nobody on base in the fifth. Blanked on two hits by Bob Purkey (10-13) 'til then, the Dodgers poured across seven with Charlie Neal's double scoring two runs and Norm Larker's homer counting three.

Danny McDevitt (9-8) won it with Larry Sherry's relief after a pinch homer by Frank Thomas in the ninth.

Art Schult drove in two nightcap runs for the Cubs, getting the winner home with a fifth-inning home run. The Phils took the opener on homers by Carl Sawatski, who drove in four runs, and Wally Post as Ruben Gomez (2-8) won his first since May 21.

Bob Friend (6-15) won two in a row for only the second time this year for the Bucs, giving up nine hits but fanning 11.

Somebody ask how much the Chicago White Sox would miss Billy Pierce? So far, the injured left-hander has missed one starting assignment and their American League lead is down to 2½ games, almost cut in half.

The White Sox led by 4½ games, the biggest bulge of the year in the AL, when Pierce was shelved Monday for from five to eight days to nurse his ailing hip.

The Orioles, who have scored only four runs while losing two of three to Pierce this season, counted 10 runs in the two games, beating Barry Latman 7-6 Thursday for the White Sox' fourth defeat in the last five games.

NARROWS SOX' LEAD

Cleveland continued its rebound from a four-game slump by belting Washington 6-1 behind a three-hitter by Jim (Mudcat) Grant (8-5).

Detroit walloped the Yankees 14-2, and Boston overcame three home runs by Kansas City's Bob Cerv for an 11-10 decision over the A's.

The Orioles, responsible for half of the White Sox' eight defeats in 35 one-run decisions this season, tagged Latman (5-5) and six relievers for 13 hits.

HOMERS DO IT

Two home runs did it for the Indians. Ed Fitzgerald smacked his first of the year and Woody Held cracked a 1-1 tie with a two-run shot, his 23rd, in the seventh against loser Pete Ramos (11-15).

Frank Bolling, who hammered two home runs, and Gail Harris each drove in five runs for the Tigers. Jim Bunning (12-10) beat the Yankees for the first time this season with a five-hitter — blanking them on one hit over the last 6 1-3 innings while facing a minimum 19 men and collecting seven of his nine strikeouts. Gary Blaylock lost it in his first AL decision.

Rookie Earl Wilson, driving in three runs with a single and double, won his first major league decision as the third of five Red Sox pitchers. Tom Sturdivant (1-5) was the loser. Cerv drove home six runs with his homers. He now has hit 16.

The Big Four

Record Football Crowds Will Be at Montreal and Toronto

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Well, it's open season on quarterbacks and he's fair game."

That was Jim Trimble, a coach, talking about Ronnie Knox, a football player. But the noises emanating from the executive rooms of the Big Four clubs indicate the open season is really on spectators.

Attendance records were the bywords as Ottawa Rough Riders marched into Montreal to meet the Alouettes tonight and Toronto Argonauts prepared for what, according to advance notices, amounted almost to an armed invasion by Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

There has been plenty of evidence already that this will be a Big Four boom year.

Old attendance marks were shattered in Tuesday's openers when Toronto edged the Riders 21-20 in Ottawa and the Tiger-Cats beat down a second-half Montreal surge to win 22-16 at home.

Toronto's regular-season record is 26,811 and the round figure of 30,000 is being whispered for tonight, given a break by the weather.

Montreal general manager Gorman Kennedy says he "wouldn't be surprised" to break the record of 24,133 set last year. Molson Stadium holds about 2,000 more than that.

Getting back to athletics, both the Riders and Alouettes are footloose and injury-free. Coach Doug (Peahead) Walker planned on a few changes in his import lineup tonight but wasn't saying what they will be.

Coach Frank Clair basically is standing pat with his Roughies. The two-platoon system will stay although he may make a few tactical changes depending on how things go against the aerial offensive of Montreal quarterback Sam Etcheverry.

As for the other game, much was made in the public prints of the extreme disfavor with which Hamilton is said to view Toronto. The Ticats were bent on "getting" Knox, said Argo coach Hamp Pool, but he expressed assurances his prize quarterback from UCLA could take it.

The Argonauts have been racked up enough as it is. Pate O'Garro, a favorite Knox pass target, was added to the long disabled list Tuesday.

Pool was sure of only seven import starters — Knox, Cookie Gilchrist, Ron Stover, Bob Oliver, Dick Shatto, Dick Fouts and Jim Rountree.

"We're trying to get Wray Carlton and Bob Dehlinger in there somehow," Pool said, "but we can't have everything. "Every time you go with one, you have to leave someone else off."

There was a possibility Carlton would replace Corky Tharp. Larry Cowart, the gimpy-kneed Baylor tackle, may also start.

Trimble appeared bent not only on winning the game but cramming it down Toronto's throat when he announced Tom Dublinski might share the quarterbacking chores for Hamilton with Bernie Faloney.

Dublinski, master of the long heave, was Toronto's prime hope until an exhibition injury crippled him for a time in 1956.

"It'll either be him or Billy Reynolds instead of Don Schaefer," Trimble said. On the sidelines for the second game will be Milt Campbell and Jim Fraser.

Vancouver Golfer Favored To Win Golf Championship

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — "This is my last big chance to go all the way. And I feel lucky."

That was the way easy-going Bob Kidd of Vancouver, medalist with his four-under-par 138 and easily the odds-on favorite, described his position as he entered the 36-hole semi-finals of the 55th Canadian amateur golf championship here.

He meets Marine Drive clubmate John Johnston, 33-year-old real estate salesman, in the top half. In the bottom half, rangy Gary Cowan of the Rockway Club of Kitchener, meets Ron Willey, 1959 B.C. and Pacific Northwest amateur king.

TWO ON HOME COURSE

The Kidd-Johnston battle shape up as a dandy.

Both have played sub-par golf, and both know every nook and cranny of the course.

Kidd says:

"I'm on my home course, I'm playing good golf . . . I couldn't ask for a better chance.

"And this is possibly my last big year."

In 1955 Lyle Crawford of Vancouver beat him. Nick Weslock of Windsor put him out in 1957.

Kidd annihilated big Doug Bajus of Vancouver 5 and 4 in the quarter-finals.

Johnston also played superb golf to oust George Holland, Seattle life insurance agent, 5 and 4.

STYLES CONTRAST

While the Cowan-Willey semi-final has attracted less attention, there is little doubt the contrasting styles and abilities will prove a real test.

The long-hitting Cowan, who had never before got by the second round in the amateur, has literally blasted his opponents out of contention. His booming drives have been the talk of the spectators and competitors. He eliminated Blake Cramb, 21-year-old Powell River, B.C., millworker Thursday.

In the four match-play rounds he has carded an approximate 11-under-par score.

The record books supply Cowan with a precedent. The last time three Vancouver golfers reached the amateur semi-final—in 1955 at Calgary—Moe Norman, also from Kitchener Rockway, won the first of two back-to-back championships.

Willey, the dark horse threat from the start, defeated Phil Brownlee of Toronto 5 and 3 in the quarter-finals.

Don Fontana Only Canadian Left in Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — California meets Cuba on Ontario clay in today's men's singles semi-finals match of the Ontario international tennis championships.

Whitney Reed, 27-year-old circuit star from Alameda, Calif., plays against Havana, Cuba's Orlando Garrido, seeded second and slated to win the tournament.

One Canadian, Don Fontana of Toronto, is still in the running.

Orlando, 28, runner-up to his brother Reynaldo in Quebec City's Canadian Open two weeks ago, has been playing tennis since he was 14 under the able tuition of his father, Jose. Reared on Cuba's hard courts, he favors clay and admits "the grass is not for me."

Orlando defeated Toronto's Jim Bentley, seeded seventh, in Thursday's quarter-finals with a decisive 6-1, 7-5.

OFF TO PAN-AMS

Both Garrido brothers head for Chicago's Pan-American Games after the Ontario tournament. Both have attended Miami University in Florida.

Reynaldo defeated eighth-seeded Frank Mott-Trille of Toronto, former British West Indies Davis Cup player, after a gruelling 28-game first set, 15-13, 6-1.

Defending Ontario champ, Toronto's 23-year-old Don Fontana, broke Eduardo Zuleta's service at 3-3 in the second set, let the Ecuador champion double - fault three times in the last game and took the match 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Upset in the women's quarter-finals came when Susan Butt of Victoria, B.C., defeated Mexico's Martha Hernandez 6-3, 8-6.

The 21-year-old University of British Columbia student faced the Mexican girl twice before at tournament match points and lost them both.

VERY NERVOUS

"I was very nervous this time, especially when I was at match point 5-3 in the second set," the lively blonde said. "I guess I just got the breaks."

Canada's third ranking player, Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto used her power strokes to beat Montreal's Eleanor Dodge, 1958 Canadian champion, in 6-4, 7-5.

And if tennis doesn't go to politics, politics comes to tennis in the form of Roland Mitchener, senior tennis player and sometimes Speaker of the House of Commons, who is scheduled to play in a doubles match.

HELP SAVE FACE

LONDON (Reuters) — Spirited batting by Narendra Tamhane and Surendra Nath saved India from a complete rout by England on the first day of the fifth and final cricket test at the Oval Thursday. The Indians, who lost the previous four tests, batted five hours in ideal conditions to make 140—their smallest total of the series—before being all out an hour after tea. By the close, England had replied with 35 for no wicket.

Buffalo Fielder Beats Toronto With Homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember crowd-pleaser Jack Phillips, the guy who rewarded fans turning out for Jack Phillips night with a grand slam homer?

Well, Jack has done it again.

The Buffalo infielder stroked his second bases - loaded home run in three nights, driving in the winning run as the Bisons increased their International League lead to 7½ games with a 9-6 victory over Toronto Thursday night.

Havana and Columbus, tied for the runner-up spot, both lost. The Sugar Kings bowed to Richmond 3-2 and the Jets were stopped by Jim Archer in a 2-0 Miami triumph. Rochester defeated Montreal 3-2.

Toronto led 6-4 in the eighth when the Bisons broke loose. Jim Coker bunted safely, Ruben Amaro walked and Frank Herrera doubled, scoring Coker. Lou Vassie walked to load 'em up. Then Phillips went boom. Bob Wilson, Archie Wilson and Dave Pope hit home runs for Toronto.

ERROR OPENS GATE

Havana's Miguel Cuellar had allowed the Virginians only two hits before an error by shortstop Leon Cardenas opened the door to three unearned runs for Richmond in the eighth. Bill Stafford won his first after seven losses.

Southpaw Archer won the fastest game ever played in Miami Stadium, shutting out the Marlins in 1 hour, 37 minutes. Archer now 13-8, got the only run he needed on Woody Smith's 70th-RBI single.

Veteran Bob Keegan pitched himself out of one jam after another to record his 15th victory and snap a four-game Red Wing losing streak.

Kingston Ousts Local Juveniles In OBA Series

By PETER CARVER

Kingston eliminated Belleville in the first round OBA juvenile playdowns, winning their second game of the best-of-three series by a 12-4 score in Kingston last night.

Walks played a prominent part in the game, the rival four pitchers splitting twenty-two free strolls. Hits were scarce, Belleville getting three and Kingston four.

Kingston practically won the the game in the first innings with four runs. They added a single in the second, four more in the third and three in the sixth.

Belleville drew close with three in the third, adding another in the fourth, but that was all they could do.

Davie Fisher started for Belleville gave up three hits whiffing one and walking nine. McGrimmon relieved him, gave up one hit, walked two, and struck out one also.

Ron Earl lasted four innings for Kingston being touched for three hits, walking six and whiffing three. Taylor took over, walking five and giving up one hit while whiffing four.

Three Kingston errors and Casey Soden's double were good for three Belleville runs in the third. They scored the other on singles by Rathwell and Muirhead and three walks.

One hit, three walks and two errors gave Kingston their opening four runs, while two hits and three walks gave them their second four in the third.

Casey Soden's double and singles by Rathwell and Muirhead were the Belleville hits with Whyte with two Anderson and Carty being the Kingston clouters.

BELLEVILLE — Rathwell, Duguid, Muirhead, McGrimmon, Gilroy, Goodfellow, C. Soden, K. Soden, Fisher.

KINGSTON — O'Donnell, Bryant, Anderson, Carty, Taylor, Whyte, Aylesworth, Earl, Long.

20-Year-Old Earns Chance In Big Time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unbeaten Von Clay, a lad with only 10 fights, makes his first national television appearance tonight in a 10 - round light heavyweight bout against the veteran Sonny Ray of Chicago.

The 20-year-old Clay, winner of nine fights, seven via the kayo route, feels his "big" punch and aggressiveness will offset the greater ring savy of Ray, fourth-ranking 175-pounder in the nation.

Clay's last outing resulted in a surprising sixth-round knockout of the veteran Clarence Hinnant and earned him his chance at the big time against Ray.

Bobcats Hand Trenton 12-5 Loss To Take 2-0 Final Series Lead

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bobcats grabbed a 12-0 fifth-inning lead and went on from there to whip Trenton Garretts 12-5 for a two-game lead in the Belleville and District softball league finals in Trenton last night.

Third game is slated for CNRA Park tonight at 6.30 sharp.

Bobby Green made a strong bid for a no-hitter in hurling the 'Cats' victory, stopping the Garretts without a safety until the seventh inning. The losers had scored one run in the sixth, but without the aid of a hit. Ralph Defosse broke the spell with a high chopper over third base with one out in the seventh. They picked up four more hits, good for as many runs in the eighth.

Green whiffed 11 over the route, getting four in the first frame when a dropped third strike gave Drake first base. His control has been better however, the port-sider walking nine batters.

Gord Maroney was charged with six Bobcat runs and five hits in the first one 1-3 innings to take the loss. He walked four, all in the first frame, and fanned two. Ron "Chief" Wannamaker toiled the remainder. He allowed five hits, fanned one and passed four.

Great catches in the outfield by Defosse and Billy Mitts saved the losers from a worse defeat. Defosse made a spectacular run to rob "Wiener" Brown of a home run on one occasion while Mitts made catches in very deep centre on lined shots by Brown and Hull.

DEFOSSE EJECTED

Defosse was ejected from the game by base umpire Al Kelleher in the seventh. The speedy outfielder tried to stretch his hit into a double, was called out, and tossed out, as he charged after Kelleher to argue the decision.

Maroney was in trouble from the start. He walked the first two batters and Bert Faulkner's sinking liner to centre bounced by Don Cole, enabling the batter to wind up with a three-run homer. Maroney walked two more and allowed another hit before the inning was over but a fine throw by Defosse cut a man off at the plate to end the rally.

Crawford's perfect bunt single, Brown's shot to centre and Faulkner's double chased Maroney in the second and gave Faulkner the distinction of driving in the first five Bobcat runs. Bob Hull greeted Wannamaker with a run scoring double and an error made it 7-0 as Hayden's drive to centre was dropped.

An error, misplayed fielder's choice, a base-on-balls and Cousin's double added another pair while Green drove in the next two with a solid single.

Another miscue and Bobby Hull's long ground rule double completed the Belleville scoring in the fifth. Wannamaker never allowed a hit after the sixth.

TRENTON RALLIES

A walk, Mitts' sacrifice and an error, plus Austin's ground cut got Trenton's initial marker. In the eighth the Garretts rallied with two men out. Drake beat out a bunt single, Stinson walked, Austin tripled both home and scored himself on an error on the same play. Ron Wannamaker's infield single, another walk and Howie Cole's hit made the score 12-5.

Earl Cousins with a double and two singles, Bert Faulkner with a homer and double, and Bobby Hull with two doubles, topped the Bobcat hitters. Green, Floyd Crawford and "Wiener" Brown also hit safely.

Guy Austin had a triple and three rbi's for Trenton. Ralph Defosse, Howie Cole, Ron Wannamaker and Roger Drake collected a single apiece.

The line-ups:

Second Annual CANUSA Games For Hamilton

By JOE WATKINS
The Hamilton Spectator

HAMILTON (CP)—This city's population took a sudden, if only temporary, leap today with the arrival of 1,000 visitors from Flint, Mich.

Athletes, their parents and officials are here for the second annual CANUSA Games, a series of athletic contests between competitors from the two cities.

Although the Hamilton athletes won last year's inaugural in Flint with 70 out of a possible 130 points, victory is secondary to the promotion of international goodwill.

Twelve sports are included in the two-day meet — baseball, track and field, basketball, boxing, swimming and diving, archery, soccer, volley ball, golf, rifle, pistol and trap-shooting.

CANUSA is coined from the first three letters of Canada and the abbreviation for the United States of America.

HOW IT STARTED

The games started as a brainchild of a group of persons connected with the Mott Foundation program, sponsors of the Flint Junior Olympics — an annual event now in its third year. When the Flint committee decided to give the program with an international flavor, the amateur athletic union suggested Hamilton as a Canadian counterpart.

Some 450 athletes and their parents made the trip from here in 1958.

Some pageantry and a social program will be features of the weekend. There will be an Olympics-style parade to Civic Stadium Saturday afternoon, a wiener roast at Lasalle Park tonight and a dance sponsored by the Hamilton Spectator at McMaster University Saturday night.

20 CARRY TORCH

Twenty runners will carry a torch from Flint to Hamilton over 241 miles of highways. Each runner will run three miles and rest for 57.

The torch was to leave Flint this morning and is expected to reach Sarnia about 7:45 p.m.

The runners will follow a route along Ontario highways 7, 22, 81, 401, 53 and 2 with arrival here predicted for about 1 p.m. Saturday.

The remainder of the group will travel in eight buses and 25 cars.

K-W Dutchmen Want to Operate Junior B Team

KITCHENER (CP) — The Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen senior hockey club is prepared to take over operation of Kitchener's junior B team if the junior executive is willing, Dutchmen officials said Thursday.

A meeting between the two clubs, which operate in the Ontario Hockey Association, is scheduled next week. The Dutchmen are prepared to take complete control and appoint a special committee of directors for the age-limit squad.

The junior officials announced some time ago they would not be able to run the club any longer.

TRY TWO-WAY TRIP

LONDON (AP)—A 30-year-old American housewife has announced her intention of attaining an objective that has eluded men and women over the years—swimming the English Channel both ways, non-stop.

Mrs. Greta Sonnichsen of Long Beach, Calif. — more widely known as Greta Andersen—said Thursday: "I'm going to take part in the mass swim next week from France to England, the race I won against men and women in 1957 and 1958.

"If I get across all right then I'm turning right round and going back to France."

Jurisdictional Jealousy Annoys Toronto Council

TORONTO (CP)—City council that she will ask department jealousy and departmental friction is heading Toronto civic affairs towards chaos.

The councillors, claiming they are frustrated by several incidents in which controllers and aldermen have been directed from one department to another as they attempted to carry out projects, are reported demanding immediate action.

Controller Jean Newman said today she will ask department heads to recommend new procedures to co-ordinate and streamline civic business.

Department heads are to meet with Mrs. Newman shortly. She said if the streamlining methods fail, council would have to issue directives to delegate responsibilities.

However, she said, this would be "a very undesirable way of conducting civic business."

Guard of Cigars For Churchill Has Retired

LONDON (AP)—The man who guarded one of Britain's vital war assets—Winston Churchill's Havana cigars—has retired.

At his suburban home, 78-year-old Joseph Zitelli, told Wednesday of those grim days when Britain staggered under the German Luftwaffe's blitz.

From an air raid shelter near his home 19 years ago, Zitelli emerged after a heavy raid on London. He hurried to his tobacco shop at Leicester Square. After a quick check, he dialed a secret telephone number. A voice familiar to the world answered.

"The shop is still standing," reported Zitelli, "your cigars are all right, Mr. Churchill."

"Thank you. Thank you for calling," replied Britain's wartime prime minister.

Eventually the shop was bombed and the dealer had to tell Churchill that his wonderful smokes had gone up in smoke.

"That was the only time I ever knew him to smoke Jamaican cigars," said Zitelli. "It took some time to get the Havanas moving again.

"Mind you, they were cheaper for him, those Jamaican cigars."

The shop has been rebuilt.

They Were Sold

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—A furniture store, as an advertising stunt, glued and nailed a rug to a busy downtown street to show how well it wears.

Sunday School Lesson

We Have Not Listened

By ROY L. SMITH

There come times in the life of a nation, as also in the lives of individuals, when the most progress is to be made by way of penitence. It is so very easy for a people to develop an attitude of superiority, and nothing can be more dangerous.

In every generation there have been those clear thinking individuals who have warned the nations of the perils they were courting, the dangers that were impending and the disasters that lay just ahead. Unfortunately, however, we have listened to those who spoke cheerfully of the great days that lay ahead. As the mayor of a great American city once said, "This town had had plenty of leadership. What it really needs is followship".

WE HAVE KNOWN BETTER

It cannot be said that the situation in which we find ourselves has come upon us unannounced. Every national as well as every personal hazard with which we are confronted is one of which we have been warned repeatedly.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 23: "Prayers Of The Captives" Daniel 1 through 6: 9.

Take the case of alcoholism, for example. There is no alcoholic anywhere in the nation who has not been fully warned by other alcoholics as to the dangers he was inviting by the use of alcohol.

Or take the case of juvenile delinquincy. All about us there are to be seen the children of broken homes who are getting into trouble with law, and with society, and yet we go on breaking up our homes.

And there is the case of war. The national debt which now nears the $300 billion mark has been accumulated as a result of wars past, and preparations for wars to come. It would be a simple matter for the American people to pay the ordinary expenses of government, if no war costs were to be included in the national budget. And yet we go on assuming nationalistic attitudes that invite hostilities.

OURS A GOD OF MERCY

As people we need to be reminded from time to time that our God is a God of mercy, as well as of law. If God had not been merciful, this nation would have collapsed under the weight of evil that attended the slave trade. If He were not merciful we would now be staggering under the blows of His righteous wrath, for how can a nation sing "God Bless America" at the very moment that it is making drunkards out of many thousands of mothers of the land?

Then there is the wastage of the soil, of which we are guilty. The Department of Agriculture has estimated that we have exhausted the fertility of hundreds of millions of acres of our land, by taking no thought for the morrow. Competent authorities tell us the soil of the North American continent has been wasted since the arrivial of Columbus in 1492.

Only a God of mercy could have preserved a nation that has been as careless, as wasteful, as lustful, and as callous as we have been during the last 100 years.

WE HAVE HAD PROPHETS

It is one of the marked phenomena of history that every generation has produced its prophets. There have been those in every age who have pointed out the sins and the evils of their times. But prophets have always been lonely men; the crowd so much prefers the one who paints the scene in rosy hues.

"I don't think I'll go back to hear that preacher again", was the comment of a businessman of our town, concerning the sermon he had heard from one of the pulpits of one of our best churches. "That man talks as if everything were going to the dogs, and it gives me the creeps to listen to that kind of pessimism". And another man had refused to face the facts concerning the impending evil of the times. Two years later he said so that same pastor, "I don't know why you preachers did not warn us of these things years ago". In the meantime the blow had fallen and the city's head was bowed in shame.

It calls for just as much courage to listen to the truth as it does to speak the truth.

Finance Minister Turns Down Bids For Treasury Bills

The World of Money Again in Spotlight

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The world of money—a universe of important but bewildering magic to the casual observer and never certain to the most expert—is in the spotlight again as a result of recent changes in the Bank of Canada interest rate.

This week's unusual, if not unprecedented, action by Finance Minister Fleming in turning down some tenders for government treasury bills only added to the confusion bubbling in the monetary cauldron for the ordinary Canadian.

The form on which bids for these short-term government securities are submitted specifies that the finance minister has the final decision whether to accept all or a part of any bid.

NEED INTERPRETATION

The facts of the present monetary situation are straightforward enough. Sorting out their significance is the problem.

The bank rate—as the Bank of Canada interest rate is officially known—is important as a reflection of current credit conditions. Generally, when it is high money is scarce and interest rates on the whole are high; when it declines money is easier to get.

Parliament has directed the Bank of Canada to regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the nation's economic life. Hence the current interest in the bank rate's movements.

For six weeks the bank rate—the interest charged on the infrequent Bank of Canada loans to chartered and savings banks—rose steadily, until on Aug. 13 it reached the unprecedented high of 6.41 per cent.

The bank rate is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield of 91-day treasury bills. Tenders for these are opened every Thursday at noon by agents for the finance minister—Bank of Canada and finance department officials.

Normally, the highest bidders get the treasury bills offered. Normally, too, the government sells the full amount it has announced a week previously will be put up for tender.

This week was different.

POSSIBLY FIRST TIME

For the first time in recent years—and possibly since treasury bills were initially offered about 1935 — the government turned down some bids.

Instead of selling $115,000,000 worth of 91-day bills, as it had announced it intended to, the government sold $91,544,000 worth. It also anounced it will offer only $95,000,000 worth next week, instead of the usual $115,000,000.

Mr. Fleming gave this explanation in a statement:

"The reduction in next week's offering reflects the government's view that the recent rise in interest rates on treasury bills has gone farther and faster than conditions warrant. . . .

"The government's strong cash position has enabled it to draw on its current bank balances which are in excess of $400,000,000 and to rely less on treasury

Bill of Rights For Canadian Labor Proposed

BRACEBRIDGE (CP)—A bill of rights for Canadian labor, to which employers would also have to adhere, would make strikes unnecessary, Walter B. Harvey, retired University of Western Ontario economics and political science professor, said Friday night.

He said such a bill should provide better legal procedures for labor to get wage increases and other benefits.

Prof. Harvey made the keynote address to the Ontario Young Liberal Association summer conference at Milford Manor, 10 miles northwest of this Muskoka town. The conference, which ends Sunday, has taken labor-management relations as its theme.

He called strikes obsolete and a form of industrial war. He said there is no more assurance that justice will prevail as the result of a strike than if actual combat occurred.

FULL EMPLOYMENT KEY

Legislation forbidding strikes would be impossible to enact in Canada unless it was made part of a bigger program that would include important advantages for labor. Prof. Harvey said the most important of these is full employment.

"Many of the things we criticize in the behavior of labor, such as featherbedding and limiting output, are due to the fear of unemployment. Many of the demands of labor, such as the guaranteed annual wage, early retirement and pension plans, also are rooted in the same fear," he said.

He said it would be hard to predict "how the attitudes of labor would change if they were not perpetually plagued by the fear of unemployment and the loss of income."

One attitude that must be changed was that labor was only part of society, the exploited part that supported the rest in idleness. Prof. Harvey said "there is no rest of society" because we are all workers now.

Magistrate Says Stop Sign Not Required Height

OTTAWA (CP) — A decision here Friday by Magistrate Joachim Sauve could lead to Ontario motorists carying tape-measures as standard equipment.

Magistrate Sauve dismissed a charge against Bruce Rawlins of Ottawa for driving through a stop sign because it was not erected to the specifications of the Highway Traffic Act.

"The act specifies that all portions of the sign must be between 6 and 8 feet above the travelled portion of the road," said defending attorney John Mirsky. "The top of this sign is several inches higher than eight feet."

Mr. Mirsky and police expressed the belief that the legality of hundreds of similar signs throughout the province could be questioned. They also said they believed the provincial transport department might be put in the position of having to restore demerit points lost by drivers at signs found to be incorrectly erected.

Today's Chuckle

An American has more food than a man of any other country, and more diets to keep him from eating it.

THE WEATHER

Friday was another day of sweltering heat across Southern Ontario with the 95 degrees reported at Hamilton being the highest in Canada. Over Northern Ontario, cool air held temperatures down to the 50s and 60s. High pressure associated with the cool air has intensified in the last 24 hours pushing the leading edge of the cool air down across Georgian Bay.

By Sunday morning cool air is expected to cover nearly all of the province.

RETURN OF STRAP ISSUE RAISED BY GUELPH RIOTS

Minister Opposed To Altering Policy

GUELPH (CP)—Use of the strap as a disciplinary measure became a renewed issue Friday after the third straight day of rioting at Guelph Reformatory.

Some 410 prisoners at the institution spent the night locked in the walled exercise yard in constant view of surrounding observation towers.

In solitary were 40 ringleaders of the ugly riot by 300 prisoners who demonstrated in the dining hall and stoned their unarmed guards before tear gas subdued them.

Outside the reformatory walls, at least one magistrate openly urged reintroduction of the strap to deter prisoners from riotinb.

But Reform Institutions Minister Wardrope, who announced the abolition of corporal punishment in Ontario reform institutions earlier this year, expressed rope the move would not be necessary.

Two vuards were injured in Friday's rioting which began in the dining hall shortly after breakfast. Shouting, jeering prisoners smashed fittings and threw plates before they were forced out into the exercise yard.

About 40 men then attempted to storm the dining hall doors. It was at this point that the two guards were injured by stone-throwing.

In critical condition in hospital is guard George William Andrews who suffered a ruptured kidney Artrur Munn received a minor concussion and was allowed home after treatment.

Mr. Wardrope visited the reformatory Friday night to urge that the prisoners end the violence.

"We are upset by the troubles here," he said later, "and we are asking the co-operation of the prisoners because we don't want to bring back the strap."

"As far as I am concerned I have no desire to bring back the brutal practice. It is not good therapy."

MAGISTRATE'S VIEW

But Magistrate Stewart Mitchell, who sentenced five men to penitentiary terms for Wednesday's riot and three more Friday for taking part in Thursday's demonstrations, urged that corporal punishment be reintroduced.

"It is all right for idealists and altruists to say they shouldn't be strapped," said the magistrate. "Yet if they had known they might be strapped, it might not have rappened."

Istvan Czupor, 20, who acted as spokesman in court Friday for those convicted of damaging government property, said the prisoners objected to working long hours in the hot, humid tailor shop. He added that guards are over-critical of prisoners.

Czupor pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary. Sentenced with him were Robert Gough, 20, of St. Catharines and Lyle Place, 20, Brockville.

Paul Waters, 21, Niagara Falls; Marvin E. Sharpe, 18, Belleville and Gary Corey, 18, Toronto elected trial by higher court on the same charge.

The six prisoners, were removed from the reformatory under heavy guard Friday night and taken to the maximum security prison at Millbrook.

Only 200 prisoners, including trustees, hospital patients and the 40 ringleaders were inside the reformatory buildings early today.

Wardrope (right) inspects cell block at the Ontario Reformatory, Guelph, Friday, following a riot of 300 prisoners which took place earlier in the day. With him are, left to right, reformatory superintendent, Charles Sanderson; Ontario Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Clark, Deputy Minister of Reform Institutions, Col. G. H. Basher and Mr. Wardrope. Mr. Wardrope made a personal appeal to the prisoners and told them he did not want to re-introduce the strap as a means of punishment. (CP Wirephoto).

Split Within French Cabinet On Algerian Policy Is Deep

PARIS (AP)—A split within the government over Algerian policy has gone so deep that some French newspapers are speculating that Premier Michel Debre may resign.

He probably won't unless a real political storm blows up.

The basic divergence of views has been kept under cover because President Charles de Gaulle has personal charge of Algerian policy.

Now, however, de Gaulle has asked the ministers to express their views on the 4½-year-old nationalist rebellion and what can be done to hasten its end.

The opinions of the ministers are supposed to be given at a cabinet meeting next Wednesday, the day before de Gaulle leaves for a four-day military inspection in Algeria.

Many reports have circulated—seemingly well-founded but without official confirmation—that de Gaulle is planning a new try at stopping the rebellion before the UN General Assembly meets Sept. 15.

Fears have been expressed here the assembly may put the Algerian topic on its agenda this year.

The cabinet is reported split three ways. One group has heartily approved de Gaulle's clemency measures for imprisoned Algerian nationalists and moves toward a peaceful settlement.

Stern military action is advocated by a group including Jacques Soustelle, who oversees the Sahara oil and atomic projects. Premier Debre seems inclined in this direction.

The third section is officially neutral, since the ministers have never been pressed to state their views.

Steven Rockefeller Marries Retired Grocer's Daughter

SOGNE, Norway (AP)—Steven Rockefeller slipped a platinum wedding band on Anne Marie Rasmussen's left hand today and made her his wife in a solemn Norwegian marriage ceremony.

They pronounced their vows in a country church on a gentle knoll, within sight of the bride's family home.

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and Steven's brothers, sisters, and a sister-in-law, witnessed the Lutheran ceremony.

Mrs. Rockefeller and Anne Marie's father, Kristian Rasmussen, retired grocer and fish merchant, sat together near the altar.

The bride's mother, Lovise, watched the rites from the opposite side of the centre aisle, which was decorated with pink carnations and roses.

The wedding ceremony began at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT).

Fifteen minutes earlier Governor Rockefeller entered the church escorting Anne Marie's mother.

Mrs. Rockefeller entered a moment after with Steven.

Then, on the stroke of 4 Anne Marie passed through the huge front door of the church with her father. Her bright blonde hair gleamed from beneath a white veil. Her wedding dress, with a floor-length hem, was of white duchesse silk.

To the strains of Wagner's Wedding March, they walked toward the altar.

Mrs. Rockefeller wore a black silk street-length dress with a velvet panel in the skirt and a bolero jacket.

Mrs. Rasmussen's costume was a printed cotton pique street-length dress in mauve and white. She wore a large mauve hat.

The six ushers, Rodman and Michael Rockefeller, brothers of Steven, his best man, Jerry Riggs of Omaha, Neb., and three former schoolmates, stood on the right.

Anne Marie's sister, Thorhild, acting as her maid of honor, and her bridesmaids, five girlhood friends, stood on the other side.

Nearly 170 invited guests and spectators sat on the wooden benches on both sides of the aisle. Among them was Trygve Lie, former secretary general of the United Nations. In the gallery were five newspaper correspondents.

Pastor Olav Gautestad told the couple:

"Your example shows that real love, which is from God, breaks down all the social and conventional barriers amongst us. To build a good home is perhaps the greatest of all arts."

Turning to 23-year-old Steven, the vicar said: "You, Steven Rockefeller, take with you into your new home a good inheritance."

To 21-year-old Anne Marie he said: "We will thank you for being a good ambassador for Norway and we hope you will be a good member of the Rockefeller family and a useful citizen of your new, great country."

Steven and Anne Marie will fly to New York Sunday for a honeymoon in the United States.

When Anne Marie arrived at the church there was slight suspicion of the sun breaking through the overcast. Anne Marie and her father stood in a car which had its sun roof drawn back. She waved happily.

Doves Knock Holes in Steel At Test Centre

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) Doves perched on the rails of the 35,000-foot high-speed captive missile test track at this air force research centre are fouling up operations.

They may weigh almost nothing but they pack a terrific punch when a rocket test sled hits them.

The water-filled concrete trough between the rails, used to brake test sleds to a stop, apparently draws the birds from the surrounding desert.

They perch on the rails, and knock holes in quarter-inch-thick steel as sleds hurtle down on them at supersonic speed.

This is a phenomenon of high velocity impact.

"It's one of the zaniest, least expected problems we've ever faced," said Lt.-Col. Donald Vlcek (pronounced vul'-check), test track chief.

The birds never even hear our faster-than-sound sleds.

The army is consulting an ornithologist to find a solution.

Sterling Starling Startler Strives To Banish Birds and Reap Reward

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y. — (AP) — "The bird man" claims to be a sterling starling startler, but in the two times he's been up to bat here he's fouled out.

If he manages to chase the starlings out of town he'll get $4,000, but if he doesn't improve pretty soon all he'll get is the bird.

He has two things in his favor — sterling references and a lot of confidence. And you have to admit he puts on a great show.

His name is Otto Standke, and he's a 71-year-old. For two nights now he's walked the streets here, wearing a red plaid cap and puffing on a cigar. He carries two aluminum pancake flippers, which he clangs together, and he has a chime around his neck, which he sounds when he isn't banging away with the flippers. He also wears a silver tie clip, with "the bird man" engraved on it.

His five-page contract with the city will net him $4,000 [illegible] he drives the birds from two neighborhoods. The fee will be paid in instalments over a year, but only if the birds stay away.

The starlings have plagued this area for 10 years, appearing by the thousands in August. All efforts to get rid of them so far — and these included dishpan pounding, fire hoses, battleship searchlights and skyrockets — have failed miserably.

Thursday night Standke began his rounds, like a one-man band. A crowd of people, hushed by the spectacle, watched on the ground. Apparently equally amazed, the starlings watched from the trees.

As Standke continued marching and banging and chiming, the starlings gradually left.

Friday night they were back, and so was he. The starlings left again, but this time they took up positions about a block away.

Standke says he'll try for about a week, and he's sure his system will work. He says it has never failed.

KHRUSHCHEV WILL BE UNABLE TO VISIT CANADA

Other Commitments Make It Impossible

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Khrushchev has advised the Canadian government that it will not be possible for him to visit Canada after his trip next month to the United States.

It had been hoped here that the Russian premier would be able to pay at least a short visit to Ottawa.

The announcement was made by the prime minister's office 24 hours after Prime Minister Diefenbaker left on a visit to Western Canada.

The brief statement said D. M. Johnson, Canadian ambassador in Moscow, had been asked by mail several days ago to ascertain whether it would be possible for the Soviet leader to include Ottawa in his North American itineary.

"The Soviet government now has replied expressing warm gratitude to the Canadian government for its interest in having Mr. Khrushchev visit Canada, but regretting that previous commitments will not enable him to accept," the statement said.

The announcement also reiterated Mr. Diefenbaker's earlier support of the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev. He hoped these visits "would lead to a diminution of world tensions as the visit of Prime Minister Macmillan to the Soviet Union had done."

The government's action in making a private inquiry to learn whether a visit would be possible followed normal diplomatic practice.

Protocal experts in the capital said that this is done to avoid embarrassment to both parties should an invitation be unacceptable.

Washed Ducks, Hung Them on Line, Proving Germs Survive Air Travel

MONTREAL (CP) — Once upon a time Dr. Harold E. Schlichting, Jr., used to scrub ducks.

Not only that, he used to deck them out in little plastic booties and hang them on a line to dry.

He has since stopped all this, not because it was nonsense but because he has proved it isn't.

Dr. Schlichting, 33, now a free-lance researcher, spent his time washing ducks at Michigan State University in an attempt to prove ducks could spread minute living organisms from pond to pond.

His unusual method of scientific research was described Friday at the ninth International Botanical Congress, in session here.

The ducks were trapped, he said, and lathered with household detergent to rid them of any germs and algae they might already be carrying.

They were then placed in water pens containing known organisms so that they could pick some up.

Then they were hung up on the clothesline, rigged in a special harness that supported them comfortably but kept them from flying away.

Despite all precautions, some of the laundry usually did take off, Dr. Schlichting said.

Some ducks were tried for periods as short as 15 minutes, some for 32 hours. The idea was to simulate flight — to see whether the livings things picked up in the water. pens would die after prolonged exposure to air.

After drying, the ducks were fitted with plastic boots filled with sterile water and their bills were dipped in sterile-water nosebags.

Analysis of the water showed, Dr. Schlichting said, that many micro-organisms can survive prolonged drying-out. Ducks dried for less than four hours carried a great variety of them. Those in the air eight hours carried some organisms on their feet, and more in their bills. The number surviving after eight hours drying was small.

Alaska Governor And Diefenbaker May Make History

Kitimat Meeting Could Bring Big Developments

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP)—Top Canadian and Alaskan officials will meet next week in this "aluminum city" carved out of what was once a wilderness.

It is a meeting that may have more than a little significance both for the new American state and for British Columbia.

The two top figures will be Prime Minister Diefenbaker and William A. Egan, first elected governor of the 49th state. Both will address the delegates to the two - day meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of central B.C. and Alaskan affiliates.

Alaska is looking for ways to bolster her economy. For this it needs communication lines—roads and perhaps a railway—to the other states.

WOULD CROSS B.C.

Canadian officials, and particularly those in British Columbia, see bright prospects in this since any such links would have to pass through the province.

The province is sending three cabinet ministers to the meeting. Trades and Development Minister Robert Bonner, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston will speak to the convention.

The keynote addresses of course will come from Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Egan. The prime minister speaks at a luncheon meeting Monday and will leave soon after for Ottawa.

Kitimat, a new city of 9,500 and site of the Alumiminum Company of Canada's huge power and aluminum-production operation, is expected to be swelled by several hundred for the convention.

Young Liberals Out to Recruit 20,000 Workers

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Ontario's Liberal party is out to recruit 20,000 Young Liberals in the next two years, James Scott, executive director of the Ontario Liberal Association, told the Ontario Young Liberal summer conference here today.

Mr. Scott said this year was the first time in the history of the Young Liberals summer conference that people had to be turned away.

"This makes me confident that our objective of 20,000 new members is not an idle dream".

Text of his remarks was released to the press before delivery.

He called for a change in the constitution of the Liberal Association so that Young Liberals could have 25-per-cent representation at all party conferences and meetings, local and provincial.

Mr. Scott referred to the appointment today of William J. Morris, 27, as assistant secretary and young people's organizer for the Ontario party, saying "this is tangible evidence of our intention to make our mass recruitment scheme work."

Says Threats Made to Kill Diefenbaker

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says series of telephone threats to assassinate Prime Minister Diefenbaker was made Friday during the prime minister's visit in Lethbridge, Alta.

In a dispatch from Lethbridge, The Star says three threatening telephone calls were made to station CJLH-TV, two while Mr. Diefenbaker was making a 15-minute television broadcast and the other preceding his appearance on the air.

The first call, made at 4:15 p.m. by a man using coarse language, threatened: "This is a warning. If Diefenbaker appears on TV he will be assassinated at 5:30 p.m."

The second call said: "Get Diefenbaker off the air or we'll cut his throat." The third said: "If you don't get Diefenbaker off the screen we'll cut his throat."

The Star says an RCMP spokesman said Mr. Diefenbaker, who left later in the day for Vancouver, was not told of the threats. It adds, however, that although the RCMP dismissed the calls as coming from a crank, all available members of the Lethbridge police force and at least 60 RCMP were brought out to guard the prime minister.

Paralytic Polio Cases Increase By 103 in Week

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 103 cases of paralytic poliomyelitis reported in Canada last week — all but 15 of them in Quebec, the health department said Friday. Five cases were in Ontario.

They brought to 329 the number of 1959 cases up to August 15, compared with 55 on a comparable date last year. This year's total includes 28 polio deaths, as against six about this time a year ago.

Of the 28 deaths so far this year, 18 have been in Quebec, four in the Northwest Territories, three in Ontario, and there has been one each in Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Alberta.

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario health department Friday reported a temporary shortage of Salk anti-polio vaccine because supplies have been diverted to Quebec.

Dr. G. W. Martin of the division of maternal and child hygiene said the shortage would right itself within a few days.

Woman Killed, Train Hits Car

SUDBURY (CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Killick, 35, of near bMy onin ywy Killick, 35, of nearby Minnow Lake was killed Friday night when a car driven by her husband stalled on a CPR level crossing near their home and was struck by a freight running from North Bay to Webbwood.

Police said the woman's husband, William Charles Killick, got out of the car and tried unsuccessfully to open the door on his wife's side when he saw the train approaching. He jumped clear seconds before the car was scooped up by the front of the train.

"TRUTH IS THE AIM OF ALL RESEARCH"

• (Author's Name Below)

Recently a research study was performed to find out if people really read the directions and warnings printed on the labels of patent medicines. Any medicine can be harmful if improperly taken, or if used when the ingredients are contra-indicated.

It was discovered that a very large number of people do not completely read the directions, heed the warnings, or study the formula. If simple patent remedies are always as safe as some of the ads state, why are cautions about their use required by law to be printed on the label? The truth is that all medicines should be secured from a pharmacist. We can warn you against any possible danger.

Take Valuable Rabbits From Milltown Hutches

Thieves last night broke into rabbit hutches owned by Mrs. Lloyd Williams of Milltown and stole a number of valuable Chinchilla rabbits, it was reported this morning by Belleville Provincial Police. At press time it was not learned how many rabbits were missing, but it is understood Mrs. Williams had a considerable number of the valuable animals for breeding purposes.

About two months ago Mr. Williams was killed in an auto accident at Burlington when his car was in collision with another vehicle.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams came to Milltown about a year ago from Brantford and were building a new house at the time of Mr. Williams' death.

$4,000 Damage To Home on Bleecker Ave.

Fire damage amounting to approximately $4,000 resulted to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Salisbury, 288 Bleecker Avenue, early this morning when fire started in an upstairs sunroom and spread through the second floor and attic.

Mr. Salisbury suffered burns to his hands and face while attempting to put out the fire, and also was cut about the hands and feet with glass. He was admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze apparently started in the sunroom where Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury were sleeping. The alarm was called in at 2.39 this morning.

"It was a hot fire and a difficult one to put out," noted Fire Chief Vance. "We had a tough fight on our hands for about an hour before the blaze was brought under control.

Fire equipment from both fire stations was called out to fight the fire.

The blaze was confined to the upstairs and the attic of the two-storey home with the downstairs having only water damage which came through the ceiling.

Although Blind for Years Miss M. S. Dunning Prepares Own Meals, Helps Keep House

One night Mrs. M. C. Ward dropped in to see an old friend, Miss M. S. Dunning at her home on Moira Street. Later, as she was leaving, Miss Dunning asked if she would mail a letter on her way home.

"Certainly", said Mrs. Ward.

Miss Dunning rummaged in her desk, found the letter and handed it to Mrs. Ward who was rather baffled because the envelope was blank. She thought Miss Dunning an older woman, had forgotten to address it.

"Oh, no", said Miss Dunning, "it's all ready — just needs to be sealed. You can take a look at the letter inside, if you like, it's pretty long".

Mrs. Ward took the letter out of the blank envelope. It contained six large pages, absolutely blank. Miss Dunning is blind. Her typewriter ribbon had not been springing up properly. This she considered a great joke. They both laughed heartily.

Once when her brother was coming to dine she was making an apple pie. She made the pie and reached for the nutmeg to put in it. The nutmeg is in the same kind of a tin as the poultry seasoning. Unwittingly she sprinkled the poultry seasoning, fortunately not a great deal, over the apples. Her brother ate the pie. He did not notice anything wrong. But she did.

Such errors are rare. Miss Dunning keeps her house as clean as a hospital. There is no dust on the book shelves or even in the spaces between the books or under the clock. She used to do all her own housework but now she has a woman come in once a week.

PREPARES OWN MEALS

She prepares all her own meals and often has guests, three or four at a time. She sets the table, cooks the meal and can serve every course without a hitch, unless there is meat to be carved. She needs help with that.

"You can do anything if you have been a nurse," she says.

As a young girl Miss Dunning took a business course at the Ontario Business College in Belleville and for a time worked on The Intelligencer. Then she was trained as a nurse at the New York City Post Graduate Hospital and went overseas in 1916, before the United States had entered the First World War, with a private nursing unit.

In a French hospital in France she took care of French soldiers. The other nurses were of many nationalities, Australian, New Zealander, American. The orderlies were all English, old men or boys too young to enlist. She could not speak French. Meanings were conveyed by various motions of the arms.

After six months she returned to New York, joined a United States nursing unit, and from then on and between the two wars she engaged in various kinds of nursing. "Every kind there was," she says, "I did it. I have not missed anything."

Gradually she lost her sight.

Returning to Canada in 1943, she lived in Stirling and moved to Belleville in 1946. One day a man called at her house and said he was selling magazines. "You must have come to the wrong house," she said.

"Oh, no," he said, "you're the person I want to see . . ."

This was Mr. Preston Timmins, district supervisor for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. "He liked to play jokes," she says.

CNIB SENDS BOOKS

"The CNIB are wonderful", says Miss Dunning. "They send you books. They send you a catalogue of books and you choose 50, any you want, which they send one at a time, in a flat box of records — 17 or 18 records for a short book, and perhaps 30 or 40 records for a long one, like "Gone With The Wind". It is the same voice reading to you all the way through, very well spoken, of course. Then when you have finished listening to the book, you just put it back in the box, slide out the address label, invert it, and put it back. The return address is already there, and it goes post free.

"This one I am returning is Reader's Digest for July, on records exactly the same. No, not the same voice. Different voices for different articles".

When the White Cane Club was organized in Belleville, Miss Dunning was treasurer for a time.

"The CNIB send out a home teacher. It used to be a Miss Munro. Now it is Miss Virginia Philpotts. They teach you home adjustment, how to cook or type, anything you want. They mail you supplies for anything you want to work at. They taught me how to braid. I picked up typing quite readily because I had learned it at O.B.C.

"Mr. Timmins gives radio talks quite often from Kingston — information for the blind and local news. It is all very helpful and interesting. I don't know many people here but those I do know are very good to me. They come and see me and take me for drives. And my brother, who has a farm, visits every weekend. I enjoy television, discussions, quizzes and drama programs. The days are not long enough".

Want Citizens To 'Monitor' CBC Shows

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde has received a request for 15 Belleville citizens to "monitor" various CBC radio and television shows. The request has come from Kate Aitken, a member of a special committee of the CBC Board of Broadcast Governors.

The Board would like to obtain a cross-section of the Canadian radio and television audience to listen to or watch CBC programs and to periodically report their opinions on the shows they should choose to monitor. Persons of any age, sex, vocation, family status and recreational interests are invited to submit their name, address, occupation and family status to the Mayor's Office, City Hall, Belleville. The type of program which one would like to regularly report on should also be included with the other information.

All names will be forwarded to the special committee who will contact directly those whom they would like to act as reviewers.

AA Enables District Man To Win Fight With Drink

Not far from Belleville lived Dr. G. He had a good wife, two children and a large practice. One Friday night he and his wife attended a party. The host had a snappy bar set up in a playroom in the basement. The doctor took the first drink of his life. He was 33.

The bar looked smart, so smart in fact that the doctor decided to have one built in his own basement, exactly the same, only he wanted more bottles on display. The bar was built and stocked with lots of colored bottles.

Ten years later he had forfeited his wife and children, his practice and his reputation. He became a tramp, reduced to drinking hair tonic, shaving lotion and alcoholic extractions squeezed out of shoe polish through a cloth. At night, sometimes, he saw rats and snakes and elephants on the wall. Once he saw a mouse struggling to pull a bale of hay through the transom over the door.

He had to earn money. To do this he went north and offered his services at a lumber camp near North Bay. He told the boss quite frankly that he had been a drunkard but that he was going to stop it and work. The boss trusted him and made him camp doctor.

Three months later he "fell" off the wagon. He was fired. But the boss was kind enough to let him use a little hut to sleep in. Dr. G. loafed around, occasionally doing odd jobs for the manager of a nearby general store. One morning the manager was going to town for a few hours and, after taking the precaution to lock up his personal supply of liquor, he left the doctor in charge of his three children.

When he came back he found that the doctor had looted his supply of shaving lotion from the store. He was unconscious, asleep on the floor; and he was never allowed to enter the store again.

BLINDED BY DRINK

But one night he got into the basement and discovered a large tin of cheap methylated spirits. It was bad. And he knew it. He poured a small amount into a bottle and held it up to the light. It was blue. And he said to himself: "This is poison. If it doesn't kill me it will blind me. One or the other."

He drank it. He felt he had to drink it because he had "the shakes." His whole body shook. How many times he refilled the bottle from the tin, he does not remember. He was feeling grand. He walked out of the basement and down the road to a hut which belonged to the camp's night watchman. Over the door was a light, an ordinary white light, but it appeared red. He passed on, entered his own hut and fell asleep.

The next day he was sent to a hospital. Bandages were placed over his eyes and remained there for three weeks. Then he was told he was completely blind and that nothing could be done toward regaining his sight.

He went west. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind gave him a white cane. With this in hand he found it comparatively easy to pick up a dollar here and there, and thus buy enough liquor to keep going. He never stopped drinking. When the CNIB put him in charge of a small store, he drank up the supply of cigaret lighter fluid.

JOINS AA

A local minister told him he stank, physically and spiritually, and that he was so full of self-pity there was nothing he could do for him. The doctor broke down and cried. Eventually the CNIB gave him a choice: Get out of the CNIB or oin the Alcoholics Anonymous.

He did not want to join AA. He did not want to change or improve. He found it more comfortable to go on being exactly the same person he was. Finally, however, against his will, he joined, and after a time admitted he was powerless over alcohol.

Very gradually he came to believe that a Power greater than himself could help him remain sober and he decided to turn his will over to the care of this Power.

The CNIB gave him a job again. He has now held it for eight years. During that time he has not had a drink. Not one. He knows that one is enough to . . .

"I go easy," he says, "one day at a time."

He married again. "A wonderful woman she is."

HENLEY—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Henley, who passed away one year ago, August 23, 1958.

What we would give if we could say
Hello Dad in the same old way.
To hear your voice, see your smile,
To sit with you and chat a while.
So you who have a father
Cherish him with care.
For you'll never know the heartache
'Till you see his vacant chair.

Tears of silence often flow
For memory keeps him ever near us

His pleasant way and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved to all.
The pearly gates were opened
A gentle voice said "come"
And with farewell unspoken
He gently entered home.

—Ever remembered by wife Mae; daughter Lola, son-in-law Grant.

Arrested Youth Wrecks Cell, Damage Heavy

TRENTON — A youth placed in the cells of the Trenton police station Thursday afternoon smashed furnishings and plumbing, causing damage estimated at several hundreds of dollars.

David Barry of Ontario St., was arrested early Thursday afternoon and taken to the Trenton police station in connection with a series of thefts in this area. The arresting officer had no trouble bringing the youth to the station and no trouble developed until police started to place the youth in the cells.

When placed in the cells the youth commenced screaming and struggling and tearing at the furnishings of the cell. He threw the water closet against the window of the cell after ripping it from the fastenings. He also ripped out the plumbing pipes in the cells, causing a minor flood in that area of the building. All things in this cell that could possibly be ripped loose were subject to the youth's anger. This coupled with his shouts, drew the attention of passing persons who gathered at the station.

It was impossible for police officers to keep the youth quiet as he raged at the officers who were on duty at the time of the occurrence.

The thefts in connection with thi sarrest include a theft of clothing from parked cars in this area, the recent break-in at the Trenton Community Gardens and the theft of a car belonging to K. C. Fode of Edward Street, which was recovered on the Carrying Place Road recently.

The youth was forcibly taken from the cells at the Trenton police station and transferred to the Hastings County jail at Belleville. Even upon leaving the station Barry was still defiant, struggling and shouting threats.

He is scheduled to appear before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton Tuesday afternoon where is it expected he will be formally arranged on charges which will include a charge arising from the outburst in the cells Thursday.

A quantity of clothing has been recovered from the thefts from cars in this area. Also recovered are a quantity of cigarets believed to have come from the Trenton Community Gardens.

In charge of the investigation of the recent thefts in this area is Inspector R. J. Rutherford, assisted by officers of the force here.

First House Up in 10 Hours Second Now Nearly Finished After Six Years' Hard Work

A house belonging to Paul Burnette, 104 Herchimer Avenue, burned down flat. In ten hours, some 50 fellow employees from Northern Electric Co. put up a new one for him. That was ten years ago.

Mr. Brunette, 47, has since lived in it and, with the help of a large family, built a new stone house more than twice as big and now, after six years of spare time effort, it is nearly finished.

For $35 he hired a bulldozer and dug the foundation four feet deep. Then came rock. To dig two feet deeper, he pried up huge slabs of rock with a long steel bar, then smashed the rock into smaller pieces with a sledge hammer, and placed these pieces around the foundation hole.

BOUGHT OLD HOUSES

To get some lumber he thought it would be a good idea to buy an old house and gently take it apart. Some 20 miles from Belleville he found two such houses and made a deal for one of them for $300. But he only had $100 to spare. He gave the man an IOU for the $200.

To demolish the house he brought his wife and six of their nine children to help. One boy used a nail puller. The others pried loose the boards carefully.

During the process a couple of neighbors, Dutch-Canadians, dropped by. Apparently they knew Mr. Brunette was a French Canadian.

"Can you speak French?" one of them asked.

"Yes."

"Would you speak it for us, please? We would just like to hear it."

Mr. Brunette obliged with a brief discourse in French which seemed to satisfy them.

"You are tearing down the house," said the other, "we would be glad to help . . ."

"No thank you," Mr. Brunette interjected, for he did not want any heaving and smashing, he wanted the job done gently. The Dutch-Canadians departed.

FOUNDATION COST $190.

From this house he acquired some good pine boards and several big beams, 10 by 12 inches, and 40 feet long, which are hard to buy. With this wood he returned to his foundation, built cement forms, mixed cement in a wooden box with a hoe, and poured the cement into the forms. In all, the foundation cost $190.

When the cement hardened, he removed the wooden forms and used the lumber again for the walls of the house. When the first half of the ground floor was built, he divided it with partitions into three bedrooms and a kitchen and moved in. This half of the new house was in fact larger than the whole house he had been living in.

Then he pulled down the house he had been living in and used its lumber again.

UNIQUE MATERIAL

The new house he wanted to be different from any other house, a dream house. He decided to build it entirely of stone. At Madoc he bought marble dust, mixed it with water and an expensive white cement, which looks like marble.

Then he made a wooden form in one size, a half-size, a quarter-size and a corner stone form. Thus he made marble stones of fixed sizes which, in building the walls of the house, could be varied, but always made to fit at the end of each line.

Meanwhile Mr. Brunette, an artist for the Northern Electric Co., started a little art work business in his spare time, to make more money, because with 10 children in the family he could not put much money aside.

After six years the house was nearly built.

Last month he terminated the art business.

Today he has just finished decorating the outside stonework. All that remains to be done is inserting the joining mortar — next summer.

A tough job over the years? "Maybe," he says, "but it was a lot of fun. I enjoyed it."

Outdoor Market Fairly Active Despite Rain

Today's outdoor market was fairly active despite irregular spurts of rain. Many stands displayed a good variety of garden and farm produce. This is the time of year for pickling and the items necessary for this activity were in good abundance. Cucumbers were available at 50 cents a basket for large, up to $1.25 a basket for the smaller variety. Red and green peppers were priced at 10 cents each with hot peppers selling for a nickel apiece. Dill was to be had at 10 cents the bunch, three bunches for 25 cents.

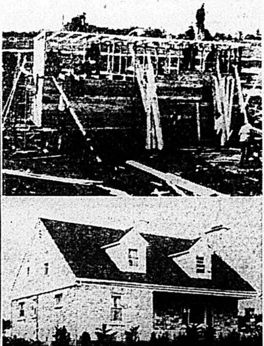
Butternut squash and Hubbard squash were available at 15 to 25 cents and around 50 cents each respectively. Pumpkins were selling at 10 to 40 cents depending on size. Turnips sold at two for 25 cents and cabbages at 10 to 20 cents.

Corn sold at 40 to 50 cents a dozen ears and was of very good quantity. Green and yellow string beans were to be had at 15 cents the box, as were tomatoes. The latter were also priced at 50 cents the basket. Carrots were selling at 10 cents the bunch and beets from 65 to 75 cents a basket, according to size. Potatoes sold at 50 cents a basket.

Apples of assorted varieties were selling around 65 cents a basket and pears were available at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.00 a basket.

There were many flowers on the stands this morning also, with exceptionally beautiful glads selling for $1.00 a dozen. Other flowers were selling for around 50 cents a bunch.

Eggs were priced at 52, 47 and 37 cents a dozen for extra large, large and medium sizes, respectively. Chicken was priced at the usual 50 cents a pound. Comb honey was selling at 50 cents with canned honey at 30 cents and 50 cents the one- and two-pound can.



When the home of Paul Brunette, 104 Herchimer Avenue, was burned to the ground, dozens of fellow employees from the Northern Electric Co. built him a new one in ten hours. They are shown doing this in the photograph at top. Today, ten years later, Mr. Brunette has built with his own hands another house, shown at bottom which is now almost finished.

Credit Bureau Files Help Promote Instalment Buying

In the Jamieson Bone Building on Front Street, there exists an organization little known to the general public at large but a vital factor in the credit economy of this district. Together with its member affiliates of the Associated Credit Bureaus of Canada, the Credit Bureau of Belleville Ltd. is daily accumulating and providing to its members hundreds of items of credit information.

The Credit Bureau no doubt has a file which contains information about you and your family, that may include such items as your position, how long you have been with your employer, your approximate earnings, your paying habits and outstanding credit obligations. In all likelihood too it will be recorded whether you own or rent your home, the number of children you have, whether or not you have ever been sued and in short just about everything there is to know that might affect your ability to handle your credit obligations.

You may ask why should the Credit Bureau, or any other office for that matter, either possess or want to possess information so complete on any one individual. The answer lies in the fact that today we live in a credit economy with the majority of people who need cars, refrigerators, washers, television sets and many other goods and services purchasing them on credit. They buy on installments because in the main they receive their income by installments.

If each person received all of their year's wages in one cheque at the end of the year they would have large enough amounts of cash to pay for "big ticket" items, but their income is divided into monthly or weekly installments so the business men of this city give these people the opportunity to spread their payments either by way of installment purchasing at a local store or by financing over a period of time through a finance company or a chartered bank.

TWO-FOLD FUNCTION

The Credit Bureau is a central pool of information on residents of this city and district to which all of its members contribute and from which all may draw upon as required. The Credit Bureau's function is, therefore, two fold in assisting on the one hand to help the individual purchase on credit and on the other hand to assist the merchant or business man to extend credit to those deserving of this trust and confidence and "safely speeding" credit sales.

In days gone by when most of the consumer credit business was transacted around the cracker barrel in the general store a merchant had no need of such a source of information as a Credit Bureau. He knew each of his customers personally and certainly knew sufficient about them to estimate if they could pay their account on pay-day or spend their wages in the local saloon instead.

The modern business man in our world of growing cities and shifting population cannot possibly know the individual circumstances of each of his customer, therefore, he turns to the Credit Bureau to screen his customers and select those who, from past experience, have indicated that they do not become over-involved and take care of their monthly payments as agreed. The Credit Bureau assists him in providing accurate up-to-date information that will enable him to arrive at an intelligent decision on each credit application he receives, but does not actually approve or reject the credit.

A popular misconception is that the Credit Bureau records only derogatory information and has in its files only details on people who do not pay their bills. Nothing could be further from the truth, actually only a very small percentage of people neglect their financial obligations and of this percentage some are only in temporary difficulties due to possibly family illnesses, unemployment and etc. Others, however, are just not good managers and consistently spend more than they earn and finally there is the small hard core of people who never have any intention of paying for anything and it is mostly against these people that any one business needs and is entitled to protection.

THOUSANDS OF RECORDS

The Credit Bureau is daily recording in its many thousands of files items that may affect these credit decisions and accumulating information on just how you pay your bills, items of public record, such as writs, judgments, non-responsibility notices, liens, chattel mortgages, etc., together with changes of address and personal circumstances. Newspapers published in this area are carefully clipped and notices of births, deaths, engagements, marriages, scholastic records, accidents and crimes carefully recorded in the files of those named or effected and over the years gradually building up a record of each person's personal background, character and reputation for consistently paying his bills as they become due or consistent failure to live up to his obligations.

When a newcomer arrives in this district it is not necessary for the local merchant or busines man to delay the extending of credit until such time as the newcomer has established a record locally as the Credit Bureau through its some 2,200 associated offices in Canada and the United States can very quickly obtain a credit report from the Credit Bureau in the city where the purchaser lived most recently. This allows the consumer to continue his credit buying at the same time permitting the person extending credit to sell merchandise or extend a loan knowing the full past history of the person he is dealing with. When families move away from this city one important thing that is often overlooked in moving is to take with them their credit report. This can be done very simply by telephoning the local Credit Bureau advising the new address and their file will be promptly forwarded to the Credit Bureau in their new community, therefore, providing a continuity of credit record for the advantage of both the purchaser and the credit grantor in the new district.

George Hume, the Credit Bureau manager, defined credit as man's willingness to pay his bills based on character capacity and capital, and stated that happily the vast majority of people are responsible and reliable and have made credit the success it has been in this country in the every day operation of business. The Credit Bureau merely lubricates the wheels of credit granting and makes it easy and pleasant for you to say "charge it please."

Anglicans Will Meet in Quebec

STE. ANNE de BELLEVUE, Queb. (CP) — Representatives of Canada's 2,500,000 Anglicans will gather here September 1 for the church's 20th general synod, one of the most important in the Canadian church's history.

Chief item on the nine-day agenda is the election of a new primate but of equal interest to church members is discussion of the complete revision of the Anglican Book of Common Prayer recently finished after 16 years work.

About 350 delegates, both lay and clerical, will attend the synod, being held at Macdonald College in this small community near Montreal under the sponsorship of the Montreal diocese. But only those delegates who are also members of the electoral college will participate in the choosing of the ninth primate.

The man chosen from among Canada's 28 diocesan bishops to be chief spokesman of the country's third-largest denomination will succeed Archbishop W. F. Barfoot, who retired last December after serving from 1951.

Conscience Money

The other day the Ottawa Journal printed a one-sentence letter to the editor. It read: "The Department of Finance acknowledges receipt of the sum of five dollars ($5) 'conscience money' received in an envelope addressed 'Receiver General of Canada, Ottawa, Ontario,' and postmarked Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 12, 5 p.m., 1958." The letter carried the signature of J. S. Sutherland, Department of Finance.

Although we daily glance at the editorial page of the Journal, and frequently cast our eyes over the letters to the editor, this is the first letter of its kind we can recall seeing.

Are we to deduce from this that the Department rarely receives conscience money? If so, the consciences of many Canadians must be as tough as rhinoceros hide. If, on the other hand, conscience money is frequently received, but seldom acknowledged in letters to the Journal, why the different treatment for the $5 received in the letter postmarked Aug. 12, 1959? Has the date any special significance? The only one we can recall is the connection with Derry Day and this is a line of enquiry we do not choose to pursue further. Or perhaps the special significance lay in the Ottawa postmark. Perhaps the letter was addressed to the Journal as the home-town newspaper, rather than as a newspaper published in Canada's capital. One can easily understand that, Ottawa being the seat of government and all that, Ottawa consciences would be particularly tough and the receipt of conscience money from Ottawa citizens would be rare.

If this be the case, though, why is it that Department of Finance officials do not write letters to the editors of the home-town newspapers of other Canadians who pay conscience money? Why do we at The Ontario Intelligencer never receive these touching notes from Mr. Sutherland informing us that a letter postmarked Belleville has brought additional lucre to the government coffers?

We can think of only one explanation—payment of conscience money by Ottawa citizens is so rare that it is, indeed, worthy of a letter to the editor, but citizens of other communities throughout the country are so conscientious about squaring accounts with the government that the task of reporting these contributions is beyond the ability of the Department, which regards the receipt of letters containing conscience money from Belleville, and other centres of similar rectitude, as being a routine matter, unworthy of comment.

The Call of the Wild

The Yukon Travel News Letter has reached our desk. It informs us that: "The first annual meeting of the Yukon Travel Bureau will be held in February, 1960, at which time fourteen directors will be elected to represent all districts throughout the Territory. The duties of the directors will be to set the policies of the Bureau and develop TOURISM in their communities."

The Bureau was formed in the spring of this year. Its directors have already been busy. Listed among their achievements to date are the following:

"The Indian Cemetery at the base of the Two Mile Hill has been made more attractive. The pathway up the slope was widened and covered with crushed granite; the side of the hill was braced with stained logs. An area at the top was cleared and a rope of chain erected around the edge.

"Bumper strips were designed and have been received for all members of the Yukon Travel Bureau to give to their visitors. Decals have also been designed and ordered."

Service is evidently the slogan.

"This is the law of the Yukon and ever she makes it plain
Send me all your free-spenders, send them by car or by plane;
Send me men girt for the combat, with innkeepers, black flies and dust,
Swift as the panther in paying, ready as a babe to trust
Them will I take to my bosom, for them will I cars decorate
Then in winter I'll send my own sons to some sunny southern state."

THE MAN WHO'S BEEN FISHING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

No need to ask where he has been,
It's just as plain as day.
His face is like a sunset scene,
For he has been away;
His brow is blistered, and his nose
Has now begun to peel;
His cheeks are like the red, red rose,
His arms like red hot steel,

The man who's been out fishing, now
Has talcum on his neck;
Cold cream is daubed upon his brow,
His visage is a wreck.
With soothing lotions he is smeared,
He is a sight to see;
He has a four days' growth of beard,
A week of misery.

Oh, toilers in the vineyards who
Can never get away,
Do not bemoan, as many do,
Because you have to stay.
You envy him who fishing goes,
But here's another case;
You do not envy him his nose,
Nor want his blistered face.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE 25—(Conclusion)

The time came when, as publisher of the Deseronto Post and Clerk of the Seventh Division Court, we must bid Deseronto goodbye. We still wonder about that, we still wonder if we did not make the most serious mistake in our life.

The depression was now in its third year, but not through any fault of the depression, no town could have been more afflicted than Deseronto was about that time.

The glass factory had been destroyed by fire. There was to follow a second fire which destroyed most of the business places on George St. The CNR had decided to lift its tracks from Toronto east which would leave Deseronto at the end of a spur line from Napanee. There was talk at that time that No. 2 highway would be built through Marysville to Napanee, thus leaving Deseronto off the main line with consequently little or no main line traffic from east or west.

The federal government which was expected to turn the old Mohawk Camp of the First World War days into a permanent camp, changed its mind and decided to locate east of Trenton.

As we infer to all appearances Deseronto as a town was now over the hill. And with little or no chance of making a comeback.

Though town council, Tyendinaga municipal council, Mohawk Fair, Tyendinaga Telephone system and various other organizations, which had been steady customers of ours for many years would still stand by their paper yet the stores either would not or could not keep the paper alive. While the subscription list remained the same to the very end, there was not sufficient advertising in our final issue to pay for the paper used.

OWNED NO REAL ESTATE

Now we had an exceptionally fine printing plant. It lacked nothing. It was debt free. However, we did not own one foot of Deseronto real estate and perhaps that was what was needed to pin us down. For after all, one can move a printing plant, but no one yet has found a way to move real estate — landed property.

Finally we sold the newspaper and plant to a promising young man—a young man trained in the business. There was every indication that he would make a success of it, for after all he was native born and highly regarded by all who knew him, and that was legion.

By this time and not counting the sacrifice in selling the business plant for less than one-half what it cost us, we made a most surprising discovery, we had money! We had more money than we ever dreamed we possessed. We had in truth been carrying on the business as if we had been advised beforehand by the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain in the United States "that if one wishes to make money in the newspaper he must never try to make money". In other words to give and give and some day it will all come back at compound interest as it were.

And as a sign that we were still needed in town at the municipal nominations a few months before, we had been nominated for every office in the gift of the municipality, and on top of that and because of our careful handling of the division court there was another government office awaiting our acceptance. And lest we forget The Post, through the kindness of the late "Joe" Clark of the Toronto Star and the late "Andy" Davey of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer had become the most quoted weekly in the Dominion, for not a week passed that we didn't see something from The Post in the Toronto and Belleville papers and from there into the papers across country.

Now had we known in time that we had money, possibly enough money to carry the business along until times got better, the chances are that we would have stayed put. But we didn't know until it was too late that we could have done that. It's one of life's ironies never to know one's own capacity until it is too late to put it to proper use.

Our young successor made a heroic attempt to keep The Post going but due to lack of public support he finally gave up and it passed into other hands and finally the plant was moved to Trenton. We might add that not long afterward the plant was sold piece by piece and was scattered across the province. However the mailing list passed into other hands. A district newspaper man opened an office in Deseronto and tried to keep the business going, but that, too, failed and eventually the mailing list passed into the hands of The Napanee Express which changed its name to the Post-Express as a means to show Deseronto people know that this is "their newspaper — above all newspapers.

FINE COMEBACK

However Deseronto is a town of "new blood" now. The town has made a remarkable comeback since the depression years. It remains as yet the only town on the north shore of the Bay of Quinte "on deep water" — water deep enough to float ocean-going vessels. To what purpose such an "inland" port can be used remains to be seen.

Today the town has as many industries as it had in its heyday. It has as many stores, albeit they are much better stores, for merchandising is becoming more and more modernized. It remains clean, today and well managed. While the Napanee paper will no doubt look after the town as well as it may, yet there is the feeling that after all there is no paper like the home town paper. That being the case if we had another "life to live" we know of no better place to spend it for after all the very name "Deseronto" recalls very happy memories to us and the possibility that in leaving it when we did we made a serious mistake.

The End

Canadian PLACE NAMES

ATHABASCA, ALTA.

During the 19th century factors of the Hudson's Bay company were seeking an overland route from the south to the navigable Athabasca river. A site at the most southerly elbow of the Athabasca river was selected as a transportation terminus for regional supplies and a relay point for fur shipments. The H.B. chose the name "Athabasca Landing," using the Cree Indian word meaning "Where There Are Reeds." In 1911, with river traffic having al but disappeared, the second word was dropped from and a charter was taken out under the new name.

Try to Spread Cold Butter

Montreal Gazette

Researchers at the University of Alberta are reported attempting to develop ice-cold butter that will spread easily on fresh bread.

If the project is successful, it will undoubtedly be hailed by those who eat often in restaurants as one of the greatest boons to mankind's eating pleasure since the invention of the knife, fork and spoon. Squares of butter with the consistency of granite are only too common a problem at the present time.

When and if the spreadable pats put in an appearance on public tables, the layman eater will be able to say, like A. A. Milne's king: "It's nice to have a little bit of butter for all of my bread."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS BETTER THAN GOLD

Character cannot be measured in terms of property and possessions. There is more wealth in the human heart than in all the mines of gold, discovered to this date. There are endless things greater, and more marvelous than mere gold. Friends for one. All along the way of life are posted the names of many great men and women who have proved that there are many things that are better than gold. And more beautiful. A baby's smile for example.

Nature bursts with things that are greater than gold and better. The very earth is crowded with undiscovered treasures. There you will discover the greatest laboratory in the world. We are made up from its elements. This nature displays itself in the break of dawn, in the feathery clouds, and in the call of birds. Something is always going on. What miracles we miss — all better than gold.

There is no study more fascinating than natural history. You will have revealed to you great truths that you never before knew. You see wonders all about you. You will be humble and amazed. Time displays its maps and samples. In the blue of the sky you will have the great Creator revealed to you. The stars in the sky, and each sunset will bury its beauty in your heart! How many things are far greater than gold!

Nature asks for nothing but gives its all. Man fumbles most of its revelations. He misses its spiritual quality that contributes so much to his happiness.

Envoys Make A Fast Buck

Milwaukee Journal

In Pakistan, cars of American diplomatic personnel carry licences with the letters "CD" on them — the worldwde symbol for "corps diplomatique".

A Pakistani, bitter over the high living standards of Americans, told us in Karachi that "CD" to him meant "car dealer".

He contended that Americans brought cars into the country under special licence and then sold them upon leaving at more than they had paid for them at home. It wasn't a widespread practice and top officials frowned on it, but it did happen.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PLUS PEOPLE

John Eliot was that missionary to the Indians who three hundred years ago poured out his life in faithful service to bring the teachings of Christ to the original inhabitants of the country.

His success was by no means spectacular. He worked hard, taught much, translated portions of the Scripture into Indian dialects, and lost no opportunity to preach and serve among a subject people. He lived to be a very old man, and on the day of his death taught an Indian boy the alphabet.

What are we to suppose about men like John Eliot and David Livingstone and Father Damian who go forth resigning everything they have and are that they may serve their fellows and bring Christian faith to the hearts of needy people? Must there not be something in the great beyond of special reward for men such as this? Most people are kept busy making a living. It is inevitable that this would be so and there is, of course, nothing wrong about this. Even in the midst of our daily life there are many opportunities for Christian service.

But beyond all this there are some who indeed give all to serve Christ. God gathers them up into His glory, we can be sure of that. Their lives have reached upwards to God and outward to their fellow men.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FEED A BABY FIRST SOLID FOOD IN GRUEL-LIKE FOR...

Young mothers, young mothers-to-be, or any readers who have day-to-day care of young children, will be interested in the following letter.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In regard to babies who won't eat solid foods, I have found in my long lifetime of taking care of babies, that often a young mother does not understand that a baby's tongue rolls forward and pushes the food out automatically.

"I hold the top of the spoon between the lips until they swallow. Also I give the first (solid) food, whether cereal or otherwise, very soft and gruel-like. I can always feed them, and they enjoy it.

"I hope this will help, and feel sure it will. Please do not use my name. — E.S.P."

Of course I won't use your name. I never do — but I'm happy that you followed the customary rule and signed your name. All I use is initials.

I don't know a thing about you except that you have written a highly sensible and understanding letter, and I can't see the slightest reason to differ with what you say.

If you let a baby go on thinking, too long, that all food consists of milk (and perhaps some orange juice, too) you can't blame him for thinking that something is wrong if suddenly some thick, chewy stuff is rammed into his mouth.

But give the first taste of 'solid" food in a well-pulverized form (I guess "gruel-like" is a better term than I can provide, at that!) and the baby begins to swallow, and enjoy, other forms of food.

CHANGE AT SIX MONTHS

The age of six months is a reasonable time to make the change, although I will agree that it often can be started earlier. It also can be postponed a bit if the baby is too conservative about changing his habits.

Modern baby foods, chopped up to a very soft and smooth consistency, are a great convenience.

As to the trick that many babies have of thrusting the tongue forward — well, just watch the way a baby drinks from a bottle!

I receive a great many sound suggestions from readers, and the above letter is one of them. Maybe I didn't have to work very hard to produce today's column — but you'd be surprised how much sound wisdom I can find just by reading my daily flood of mail. Thank you, E.S.P.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, age 12, wets the bed. Will you tell me what to do for it? — Mrs. C.B."

The first step, definitely, is to have your doctor examine him, to see whether some physical condition is at fault. There is no point in seeking other cures unless that possibility is eliminated. After that, I suggest you read my booklet, "Enuresis: Ten Ways to Stop Bed Wetting." To receive it, send 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, asking for the booklet.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is liquor (whiskey, etc.) fattening in itself in spite of the calorie count? In other words, can a person lose weight and still drink cocktails or does liquor have some hidden weight adder? — N.G.W."

I think you're confused over calories and weight. Liquor — any kind of liquor — is high in calories. There isn't any "hidden weight adder." Just because something is liquid doesn't mean that it is low in calories.

Letter To The Editor

Voices Appreciation Of Belleville Fair

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

In tribute to the organizers and the results of their efforts, comprising the Belleville Fair of 1959. I would commend the well-mannered general atmosphere, cleanliness of facilities, fine housing.

The fine specimens of live creatures, the variety and quality of exhibits exemplifying the endeavor entailed.

The fine assortment of amusements and stage show.

The valor and skill of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Ride, defies words to describe.

The special favor of the weather gods smiled on all.

In appreciation,
Theo O'Loughlin,
272 John St., Belleville.

They Made Good Cheese

Windsor Star

Most small cheese factories which once dotted the crossroads of Ontario have disappeared. Often they have just been bought up and closed down by big corporations which are in mass production operations. It's a pity. Some little factories made the finest cheese that ever pleased a palate. It was not the pallid, almost tasteless kind that is now largely purveyed. Rather it was solid, hearty stuff which had substance as well as a tangy taste.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The reason it is cool in the forest is not merely because of the shade from the sun's rays. It is because every tree and every bush in the forest is spraying an invisible fog of water vapor into the air, creating a coolness that shade alone could never produce.

All day and all night long, a tree is busy drawing moisture from the earth and releasing it into the air. Estimates vary as to the amount of water the average apple tree dispenses per twenty four hours, but it is a great many gallons. A woodlot on the farm is a collection of beautiful fountains spraying thousands of gallons into the air. A forest so fills the air with water vapor that teorologists credit our forests with creating vapor that shortly is drawn up into clouds which move elsewhere and drop the rain on forests a hundred or five hundred miles distant. Forests have a profound effect on rainfall. Fertile land is usually found down the prevailing winds of great forest regions.

When we cut off all the trees in the process of clearing and settling a new agricultural territory, there are two reasons why all the creeks go dry in a generation. Not only do the trees no longer delay the runoff of water in the spring, but they are there no longer as living fountains, drawing up water from the depths and spraying it into the parched air.

Legion Loyalty

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

This community is honored this week by the presence of hundreds of Canadian Legion delegates attending the convention of the Ontario command.

Generally speaking, Legion members have one distinguishing feature. They are deeply and even passionately devoted to what they regard as the true interests of their country. In this whole-hearted allegiance, proven on the battlefields of the world, they have a lesson for all Canadians.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

DOWN IN THE VALLEY WITH MY SAVIOUR I WOULD GO

"Down in the valley with my
Saviour. I would go,
Where the flowers are blooming and the sweet waters flow,
Everywhere He leads me I would follow, follow on,
Walking in His footsteps till the crown be won.

"Down in the valley with my
Saviour I would go,
Where the storms are sweeping
and the dark waters flow;
With His hand to lead me I will never, never fear,
Dangers cannot fright me if my Lord is near.

"Down in the valley or upon the mountain steep,
Close beside my Saviour would my soul ever keep;
He will lead me safely in the path that He has trod,
Up to where they gather on the hills of God.

Chorus:

Follow! Follow! I would follow
Jesus!
Anywhere, everywhere, I would follow on!
Follow! Follow! I would follow
Jesus!
Everywhere He leads me I would follow on!

This hymn is one of the brightest gems in the treasury of gospel songs which the Rev. William O. Cushing wrote for America's Sunday Schools and evangelistic meetings.

Some of his hymns, like his popular "Jewel Song", were written nearly 100 years ago. "Follow On" was born in 1878 and, as he later told Dr. Ira D. Sankey, the composer, it was penned "with the prayer and the hope that some heart might by it be led to give up all for Christ" In the years that followed its writing, "Follow On" helped to bring thousands of non-Christians to Jesus, and it became as popular in Sunday Schools as in revivals.

When the Christian Endeavor movement came along, the church youth of America also used "Follow On" enthusiastically and at the middle of a new century it is still in many song books.

A Lift for Living

God Binds World's Peoples

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

During the Second World War an American aviator wrote a letter to his mother in which he said, "From the air the world looks so small and so much one. If I am around when this is over, I hope to have a hand in helping to reconstruct the world. I have a deep and abiding faith that some day the boundaries between nations will be no more than the boundaries between states in our own country."

When that young airman said the world looked small, he was no doubt expressing the feeling of that vast flock of fliers who are getting a bird's-eye view of this old world.

To all these air pilots how small the world must seem, in comparison with the way it looked to me as a boy. To them, crossing the continent or the ocean seems almost less of a journey than a trip to my state capital at Columbus seemed to me as a lad on an Ohio farm. They are familiar with far-away shores which were only dream spots to the youth of my generation.

And in these journeyings ,our modern travellers are weaving webs of association. How often it happens when in a group that we start asking if another person knows so-and-so in such-and-such a place, and before long we have uncovered such a meshwork of mutual acquaintanceship that someone is sure to come forth with the trite remark, "What a small place the world is, after all!"

LIFE'S INVISIBLE LINKS

A company of people is like a clump of forest trees in this regard, that the members, like the trees, seem to be separate, but when you dig below the surface you find their roots intertwined. We are joined by so many of life's invisible links.

There are at least two ways of making the world seem small: not only by travel over it with ever-increasing speed and frequency, but by digging down to the roots of these invisible links and seeing how people are knit together. Hence, let us put alongside the aviator's letter which I quoted, the letter of an aged man who also had seen much of the world of his day.

The distances he had covered would seem trifling to a modern air pilot, but to him as he trudged along on foot or sailed in the little first-century sailing vessels, the distances must have seemed quite considerable.

He had been born in the city of Tarsus in Asia Minor, and after his spiritual experience, came his missionary journeys over the Mediterranean world. Now he was in Rome, a prisoner awaiting trial and probable death.

Paul, as he writes this letter, is viewing the world not from an airplane but from his prison cell. Said the Apostle Paul: "I bow my knees unto the Father of Our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named."

To Paul the world seemed a small place because he belonged to the world-wide and heaven-wide family of God.

During this month of August I have been visiting the lands Saint Paul travelled. I came to Palestine by way of Egypt. To my father, Egypt seemed just about the most distant place in the world. When anything seemed unreachable he was wont to use this expression: "Why, we can no more do that than fly to Egypt." Now we can fly from America to Cairo in less than 24 hours.

MORE THAN TRAVEL

But it is more than the speed of travel which makes the people of the world seem to be getting closer together. I was in these lands of the Near East 34 years ago. Now I note the increasing similarities of dress between the East and the West. And by means of radio and press the citizens of Damascus and Jerusalem are getting the news of the world at the same time we readers in America receive it.

Also business as well as news is linking the world together. Even some 20 years ago a press correspondent visiting the island of Bali saw some native garments in a pawnshop. Times were bad in Bali. The people there were dependent for their livelihood on the export of hogs to Malaya. But Malaya was not buying hogs because that country could not sell its rubber in America. Hence the reporter wrote an article pointing out that because the tire business was bad in Akron, Ohio, the natives in the South Sea Island of Bali were forced to pawn their clothes.

Yet beyond these links of travel and trade and thought there must be the feeling of kinship which comes from membership in the family of God. God made us all "of one blood to dwell together on all the face of the earth."

"In Him there is no East or West, in Him no North or South, but one great fellowship of love, throughout the whole wide earth."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

UNSPOTTED SPOTTED SANDPIPER

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the elderly lady. "Young man, that is no spotted sandpiper. It hasn't a single spot."

But the young man was right.

Like so many song birds, shore birds are hard to identify in autumn because they have changed into quite different looking plumage from what we were accustomed to see them wearing during the early part of the year. In some cases identification is especially difficult because the name by which they are known describes the spring suit. A scarlet tanager with no scarlet visible and a spotted sandpiper with no spots perplex us.

A great many of the shore birds breed north of civilization — though, to be sure, they remain on the nesting grounds little over a month. We see them when they stop over to feed and rest during their migration, and then only if beaches are accessible, with water not too high.

However, the range of the spotted sandpiper is from Newfoundland westward to northern Manitoba, northern Mackenzie, and northwest Alaska, right into the southern states. So we have the pleasure of its company all summer long — if we live where the terrain is suitable for "spotty", and can watch it mincing along the beaches in its characteristic manner which has given it another nickname, "Teeter."

FRESH COSTUMES

Like other shore birds, the spotted sandpiper's young are precocial, able to shift for themselves soon after birth. The parents, thus given a break, may leave home when they wish, clad in fresh costumes, unspotted. They lose their identity when they lose the round, black spots that covered their white underparts from bill to tail, making them unique among shore birds. Now old and young alike are white underneath, and could easily be confused with other species were it not for the white stripe that runs through the wing, which is very noticeable in flight.

Their unusual habits, too, give us clues. The way they walk on a beach, up one side of a log or rock and down the other, forever teetering; the manner in which they flutter across water on swiftly moving, downcurved wings, and return to their starting point; their ability to perch on a small twig like song birds and swim like ducks—all these habits help recognition.

Without such unique habits, stilt sandpipers without evenly barred underparts, red-backed sandpipers without red backs or black tummies, and sanderlings which have changed from red brown to pale grey and white are even more puzzling.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W. I.

The Quinte W. I. was entertained at the home of Mrs. Noble Brown on August 11th, with 45 members, three visitors and the 4-H Club girls.

The president, Mrs. Robert Atkins, welcomed everyone and thanked Mrs. Brown for opening her home.

Business was transacted.

A hearty welcome was given Mrs. M. B. Weese back to the meetings after being absent for seven months owing to an accident. All were also pleased to see Mrs. S. Geddes, of Deseronto, at the meeting. She was a faithful member.

The bus trip to Toronto Fair on September 1st, was discussed and those going are to be at Rawson's bus terminal at 6 p.m.

Mrs. J. Parrott spoke on the christening display for Belleville fair of babies' clothes which the Institute would display.

Mrs. Clifford Reid and Mrs. Jack Parrott took charge of the 4-H Club girls' work, "Cottons may be smart". The girls gave a skit on their dresses, each one showing the dress which she had made. All were lovely and did justice to each girl and her leaders. The girls present were: — Agnes Milne, Mary Clapp, Marlene Mitchell, Donna Ray, Jane Thomson, Mrs. Grant Clarke, Mary Reid, Dongola Zalatoris, with Mrs. Dafoe and Carolyn Baker absent, but their dresses were shown. Eight of the girls were presented with two cups and saucers as they had finished two clubs this year. The other two girls receiving one cup and saucer from the Institute.

The W. I. is proud of the girls. They were chosen at Stirling out of 14 clubs to represent Hastings county at Peterborough Fair on August 12th, for the 3rd time.

An accordion solo was given to Dongola Zalatoris, one of the girls; Mary Clapp and Marlene Mitchell sang a duet, "Did You Stop to Pray this Morning", which was lovely.

Mrs. Brown asked the girls and their leader to bring their dresses outside as she wanted to take their picture.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Parrott for their work as leaders; also to Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Mitchell as leaders for "Clothes Closets up to Date", which they have just finished and are to go to Stirling on the 29th of August.

The September meeting will be held at the Institute Hall.

After the meeting closed, the hostess, Mrs. Brown, and her conveners served a delicious lunch, and a social hour was spent.

Laughter Best Medicine In World for All Peoples

NEW YORK (AP)—Laughter is the best medicine for whatever ails a person, says Gladys Workman, who has been making jokes out of calamities all her life.

A broken back? Merely amusing. Temporary blindness and deafness? Nothing to cry about. A broken leg? Exciting. Cuts bruises, abrasions and fractured bones? Hilarious.

Out in Oregon's Umpqua River Valley Gladys' hearty laughter can be heard all the way up and down the 23-party telephone line, and recently it's been heard by television network coast to coast, following publication of her best-seller Only When I Laugh.

Gladys took to the Oregon woods with her husband, Pappy, when the doctors gave him only a few months to live. If that was the case, said she, he might as well enjoy what life was left, and get in some good fishing and hunting. Now, 12 years later, Pappey is hale and hearty, raising daffodils and eating bear steaks, while Gladys has brought fame to the valley.

PICTURE OF HEALTH

Today, despite all the disasters that have beset her since childhood, Mrs. Workman is the picture of health: tall, vital, white-haired and breezy — and having the time of her life.

"I've got to get back to the Umpqua for our annual barbeque," she said, during a hectic launching visit to New York. "Just before I left I rounded up the elk, bear, venison and salmon we always serve. The girl at the packing house got on the party line and said, 'Gladys needs bear,' and within an hour I had four bear, a dozen elk and offers of all the venison and salmon we could use. It's a great institution, that party line, the dial phone will never replace it."

When the Workmans first arrived on the Umpqua, they lived in an abandoned cabin without windows, door or other facilities until they got things organized. But this didn't stop them from entertaining all their city friends from Los Angeles and environs, who went home with such enthusiastic tales of the hunting and fishing that the Workman cabin became an unplanned tourist mecca overnight.

DOORS NEVER LOCKED

Now, with a fine new house, complete with swimming pool and plenty of "facilities," people come thousands of miles, by car, boat, plane, horse or dogsled to visit the jolly Workmans.

"We never lock the doors at our house," she says. "It's headquarters for anyone who comes through the valley, from loggers to sick bears. We keep a supply of baby's nursing bottles on hand to feed the baby fawns the loggers are always bringing in, when they find them lost in the woods. Sometimes the deer make life difficult when they grow up, they get so fond of us—come in the house and walk on the dining room table, and stuff like that.

"A man stopped by one day to ask directions and stayed two days. When he left I said, 'by the way, who are you?' In reply he gave me an autographed copy of his book, Mr. Blanding Builds his Dream House. Things like that happen all the time — all good for another laugh."

Parish Honors Departing Rector, Family

ROSLIN — On Saturday evening a social time was held in the Anglican Church Hall, Roslin, in honor of the Rev. D. L. and Mrs. Woodward, Leslie and Valerie.

When all had assembled, Mr. Earl Gray called the gathering to order and asked the Rev. A. S. McConnell, of Belleville, to act as chairman for the program.

Miss Margaret Bates favored with several selections on the Micro-organ. Duets by Mrs. Earl Gray and Randy Gray and the Misses Hazel and Ethel Slingerland.

The Woodward family were asked to take seats at the front of the hall.

Mrs. A. Bates read an address and they were presented with a floor lamp and large mirror from members of St. John's, Moneymore and St. Paul's, Roslin, and other friends.

An electric tea kettle from St. Paul's Guild and a magazine table from St. Paul's W.A.

The Sunday School presented Leslie and Valerie with bookends and a bedroom lamp.

In expressing thanks for the beautiful gifts, Mr. Woodward said they would always remember their many friends here, even without the gifts as a reminder.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Mr. Woodward has been rector of the Roslin parish for the last three years and left for his new duties at St. Mary's Church at Powassan, on August 18th.

His new parish consists of six appointments: Powassan, Callendar, Restoule, Nipissing, Trout Creek and Chisholm's.

Mr. Woodward conducted a hardware business in Cannington which had been in the family for three generations before entering the ministry.

The business was sold in 1956, shortly before he came to Roslin, during which time he studied theology at Wycliffe College, Toornto, returning to his parish on weekends.

He was made a deacon on September 21, 1956 at St. George's Church, Kingston, and was ordained to the priesthood on Ascension Day, May 30th, 1957, at Christ Church, Athens.

Along with his wife and two daughters, Leslie 13 and Valerie 10, Mr. Woodward has been a popular rector in this district, and his departure is regretted.

The Grace of Gratitude

By Alma Mason

(THIRD IN A SERIES)

As Jesus and His disciples were on their way to Jerusalem and were nearing the borders of Galilee and Samaria, they approached a village where ten lepers met them at a distance prescribed by law. They called loudly to Jesus—"Master, have mercy on us." Jesus told them to go and show themselves to the priest so they might be legally declared free from leprosy. In order to obey Christ's command, intense faith was needed by the lepers. All ten lepers obeyed Jesus and on the road to the temple found that the leprosy had vanished. The leper band consisted of nine Jews and one despised Samaritan. The Samaritan was the only leper healed who returned to fall at the feet of Jesus and thank Him.

This story found in Luke 17-11 throws a reflection in similarity on many experiences we suffer individually today. Perhaps we work far into the night making a gift for someone. For this we receive no spoken gratitude. Day after day we step aside from the straight line of duty to bestow kindness on a friend—or even a stranger. The recipient of our kindness never says "thank you."

We will find—perhaps—that of ten kindnesses shown ten people, only one person will repay us with gracious gratitude. Such experiences can be saddening and depressing.

It shrinks the soul and hardens the heart to dwell on ingratitude shown us. Pondering the selfishness of others will cause us to become selfish also.

We must not blight our lives and hinder our capacity for kindness because we have suffered lack of appreciation. After all "the cup of cold water" we give should be given in Jesus name and blessed by Him. It matters not if it seems to be unappreciated by our fellows. It brightens and shines up a goodly corner of our own hearts. By blessing others unstintingly and without thought of recompense we are piling up riches in Heaven.

Allowing the thought of ingratitude to rankle and fester will cause us to fold willing busy hands; to shut the heart's door to human need and suffering; to wither the soul with bitterness. Suppose Jesus had stopped healing the lame and the blind because some of those healed seemed to lack appreciation? The Christian faith would never have come into the world had Christ brooded over ingratitude.

The happy heart, the full well-rounded life are only achieved by those who go patiently and kindly along spreading cheer, stooping to help, lifting and leading without worrying about the cost or the payment.

Sometimes lack of gratitude is the fault of the one conferring the favor. There are two things which may excuse another for not appreciating a favor: 1—the way in which the favor is shown. William George Jordan bluntly observed, "The man who makes another feel like an insect reclining on a red hot stove while he is receiving a favor, has no right to expect gratitude; he should feel gratified if he receives forgiveness," and 2—the way in which the one conferring the favor lets the recipient see that it is kept in mind and a return expected.

Kindnesses should be performed at the spontaneous prompting of a warm Christian heart and should be quickly forgotten by he who bestows them. When we are moved to help someone in need that—for us—should be the "end of the chapter." We should close the book of memory and count the price we pay a part of our own gratitude to God for His many blessings.

Let us sanctify each kindly deed with the memory of the one leprous Samaritan who returned to praise God for his return to a full life. The ten kindly deeds we perform in Christ's name will take root in ten hearts and will, in time, blossom and bear fruit whether we receive human thanks or not.

Shakespeare told us "God's goodness has been great to thee! Let neither day nor night unhallow'd pass, but still remember what the Lord hath done."

Let us do our Samaritan duties praising God and blessing each act of kindness with our own gratitude to the Glorious Giver of all Gifts."

• • •

Let humble thankful love for Thee
Flow on, to others full and free;
Nor count the cost nor vainly brood
On heedless man's ingratitude.

But cheer and bless and lift and lead
And shape the hours with kindly deed
So heart and soul will glow and shine
With love akin to love Divine.

Feminine Look Stressed, Extremes Out of Picture

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian women generally will be dressing to please themselves this fall, and the men should be happy too. A survey of fall fashions by The Canadian Press shows the feminine look is stressed, with the more extreme styles almost out of the picture.

A trim, mannish style in suits with a predominance of flaring lines at the shoulder and collar, and hats that parody men's bowlers and derbies, will be seen among the fall offerings of women's clothiers in Canada.

But in dresses the waistline will be natural, skirts full, and shirtwaist dresses are expected to continue in popularity—although the mannish touch will occur here and there.

BROWN FAVORED

Brown seems to be the main color, followed by a variety of smoky, pastel shades.

In shoes, the fashion experts think the needle toe will continue in popularity, but an alternative oval toe is expected to enter the field.

In fashion-conscious Montreal few changes are looked for.

"Women will be extra-feminine for evenings, and quite masculine during daytime," was the opinion of one manufacturer.

Montreal manufacturers will lean heavily on simple styles, straightish lines and a natural waistline often accented by a belt.

SMOKY EFFECTS

Colors in Montreal are led by browns, greens, beiges, greys, and black and white, especially in smoky effects. Materials will have less bulk than last year, and will remain "soft - rough" with a firmer loose-knit. Many tweeds are expected.

For evening dresses, brocades are featured. Dresses will continue ankle - length, or shorter. Coats will follow the neat masculine line of suits.

Toronto fashion experts say fall clothes will be notably "wearabe." The sheath dress is to be popular, but the shirtwaist dresses will also be frequent, skirts generally a few inches below the knee. A lot of costume dresses will feature separate jackets.

The waistline is expected to be natural, and brown seems to be the favorite color. In Toronto sports clothes the "sports - car" influence will be seen in hooded sweaters, jackets and Mexican panchos.

In furs, everything from sealskin to lynx can be expected but mink remains the favorite trim. One Toronto expert thinks silver fox will again enjoy popularity. Black persimmon lamb, red fox and racoon are expected to be widely used.

GOODBYE TO SACK

In the Maritimes, New Brunswick reports the sack and the chemise are definitely gone. Dresses will tend to be straight, with the mannish-tailored trend in evidence, as throughout the country.

Wool will be a favored fabric for dresses and suits, Fredericton reports. Experts there stressed that women will not stick to fashion if the climate makes it impractical.

Pointed toes are expected to continue in popularity in the Atlantic provinces, and hats will stay large, with high crowns and a good deal of draping.

For the Prairies, Regina clothiers expect interest to focus on shoulders and sleeves, with wide necklines and large collars. Muted colors are popular.

DRESSES WITH FUR

Fur-trimmed dresses are also expected to be popular, and coats will have deep lapels, wide sleeves and large collars. For hats, Regina stresses high crowns in brown and green. In shoes, manufacturers expect the oval toe will compete with the needle shape.

Vancouver also expects the mannish, tweedy look in coats and suits. West-coast designers favor slim dresses, featuring many knits in natural colors, and on mannish lines.

Vancouver will follow the trend to brocade in evening dresses with full, feminine skirts. A double - needle toe is expected in shoes. In hats, the west coast will see small pillbox shapes, with back velvet a favorite material.

W.I. Makes Presentation To County Pres.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The August meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at Mountain View United Church in the form of a coffee party in honor of the county president, Mrs. Clifford Barber, who is a member of Mountain View Women's Institute.

At this meeting the members of all Institutes of the county were entertained with about 140 in attendance. After everyone had assembled, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Willet Barber.

A short business session was dealt with.

The president invited Mrs. Clifford Barber (the guest of honor), to take a chair at the front where she was presented with an Institute pin, and an engraved silver spoon from her home Institute, for which she very fittingly replied for the honor bestowed upon her.

The program consisted of each visiting Institute contributing a number. These were all enjoyed.

The ladies were invited to the church basement, where a table covered with white damask and centred with lovely flowers and at each end a silver coffee service; presided over by Mrs. Hall and Mrs. S. Barber. A number of ladies served dainty sandwiches and cakes with coffee.

Average Family Can Now Enjoy Facilities of Las Vegas

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Las Vegas, Nev. — Like mad dogs, Englishmen and other guests, we lay by our hotel pool in the midday sun. In our 115 degree heat-induced stupor the voices floating through the blast furnace air sounded like courtyard conversation at Alcatraz.

"What're you in for?"

"Plenty. I'm going to have to bust out tonight."

"Me too. I'm gonna get even. Gotta get a stake first."

Not being in for anything, we got out 'fore the sun turned us infra red. The cold air mass from Canada which was to send the temperature plunging to 105 this afternoon never materialized, and there isn't much to do at Las Vegas poolsides by day other than count the shades of ash blonde hair going by and make side bets on who will become detached from her bikini on the next forward somersault with an extra half twist.

Summer heat is surprisingly tolerable here because of the dryness. The air drips not with humidity but with cupidity.

Las Vegas is where the king is money and the other face cards are worth 10 points also, where the motels have names like "Pair-o-Dice" and "Lucky," the standard aloha is not "good bye" but "good luck" and the Lucky Cab Company's phone number is 7-11 — naturally.

Our hotel's various lodging buildings are named after race tracks and their architecture bears marked resemblance to clubhouses. Even our room was decorated with a wrought iron divider in a clubs, diamonds, hearts and spades motif — in appropriate ascending order, of course.

Las Vegas benefits from: the greatest geographical accident in the country, a stroke of good luck, as it were. In the only state where all gambling is legal, it is the nearest town of any consequence to the third largest population centre on the continent. It acts like a place that doesn't know quite what hit it.

Where else do lavish resorts in the middle of nowhere exist in fantastic juxtaposition with what is obviously just a large desert town trying to mind its own business, pump gas, put up tourists and go to church, while up the road a piece millions of sporting dollars change hands around th clock?

To the sporting southern Californians who bring most of these dollars, sunshine all year is no novelty, and without gambling ("gaming" is the polite word here) Las Vegas would never have the magnetic appeal that Florida, for example, has for low rates, cribs, babysitters and climate-battered easterners.

But as the headier wines of a prosperous society start to filter down through the income groups, Las Vegas is waking up to its opportunities and making passes, so to speak, at average families and their dollars.

Now interspersed with the plush hotels on the Strip are the motels with their signs asserting playgrounds. Even some of the hotels now have supervised nurseries, and their room rates remain good values ($12 for two is average), though restaurant meals and entertainment hav gone up some.

The $1 bettor is now taken for granted in the casinos, and the $100 chips come out only in the heavy-breathing wee hours of weekend mornings.

Western informality has taken a strong hold too, and slacks and Bermuda shorts usually outnumber ties and high heels in the casinos and restaurants.

About the best luck available here accrues to single people, not including, necessarily, the professionally single. Nowhere do the inhibitions of society break down more gratifyingly than around the tables where the tourist taxes are collected.

Bachelors, interested in profiting from the abundance of pretty girls that gravitate here, frequently throw restraint to the winds along with their prudence and latch onto one in perfumed proximity as a good luck symbol.

And where else can a girl g so quick and revealing a pictu of a prospect's financial status, emotional stability, sagacity and romantic dash in one such simple action as placing a bet?

No wonder there are almost as many marriage chapels as casinos around here.

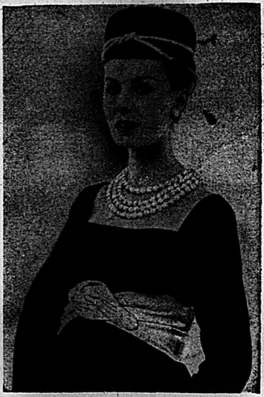
Sashed Sheath



A soft sheath takes on quite another look with the addition of a sash or belt, or better still, a sash-type belt. Leather, soft and pliable as silk, gives a touch of elegance to this costume. Kreisler does this sash belt in soft, willow-green glove leather and gives it an interesting crushed, cross-over closing.

QUESTION: Peady's Chocolate Cake is delicious! Could you at some time print your recipe for 3 layer sponge with lemon filling.

Mrs. E. T.

ANSWER: THREE LAYER SPONGE with Lemon Filling.

5 egg yolks, 5 egg whites, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup fine sugar.

Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored — about 10 minutes, then add lemon rind and juice and continue beating until pale. Beat whites until stiff but dry, then gradually beat sugar into them until they are very stiff. Fold in egg yolks with spatula. Sift together the flour and salt 3 times, and fold into egg mixture about ½ at a time until flour is incorporated. Do not overbeat at this stage. Turn into 3 layer cake tins lined on bottoms with wax paper (or into ungreased tube pane). Bake at 325 deg. F. about 25 minutes or 1 hour for tube cake. Remove from oven, invert pans 1 hour, then coax cakes out. When cold put layers together with Rich Lemon Filling: ¾ cup sugar, 6 tablespoons flour, shaker of salt, ½ cup water, 1 well beaten egg, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler, add water and egg, mixing well. Stir over boiling water 10 minutes or until thick. Remove and add butter and lemon juice and rind. oCol. Sprinkle top of filled sponge layer with icing sugar.

GOOD MANNERS

AN ODD AND UNATTRACTIVE PLAN FOR HOUSEWARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our new house will be finished next month, and we have been thinking about giving a housewarming. Our furniture has been in storage for several months, while the house was being completed, and we thought that it might be a good idea to have the housewarming before we take our furniture out of storage. We could rent as many bridge tables and chairs as we think necessary. We've had various reactions to this plan, from relatives and friends. What would you think about it? — Reader

To me your plan sounds grace less and most unattractive. Cold and bleak, too . . . certainly not house-warming. And I can see no point to your idea . . . since the real idea of a housewarming is to welcome relatives and friends to a new home as ready as possible to be lived in. You have the furniture . . . why not "welcome" it too to its new setting, placing it and arranging it becomingly in your new house before you give the housewarming?

WEDDING INVITATION ENVELOPES SHOULD NOT BE TYPED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for me to type the envelopes of my wedding invitations and announcements? — Bride-to-be

No . . . a great big no Don't even consider this, for it would be in the worst possible taste.! There is a fine tradition for the addressing of these so-important envelopes, and this tradition must be followed. They should be addressed with a good-looking and entirely legible handwriting . . . in black or blue ink . . . and with no abbreviations except necessary ones, like "Mr." and "Mrs."

SHOULD FIANCE'S MOTHER MAKE ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

I have looked through our local newspapers for several weeks but I haven't come across a situation like the one with which I am faced. My son has become engaged, and I am at my wit's end as to how to announce it correctly. My son's father and I were divorced, and we both have remarried. My son goes under his father's name, of course, but my name is now different. Please advise me. — Constant Reader

The reason why you have not found in the newspapers an engagement-announcement made by the engaged man's parents or parent is that correctly the engagement is announced by the parents of the engaged girl. It is not your responsibility or privilege to announce your son's engagement.

If your son's fiancee lives out of town, her parents, when they send the formal announcement of the engagement to their local newspapers, should also send the announcement to the newspapers of your son's city. If they don't do this within a reasonable time, ask your son if he wishes to arrange to have the announcement printed in his local newspapers.

If it is the name-forms that puzzle you, this is the correct form: for example, ". . . to Mr. John Ross, son of Mrs. Arthur Thompson, of this city, and Mr. Robert Alan Ross, of Edmonton, Alberta.

WHO PROPOSES FIRST TOAST TO THE BABY?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband has asked me to ask you this question: After the church christening of our baby, when relatives and friends come to our house for an informal gathering ("the gathering of the clans" my husband calls it!), who proposes the first toast to our new son? I think my husband should, but he thinks the baby's godfather should. Who is right? — New Mother

Your husband is right. The baby's godfather should propose the first toast to your new son. And what a wonderful and memorable toast this can be!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edna R. — It's a laugh to see her with this kid.

Clara J. — He's young, but he has a kind heart.

Edna R. — I am at my wit's end trying to help by 25-year-old sister, who happens to have less sense than a 5-year-old.

At 18 she got involved with a married man and bore a son out of wedlock. She was convinced he was going to marry her and insisted on keeping the child. Well, no such luck! The cad had just had a baby by his wife and had no intention of leaving her.

Now Clara has gotten involved with a kid of 20. This boy is very handsome, but he looks like 17. It's a laugh to see them together. I am taking care of my sister's son until she can make a home for him. But if she marries this guy I know I'll have my nephew back on my hands in no time.

Clara J. — It's all very well for Edna to laugh at my boy friend, but she doesn't realize how rough things are for me.

Several times during the past few years I have gotten serious with men. But when I told them about my son they dropped me like a hot cake. One man said he would marry me if I gave the boy out for adoption. I don't want to do that. I love my son and want to keep him.

When I told Jack about my age and my son, he said it didn't make any difference to him. He loves me anyway and wouldn't make me give up the boy. Jack is young but he has a kind heart. I have spoken to some of my friends and they say five years don't really make much difference when there is love.

The Council: We agree that a five year age gap isn't serious when love is involved, but we think it is important to consider which five years are involved.

At 20, Jack is not of an age to know whether he really wants to marry an older woman with a child. It is easy for him to take these things lightly. He just does not know what they mean.

Clara has a difficult problem and we can understand why she leaps at a possible solution. Unfortunately, easy solutions to difficult problems are rare. In this case we are afraid that no solution is being offered.

When a youth of 20 says that the existence of a 6-year-old child makes "no difference," he just doesn't know what he's talking about. This negative position is not enough. The man Clara marries should have a positive desire to know and love this child and must want to make a home for him. It can make a favorable difference with a man mature enough to understand the responsibility involved and willing nevertheless to undertake it.

Edna's sneering about the relationship is unkind and does her sister no good. It forces her to fight to defend herself rather than to face the real issues. Clara should be encouraged to seek better relationships with men who have a higher sense of purpose in life than those she has met in the past. Her child can be a help to her rather than a hindrance if she remembers that she rance if she remembers that she must maintain high standards for his sake.

PRISONERS STRIKE

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP)—More than 150 prisoners at Mississippi State Penitentiary staged a day-long sitdown strike Thursday over the killing of an escaping prisoner. Governor J. P. Coleman and prison superintendent Bill Harpole put 42 rebellious prisoners in solitary confinement and ordered the others back to work.

Gourmet Says Girls Do Not Learn to Cook

TORONTO (CP)—An expert on gastronomical delights concluded today that most girls in Canada and the United States are being badly brought up in terms of culinary education and that home economics courses in schools are "a joke in most instances."

J. George Frederick, president of the Gourmet Society of America, fired his salvo at the North American woman's kitchen while here to present the society's plaque of approval to Oscar Berceller, a Toronto grill owner.

Mr. Frederick said most North American girls' mothers "shoo them out of the kitchen when they are young. They do not absorb any real cooking knowledge at home and as for the home economics course at school—well, it's a joke in most instances."

The result, he said, is that girls never really come to grips with cooking until they get married with results that can be imagined.

Nurses Being Given Tests For First Time

WINNIPEG (CP) — Intensive personality and aptitude tests are being given for the first time to girls entering the Victoria Hospital School of Nursing here.

The examination for the potential class of nurses starting in September involves tests of 20 girls on psychology, aptitude, reading comprehension and personality traits.

"We have decided on this intensive study before classes begin in September for many specific reasons," said G. B. Rosenfeld, Victoria Hospital director.

"One in particular is that the course is three years, and it's better for a girl to find out as soon as possible whether she is fitted for a nursing career rather than in the last six months of a course."

The tests will give the prospective student a better understanding of her personality, he said.

"These are not tests to eliminate students, but to fit people where they want to go, and compensate for any barriers on the weak side."

WITH THE CUBS AT QUIN-MO-LAC

Tuesday was "Pirates' Day!" We asked Cub Mike Hanley what happened? It would have made things much simpler if we'd asked what ddn't happen. The pirates, suitably dressed, complete with eye shades and armed with cutlasses and bombs (flaw in Kleenex), attacked the pirate ship, enemies from way back. A fearsome crew, led by many Long John Silvers and Cap'n Morgans, bombarded the ship, defended by the leaders who bravely resisted the attack and inflicted many casualties with their water pistols and imprisoned their captives in the ship, but sheer weight of numbers mowed them down. The defeated defenders, covered with flour and soaked with water, an effective combination, were literally thrown into the lake, "miles from land." However, pirates and leaders were fully recovered by supper time.

Penalties, a highlight at Cub camps, are carried out in the dining hall. Bob Townsend and Barrie Simpson had to roll an egg across the floor with their noses. All would have been well if the eggs hadn't broken. Imagination can fill in subsequent details. We wonder if some Cub cracked those eggs?

Cub Edward Abrams was served breakfast at the Akela table because it was his birthday. All the ladies kissed him, much to the discomfiture of Edward and the delight of the Cubs.

GOOD CAMP FIRE

The camp fire put on by Murray Maw and Murray Angus was opened with prayer by Akela Ashley. Following the theme of piracy Murray Maw explained that fires were used for many things. Pirates used them as beacons to lure ships on the rocks and then plunder them. Songs were sung that are popular with Cubs, "The Grand Old Duke of York", "My Bonnie", "Hold Them Down, You Swazi Warriors," and "Home on the Range," all action songs. O.K. for Cubs but not so good for people with creaky joints.

A clever skit was presented by Murray Maw and his Cubs. Murray was a reporter from The Ontario Intelligencer and got into all sorts of trouble interviewing the pirates on their sloop—"vegetable sloop." Talent at this camp fire was remarkably good. If this is a sample of the closing camp fire it promises to be a good show. Parents and friends are invited to this camp fire on Friday, the 21st, at 7.30 p.m. May we again remind visitors not to show up at camp before 7.00 p.m. Please!

As an extra treat the Coca-Cola people supplied free cokes and showed a very good picture, entitled "Africa's Big Game"—a wonderful wild animal picture.

Our thanks to Coca-Cola for this and their many other gifts to Scouting.

And so ended a typical day in our Cub camp. Tired, happy Cubs didn't need any bedtime stories on "Pirates' Day."

CUBS WORK TOO

It is not all fun at the camp. Following is a list of Cubs who have qualified for swimmers' badges. Many other badges were won. Cubs work hard and play hard: We will, if possible, list the badge winners when names are received.

The swimmers are:

Paul Hunter, Mike Helinski, Charles Joyce, Norman Gerow, John Balyx, Ron Dickens, David Sultz, Randy Courneya, Ronnie Hannah, Mike Sharland, Larry McGee, David Muir, Tommy Johnson, Brian Rodgers, David Lucas, Wayne Sager, David Martin, Jim McKenzie, George Leverton, Gerald Bower, Ian Clark, Frank Woodcock, Steven Glendenan, Gary Walt, Scott McClelland, Alan O'Hara, Doug Harris, John McPhee, Jim McCreary and Terry Collins.

While talking to camp visitors, District Commissioner Phil Allcorn, Mrs. Allcorn, John Townsend and Mrs. Townsend, we spotted Jack Harris who has double duties, cabin leader and looks after the canteen and doing a good job of both. Jack was carrying a pail, which on closer inspection was found to have no bottom. No doubt a throwback to Jack's navy days, but we don't think it will fool his Cubs.

The D.C. informed us that CM Elsie Elliott and DSM Bob Williamson have passed the second part of the Wood Badge. Our congratulations.

Engine Tonics Contribute to Car Health

ENGINE VITAMINS

By EUGENE MILMOE

Many questions have been asked about the chemical products said to aid sluggish engine performance. There are several widely sold and approved brand lines.

No cure-alls or miracles are claimed, but they can be classified as engine tonics which help smooth, quiet, clean or cushion engine parts. Undoubtedly, they can contribute to car health.

One of these products, poured into the gas tank (or through the carburetor air horn) can free sticky rings and valves and also act as a carburetor and spark plug cleaner. Another is used in crankcase oil to promote better lubrication. This type of product (formulated with rust and corrosion inhibitors), effectively aids in both cleaning and cushioning vital parts.

For automatic transmissions, there are additives available which are recommended for maintaining smooth, quiet and trouble-free operation.

• • •

From E. H.: "At certain speeds, I can hear a rattle from my engine, but there never seems to be any noise when it is just idling."

(A) Check the carburetor air cleaner. If it's a bit loose, engine vibration can start it rattling.

M. B. writes: "You say a battery needs more water in summer, yet I've been told not to fill the battery too much in hot weather."

(A) Heat causes battery water to evaporate more readily in summer, thus, cells need refilling more often. However, too much water, e.g., overfilling the cells, causes bubbling over, resulting in electrolyte loss and corrosion on case, clamps and cables.

• • •

J. G. asks: "Is it true that it is unwise to pull the hand brake too tightly when parking on a hot day?"

(A) This applies to parking a car on a hot day after it has been subjected to severe driving and braking. Setting the parking brake too tightly can damage overheated brake drums.

• • •

From R. P.: "If I park my car after driving for a while, I often have difficulty getting it started again. This trouble is accompanied by a strong gasoline smell."

(A) A faulty automatic choke is very frequently to blame in such cases.

JUVENILE TABBIES

For the ball fans who like them young and fast, Monday night's attraction at the CNRA Park diamond should be right up their alley.

The Juvenile Bobcats will be making their initial start in the OASA Juvenile "A" playdowns against a Kingston representative at 6.15 p.m.

The Juveniles, formed only this season, participated in the City Commercial League and were one of the more colorful teams in the grouping. They showed great promise, although running hot and cold most of the season against more experienced opposition, and are now ready to make their bid for a provincial title.

The club, as the name implies, is sponsored by Bob Temple, sort of a replica of the Bobcat seniors. Temple has Frank Cris coaching the team with help from Russ Soule. After a good deal of work and effort the pair have smoothed out the wrinkles and are confident the boys will make a strong showing in the playdowns.

The club is strong in the batting and fielding departments. Pitching was the major problem during the schedule but with the addition of Doug Ellis, a Point Anne comer, this problem should be solved.

Along with Ellis, Chris has Sonny Holoway and Lorne Fitzpatrick to share the mound duties. Holoway will likely get the starting nod in Monday's game here. This trio has a strong receiver in Dick Clapp, also one of the club's better hitters.

The infield has Gary Duggan at first and brother Bob at third, Bucky Ethier on second and "Pug" Kellar at shortstop. Billy "The Kid" McGuire also plays short and fills a pinch-hitting role.

Stu Muirhead is the club's home run slugger and patrols the outfield along with Jerry St. Denis, Doug Moreau, Pete Weston, Paul Zakos and Joe Robitaille.

All in all these Juvenile Tabbies are a hustling young ball club. Why not catch Monday's game and sse for yourself?

PETERBOROUGH VS ? ? ? ?

According to the OASA bulletin recently received here, a team from Belleville is scheduled to travel to Peterborough for an Intermediate "A" playdown game on Wednesday, August 26th.

There is nothing alarming in this bit of information. But what we would like to know is which team will it be? After all, August 26 is just four short days away.

Most people are taking it for granted that the Bobcats are the double "A" representatives. 'Tis not necessarily so, my friend. Besides the Bobcats, Sports Centre of the Commercial League and the Trenton Garretts have also filed entries.

Only one can represent this district when it comes time to meet Peterborough. Bobcats and Trenton are now engaged in their league finals but this has nothing to do with the OASA. And on top of this the Sports Centre club is definitely still in the running.

It would seem to us that the matter should have been settled long ago. There has been time for at least two of the teams to play, which would leave only one more elimination necessary. But the time is here now and there is no point in crying over spilled milk.

OASA Vice-president Don Lee said yesterday morning that he is contacting the OASA to try and arrange for the series with Peterborough to be set back a bit. But there is no guarantee of this postponement, which would allow time for a couple of short elimination series here.

If Peterborough or Toronto try to push the matter, you will see some wild scrambling to have a local representative ready, certainly not by Wednesday, but shortly after.

'Rifle' Sam Gives Als Win, Argos Fumble To Loss

Three Quick-Scoring Plays Put Montreal in Driver's Seat; Toronto Game Rough, Tough

..By THE CANADIAN PRESS..

For explosive scoring power, Montreal Alouettes still reign as kings of the Big Four. What other club can wrap up a football game in a minute and a half?

It took just that long—well, 95 seconds to be exact—for the Als to tally all the points they needed Friday night to whip Ottawa Rough Riders, although they added three singles later to run the score to 23-8.

The victory in the second round of the young season settled Montreal into a second-place tie with Toronto Argonauts. The Argos lost 16-7 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats—partly through penalties and fumbles.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

Pre-game talk of record attendances turned out to be only 50 per cent correct. Toronto managed it with 27,554 to eclipse the mark of 26,811 set last year.

Montreal, hoping to beat its top of 24,133, had to settle for 22,813 at Molson Stadium.

Those who stayed away missed a fine demonstration of the havoc old pro Sam Etcheverry can wreak with his passing arm.

After almost 12 scoreless minutes, the Montreal quarterback tossed a long one to Bill Glosson for a touchdown. Ottawa took the kickoff, had to punt, and Etcheverry promptly connected from the Ottawa 38 with the speeding Hal Patterson in the end zone for another.

SCORES FROM 47

Ottawa stalled again, Montreal took possession and Bavlor halfback Joel Wells scopted away back Joel Wells scooted away line with an Etcheverry pitchout.

Bill Bewley converted two touchdowns. He kicked two singles and Etcheverry one to round out the Montreal scoring.

Ottawa finally got into the touchdown picture in the fourth quarter when quarterback Frank Tripucka passed 18 yards to Bobby Simpson after a long march. Mack Yoho converted. The other point came from Gerry Nesbitt's single in the third quarter.

It was the second straight loss for the Riders, who dropped a 21-20 decision to Toronto Tuesday while the Ticats launched a defence of their Big Four championship by beating Montreal 22-16.

BIG GROUND GAINS

The Als' ground attack chewed out 225 yards to go with 249 through the air. Ottawa had 478 yards passing and only 50 rushing. First downs were 21-18 in Ottawa's favor. Tripucka was 22 for 46 in passing. Etcheverry 15 for 26.

Things were rough and tough at Toronto, where Hamilton lost 95 yards on penalties and the Argos 72.

It was a tight game until the last minute when Ticat quarterback Bernie Faloney raced across on a third-down plunge for a touchdown. He threw a 22-yard pass to Paul Dekker for the other touchdown in the second quarter. Steve Oneschuk converted both and picked up a single on a field goal attempt. Punter Cam Fraser kicked the other point.

Toronto's only scoring came on Wray Carlton's first-quarter single and a touchdown in the second quarter on a neat 27-yard pass from quarterback Ronnie Knox to Boyd Carter.

LOSE TOUCHDOWN

Carlton lost a touchdown when he let a Knox pass get away from him as he was tackled in the end zone. A Cookie Gilchrist field goal was wiped out when Toronto linebacker Ron Brewer was thrown off the field for roughing.

Hamilton rushed 189 yards and passed 213 for 22 first downs. Toronto counted 15 first downs on 203 yards through the air and a meagre 55 on the ground. Faloney completed 13 of 25 passes, Knox 15 of 26.

Suds Get Salty

Things Ain't All Beer, Pretzels In Home of Milwaukee Braves

By DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Well, Momma, I guess I got to tell you. Things ain't all beer and pretzels here in the land of the free and the home of the Braves. I wouldn't want to say everybody is crying in the beer, but along about the eighth inning lately the suds gets pretty salty and ain't quite so full bodied.

Don't count us out, though, Momma. The faithful has got up a saying to go with the tough times.

"With Spahn and Burdette," the saying is, "we'll win it yet, already."

There is some other sayings too. One of them that I can tell you is something about that Bill Rigney slowly choking to death on bratwurst. Willie McCovey and some of them other San Franciscos is welcome to join in. They talk about our attendance falling off a little, Momma from the faithful maybe drowning themselves along with their sorrows. To see Rigney turn blue you could fill the ballyard on the banks of the Menomonee at 6 a.m. Monday morning.

Anyway this Spahn and Burdette saying is pretty confident talk, especially the way old Wener Spahn — that's the way we call it up on Villard Ave., Momma — throws at them Giants Thursday night. The baseballs was falling out in the outfield from them 15 hits until you didn't know whether you was at County Stadium or maybe Schultz's driving range was renting the outfield.

But don't forget, Momma, old Werner was working with one day's rest, and this is the first time in five rousing attempts this year they have pried him out of the W column. With this average and the help of maybe a timely tornado or two to fill out the rotation, Momma, we could start counting the world series money.

S. Lewis Burdette, Momma is one ahead of old Werner already with 17 games in the bank. That is pretty near a month ahead of last year, when it was September the 12th that Old Lew notched No. 17. Together they got 33 put away, Momma, which is two more than all the rest of the Milwaukees' best has been able to do among them.

And they're very healthy, Momma. Like you remember from October, 1957. They get healthy when everybody else is dying, especially the Yankees.

Speaking of the Yankees, Momma, if anything that I couldn't bear to mention should happen, it's probly the fault of them New Yorks at the bottom of it. The cowards couldn't stand another autumn like last autumn and somehow that kind of took the schmaltz out of the prospects.

You know how tenderhearted we are here, Momma. Beating the White Sox in the series wouldn't be like beating the Yankees.

After all Momma, you brought us up to be nice to the folks from the suburbs.

Young Von Clay Stops Ray in Fifth Round

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Young Von Clay completed his rapid rise to the top ranks of the light-heavyweights Friday night with a technical knockout of fourth-ranked Sony Ray in 56 seconds of the fifth round.

Clay, a 20-year-old Philadelphian with only 11 pro fights under his belt, sent Ray down for a count of eight in the fourth round with a left uppercut. In the next round he was rocking Ray with left and right jabs and hooks when referee Zack Clayton stopped the televised bout scheduled for 10 rounds.

Clay weighed 170, and Ray, 172½.

Clay's record now is 10 wins, eight by knockouts or technical knockouts, and one draw. He earned a shot at Ray with a surprising six-round knockout of veteran Clarence Hinant. Ray now is 19-8-5.

Clay's manager, Anthony Graziano, immediately announced his fighter would like to meet Archie Moore. Meanwhile an offer is being made to Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Ane, N.B., who lost to Moore in a title bout this week.

"We're guaranteeing Durelle $10,000 to fight Clay on Oct. 9 in Philadelphia," anounced promoter Herman Taylor and matchmaker Pete Moran.

Heavy Rains Wash Out Final Games in Tennis

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Barring bad weather and acts of God, the men's and women's semi-finals of the Ontario international tennis tournaments will hit the courts today.

Three semi-finals were postponed Friday when heavy rains washed out the Boulevard Club's clay courts. Two men's doubles quarter-finals were run off on the Toronto Tennis Club's safe en-tout-cas courts.

In today's men's events two Cuban brothers, Reynaldo and Orlando Garrido, seeded first and second, face California circuit star Whitney Reed and Canada's Don Fontana, tournament defending champ.

ORLANDO FAVORED

Reynaldo plays Fontana and Orlando faces Reed. Orlando, favored to win the event, was runner up to his brother in Quebec City's Canadian Open championships two weeks ago.

In the women's singles Australia's Marie Martin, 36-year-old ex-professional on her first global tour, faces third-ranking Canadian player Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto. Two western girls, Susan Butt of Victoria and Vancouver's Anne Barclay play in the other match.

Finals in the eight-day tournament will be played Sunday.

In Friday's doubles play, Reynaldo Garrido teamed with Toronto's Don Platt to whip Jim Bentley and Frank Mott-Trille, both of Toronto, 6-1, 6-2.

JUNIORS IN CLOSE MATCH

Toronto juniors, Harry Fauquier, 16, new Canadian junior champion, and Don Curtis, 18, put up a stiff fight before losing 6-3, 7-5 to Orlando Garrido and Eduardo Zuleta of Ecuador.

Senior doubles play, for men 45 and over, saw the 59-year-old Speaker of the House of Commons, Roland Michener of Toronto, pair off with broker Bert Lindsay.

Mr. Michener and partner failed to control the court and went down 6-1, 6-1 before the superior strokes of Toronto's John Bonus and Hank Norrington.

Mr. Michener said the last time he played tournament tennis was with Mike Pearson in Ottawa in 1926 when they were both at University of Toronto's Victoria College.

Said the Speaker after the match: "Those two games we won were momentous moments, Bert."

'Speed Golf' Course Proposed At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three veteran Idianapolis golfers are going to fix up a course so a man can get off work at 4:30 p.m. and play 18 holes before dark.

The city park board, fired by the enthusiasm of vice-president Russell Stonehouse, a former golf pro, and Mayor Charley Boswell, an avid amateur, has authorized construction of a "speed golf" course.

William Diddel, noted golf architect, will draw up the detailed plans.

The basic design is six fan-shaped fairways, each with a single tee and three holes. Reading from left to right, the holes in each set will be par 3, par 4 and par 4 or 5.

Each player will hit three balls before leaving a tee. He will hole out on the short hole, then hit his second shots on the next two. He will hole out on the second, then complete the third.

Stonehouse says it will be necessary of course, to use specially marked balls. He figures the 18 holes can be played easily in 2½ hours.

"Golfers are getting tired spending an entire day to play 18 holes," Mayor Boswell said. "This is the answer to this problem."

The design will include numerous sand traps but no roughs.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—A sparkling comeback victory and something of a record for "bad luck" were featured before a crowd of 5,888 Friday.

The combeack triumph was that of Billiards, a five-year-old horse that Toronto owner J. L. Appelbaum claimed in Florida last winter for $10,000. Under jockey Sam Cosentino, the son of the mighty Nasrullah drove to the wire three lengths ahead of Culpeper and Calais II, coupled as the Lanson Farms entry.

Billiards, as it developed, was part of the bad luck story of jockey Armando Viola. The 24-year-old Italian-born rider was to have ridden Billiards but in the fifth race he was spilled off Notamark three-eighths of a mile from the finish of the race and broke his left wrist.

Viola's bad luck started earlier. In the second race he was on Dacon and that horse broke down so badly about an eighth of a mile from the finish that he had to be destroyed later.

Undaunted, Viola got up on Pink Vat in the third. This horse jumped in the air at the start of the race and Viola, thinking he had hurt himself in the jump, pulled the colt up after about a quarter of a mile.

Viola had three mounts and failed to finish a race with any one of them.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP)—It's been a long time between wins lately for Jiggs McFadden but the redhead from Dresden came up with a big one at Old Woodbine Friday night.

Stormy Volo, four-year-old pacer owned by Mrs. Al Leverington of St. Thomas, tripped up a field of class A and B pacers to win the $1,800 featured eighth race.

It was the second win in two weeks for McFadden, who took a long lead for driving honors by scoring 23 wins in the meeting's first six weeks then suddenly fell into a slump. Friday night's win was his 25th and gave him a lead of one over Cecil Coke.

McFadden brought Stormy Volo down in 2:03.3 and was sufficient to head off Argyel Tommy, owned and driven by Dunc Campbell, and Fast Traffic, owned by the Double C stable of Montreal and driven by Pete Miller.

The nine-year-old trotter Ben Boy won the evening's secondary feature, a B and C trot for $1,200 with his second victory of the meeting.

Marlene Streit Draws Toughie In First Round

Mrs. Streit won the U.S. title in 1956 and earlier this month captured the Canadian Open for a record sixth time. She won the British women's amateur in 1953.

There are 14 entries from Canada and two from England among the 128 who will compete in the 59th women's amateur which runs from Monday through Saturday at Congressional Country Club.

Defending champion is Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash.

Both Hutton and Dunlop Got What They Deserved

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Maybe Dick Hutton has never heard the phrase "Don't bite the hand that feeds you," or the other one that goes "Never look a gift horse in the mouth."

In any case, Mr. Hutton punched the gift horse in the mouth last night and it cost him his chance at the world heavyweight wrestling crown, at Memorial Arena.

The gift horse, of course, was Al "Bunny" Dunlop. It was his mouth that got the punch, it was Hutton that threw the punch and received a disqualification for his efforts. The crowd felt both deserved exactly what they got.

When it was all over Pat O'Connor still reigned as world champion.

Dunlop was the third man in the ring during the evening's three bouts and he made himself very unpopular from the very beginning. It must have been villain's night, at least until Hutton changed the pattern, for Dunlop never gave the "good guys" a decent call all night.

In the main bout, Hutton and O'Connor had divided the first two falls. Hutton, the challenger, came out for blood in the third, threw a couple of punches at O'Connor and found that the champ was better than himself when it came to that department.

But Dunlop was having none of that and quickly warned Pat that such vulgar tactics must come to an end immediately. Hutton worked on O'Connor and actually had his finisher, the abdominal stretch, on at one point but the chimp wiggled loose.

TRIED FEW KNEES

Dick tried a few knees in the stomach and a few more punches and had O'Connor in rough shape in a corner after a couple of minutes of action. But, much to Hutton's surprise, Bunny asked him to back off. The shock of having his buddy turn on him was too much for Hutton. He threw Dunlop to the canvas and when he bounced up, Dick threw the fatal punch. Bunny suddenly decided that the 100 degree temperature under the lights was a little overbearing, raised O'Connor's hand in victory and departed the scene.

Hutton copped the first fall in 11 minutes. He hammered his fist under O'Connor's ear, while the referee watched, until Pat was groggy. The abdominal stretch finished it.

The popular Patrick took just three minutes to even the score, winding it up by taking Dick off the ropes into a reverse shoulder press, before Dunlop could intervene to save Hutton's skin.

GOT ROUGH DEAL

Don Jardine got a rough deal in the first bout on the card. He managed a draw with Tiger Tasker, despite Dunlop, only to have the official knee him in the stomach and kick the bejabbers out of him when it was all over. The crowd charged the ring after Bunny's hide until a police officer broke things up.

Big Don Leo Jonthan lost all the fan's favor in the semifinal with Mike Valentino. Jonathan gave Valentino a brutal beating, stringing him up in the corner ropes and going to work with the knee, then dropping his full 290 pounds on the beaten but game opponent from the top rope. He got the official nod in ten minutes but went back to work on the unconscious Valentino before leaving the ring.

A small crowd braved the heat to take in the night's activity.

Jack Harshman Is Indians' Crutch in Pennant Drive; Antonelli May Win 20 Games

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Jack Harshman, unable to hold jobs with two clubs because he couldn't win, now is Cleveland's surprise crutch, giving the Indians the left-handed pitching Herb Score was supposed to deliver in their run for the American League pennant.

Harshman's the veteran whose bad back led to a "damaged goods" squawk by Baltimore after a 1957 winter deal with the Chicago White Sox. But he stuck with the Orioles and won 12 last year, three of them shutouts.

This season, his back still corseted, Harshman was 0-6 and the Birds traded him to Boston for Billy Hoeft. He won two for the Red Sox, then lost three and they sold him to second-place Cleveland.

TWO WINS, NO LOSSES

Now, with Cleveland scrambling to catch the White Sox, Harshman suddenly has won two, saved one and lost none—figuring in half the Indians' six victories in their last 11 games. His season record is 4-9.

The big southpaw, 32, won his second Friday night, blanking Baltimore on three singles for a 5-0 decision that gave the Injuns a three-game streak and left them within 2½ games of Chicago.

The White Sox cut their slump at two, coming from behind for a 5-4 edge over Washington as reliever Gerry Staley won his sixth in a row.

New York belted Kansas City 9-7, and Detroit beat Boston 2-0 on Paul Foytack's four-hitter and Al Kaline's two-run homer.

FINALLY BEAT BROWN

The Indians, rebounding from a four-game skid, beat Skinny Brown (8-7) for the first time in six decisions over two years with a four-run first inning.

The White Sox scored two unearned runs in the first, then had to come from behind after the Senators chased Dick Donovan with two in the sixth for a 3-2 edge. Johnny Romano's two-run pinch single got back the lead for Staley (7-3) in the sixth. Chuck Stobbs (1-7) was the loser.

The Yankees blew 2-0 and 5-3 leads and finally needed Ryne Duren's save after the A's scored one in the ninth. With one out and the bases loaded, Duren struck out Joe Demaestri and got Roger Maris on a foul.

Duke Maas (12-6) was the winner while Rip Coleman (2-10) lost it in relief.

It's been an odd season of success for Johnny Antonelli, San Francisco's lefty ace who was upset by "lousy fly balls," and who can't beat Milwaukee, yet is closing in on 20 victories for the first time in three years.

Since losing two in a row three weeks ago (beaten he said by those fly balls that went for homers in the Giants' windy home park), Antonelli has won three of four decisions while San Francisco has jumped into the National League lead.

The southpaw veteran, who helped the Giants to a pennant with 21 victories in 1954 and won 20 in 1956, tied Milwaukee's Lew Burdette for the major league lead with his 17th victory Friday night. He did it with an eight-hitter that put the opener away as San Francisco moved 2½ games ahead with a 6-0 and 10-6 twi-night doubleheader sweep at Philadelphia.

Second-place Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 6-5, but the third-place Braves fell five games behind when their game with the Chicago Cubs was rained out. Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 2-1.

Antonelli, (17-7) tops in the majors with six shutouts in '54, tied Milwaukee's Warren Spahn for the National League lead with his fourth. He also swatted his first 1959 home run.

Young Mike McCormick (11-10) clipped the Phils a fifth time without defeat in the second game. He allowed only three hits, one Wally Post's 18th homer, but needed Stu Miller's relief in the seventh.

The Dodgers came from behind with four runs in the seventh against Ronnie Kline (8-12), then scored the clincher in the ninth when the Bucs missed a doubleplay on a bases-loaded grounder by pinch-hitter Carl Furillo. Rookie Ron Fairly's fourth homer gave Los Angeles its first run in the fifth after the Pirates had taken a 2-0 lead. Lefthander Johnny Podres (11-7) won it.

The Braves, jolted earlier in the day with news that Wes Covington is lost for the season because of an ankle injury, were trailing 1-0 to the Cubs when the rain came in the third inning.

Reds' rookie Jay Hook (3-3) gave up a first-inning homer by Joe Cunningham, then blanked the Cards the rest of the way on four hits. He also singled and scored the winning run.

Buffalo Bisons Retain Long Lead in Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees, looking around for help with an intensity unmatched in the last 20 years, may have a couple of potential assists coming up in lefthander Billy Short and outfielder Deron Johnson of Richmond Virginians.

The farmhand pair combined talents Friday night in the Virginians' 3-1 International League victory over Miami.

Short, a 21-year-old prospect, fired a six-hitter and wound up with his 15th victory in 20 decisions when Johnson, a 20-year-old slugger, hammered a two-run homer to break a 1-1 tie in the eighth.

Buffalo held its 7½-game league lead while beating Rochester 5-1, Al Jackson's seven-hitter stopped Havana for Columbus, 6-0, and Rene Valdes also came up with a shutout, scattering seven hits in Montreal's 4-0 triumph over Toronto.

Johnson's homer came off veteran Harry Byrd after Jack Reed had beaten out a bunt. Johnson now has 77 RBIs.

BISONS COAST IN

Warren Hacker and Max Surkont combined on a six-hitter for Buffalo and coasted behind a 10-hit attack that included home runs by Don Landrum and Bill Taylor.

Columbus pulled a game ahead of Havana in the race for second place as Jackson fattened his record to 13-3.

Valdes, now 8-8, had all he needed when Angel Scull, Curt Roberts and Sandy Amoros opened the game with hits counting two runs.

STAMPS DROP ABBRUZZI

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders halfback Pat Abbruzzi has been placed on waivers, general manager Jim Finks announced Friday.

Abbruzzi came to the Western Interprovincial Football Union club earlier this year from Montreal Alouettes in exchange for Veryl Switzer and a draft choice. If he isn't picked up by another club within the 48-hour waiver time limit, he will then be given his outright release.

Abbruzzi, 27, played four seasons with Montreal of the Big Four. Previously he played college ball at Rhode Island University.

Guy Austin's Eighth-Inning Homer Gives Trenton 5-4 Win Over 'Cats

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Guy Austin's two-run homer in the top of the eighth gave the Trenton Garretts a 5-4 victory over the Bobcats before a packed house at CNRA Park last night. The game was halted because of darkness after eight innings.

The "must" win for Trenton places them back in the thick of the fight for the B. and D. softball championship, although they still trail the four-of-seven set two games to one. The fourth game is in Trenton Monday night at 8.15 with the fifth back at CNR Wednesday at six o'clock.

Last night's tilt was by far the best game of the series with Austin sharing the starring role with twiller Howie Cole. Cole turned in a top mound performance, holding the 'Cats down until Austin's homer, and also had two hits.

A one-out walk to Defosse put the tying run on base in the eighth. Smith lined out but Austin, who had been robbed of a homer an inning earlier by Faulkner's great running catch, lined the ball over Hughes head in left field for the 5-4 Trenton lead.

STEALS HOME

Belleville had snapped a 3-3 tie the inning before when only Cole's fine clutch hurling had prevented them from opening a wider lead. Lamirande doubled, Smrke beat out a perfect bunt and Hughes walked to fill the sacks with none out. Cole bore down to fan Crawford with another of his teasing changeups. Brown hit into a force play for the second out but Lou Smrke made a daring steal of home before Cole fanned Faulkner to end the threat.

Cole pitched five-hit ball over the distance and never used his slow ball to better advantage. He nipped ten of the 'Cats on third strikes and walked four.

Bobby Hull toed the rubber for Temple's crew, giving up eight hits. He appeared slower than usual, whiffing three and walking but two.

Trenton took a 2-0 lead back in the initial frame. Drake reached first on an infield safety; took second on a passed ball and third on Howie Cole's base knock to centre. One man was cut down at the plate but a hit batter, an error and a passed ball plated two runs.

BOBCATS TAKE LEAD

Bobcats got one back in their half of the inning when "Wiener" Brown hit a double and Hull lined a bullet back throught the box to plate the runner. They took a 3-2 lead in the third with two out. Faulkner walked and raced all the way home on Hull's double to left. A passed ball and wild pitch plated Hull to give his club the lead.

The Garretts tied it at 3-3 in the first of the seventh. Howie Cole rapped a two-bagger, took third on a passed ball and scored on Billy Mitts' single to right field. Alexander followed with a double, but both died on base as Hull whiffed Donnie Cole.

Howie Cole with a double and single, Billy Mitts with the same and Roger Drake with two singles led Trenton's attack. Austin had his game-winning homer, while Doug Alexander doubled.

Bobby Hull was the only Bobcat with two hits, a double and single. "Wiener" Brown and Jean-Paul Lamirande also had doubles and Lou Smrke a single.

The line-ups:

Trenton—Austin 3b; Drake 1b; H. Cole p; Mitts lf; Alexander ss; D. Cole cf; Burns c; R. Defosse rf; Smith 2b.

Bobcats—Crawford 2b; Brown ss; Faulkner cf; Hull p; Hayden 1b; Cousins c; Lamirande 3b; Smrke rf; Hughes lf.

Umpires—Mike Whalen (p), Bill Hurst and Al Kelleher. Time: 1.35.

Confident Johnston, Nervous Cowan to Meet in Finals

VANCOUVER (CP)—A confident John Johnston of Vancouver and a nervous Gary Cowan of Kitchener, meet today in the 36-hole final of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Johnston, 33, his putter almost like a magic wand and firing his first hole-in-one ever, eliminated favored Bob Kidd, a clubmate from Vancouver Marine Drive, 6 and 5, in the semi-finals Friday.

Cowan, continuing a string of sub-par rounds, blasted Ron Willey, 23-year-old 1959 B.C. and Pacific Northwest champion, 8 and 7.

Johnston was almost unbeatable, especially on the green. Each time Kidd began to press, Johnston pulled off a sensational shot.

HOLE IN ONE

When Kidd threatened at the start of the second 18 holes, Johnston stopped him with the ace on the 24th hole. Using a No. 4 wood his tee shot dropped 12 feet in front of the stick on the elevated green 215 yards away, flattened out and rolled in.

It was the first ace in the amateur since 1946 when Henry Martell of Edmonton had one against Ken Black of Vancouver. Martell also went on to win 6 and 5.

Cowan, having trouble getting by Willey in the early holes, used a bit of strategy to upset the B.C. champion. Down one at the 11th, Willey conceded Cowan a one-foot putt. However, Cowan asked Willey to play his one-footer and Willey missed.

From there it was all Cowan. The Ontario shotmaker was two up after 18 and salted away the victory in the afternoon round, winning eight of the 11 holes.

NEVER RECOVERED

Willey, shaken by his 11th-hole miss, never threatened the 21-year-old golf assistant from Kitchener's Rockway Club.

"I knew I had him after the 11th," said Cowan.

Cowan has never advanced beyond the third round in four previous amateurs he has entered.

In the five match play matches he has been 14 under par.

"I played the irons well today," he said. "I putted well, too, but they just wouldn't go in the hole until the last couple of greens, when I made some good ones".

Caddying for Cowan was little Phil Brownlee of Toronto, who lost to Willey in the quarter-finals Thursday.

"We had an agreement before we started that the first one out would caddy for the other," said Cowan.

Harness Racing Bits

Peterborough Exhibition had a very high calibré entry list of horses for the five race card scheduled for Saturday, August 15 but were unfortunate in that the weatherman failed to cooperate. The rains came down about 2 p.m. and in a short time the homestretch was under some 8 inches of water. This was drained enough to allow two heats to start but the conditions became too dangerous as the rain continued. Ed Stanburg drove Gerald Taylor's trotter, "Tim Belwin" to a win in the one dash.

Belleville Fairs had two days of racing last week with a 2.30 class and a 2.25 class on Tuesday and a 2.28 and 2.24 class on Wednesday afternoon.

The races were well filled and in spite of the worst string of accidents at the Belleville Fair in a number of years produced some good racing.

In the 2.30 class Belleville owned 'John De Kuyper" driven by owner John Weeks' brother Ken, shared wins with the trotter "Lucky Glee" owned and driven by Carl Heath of Marmora. The trotter broke badly in the first heat almost carrying "John De Kuyper" into the fence but Ken got him straightened out and paced from last place entering the back stretch to win going away in 2.22. The trotter was 7th in this heat but made no breaks to win the 2nd in 2.17 wih "John De Kuyper" right here for the place. Bob Brown's "Smithfield Lass" from Napanee was 2nd and 4th while Bill Hennessey from Brighton won the show position in both heats with "Ace Hy."

The 25 class saw a near accident in the first heat when "Stewart's Supreme," owned and driven by C. Hamilton of Gananoque swerved entering the stretch for the half, hitting the sulky of "Teddy Gratton Royal," owned and driven by Buck Newton of Belleville. Buck finished out of the money while Mr. Hamilton failed to finish with a broken wheel. The double heat winner was "Linda MacDuff" owned and driven by Art MacDonald of Kingston, with Irwin Ness' Belleville horse "Lee Mac S" twice second in identical fast times of 2.14. The trotter "Tim Belwin" from Roseneath and B. C. Sammons' 'Sunday May Gratton" from Cobourg shared thirds and fourths. "Linda MacDuff" and "Lee Mac S" were both eligible to start on Wednesday in the 2.28 class and it was the first heat of this race that produced the most serious accident. "Smithfield Boy," driven by Herman Lucas of Belleville, fell going into the first turn and somehow "Linda MacDuff" threw driver Art MacDonald head first through the fence. Art's crash helmet saved him as he suffered only broken ribs and shock. The mare paced the half alone but was poked in the muscle of the right leg by the shaft which had dropped, causing some injury. The race was won by "Lee Mac S" in straight heats giving him 2 wins and 2 seconds at the fair.

"Duke Dillard," owned and driven by Don Johnston of Campbellford, was twice 2nd and Bob Brown was twice third with "Smithfield Lass." The, times were both 2.20.

The 24 class saw "Patsy Gratton H," owned by J. Herd of Peterborough, and the trotter "Tim Belwin," share first and seconds in times of 2.14 3-5 and 2.15. Retta Herrington drove her own "Lu Attorney" to two thirds.

Before the second heat Bill Faulkner's horse, "Captain Kidd" making his first start, stepped into the bike of "Jody the Great," owned by Albert Defosse of Trenton, and driven by M. Colliton of Picton. The race proceeded after Mr. Colliton changed bikes because of a broken wheel. 'Captain Kidd" was twice fifth and the trotter "Jody" was seventh.

The fall fairs are really starting now and almost every Saturday finds races somewhere in the district with Odessa set for Aug. 22. The 29th of course is the Quinte Driving and Riding Club's next twilight meet with betting privileges. So you harness fans come on up to the track and enjoy a good evening's fun.

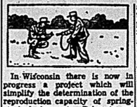
Odds and Ends About Outdoors



In Wisconsin there is now in progress a project which will simplify the determination of the reproduction capacity of spring-stocked pheasants. Prior to release, the hens are fed radioactive calcium pellets. The low energy of these pellets renders them harmless both to the birds and to humans (in the event that an illegal hen may serve as table fare). Hens, as you know if you are a pheasant hunter, are not legal game.

The radioactivity will show up in the shells of the eggs laid by these birds. Also, it will show up in the chicks which are hatched from these eggs. Gunners are requested to send the legs of any cock birds they shoot to the Conservation Commission to be checked for radio-activity. The experiment is a new and interesting method of determining how to get the maximum return from pheasant stocking.

MORE ABOUT INSECTICIDES

In Osage County, Missouri, a farmer was having trouble with insects in his fields, so he sprayed with an insecticide. Then he washed out the tank and other spraying equipment in Loose Creek which flows through his property. The insecticide is one of the new poison sprays, about twenty times as potent as DDT.

One of the conservation agents received reports of dead fish drifting in Loose Creek so he investigated. For a space of three miles or so downstream from that farmer's barn the fish population of Loose Creek was completely killed off — one more instance of the damage which can result from the careless use of poison sprays.

SALMON IN MAINE

The Atlantic Salmon, insofar as United States waters are concerned, is fighting a losing battle. Time was when most of the streams of the eastern seaboard held salmon in quantity, so much so that labor contracts in that area provided that salmon could be used as table fare only once or twice a week. The Delaware and its two branches held annual migrations of salmon. The Connecticut River was outstanding. And the rivers of Maine swarmed with these big game fish each season.

Then came the march of what is loosely called "civilization". Lumbermen denuded our hills of their virgin forests; coal miners dug their "black gold" from our mountains and hills; land was cleared and farmed. Our rivers were polluted to the point where they were biological deserts, filthy with sawdust, coal washings, silt, manufacturing waste and sewage.

Lacking legislative restriction, dams were built at will, but pollution served to stop fish migrations even more effectively than the dams. After all, fish can swim up a waterfall but they can't survive toxic pollution.

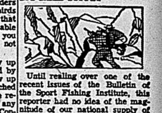
So the Atlantic Salmon in the streams gradually have been eliminated so that now only a forlorn remnant of former migrations makes its way back to the parent streams of Maine — the Narraguagus, Machias, Dennys, Pleasant and Sheepscot Rivers. The salmon anglers of Maine realize that this excellent game fish is a vanishing species, soon to disappear unless something is done.

With this in mind, the Sheepscot River Atlantic Salmon Association, the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, and the Main Atlantic Salmon Commission have banded together in a co-operative effort to reestablish this fish in the Sheepscot River.

At Small Point, Maine, there is a commercial mackerel weir and their weir last year caught 294 adult salmon. No doubt it will make a similar catch this year. The group of associations have their plans made to purchase all salmon caught in the weir, and trained government fisheries employees will transfer these fish in tank trucks to the spawning grounds of the Sheepscot River. Experience has shown that natural reproduction is apt to be far more effective than the plantation of salmon fry from one of the hatcheries.

It will be interesting to learn the results of this experiment. Here's wishing them all the luck in the world.

BIG-GAME SUPPLY



Until reading over one of the recent issues of the Bulletin of the Sport Fishing Institute, this reporter had no idea of the magnitude of our national supply of big game. Living as we do in one of the top deer states, we realized in a vague sort of way that we, as a nation, are blessed with a bountiful supply of wildlife.

The Institute (concerned for the most part with fishing and fish supplies) did not give us a State-by-State census of big game. Instead, it confined its figures to the National Parks and Forests. Statistics are dull things at best but these came as such a surprise that it seems justifiable to pass along the totals.

Our National Forests are estimated at 181 million acres. The populations of the big game animals roaming those acres, carefully counted by government employees, comes to approximately 3,680,000 animals. Deer, of course, account for the bulk of this total — 3,200,000 or 87 per cent. But we have on our government lands 24,000 antelope, 106,000 black bear, 6,700 grizzly bear and Alaska brown bear, 277,000 elk, 13,000 moose, 27,000 mountain goats, 12,000 bighorn sheep, 16,000 peccaries, and 1,700 wild boar.

A considerable portion of our National Forests are open to hunting. Last season the hunters "harvested" about 15 per cent of the total supply, or 562,000 big game animals. To do this, they put in 30,834,000 man-days in the field and the government coffers were richer by $323,909,000.00 or $10.50 per hunter-day.

These figures are confined, as stated earlier, to government lands. The all-inclusive totals would, of course, be far greater. In any event, big-game hunting (which, after all, is a comparatively small part of the hunting and fishing national total) certainly qualifies for inclusion under the general head of big business.

2 Automobiles, Sailboat for Nellie Fox

CHICAGO (AP)—Jacob Nelson (Nellie) Fox, a tiny, self-made ball player who hustled his way to big league stardom, had his night at Comiskey Park Friday night.

As Fox, a five-foot-eight 162-pounder of tremendous pep and agility, played his 634th consecutive game against Washington Senators, the White Sox and admirers of little Nell swamped him with gifts worth about $50,000, including two automobiles and a sailboat.

Nellie, who will be 32 Christmas Day, never has attended a world series game, nor played in one. A sparkplug of the White current pennant drive, Fox said:

"I intend to do both this year."

Fox, who was acquired from Philadelphia Athletics in 1950, has been named to 10 all-star games. His batting average today is .320.

'Father Knows Best' Swings Into Sixth Year of Success

THE MOVIE COLUMN
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How long can a TV series keep going?

Warner Anders of The Lineup says the life expectancy of a hit series is four of five years.

"Shows like I Love Lucy and My Friend Irma start to pall after that time," he argues. "The public begins to say, 'I've seen that before.'"

Yet here is Father Knows Best defying all the experts by swinging into its sixth year stronger than ever. I dropped by the set to see how Robert Young's TV wife, Jane Wyatt, is bearing up under the grind.

SCRIPTS BETTER

"I can't understand it," she said. "At this stage in a series, everything is supposed to start dwindling. But the scripts keep getting better and better. We've had four for the next season that are among the best we've ever had."

Therein lies one secret of the show's continued favor: Good scripts. Plus careful shooting. Many filmed series are ground out in two or three days. Father Knows Best has a day of rehearsal and four days of filming.

Jane's own theory of the show's longevity?

"I think it has helped for the children to grow up. That puts us in all kinds of changing situations. Take a series like Life With Father, which I thought was excellent. Its trouble was that the children remained the same age, and there was just so much you could do with them."

ONE MORE YEAR

The Emmy-award winner still has trouble convincing fans she isn't really married to Bob Young (her husband is businessman Edgar Ward). I asked her how much longer this double life could last.

"Contractually, just one more year," she said. "I signed a seven - year deal for the series. No, I can't see it going any longer than that."

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Have you made an inspection of your TV antenna recently? Take the time to have a good look . . . even from the ground you can usually spot bent or broken parts which might spoil reception. There is also the danger of a damaged antenna collapsing completely during the next storm which might mean damage to your roof and added expense.

Even if your inspection from the ground reveals nothing wrong, it's a good idea to have your TV aerial checked by experts periodically. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., have special test equipment and experienced men for this purpose. For a free estimate call WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7669) . . . a minor repair job now may save you money in the long run and also give you more TV enjoyment.

AT THE PARK — Brett Halsey stars with Yvonne Lime and Charles Wilcox in the shocker about the drag strip jungle opening Monday at the air conditioned Park Theatre for a two day engagement. On the same program "The Giant Behemoth". Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, August 23, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Steer clear of argument with close tie or that mild anxiety can turn into a definite problem. Concentrate on how to be more helpful to that individual instead and you get greater affection and support you need at at this time.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — While situation at home is quite annoying, you can still be out in the world of activity where you can be of real service and gain in many ways. Show some special regard for some deserving persons without letting it cost you much of anything.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Be sure you comprehend the ideas expounded today by some expert in religion, scientific or business field. Else misapprehension could get you right off the track. P.M. family life can be very charming tonight. Rest, have fun.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take care you do not hold fast to some old ideas, non-valuable possesions that you lose out on the better things that are possible to you right now. Dress nicely and confer with those people who can open new vistas for you. Be smart.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)—While your own judgment and thoughts are not absolutely the best today, by adopting the standards under which you were reared, you can find peace, contentment and new inspiration for the future. Look after health too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Follow own hunches today, since [illegible] are apt to be very fine, provided you do not fuss over some worry that is best forgotten. Elevate your level of consciousness through sincere meditation and prayer, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Getting into the so-called Silence for a while today can bring forth the best ideas on which to base your life in the future. Steer clear of talkative, rather selfish friends. Be kind to family.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 1)—Many things could break into the open now that might upset and annoy you, but if you have your good friends beside you, you win out. Lose no goodwill. P.M. concentrate on gaining your legitimate goals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be careful you do not [illegible] in to temptation to go off [illegible] some tangent or after that which only seems fascinating. Remain devoted to family and trusted friends, with whom you should consult for greater success in the future.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't follow your intuitions today, for they are not apt to be very accurate. The day is best spent listening to the most inspired speaker you know and then studying along philosophical lines. P.M. be with bigwigs.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—One with a too great sense of importance could ruin this otherwise fine day for you, if you permit. Steer clear of this individual and spend some time in meditation, which will then guide you accurately in your activities.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A day to step out of dull routine and be one of those individuals who lives the sort of charming and inspiring life you would like for yourself. Association with them reveals just how you can start progressing, too.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — the sweet child born today must be taught early by you, as parents, that a smiling exterior will take him, or her, through life far more successfully and happily than if the manner is an introverted one. And since the nature is such that many such mistakes will be made along life's highway, this one great lesson will help immensely. Wonderful chart for the philosopher, the social worker, nurse, etc.

Monday, August 24, 1959.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Begin new week properly by getting records straightened out, bills paid, etc. Also, confer with experts for best results in financial and property matters. Steer clear of any artificial persons or things. Recognize what is real.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) It would be a good idea to analyze own feelings and behavior today and to know what you can do to raise your position in life, how better to deal with vital persons in business. P.M. steer clear of arguments with kin.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Don't permit a private worry to disturb you. Also, find out what you need in the way of treatments so that you improve your health and then can work and play more vigorously as well as think more clearly. Failure can be turned into success.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) One with a seemingly invincible will power could get you to invest beyond your means today, if you allow. Others appear to make unnecessary demands, too. Learn to say "no" with frankness and clarity.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid a higher-up who is looking for someone to vent his or her ire upon. There is no reason why it should be you. P.M. be alone in the privacy of own room or quarters and attend to wardrobe or write personal letters, study.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Simply wasting time envying others does no good now. Work diligently instead and you soon get out of the red. Impress others with your perseverance and adopt a new and more efficient system that will bring abundance, and to spare.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't begin the new week by making radical changes or losing your temper. Study conditions thoroughly and arrive at decisions tomorrow. Remember that some of present chaos could be your fault.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Stubborn ways of associate could really upset you today, if you did not understand the underlying reason for conduct. Once you comprehend, this could lead to greater harmony between you. But be as cooperative as you can.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you act or speak too quickly today, there can be serious repercussions or accident. Consider all phases of situations carefully, maintain perfect equilibrium. Also, show appreciation to fellow worker.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are determined to enjoy yourself today, and this could really put quite a dent into small savings account. Take hold of your emotions and expend energy getting work done efficiently. P.M. enjoy yourself without spending too much.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use as much diplomacy as you can today at home and avoid a serious rift. Your understanding and kind ways will bring about harmony there where it is most important at the present time. Take the lead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Important you use all caution possible while out driving today, or there could be injuries sustained. Fine day for shopping, but take care not to be extravagant. P.M. study everything of current interest carefully.

If your child is born today . . The fine child born today will have a positive genius for trouble-shooting or knowing how to solve a problem. However, be sure you also teach early some sport where real competition is met in order to broaden horizons later. Also teach to use the soft pedal where people are concerned for best results in handling fellow human beings! Fine chart for government work or any philanthropic sphere.

FINANCE

bill financing for the time being."

RATE DROPPED

He said this government action caused the treasury bill rate to decline from 6.16 per cent a week earlier to 6.04 per cent this week, with the corresponding decline in the bank rate this week to 6.29 per cent from its record 6.41 per cent the previous week.

What do these developments mean to the average Canadian?

The strong demand for loans is taken as an indication the economy is booming once more. The tight - money situation indicates the Bank of Canada is doing its best to keep the boo mfrom contributing to inflation.

The government and the Bank of Canada are in accord on the monetary policy now being followed.

They have two main courses to choose from in a tight-money situation.

The money supply can be increased. Or it can be held fairly steady with a consequent rise in interest rates, a shortage of money for loans and an eventual slowing of the economic pace to a point where existing supplies of money are sufficient.

FEAR INFLATION THREAT

The Bank of Canada and the government evidently feel any substantial increase now in money supply might prove inflationary. It might ease the money situation for the moment but cause higher prices later on.

And when the current boom has run its course the inflationary factor might make more severe any recession that follows.

By keeping the lid on the money supply, the Bank of Canada and the government hope the current situation will level off on its own.

THEORY OF SAVING

Higher interest rates should encourage more saving. This eventually should make available more funds for loans. Money should gradually loosen up—that is the theory, at least.

Also, as the economic advance improves, government revenues should improve. The government shouldn't have to borrow so much money, leaving more funds available for other borrowers.

The chartered banks, although holding certain reservations, have made no demands for any immediate, substantial increase in the money supply, well-informed sources say.

The Canadian Bankers' Association did, however, issue a statement Aug. 13 pointing out that the bank rate of 6.41 per cent on Aug. 13 was well above the statutory maximum of six per cent the chartered banks may charge their borrowers. It also referred to the sharp increase in the demand for mony without a corresponding increase in the money supply, a situation that began last fall.

LENDING CURTAILED

The banks had been selling government bonds at sacrifice prices to raise money for continued lending. But there was a limit to such a procedure and the chartered banks now would have to curtail their lending, the statement added.

The result has been a rationing of loans by the banks across the country. Mr. Fleming commented that if such a condition continues for an extended period, it could slow down the economic pace. But he expressed the hope the situation is only temporary. There is evidence that the Bank of Canada feels the same way.

Latest Bank of Canada statistics show that the money supply totalled $13,380,000,000 on Aug. 12, a decline of $22,000,000 from Aug. 6 but an increase of $380,000,000 from Aug. 13, 1958.

The cash reserve position of the chartered banks was slightly improved this week over last week. This was accomplished by a net increase of about $33,000,000 in Bank of Canada holdings of government securities, bringing the ratio of chartered bank reserves to their deposits to 8.1 from 7.9 per cent.

The Bank Act requires chartered banks to keep cash reserves equal to at least eight per cent of their deposits, averaged over a month.

Buying up government securities is the main method the Bank of Canada uses to increase the money supply. Such buying increased the cash reserves of the chartered banks, because the central bank pays for the securities it buys by creating the necessary money.

HOW IT WORKS

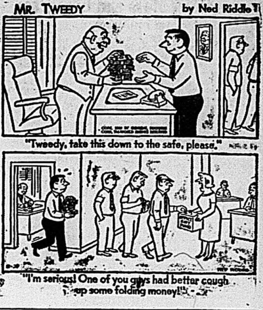
It issues a cheque for $1,000,000 worth of government bonds from the Bank of Montreal, for example. The Bank of Montreal deposits the cheque at the Bank of Canada and thereby increases the chartered bank's cash reserves in the central bank by $1,000,000.

The Bank of Montreal then is in a position to lend more money to its own borrowers. In effect, every new chartered bank loan is an increase in the money supply by its amount. Each bank loan repaid is a decrease by its amount.

There is no reason to believe the chartered banks want an increase in the statutory limit of six per cent on their lending rate.

And Mr. Fleming said earlier this week that the government was giving no thought to such an action. It would be something only Parliament could do anyway.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle



"Tweedy, take this down to the safe, please."
"I'm serious! One of you guys had better cough up some folding money!"

Garden Notes

Controlling Moss and Crabgrass

By FLORA SAVILLE

Moss may occur in acid or alkaline soil. It needs moisture to start but once established it can survive dry spells. Just how it came to be present in lawns is a puzzle but once there it can be spread by spores on the feet or by the mower.

Making the soil acid or alkaline will not kill it but the soil is usually in poor condition when it is prevalent. Moss is seldom present in good hay fields where the grasses are allowed to grow tall but since the lawn must be kept short the spores have space and light to develop. The cool temperatures of fall and spring seem to encourage its spread but in humid weather it increases its growth also.

Dig out as much of the moss as you can and treat the soil with a mercury compound. These are sold under different trade names. Work the soil up well to loosen it and acrate it. Feed the bare spots and seed them to crowd out further infestations.

LONG-RANGE CONTROL

Lawn sand, sulphate of iron and permanganate of potash have been used to destroy moss but they give only a few months of control. One of the mercury mixtures will give effective control for a year often up to three years. And, if the soil has been put in good condition with proper drainage and fertilizer you may have no more trouble from moss.

The newest mercury product is in granular form and is applied dry. This treatment will control broadleaf weeds as well as moss.

To control crabgrass use potassium cyanate (not poisonous cyanide), it is sold under various trade names. One of these prepared mixes is safer to use than mixing your own. Follow directions on package for best results.

It is quite safe to use on established lawns and near shrubery. No toxic effect is left on the soil and it breakes down into a fertilizer in a few hours. Seed can be sown almost immediately after its use. Shrubbery will not be harmed unless it is sprayed directly on the plants.

FIRST TREATMENT

The first treatment should be given early in July the second in mid-August. If you have not used any control for crabgrass this year you will need a second spray later.

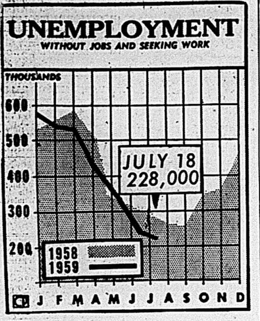
Potassium cyanate is an effective killer for mouse-ear chickweed but does not kill established lawn grasses or clover. If there is a slight tip-burn the first mowing will take it off.

Do not use it on new lawns until the grass is well established.

Soil should be damp but the grass should be dry. If rain falls too soon after application it may have to be repeated. Best results are obtained while plants are small.

After treatment rake out dead plants, and sow grass. Do not allow seedlings to dry out until they become well established. Feed the whole lawn with one of the special commercial chemical foods made for grass or an organic fertilizer such as bone meal, or sludge granules.

Mercury compounds are also recommended for control of crabgrass.



UNEMPLOYMENT DROPS — The bureau of statistics reports that 228,000 Canadians were out of work and seeking jobs at July 18. This is a drop from 234,000 a month earlier.

The bureau reported a record 6,206,000 Canadians holding jobs at that date, an increase of 153,000 from the previous month. Seasonal expansion in agriculture was given as the main reason for the increase. (CP Newsmap.)

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Widow, 69, Solves Prickly Problem by Getting a Job

By THOMAS COLLINS

If you are a wife, and you're past age 50, listen to the story of this 69-year-old widow:

Her husband died four years ago. He was 66 and had been retired for a year. His death, as they always say, was untimely and unexpected. The widow (who wants to be known as Mrs. Brown) survived the grief, and the readjustment, as most widows do. She came out of the fog with a monthly income of $91 a month and a life insurance payment of $9,500.

"I had several choices," Mrs. Brown says. "The one I took was to move into the subdivision house of my daughter and her family. It was a nice house and I was given a room of my own.

"My son-in-law was providing a good living for my daughter and the two children. He accepted me kindly, and started calling me Mother. All of us adjusted to a compatible relationship in which I helped with the housework, served as babysitter, and used my $91 a month to buy things for the children and the home and for my own personal needs. . ."

With the practical facts of life thus taken care of, in a way take care of them, Mrs. Brown began to size up the world around her.

". . . And I found I wasn't Mrs. Brown any more. Mrs. Brown had fallen out of the buggy somewhere back down the road. Maybe back at the cemetery. I was now Mrs. Smith's mother. That's who I was. That is all I was. In this neighborhood my children had quite properly chosen for their interests I was my daughter's mother, or somebody's grandmother. I had no identity beyond that. . ."

And in these best of all possible circumstances — nice children, private room and enough money — Mrs. Brown was not content.

"Must a widow surrender her personality because she is a widow past 65? Federal statistics say that a woman at age 70 can expect at least 11 more years of life. Can't these years be utilized for something better than being Mrs. Smith's mother?

Mrs. Brown wanted to retain her identity. She wanted to do something more with her remaining years than be compatible in somebody else's house.

many other nice families would

She found, she says, that "if I held my $9,500 cash in front of the donkey's nose, I could be Mr. Brown in a number of situations — not in an apartment of my own because there I would be a nice little lady with an apprehensive landlord. But I could be Mrs. Brown in certain charity societies around town, in some of the homes for retired people I investigated and in any number of business ventures. . ."

She felt that in each situation she would be paying a cut-and-dried price for the courtesy.

With the blessings of her daughter and son-in-law she went out looking for a job. She found one, as almost any other active woman her age can do if she will look long enough. It was a job as sales clerk in a small five-and-ten-cent store.

"It was a standing-up job, so I went to a chiropodist and had him prescribe shoes that would make it easier. I wanted to continue living with my children, which was agreeable, and to get to the store from their house I had a transfer on the bus. That was all right. I like to talk to people.

"The pay I get is low. But it's a substantial addition to the $90 a month I already have.

"Because of that $90, and the $9,500 in the bank, and the fact that I live with well-to-do children, I'm quite a celebrity in the store. You have no idea !

"All life is comparative, you know. And comparatively, I stand high among the people I spend my days with. Women I have always known, and people my husband and I knew, might no speak well of what I am doing. What they might say doesn't matter to me. I've rescued myself from being a second-class citizen, and I like it. . ."

Dalai Lama Says Extermination Facing Tibetans

80,000 Already Killed But More Join Revolt

NEW DELHI (AP) — Tibet's struggle against Communist China has cost 80,000 lives and the Himalayan kingdom is heading toward extermination, the Dalai Lama says.

"With more Chinese than Tibetans now in my country, the complete extermination of the Tibetan race in its own motherland now is in progress", the god-king told reporters Sunday at his exile home in Mussoorie.

(Meanwhile, a Reuters report from Mussoorie quoted the Dalai Lama as saying despite the casualties, the revolt against Communist rule still is going on.

(He said more people are joining the ranks of some 50,000 Khamba tribesmen fighting the Chinese in the Chamdo and Gyamda areas of eastern Tibet.)

Tibet's youthful ruler said he had every reason to believe the Chinese have arrested the Panchen Lama, Buddhist leader the Communists installed as a puppet in his place.

"After all the Panchen Lama is a man with feeling for his country, people and religion," the Dalai Lama said.

FATHER TORTURED?

"His father is a man of strong will and has been loyal to the people and the religion of Tibet, and the Chinese must have tortured him, and this would have affected the Panchen Lamas feelings."

There has been no confirmation of earlier reports in Indian newspapers that the Panchen Lama is heading a new anti-Communist revolt in the Himalayan land.

Reports from the Indian border town of Kalimpong said the Chinese have advised Indians not to visit Tibet either for a pilgrimage or trade purposes.

The Communists were reported to have sent a note to the Indian consul-general at Lhasa saying that anyone visiting Tibet does so at his own risk.

BHUTAN IN JEOPARDY

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Jigme Dorji of Bhutan said in an interview in Calcutta that Peiping has blocked his little Himalayan country's normal trade with neighboring Tibet. He said his government is turning to India and the outside world.

Asked about Peiping's recent claims that Brutan is part of Tibet, Dorji declared:

"If they try to take over Bhutan, we will stand and fight. But who has the strength, in this area, to oppose the Chinese? We do not know who would help us."

Dorji came to India to talk to Prime Minister Nehru about the tightening Chinese hold on Tibet. Bhutan, an Indian protectorate 190 miles long and 90 miles wide, has an army of only a few thousand and a population of about 700,000.

Reuters quoted Prime Minister Nehru as confirming today that China has asked Indians not to go on pilgrimage to Tibet this year because the Communists were "launching a punitive expedition" against Tibetan rebels.

He said the Chinese had told the Indian consul-general in Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, that Indians entering Tibet would do so at their own risk.

Nehru said Chinese soldiers were guarding the Indian consulate in Lhasa and preventing persons without proper papers from entering.

POLITICAL EYES TURN TO CLC-CCF WINNIPEG MEET

Groups Will Try To Forge New Party

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Political eyes are turned on Winnipeg this week where the downtrodden CCF and the potent Canadian Labor Congress will try to forge the basis of a new party.

It could be a threat to the high-riding Progressive Conservatives and to the Liberals. It could be a flop.

What happens to the political future of the proposed left-of-centre group largely depends on how adroitly matters are handled by back-room strategists at what is described as a three-day "seminar" opening Friday.

Conflicting outlooks will have to be reconciled. Possibly, the CCF adherents will have to do some backing away from socialist dogma to gain the support of unionists—and there are many of them chilly to the socialist idea.

LABOR SUPPORT SHAKY

Financial and moral support of the old Canadian Congress of Labor for the CCF proved no real help nationally. CCF candidates got whipped regularly in labor ridings, with scattered exceptions.

Now, the congress with about 1,100,000 members has gone on record as favoring a "broadly based people's political movement."

It would embrace, according to a resolution adopted last year by the congress, the CCF, the labor movement, farm organizations, professional people and "other liberally-minded persons."

The groups that the new party would appeal to are those "interested in basic social reform and reconstruction through our parliamentary system of government."

THE SAME PEOPLE

On the face of it, they would appear to be roughly the same people that the two larger parties are appealing to, and with considerably more success than the CCF.

No one in top spots in either the Conservative or Liberal party has expressed concern publicly about any prospective inroads from the embryo party.

The CCF officially has taken it to its breast, but there are reports here that some of the eight CCF members of the Commons are not too enthusiastic and would prefer to have the party remain as its socialist self and as the so-called "conscience" of Parliament.

So far as is known these dissenters do not include either national CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell or Commons Leader Hazen Argue, both from Saskatchewan, which has Canada's only CCF government.

Not a few labor leaders are frigid to the idea of the new party.

An outstanding one is Frank H. Hall of Montreal, head of the railway clerks, chairman of the negotiating committee for 130,000 rail workers, a CLC vice-president and generally regarded as Canada's most powerful union man.

Controller, Five Aldermen Demand Park Be Closed

TORONTO (CP)—A controller and five city aldermen today demanded closing of Fred Hamilton Park after rioting soccer fans there Sunday sent two police constables and an eight-year-old boy to hospital.

Controller Jean Newman called the rioting, which erupted at the end of a close game between Toronto Italia and Hungaria of the National Soccer League, "the most-shocking thing that has ever happened at a sporting event in Toronto."

"I'm going to see it doesn't happen again—I will support any move to close the park and have expropriation proceedings started," she said.

Sixteen policemen were on duty at the park when skirmishes broke out at the end of the game in which 7,000 spectators saw Italia win 2-1.

The major riot was touched off when a spectator swung at a player. Two constables weer seriously injured when a milling crowd of 4,000 began battling police with rocks and fence pickets.

Al Astri, manager of the Italia club, blamed the fracas on police. "They got panicky when fans ran jubilantly onto the field to congratulate players," he said.

Mayor Nathan Phillips opposed closing the park and urged other methods to handle the situation.

Constables Arthur King and John Kay received kidney injuries. Dominico Mungo, 8, of Hamilton, who was at the National Soccer League game with his father, was knocked to the ground and trampled by the frenzied crowd. He is in good condition in hospital.

The other three officers were released from hospital after treatment.

The game ended just after a penalty kick against Toronto Hungarians gave Toronto Italia a 2-1 victory.

Excited fans rushed to the players' dressing rooms where a policeman stopped one fan from entering. The fan swung at the officer, then fled. He was caught in a nearby parking lot.

The 17 off-duty policemen, who are paid by the NSL, tried to restore order in the parking lot where fans had gathered.

Eight Prisoners Are Killed By Fire in New Jersey Jail

TOMS RIVER, N. J. (AP)—Eight terrified prisoners were killed Sunday when fire erupted at a county jail and trapped them in their second-floor cells.

Twelve other persons were injured prisoners and rescuers alike.

Seven of the victims died of smoke poisoning while the eighth was burned to death in a padded cell.

One of the injured was a U.S. navy man, a weekend visitor, burned critically when he tried to reach the screaming prisoners.

The victims included one man serving 90 days for disorderly conduct. Others awaited disposition of charges that included murder, rape, larceny and forgery.

Sheriff Harry Roe said the fire began in the portable, padded cell in a second-floor corridor of the two-storey brick building. He didn't know how. He said prisoners are not permitted to have matches and each prisoner is searched before admission.

A fight among several prisoners in a first-floor cellblock preceded the fire. Guards were trying to break it up when a prisoner yelled a fire warning.

Roe said burning foam rubber in the padded cell caused a combustion wave. Witnesses said there were at least two explosions after smoke began pouring from the jail windows.

The victim in the padded cell was "General" Petersen, 35, arrested the day before on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was to have been transferred to a mental institution later in the day.

Sixty-five prisoners were in the jail, which the sheriff said is supposed to house only 28.

Gerard Lau, 40, a shipfitter stationed with the naval air reserve training unit at Freeport, N.Y., raced for the jail when he freed all the prisoners on the first ran to the second floor, where the screams of three women prisoners could be heard, but was blown downstairs by an explosion. He crawled out critically burned.

Firemen who arrived and raced up the stairs were blown down by a second explosion. In the confusion keys to cell blocks were lost.

Undersheriff Robert J. Miller, freed all the prisoners on th first floor. Firemen then managed to rescue alive four prisoners on the second floor. The three women were among them.

50 Prisoners Still Confined In Solitary

GUELPH (CP) — Nearly 50 prisoners of the Ontario Reformatory still are in solitary confinement today as evidence against them is reviewed at institutional trials.

About 700 prisoners rioted Friday, following small-scale riots Wednesday and Thursday.

Saturday, 350 inmates were herded into the basement auditorium and spent the night there. They were allowed to return to their cells and their own beds Sunday.

About $12,000 damage was caused during the three worst days of rioting, mostly in the cafeteria and tailor shops.

Guard George William Andrews is in serious condition in hospital with a ruptured kidney.

Superintendent Charles Sanderson said weather was a key factor in the disturbances. He said the heat and humidity of the last week were used by a few troublemakers to create mob hysteria.

Mr. Sanderson said he will confer with Wellington County Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns about laying court charges against six or eight youths. Forty others are involved in institutional trials being conducted by Mr. Sanderson.

FIRE KILLS FIVE

PAMPA, Tex. (AP) — Five members of a family died Sunday in a fire that swept a three-storey apartment building here. Virtims were Lewis Stone, 42; his wife, Christine, 41; two sons, Gary, 15, and Kenneth, 8; and a daughter, Betty Jean, 20. Three others sons survived.

Human Fossils 600,000 Years Old Discovered in Tanganyika, Africa

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuters)—Human fossils about 600,000 years old—possibly the earliest known trace of man—have been found in Tanganyika.

Dr. Louis Leakey, 56, one of the world's leading anthropologists, said his wife, also an anthropologist, found the fossils among animal remains in the Olduwai gorge in Tanganyika July 17.

Leakey, a British expert on East African anthropology, has searched for many years to prove his belief that man originated in Africa.

Now curator of the Corydon Museum of Natural History in Nairobi, Kenya, Leakey reported his wife's find to the Pan-African Congress of Pre-history here Saturday.

Crude tools were found with the fossils. This suggested some form of human culture, Leakey said.

A reconstruction of the bones showed a skull which was estimated to date from the second half of the pleistocene era 600,000 years ago.

Peking man, one of the most famous of prehistoric relics, was estimated to have lived 500,000 years ago.

Leakey said the cerebral capacity of the skull was 600 cubic centimeters (36.614 cubic inches) compared with the present-day capacity of 1,450 cubic centimeters (88.485 cubic inches).

Red Rebels Move Within 50 Miles Of Laos Capital

Communists Take Towns In Centre of Kingdom

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Government troops have surrendered tc Communist rebels two points only 60 and 50 miles from this Laotian capital. Fighting spread toward the centre of the Southeast Asia kingdom during the weekend.

Reliable sources said the rebel advance is threatening strategic communications and supply routes between Vientiane and the south.

Red partisans are reported to have launched a surprise attack Saturday on a military and police post near Pak Sane, 60 miles east of Vientiane, and after several hours of fighting forced government forces to withdraw.

Sop Vieng, a town about 50 miles northeast of Vientiane, was captured by rebels, Friday, the sources said.

OFFICIAL SILENCE

The defence ministry did not confirm the reports, saying the foreign ministry had ordered that no further communiques be issued about Laos' struggle against pressure from North Viet Nam and Communist China. The rebels are pro-Communist Laotians who have been trained and equipped by the North Vietnamese.

The sporadic fighting that started late in July had until now been largely confined to the northern provinces of Sam Neua and Phong Saly.

The government has placed the rebel strength in the north at 2,500. They operate in bands of 150 to 200 men. Another 1,000 are said to have infiltrated into the southern provinces of Luang Prabang and Savannakhet.

Supplying hard-pressed troops in Sam Neua has been a major Laos difficulty. Everything must be delivered by air.

CAN ONLY HOLD CITY

About 20 per cent of Sam Neua is reported under Communist control. Defence Secretary Col. Phoumi Nosavan has said the city of Sam Neua can be held against rebel attacks but indicated there is little hope of holding much else in the province.

About 48,000 Vietnamese refugees who had been living in Thailand were reported crossing into Laos, some apparently heading north toward Sam Neua. Many pro-Communist Laotians fled to Thailand during the Indochinese war. Laos refused to take them back after the 1954 armistice.

LONDON (AP) — British advices from Laos reported today a certain deterioration in the military position of Laotian forces in Sam Neua provinces.

A foreign office spokesman told a press conference this information dealt with the situation as it existed Sunday.

The spokesman confirmed that a British proposal for pacifying Laos was given the Soviet Union at a meeting last week between Minister of State John Profumo and Soviet Ambassador Jakob Malik.

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva agreement which ended the fighting in Indochina and provided for the independence of Laos.

The British proposal has not been made public. However, it is believed to provide for some form of observer system organized under the Geneva accord and possibly tied in with the UN.

Two Children Burned to Death At Verona

VERONA, Ont. (CP)—Frantic cries of "Daddy, Daddy" were the last words William Gault heard from his two youngest daughters before they died Saturday night in their blazing second-floor bedroom.

Greta May, 5, and Mary, 8, died while their parents and neighbors vainly tried to get through the flames to save them.

The fire destroyed the two-storey frame home on the edge of Rock Lake beside this village 20 miles north of Kingston and jumped a 30-foot gap to destroy a two-family dwelling.

An investigator from the Ontario fire marshal's office was to effort to determine today in an the blaze.

The Gaults, who moved here six weeks ago after fire destroyed their home at McLeod Lake, B.C., only had time to lead their six-year-old son, Bill, from the house before the flames took hold on the first floor. The three other Gault children were in the village at the time.

Mr. Gault tearfully recalled the last moments the two girls were alive.

"They had called downstairs to ask if they could read comic books for a while. I said they could and told them to turn on the light. They had to stand on the bed to turn the light on and then I heard them scream, 'Daddy! Daddy!'

"I ran upstairs but their room was filled with flames, I tried again and again but the heat was just too much for me."

Mrs. Gault, sick and awaiting a hospital bed, followed her husband upstairs, then got a pail of water and threw it into the burning room.

"But it was just no use. There was fire everywhere in the room."

Volunteer firemen from Portland and Loughborough townships arived too late to save the two homes. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Callaghan and their four children and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Orser were left homeless and lost all their belongings.

York Land Deal Probe Witness Receives Threat

TORONTO (CP) — Builder Harry Payne, a witness at a judicial inquiry into York Township land deals, told police he was threatened anonymously on the telephone early today.

He said a voice with an apparent Brooklyn accent said to him: "If you don't keep your mouth shut, you'll get acid in your face. We're not kidding—take a look at your front step."

A broken bottle had been left on the step. There was no trace of acid.

Police posted a guard outside Mr. Payne's home after he reported the incident.

Mr. Payne told the inquiry on Aug. 12 that he gave York Township councillor Harold Linden $100 as payoff to speed up a building permit. Mr. Linden said the statement was "an absolute lie."

French Capture Rebel Leaders

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army today claimed to have killed or captured a number of rebel leaders in two engagements in western Algeria.

French headquarters said its forces ambushed a meeting of rebel leaders near Mecheria, about 220 miles south of Oran, and killed six and captured 11. The rebel leaders had met to discuss reorganizing their fight in the area.

In the Saida region southeast of Oran, French troops surprised another rebel meeting, killing one rebel and capturing 19.

'There Is No Cure for Alcoholism' Says Addict Sober for 11 Years

HAMILTON (CP)—A psychologist, who is a self-confessed alcoholic, declared in Hamilton Sunday: "There is no cure for alcoholism."

Dr. David Stewart added that, in his opinion, there never would be a cure.

Speaking at the International Intercollegiate School of Alcohol Studies at McMaster University, Dr. Stewart, who is consultant to the Brookside Clinic for Alcoholics, Toronto, admitted that he had "stayed clear of drink" for 11 years.

There was no such person as a reformed alcoholic, he said.

"One is an alcoholic for life," declared Dr. Stewart. "The challenge is to recognize that fact—and then to live without alcohol."

The secret was to develop 'freedom from addiction."

The only way that this could be achieved, said Dr. Stewart, was to make sobriety a way of life.

"Sobriety has to become as precious to the alcoholic as his drinking used to be," said the psychologist.

A person had to switch his philosophy from the pursuit of pleasure to the pursuit of freedom, said Dr. Stewart, and that could only be obtained through a worthwhile, all-important, interest.

Fifteen Apartments for Aged Planned at $100,000 Cost

TRENTON — Trenton will have a system of housing for senior citizens in the near future similar to the system used in Oshawa. Trenton's Welfare officer has received permission to start with plans for a system of low rental apartments for the aged.

At the present time Trenton has no home for the aged and it is felt that this is a much needed project for Trenton. The only method for caring for the aged at the present time is in private rest homes.

RENTS TO BE LOW

These new apartment blocks will be rented to senior citizens of the town at a very low rate. It is believed that the charge will be $25 per month for married quarters and $15 per month for quarters for single people.

The apartment block will cost approximately $100,000. The money will come from local sponsors, provincial grants and a Federal Government mortgage. The provincial government will give a grant of five percent to a project such as this, while the Federal Government will take a 50-year mortgage for 90 per cent. It is hoped that service clubs in this area will join together to raise the remaining five per cent which is needed to build these apartments.

PLAN 15 APARTMENTS

It is expected that 15 apartments will be provided in this project. The apartments will be supplied with a stove and a refrigerator while the rest of the furniture must be supplied by the tenants. All upkeep and cleaning of the building will be looked after out of the rent, while it is thought that some arrangement will be sought with the parks department for looking after lawns and gardens.

The building will be modern in appearance and will be constructed in such a way that it will be as fire-proof as possible.

When this project is completed Trenton will be the only town in this area with a system of this kind for the aged.

Property for this project is being sought conveniently located in respect to the shopping district and churches of all denominations.

Glen Miller Bridge Closed After Fire Damage Sunday

TRENTON — Fire early Sunday morning destroyed part of the Glen Miller bridge and closed it temporarily to traffic.

Trenton Fire Department were called to the scene at about 5.30 Sunday morning, and after fighting the fire for nearly an hour called out number one platoon to assist in quelling the blaze.

No estimate of the damage is available at the present time but the bridge is closed to traffic until repairs have been made.

This is the second time in the last ten days that this bridge has been on fire. The Trenton Fire Department were called to extinguish a blaze here August 14. At that time only one plank of the bridge was burned before the fire was brought under control.

The Trenton Fire Department were called upon Sunday afternoon to put out a grass fire on Mount Pellon. The fire here was minor and was brought under control quickly without the aid of volunteers.

Bright and Snappy Canteen Operated by 2 Blind Women

Scores of nurses, doctors, patients limping on crutches, orderlies and visitors are serviced daily with everything from cokes to baby oil by two women in a bright and snappy canteen at the Belleville General Hospital.

They come in so fast, during much of the day, there is rarely a minute for conversation.

Miss Marion Dodds, the manager, was a professional dressmaker, then an employee at Holt, Renfrew & Company, in Toronto, until she had to have an eye operation and gradually lost her sight almost completely.

The CNIB trained her and sent her to Belleville ten years ago, to operate the hospital canteen.

She never mises. "I have never—definitely not!—spilt ice cream on anyone or given anyone baby oil instead of hand lotion. We know just where everything is here. Exactly. We always put things in exactly the same places. I can take one or two steps and put my hand on anything you want."

"I can't read Braille or write it. I hear enough literature on records, good books too, the CNIB send. I can't tell you how wonderful the CNIB is. They taught me typing. I use it to operate the canteen, for correspondence to Toronto and things like that.

"Oh, yes, I can get around very well in the daytime. I go downtown and do my shopping the same as anybody else. I live quite a normal life. I don't worry about the things I haven't got and I enjoy what I have got. I'm quite contented."

ASSISTANT BORN BLIND

Her assistant, Mary Kushma, 23, was born blind in London, moved to Owen Sound, attended the Brantford School for the Blind and was then sent to Belleville.

At Brantford she met Patricia Baverstock of Belleville, who has since become a close friend. She goes to see her occasionally. Miss Kushma can see very slightly, enough to walk along the sidewalks and travel by bus.

When buying a skirt, for instance, she can see the color if it is held close enough, but most of her shopping she does by touch.

The CNIB has lent her a record player for playing books. She likes Bob Hope and Bing Crosby autobiographies, family and detective stories, and finds plenty to choose from.

She learned some Braille at Brantford and plans to continue it this winter with help from Virginia Philpotts, CNIB home teacher.

Says Miss Dodds "Mary is a very smart little girl."

CANNING — In loving memory of our dad Henry Robert Canning, who was taken so suddenly August 24, 1957.

Gone is the face we loved so dear.

But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here.
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Ever remembered by daughters Betty and Marilyn, sons-in-law Karl and Bob and grandchildren.

CANNING — In loving memory of my dear husband, Henry R. Canning, who was taken so suddenly, August 24th, 1957.

There is never a day that passes,
But my thoughts reach out to you;
Never a joy that comes my way
But I wish you could share it too.
I miss your love, your cheery ways,
Please God, just let him know
That I down here, do not forget,
I loved and missed him so.
To me he has not gone away,
Nor has he travelled far.
Just entered God's eternal home
And left the gates ajar.

To sit with you and chat a while.
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care.
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Lovingly remembered, daughter Sheila.

Fire Dept. Busy Over Weekend

Belleville firefighters were kept busy over the weekend by everything from a short-circuited radio to a hay stack fire. On Saturday at 3.55 p.m. an alarm from the residence of George Gill at 149 1-2 West Bridge Street was received. A fire, which had started in the corner of the kitchen, was caught in its early stages before it could spread through the frame house. Damage was minor and estimated to be in the vicinity of $150. Later Saturday, at 10.44 the fire department was called to put out a flaming haystack in a field off Elmwood Drive.

On Sunday afternoon at 12.12 p.m. an alarm was turned in from 40 Donald Street due to a short circuit in a radio set. There was no extensive damage. Monday morning at 9.53 o'clock a fire occurred to Mel Barriage's hot mix machine on North Sidney Street. A tire on the machine was burnt due to overheating.

Unveil Plaque to Honor Founding Father of City

Belleville's founding father was honored at an impressive ceremony held yesterday afternoon at Victoria Park.

Capt. John Walden Meyers, the United Empire Loyalist who built the lumber and grist mills around which grew the settlement now known as Belleville, was remembered by the almost one hundred persons who gathered to witness the unveiling of a plaque in his honor.

Highlight of the ceremony was the actual unveiling of the attractive blue and gold plaque by a descendant of the founder, Mr. Glenn Meyers of Foxboro. Mr. Meyers said that he was honored to be a descendant of Capt. John Meyers and to have been chosen to unveil the plaque.

Following this unveiling, the plaque was dedicated by Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

The historic plaque (whose site was arranged through the courtesy of the Belleville Parks Board) was erected by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, on the advice of the province's Archaeological and Historic Sites Board.

This board was represented at the ceremony by Mrs. J. R. Futcher of St. Thomas, a past provincial president of the Women's Institutes. She spoke of the "goodly heritage" left by Capt. Meyers and outlined the activities of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board, one of whose functions it is to leave "sign posts of our eventful past". She explained that approximately sixty plaques are erected each year throughout the province.

BRINGS GREETINGS

Bringing greetings on behalf of the Provincial Government was Mr. W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. for West Hastings. Mr. Sandercock noted that Capt. Meyers certainly deserved the plaque for his enterprise. He also spoke of the importance of waterways such as the Moira River in the early development of the province.

Mayor Gerald Hyde brought greetings from the citizens of Belleville. He congratulated the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity on its wisdom in selecting Capt. Meyers for a plaque, and the Hastings County Historical Society for its part in promoting an active interest in local history. Mayor Hyde noted that Capt. Meyers would "be truly amazed" by the changes that have taken place here since the early 1800's.

WAS EARLY TRADER

Chairman for the ceremony was Mr. Gerald Boyce, president of the Hastings County Historical Society, which group sponsored the ceremony. He welcomed the many visitors, among them several descendants of Captain Meyers, and outlined the events of Meyers' life which so vitally affected the development of Belleville.

Mr. Boyce pointed out that Meyers not only commenced the first industry at Belleville (a lumber mill), but was also a trader in potash, furs, lumber, grain and livestock; the operator of a fleet of batteaux and a small schooner on the Bay of Quinte; the builder of the first brick house in the area; the founder of the first local Masonic lodge; an officer in the Hastings Militia, and a Justice of the Peace.

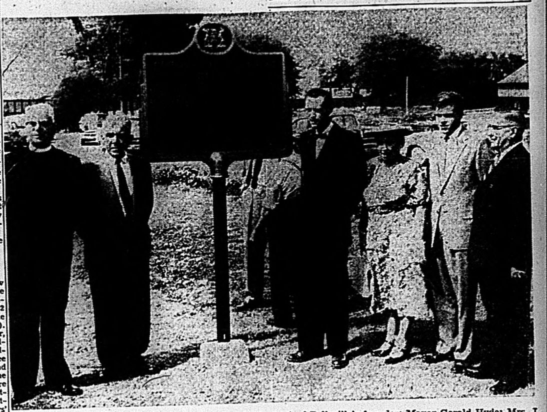
Because of these achievements the river and the settlement at its mouth were both unofficially known for many years as Meyers Creek.

The inscription on the plaque is as follows:

CAPT. JOHN WALDEN MEYERS 1745-1821

Born in Albany County, New York, Meyers served with the Loyalist forces during the American Revolution and in 1782 was appointed a captain in the Loyal Rangers (Jessup's Corps). Immediately following the war, he settled in the Richelieu Valley, and in 1787 moved to Sidney township. Some three years later he purchased land in Thurlow township near the mouth of the Moira River. Here he built a sawmill and gristmill around which grew a settlement known as Meyers' Creek. In 1816 it was renamed Belleville in honor of Arabella, the wife of Lieutenant-Governor Sir Francis Gore.

(Erected by the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board.)



The founder of Belleville, Captain John Walden Meyers, is honored in the above plaque which has been erected in Victoria Park by the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board. Those taking part in the unveiling ceremony Sunday afternoon, were (left to right), Canon A. S. McConnell; Glenn Meyers, descendant of Belleville's founder; Mayor Gerald Hyde; Mrs. J. R. Futcher, representing the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board; Gerald Boyce, president Hastings County Historical Society, and W. E. Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West.

Inscription on the plaque honoring Captain Meyers is read by two of his descendants. Man on left is Charles Meyers, R.R. 3, Belleville, great grandson of Belleville's founder, and Mr. Meyers' son, Glenn Meyers of Foxboro, who unveiled the plaque.

Strange Reasoning

We are at a loss to follow the reasoning of Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, Toronto's medical officer of health.

Dr. Boyd says there is no reason to burden taxpayers with the cost of a mass adult Salk inoculation program.

Now Dr. Boyd can produce considerable evidence to substantiate this stand. He says that polio is basically a child's disease and that the inoculation program for children "has given this community good protection." Evidently anticipating that some persons will point to the number of adults who have become ill with polio in recent weeks, he points out that adults inoculated now would receive no protection at all before October and "no full immunity" until the third and final shot next spring.

When, however, Dr. Boyd follows this stand by saying that adults should seek polio immunization shots from their own doctors, his argument becomes suspect. If there is no pressing need for a mass inoculation program, there is no pressing need for action by individuals Dr. Boyd cannot have it both ways. To argue that there is a difference between a public program paid for by the taxpayer and a private program paid for by the persons receiving the shots falls flat in this case, because so many adults have not received Salk shots that the taxpayers and the uninoculated adults are, to all intents and purposes, the same people. The question, therefore, is which is the cheapest way to do the job. Dr. Boyd, and the "other medical health officers in Metropolitan Toronto municipalities" who are reported to "generally agree" with him do not seem to have considered this point. We should be surprised, though, if in this case public enterprise was not cheaper and more efficient than private enterprise.

This does not mean that it is not easy to guess why the medical health officers in question have taken the stand they have. Doubtless they fear, with considerable reason, that if they undertook an adult inoculation program they would not be accorded the additional funds and help necessary to do the job without reducing their public health programs in areas where they consider the need is greater. That, though, should not be permitted to obscure the fact that in certain fields, and certainly with great frequency in such matters as immunization programs, publicly-sponsored and financed programs are the most efficient and the cheapest methods, providing protection to the community well worth the cost, with results impossible to duplicate, even at much greater cost, under any plan dependent on private initiative and financing.

Some Questions Need Answering

That riot at Guelph Reformatory on Wednesday, when five young prisoners did $5,000 damage to machines in the tailor shop while four guards "stood helpless" raises some questions which need answers.

The first query which may occur to many is whether this incident would have occurred had the use of the strap as a punishment not been recently abandoned.

Secondly, while it must be admitted that discretion is the better part of valor, is there not a difference between being discreet and being timid? If the odds were really only five to four, were the guards not, perhaps, too careful of their own skins? Or did they have good reason to believe that if they had interfered with the rioting quintet, others of the 140 prisoners in the tailor shop would have entered the fray against them? Finally, in this regard, if there was, indeed, good reason to regard many, or even some, of these onlookers as potential allies of the rioters, was there not also good reason to see that four unarmed men were not placed in charge of 145 men as well equipped for battle as their guards?

Aside from all these questions, why did ten minutes elapse between the time the five stool-swinging prisoners started to smash the shop machinery and the time seven more guards arrived on the scene?

There are probably good answers to some of these questions; it seems unlikely, though, that there can be satisfactory answers to all of them, for to admit such to be the case would be to admit that the Ontario taxpayer must be prepared to pay out $5,000 or more every time some young punks don't like the environment which the country's courts have decided is best for them and for society.

WHEN A WIFE'S AWAY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

y wife's away, so take a look
Behind the kitchen scenes;
or every meal at home I cook
A can of Boston beans.

rdines for breakfast, what a meal!
For supper salmon serves;
ntil today I really feel
It's getting on my nerves.

[illegible] run the canned goods'
gamut through
From [illegible] down to ham;
[illegible] return if she but
[illegible]
How sick of it I am?

But I must keep a cheerful

She needs a change of

I'll bear with becoming grace
And try to live on beans.

But, oh, it's hard to bow my

And speak a thankful prayer
To Him who sends us daily

With only canned goods

A Knob Which Cost $750

By Sydney J. Harris

"I was amused by your paragraph the other day", said one of my colleagues, "about the new home owner stepping into a hardware store for a socket and walking out with three large packages."

"It was an autobiographical item", I told him, furtively wiping away a large tear from the corner of my eye.

"I suspected as much", he smiled foxily, "and don't think it's going to get any better after you've lived in your new house a few years."

"You mean this goes on all the time?" I asked. "I've been looking upon these initial expenses as non-recurrent."

"You funny man", he gazed at me with pity, and sat down on the corner of my desk. "Let me tell you about a knob that cost me $750 last year.

I lighted a cigaret, put away my checkbook, stacked the bills neatly to one side, and prepared to listen.

"One morning", he recounted, "I walked into our bathroom at home and pulled open the medicine cabinet. The knob came off in my hand. I took it with me and stopped off at the hardware store on my way home to replace it.

"Well, it was an ancient knob, and after trying three stores, I realized I couldn't get another one to fit, so I allowed a salesman to persuade me to buy a new medicine chest, which was only $20.

"I got home and found it had to be installde, because of the wiring of the fluorescent lights at the sides. When we got it in, my wife complained that this shiny new cabinet made the rest of the bathroom look old and dingy.

"So I trotted out and ordered a new washstand and toilet bowl to match the cabinet. By this time, the bathroom walls looked terrible, with their faded synthetic tiling, and my wife persuaded me to get the room retiled.

"A few days later, I walked in and found that we had new linoleum on the bathroom floor, new curtains on the windows, a new white laundry hamper, and my white laundry hamper, and my wife insisted that I install a new overhead light on the ceiling, to match the rest of the decor.

"Two weeks to the day after that little knob came off in my hand, I had a completely renovated bathroom, at a total cost of $750. When my wife began to suggest subtlely that this lovely room made the rest of the house look shabby, I quickly took her on a vacation — and we saved money by not staying home that summer.

"Thanks for the enlightenment", I murmured. "From now on, I'll wash and shave down in the basement laundry room. Who needs a medicine chest?"

Dirty Slur On Husbands

Peterborough Examiner

A recent study on the subject of dirt in the average home, undertaken in the U. S. A., reveals that dirt gets into the house from seven different sources. Only 5 per cent., we are surprised to find, is brought into the house by pets; 7 per cent is brought in by guests, repair men and other non-residents; 8 per cent is caused by bad weather, and 40 per cent from 'atmospheric soilers' like factory chimneys; 10 per cent comes in on the feet of all the people who use the house; 12 per cent is brought in by children; 18 per cent is brought in by the husband.

From this estimate, it appears that the housewife is without blot or stain — just as we would have expected. But the husband—! Apparently the dirtiest thing you can have in a house, short of a factory-chimney, is a husband. He beats any number of children, and is much worse than a heavy storm. A dog, however large or muddy, is infinitely to be preferred.

We simply don't believe it. We see men every day going home from work, spotless, glowing with health and soap, their shirts an eloquent testimony to the detergents their wives use. Their shoes are highly polished and they look, in the old-fashioned phrase, just as if they had come out of a bandbox. Where is the dirt? How do they carry it? We want more information.

Men should not lie down under this wholesale aspersion. If they are dirty, where does the dirt come from, and what is its nature? If it is gold-dust they are bringing into the house (which is what we suspect) who is complaining?

No Hour Same As Any Other

Montreal Gazette

There is probably no word more frequently on our lips than the word "time," nor any idea so oddly baffling.

Though we live a great part of our lives under the tyranny of the clock, most of us come sooner or later to the conclusion that clock time is merely relative. No hour is the same as any other hour in length. It is either an hour which seems to have grown to a day, or one that has unaccountably shrunk to a quarter of itself.

On very rare occasions, it is true, an hour will manage to behave with appropriate moderation, and for once clock time and psychological time, so to speak, will correspond fairly closely. For the most part, however, the hours have undergone either expansion or contraction.

Everyone knows how in childhood the time dragged from birthday to birthday, and with what incredible speed the years go racing by when middle life is yielding to age. Even in childhood, for that matter, there was the contrast between the school term, which crept onwards with leaden feet, and the summer vacation, which had a habit of passing by on wings.

The night is over in a flash when welcome sleep charms away all the weariness of the past day; but, if you cannot sleep, or if you watch by the bedside of the sick, night may be never-ending.

And the wisdom of the Bible tells of an eternity to which "one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."

Queen Pays Compliment

Christian Science Monitor

Fifty million Frenchmen could be wrong about the way the French-speaking Canadians use the mother tongue. Wrong, that is, in assuming that no good French comes out of Canada.

On Her Majesty's recent visit to Canada, Queen Elizabeth chose a French Canadian army officer as tutor in French to Prince Charles. Following upon her approval of General Vanier as the first Viceroy or Governor-General to be chosen from the French-speaking community in Canada, the selection of a Canadian to teach French in the royal family is causing special gratification among millions of Canadians.

It serves the good purpose of helping to make French-speaking Canadians feel more at home not only as visitors to Britain, but also as visitors to France.

Now that France, Britain, and Canada are all members of a new Atlantic Community (growing up on the basis of a common need for defense, but having profound political, moral, and cultural connotations) it is fitting that Canadian ties with France should be strengthened. This will be done more easily when Canadians know that the French know that their New World cousins speak something more respectable than a patois. Canadians also speak something more modern than the French of Louis XVI, proud as many Canadians are of their loyalty to pre-Revolutionary France.

So Queen Elizabeth's compliment to French Canada will serve the cause of unity within Canada, between Canada and Britain, and between Canada and France — mildly, to be sure, but gently, too, as in "easy does it."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EXCESSIVE CRAVING FOR WATER MAY MEAN SOMETHING IS WRONG

"Dear Dr. Molner: This summer I can't stop drinking water. I know that one is supposed to drink more in hot weather, but I can't stop even after I've quenched my thirst.

"I notice my stomach is somewhat bloated. Does the body retain an excess of water, or does it get rid of it? I don't want to get fat! — A.L."

Did you ever make soup, either from bouillon cube or a packet of "concentrated" soup? Or make a bowl of gelatin from two or three ounces of powder, plus a lot of water? Or have you ever seen (or used) powdered milk?

The point is that all of the aforementioned are nutritious foods, even though they are principally water. Indeed, if you took any number of foods (an orange, apple, cabbage, potato, melon, carrot, etc.) and measured the water in them, it would be 75 to 90-odd per cent.

You would, in fact, find that meat (before it has had the moisture cooked out of it) has a lot more water in it than you thought. Cheese (made from milk) can be one-third or more water.

And so with the human body. Blood is mostly water, enriched with powerful nutrients. Our body tissues are full of water, and an athlete, especially on a hot day, can "lose" 5 to 10 or 15 pounds in an hour or two — and gain most of it back by drinking water.

Water (and we need it!) passes through our systems at quite rate. Some we excrete as urine. Some we lose in perspiration. Some (and a lot more than we realize) is lost with each breath we exhale. Breathe on your glasses on a winter day and see how much moisture you expel with a single breath, even in icy cold weather!

In summer you perspire more; you drink more to replace the water. The question is how much more you drink. Or whether, for a limited time, you are exercising a great deal more. It's quite possible for a person to become unduly conscious of this added thirst.

Are there real reasons for too much thirst? Yes. Fever, of course, will intensify thirst. But you'd know if you had a fever. A simpler cause: You may, in the warm months, have cut down sharply on hot drinks like tea, coffee, soup. Your body would therefore demand more water!

Again, chronic kidney disease, diabetes, continuing diarrhea, and two or three less common conditions can increase thirst — becaue they require you to get rid of more fluid, too!

If this excessive craving for water is real, and not imagined, by all means have a physical checkup. If something is wrong, it will be quickly found.

But don't spend too much time worrying about "getting fat." True, water is heavy — "a pint's a pound, the world around." But unless something is rather drastically wrong, you won't retain any great amount of this water in your system above normal amounts.

You can (like the athlete) "sweat off" a few pounds by curtailing the water you drink. It isn't fat, however, that you get rid of, briefly. It's ust water, and a few glasses of water bring you right back to normal.

"Dear Dr. Molner; I married a girl I didn't love because she was pregnant and said I was the father. The child has blue eyes. Neither my wife nor myself nor the grandparents has blue eyes. Is there basis for an annulment here? — R. J. S."

All white babies have white eyes at birth. Blonds stay blue, brunets change gradually to brown. You are looking for an excuse to avoid your responsibilities. Why don't you face the facts like a man?

P.S.: Looks to me as though you'd been pretty "friendly" with this 'girl you don't love."

"C.O.H.": by luck I can answer your question, because the facts appeared in the A.M.A. News a little while ago: the largest living baby on record was born over three-quarters o fa century ago — almost 33 pounds. The mother was a bit over 7 feet 5 inches tall.

Are you a victim of 'vitamin starvation?" To make sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for my pamphlet, "Vitamins—Alphabet Of Health," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A reputable United States publication recently stated that one of the big American cigaret manufacturers is shortly to bring out a cigaret with no tobacco in it at all. Other plant fibres than tobacco, attractively scented and flavored, and of course with longer, better, more fabulous filters than any so far devised, will offer smokers the ultimate escape from the evils of tobacco. What could be more total than no tobacco, especially if filtered?

Tobaccoless cigarets are, of course, nothing new. What the modern small boy smokes nowadays I have not been able to discover despite careful observation and peering around the backs of garages. When I was a small boy, there were no garages. So we had to hide behind sheds, stables and back fences such as cities abounded in around 1900. And what we smoked varied with different districts of the town. In my immediate neighborhood, it was cedar bark. Most of the fences had cedar posts, and you peeled the bark off, fine, stringy and fibrous, with a particularly pleasing aroma. This you rolled in toilet paper. And mind you, we had no movies or TV to show us how to roll'em. When Jack Calder's mother decided to get rid of the baby carriage, we smoked the rattan, which was a kind of cane with a cellular structure. Short pieces of it had the shape and heft of cigarets, though the flavor was rather sharp, and many a case of whooping cough, croup, quinsy and other respiratory ailments of childhood were wrongly diagnosed.

Bracken leaves were the fancy of the gangs to the west of us, who lived in the suburbs, where bracken was more available. South of us, where it was a little slummier and more sophisticated, our congeners smoked cubebs, a sort of cigaret full of small peppercorns which one could buy at the drug store for one's grandmother's asthma.

There is really nothing new under the sun.

Freedom to Think

St. Thomas Times-Journal

In the West one is free to think, to agree, to disagree, to sound off, to criticize, to read or not to read, to listen or not to listen.

In Soviet Russia one is also free to think — as long as it agrees with the party line. He is free to agree, as long as he agrees with the party. But he is not free to disagree, and he won't sound off if he is smart, and he will not criticize Khruschev or any of his big boys.

Moreover, he will read what he is told to read and listen to what he is told to listen to. He will, in short, be a perfect Soviet citizen — a non-original thinking, non-critical member of the proletariat.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD DEED INVENTORS

Inventors are a blessing to the world. They are forever working to bring out something better — and that means progress. I am, however, going to talk about another kind of inventor — the inventor of good deeds! These kind of inventors live forever!

Most of us are acquainted with the person who is forever doing nice things to make someone else happy. There is no other invention that pays so much in satisfaction and personal happiness. What a thrill we get when we do a kind act expecting nothing in return but the golden satisfaction!

I like little surprises and I like to give as well as receive them. To be appreciated is something that thousands of human beings wish might be their lot. It is what keeps the fires of friendship burning. We should borrow from the Boy Scouts organization by doing at least one good deed a day.

Good deed inventors are forever thinking up a new way in which to bring good news to others. It is far more worthy to join the inventors of good deeds than to hope for money profit from mere things. The closer we get to people the nearer we get to God and to all His creations.

An inventor of good deeds may well take his place among the immortals. You see it takes purpose, a love for all mankind, and the urge to be helpful and to be set apart as a doer of good deeds, and the joy of it all in one's heart. Who wouldn't be happy to be such a fellow mortal?

THE NATURE OF GENIUS

We often speak of a person as a genius. Have you ever seen a genius? I have seen only two and known only one of them. Dr. Albert Einstein used to walk the streets of our little village usually wearing a suede jacket and his long hair waving in the wind. This man was a genius. The other genius I knew was a man who took a little group of people whom he was training and gradually enlarged them and the significance of the work he was doing with them until he had established a large and respected educational institution. He turned a handful of learners into a full-fledged college.

A genius is not just a well-informed person. The world is full of well-informed persons. But the word "genius" comes from a Latin word which means "to beget." A genius is one whose knowledge is such that he has begotten something utterly new. An idea, a policy, a way of life, have come into being because of this man.

There have been but few geniuses in human history. Many of them have been unhappy, but every one of them, without exception, has "begotten" something new — fathered an idea or an enterprise about which men later exclaimed. Don't grieve if you are not a genius or if your child is not a genius. Geniuses have their place but the world is kept going not by geniuses but by faithful and well-informed people — like ourselves for instance.

Mayor Harvey McFarland, Sponsor of World Champions, Presents Rings at Banquet

PICTON — Members of the world champion Belleville McFarland hockey team were guests of honor Saturday night when their sponsor, Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton entertained at a sumptuous banquet in their honor at the Royal hotel here. A featrue of the evening was the presentation of the Mayor personal gifts to the team members and several officials. These were in the form of gold rings, each engraved with the recipient's initials engraved with the words 'Belleville McFarlands, World Hockey Champions, 1959, in circle around the initial and crossed hockey sticks and pucks on each side.

Though plans for the coming season were not divulged on this occasion, Mayor McFarland announced that he would be meeting the players within a week to discuss contracts and plans. "We want to know where we are going and we want the players to know what to expect," said the Mayor who declared "We are going to play hockey and we are going to win the Allan Cup again." He appealed for co-operation of players, the Booster Club and fans in his efforts to maintain the great record of the Club which will be under his personal supervision and under managership of Keith MacDonald of Picton, a member of the champion team, and of his son, Harvey J. McFarland, Jr.

DIFFICULT TASK

Admitting that it will be a difficult task to follow a manager such as Drury Denyes of Belleville, Keith MacDonald said he would give it a try and asked for co-operation. "It is really something to be associated with such a club and our sponsor is a man in a million", he declared. "I think Ike Hildebrand (coach) and all players will agree that we have quite a job on our hands when we seek to emulate Whitby Dunlops by winning the Allan Cup twice. We can do the same thing", Mr. MacDonald declared.

Tribute to Mayor McFarland as a sponsor of sport was paid by Lorne Cook of Kingston, past president of the O.H.A. The team was a credit to Canada and they played one hundred per cent hockey all the way he said.

In referring to the world championship series, Mr. McFarland left nothing undone for the comfort of players and was always an inspiration, he said, and on behalf of the OHA he presented a gift to Mayor McFarland along with their appreciation of his services and good wishes.

On behalf of the team, Ike Hildebrand expressed appreciation to Mr. McFarland. He had words of praise for the support given by fans and the Booster Club. Winning the title was a lot of hard work, he commented. The championship was the climax to the careers of all who participated and it is likely to be anticlimax when we again win the Allan Cup next year, declared the optimistic coach.

Billy Reay, who took the team overseas as assistant manager, extended wishes for success and expressed the view that the team has great material at its disposal.

Manager of the McFarlands for the past three years, Drury Denyes of Belleville was given an ovation by the players and guests and was presented with one of the sponsor's rings. He voiced his continued interest in the club.

Many happy memories of the trip to Czechoslavakia were recalled in congratulatory and humorous remarks by a number of speakers. Among those speaking briefly were Warden Ern Ward of Prince Edward, Mayor Sweetman of Deseronto, C. A. Milligan, M.P., Norris Whitney, M.P.P., Lee Grills, M.P., Warden J. N. Brown of Hastings, Armand Duffy of the Booster Club, Jack Devine of CJBQ, Warden T. N. Kennedy of Lennox, Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville, Arthur Duncan of Batawa, whose company did much to entertain the players while overesas, Harry Rollins of Belleville, who urged players to play for 'glory and fame' if necessary, J. Gould of Trenton. Harry Rollins recalled the contest for the Mayoralty to Prague between H. J. McFarland and Lee Grills and for the first time admitted that the Picton Mayor won that contest by one vote.

On behalf of the guests who included members of town and county council, heads of various local organizations and prominent citizens from the three Bay of Quinte counties, Sheriff H. J. Colliver of Picton voiced appreciation to Mayor McFarland. The fame of the sponsor and his team has spread beyond the confines of the continent, he said in commenting on the great amount of publicity resulting from the team's achievements.

In addition to players who received rings, the Mayor also presented them to Mayor Hyde, Lorne Cook, Jack Devine, George Carver and his son Malcolm Jr. whom, he said, would be manager and coach in 1975.

Players able to be present on this occasion included Gordie Bell, Don Barclay, Moe Benoit, Lionel Botley, Wayne Brown, Pete Conacher, Floyd Crawford, Al Dewsbury, David Jones, Jean Paul Lamirande, Keith MacDonald, Minnie Menard, Paul Payette, Dennis Boucher and Ike Hildebrand.

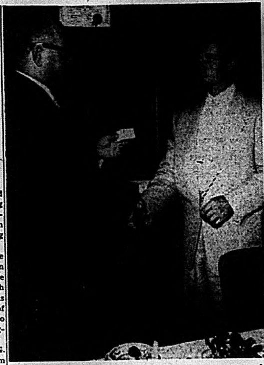
Virginian Held After Stabbing Near Castleton

John Woodham, 18-year-old Vernonville youth, is in Cobourg General Hospital in serious condition with a liver laceration following an alleged stabbing Saturday morning.

The incident is said to have occurred on a county road in Cramahe township just outside of Castleton, eight miles north of Colborne. The youth was attended by Dr. F. Pember of Colborne who ordered him to Cobourg hospital for an emergency operation.

Provincial Police Cpl. L. G. Lyle of Brighton, said that Sam Rowland, of Gretna, Virginia, had been arrested and charged with wounding with intent. Rowland was remanded to Cobourg jail and appeared in Cobourg magistrate's court this morning.

Police did not reveal what led up to the alleged stabbing of the Vernonville youth.



MANAGER GIVEN RING — Mayor Harvey McFarland who sponsored the McFarlands and honored them with banquet, is seen presenting a gold ring to Keith MacDonald, new manager of the club.

SPONSOR HONORED — Mayor Harvey McFarland, who presented gold rings to members of the hockey team, surprised by presentation from the OHA and made by Lorne Cook, past-president of the association.

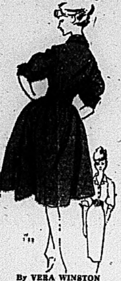
Double Duty



By VERA WINSTON

The transitional cottons now in the stores from late summer and early fall wear are extremely interesting. Here is evidence — a brown or olive green cotton dress that has two lives. The overskirt with shirred waist-back has a slip-through patent leather belt. It can be removed to reveal a slim skirt belonging to a simple, smart little shirtwaist dress. Buttons are smoky pearl.

Wedding

LARCOMBE — PHILLIPS

Grace United Church Parsonage, Trenton, was the scene of a quiet wedding, August 22nd, 1959 when Emma Elizabeth Phillips, became the bride of William Larcombe. The Rev. G. A. Puttenham officiated.

The bride wore a street-length blue silk organza dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Her attendant, Mrs. Douglas Waddell, wore a pink on white nylon dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Douglas Waddell assisted the bridegroom.

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD W.A.

The August meeting of the Front Road W.A. was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. MacDonald, with a small attendance.

Mrs. McMullen opened the meeting and Mrs. Clifford Reid gave the Scripture lesson from Phil 4:1-9, followed by Mrs. McMullen who gave a reading on the Scripture text leaving many thoughts concerning these days, comparing them with the days of St. Paul.

As Mrs. Roy Clazie, the secretary, was absent due to illness, Mrs. Clinton Brown read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved by all present.

After a short discussion, the ladies decided to have the Church steeple painted. The Front Road W.A. was in charge of the church service on August 23rd, service at 11.00 a.m. instead of the usual large crowd for this service.
10.00 a.m.

Mrs. MacDonald asked the ladies into the dining room, which was tastefully decorated with colorful gladioli. The members spent a social half hour over a dainty lunch.

The next meeting to be held at Church Hall.

Smartest Women Do Not Like to Show Their Brains

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the smartest women don't like to show their brains. They're afraid men won't like them.

If you think that idea has gone out in the last 50 years, your're wrong. That it's still very much alive is being proven in a research study now under way in Michigan.

Researcher Elizabeth M. Drews of Michigan State University, who has been talking to some of the most gifted girls in her state, says the reluctance of brilliant women to disclose their intellect to men has "appalled and fascinated" her.

Convinced that it is most important to find a husband, she says, many of these girls of unusual intelligence are ready to scrap it all because that's what they think men want.

COULD GOON

Most of the girls she's interviewed — those finishing junior and senior high school and college in the top five per cent of their classes — agree they could probably go on to careers in any field they wanted. They could be doctors, lawyers, scientists. But they don't think society or their future husbands would let them.

"I don't know how they get this feeling so soon, and I don't think they are right," laments Dr. Drews, who has successfully combined career, marriage and motherhood. She worked her way through college, married her anthropologist husband while in college and got her doctor's degree after marriage.

With a 16-year-old daughter of her own, she says "you can see why I'm so interested."

Why these talented girls are worrying so about finding a husband has Dr. Drews stumped, too.

MOST POPULAR

Many of them are the most popular in their classes. Studies have showed that gifted children are also the pretiest, healthiest and most vivacious—probably the most likely to find mates, she says.

Dr. Drews has made a four-year study of gifted adolescents in Lansing, Mich., and has been awarded a $28,000 grant from the U.S. office of education to continue her research.

Among the questions she'll be investigating is "what appears to be a renouncing of intellectuality by so many able girls."

Dr. Drews says nine out of 10 of today's schoolgirls can expect to spend 25 years of their adult life working. And with the trend toward early marriages, by 32 the average woman has had her last child and faces some 40 years of life still ahead.

Why not train for those work years ahead? Dr. Drews wants to know.

She suggests teen-age girls need encouragement, perhaps more scholarships.

But the biggest thing, she suggests, may be just setting the boys straight.

SAT GLUED TO SET

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—A 16-year-old boy described as a "television zombie" was sent to an approved school by the juvenile court in this Surrey town. He locked himself indoors all day and watched TV. The father said he would not work, and was beyond control.

Frozen Assets

by Mary Moore

Something for the young and the old, something for hostess and the career girls, even something that the dieters crave and may taste —a luscious frozen sweet.

I am visiting my brother and sister-in-law in Muskoka and have four fresh - air - and - water-exilarted appetites to satisfy. Oh joy!

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Curried Beef Heart; Parsleyed Rice; Zucchini Squash Rings; Head Lettuce and Tomato Salad; Mixed Compote of Apricots and Plums; Nut Cookies; Coffee.

Right after lunch before we did the dishes I made a lime sherbert that was frozen hard by 6 p.m. It will serve six generously and eight adequately. Its value to Wyn was the fact that it was good and could be made in advance of a dinner party and would look pretty in her crystal sherbets.

My enthusiasm for it is its tangy sweet-sour flavor and the fact that it is not cooked. Because it does not melt readily you could plan to serve it at a last-of-the-summer party for guests in the gadren.

Does that make you eager?

LIME SHERBET DE LUXE:

3 tablespoons melted butter, 2 eggs separated, 1 15-oz can sweetened condensed milk, 1-2 cup lime juice, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup very fine graham cracker crumbs, (12 2 1-2-inch squares), 1 tablespoon grated lime rind.

Combine butter and cracker crumbs. Press evenly 2-3 cup of crumb mixture on bottom and sides of a lightly buttered refrigerator tray. Chill. Meanwhile beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, gradually add sugar and beat until stiff. Knock excess whites off beater and without washing it transfer beater to bowl containing yolks and beat until thickish. Stir in lime rind and the lime juice and stir well. Add the condensed milk to lime-egg mixture; stir condensing milk into yolks. At this stage you may tint the yolk mixture with a few drops of coloring if you wish. Fold stiffly beaten whites into lime-milk mixture. Turn into chilled prepared refrigerator tray, smoothing top. It will do no harm if it is mounded up a little too high. Sprinkle the edge thickly and top sparingly with remaining crumbs. Turn refrigerator to a low setting and freeze until firm. It requires 5 to 6 hours. When ours was served I decorated the top with a few choice plump blueberries because they are growing on our point which juts out into the lake. Simply luscious.

The next one may be chilled in the dessert dishes in which it is to be served.

LIMEADE SNOW:

1 tablespoon plain gelatine, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 6-oz. can frozen limeade concentrate, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 1-4 cups very hot water, 2 unbeaten egg whites. 2 unbeaten egg whites.

Mix together gelatine, sugar and salt, add hot water and stir until gelatine dissolves. Add undiluted limeade concentrate and stir to blend. Chill until mixture is barely mush. Add unbeaten egg whites and beat in chilled bowl with rotary or electric beater, until mixture begins to hold shape. (To speed up chilling and beating time you may stand the bowl in a larger one containing ice and a little water.) Turn into individual (or large) moulds and chill till firm. Serve with Custard Sauce: This custard sauce uses up the 2 leftover egg yolks.

1 1-2 cups milk, 1 whole egg, 2 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk in top double boiler. Beat whole egg and egg yolks; stir in sugar and salt. Gradually add a small amount of hot milk stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook stirring constantly over hot, not boiling, water until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in vanilla.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

Charming people make an art of expressing their appreciation as they say "good-by" when they are leaving a party. Their graceful manner of saying, for example, "Thank you, dear Sue, for your delightful hospitality," or "I had such a happy time at your party . . . thank you for asking me," or "What wonderful hosts you and Peter are . . . it was a wonderful party!" makes a memorable and so-important "last impression."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Leon S. — She's just a beautiful paper doll.

Sandra S. — I never had time to get educated.

Leon S. — My wife and I were married when we were quite young. She was 18 and I was 21. She was the most beautiful girl I had ever seen — and still is.

This is our problem. After 16 years of marriage Sandra is as beautiful as the day I met her — and is nothing more. It is impossible to have an intelligent discussion with her. She never reads a newspaper or anything but cheap trash. She embarrasses me by making silly, ignorant remarks when we are with others.

The time has come when I want my wife to be a companion and a good social partner, not just a paper doll.

• • •

Sandra S. — Leon has let me know plenty of times that he married me for my looks. For years he has told me how much more interesting this woman friend Rita is.

Well, Rita is an educated woman and I'm not. Leon whisked me off to the altar before I knew what was happening. The next year I had a baby and two years later we had twins. Now we have a fourth child. When did I have a chance to get educated?

Leon has picked out courses for me to take, but I find them very boring. I'm just not interested in world affairs. I can't apply my mind to them.

• • •

The Council: It may surprise Leon to be told that he is driving his wife to further cultivation of the very habits he likes least in her.

Leon has made Sandra feel woefully inadequate on the mental side and she appears to be trying to compensate by strengtheming herself in the one area she is more sure about — her physical beauty.

This whole case does not speak very well for Leon. Many men are attracted to a woman because of her beauty, but if they are interested in her for herself rather than as a showpiece to bolster their own crippled egos, they try to get to know her better.

We get the impression that Leon has never bothered to know what lies beneath his wife's pretty surface. Her beauty attracted him and reflected a pleasant glow upon his ego. Now he finds more is required.

Leon should recognize that if his own ego were not at stake he would not be embarrassed by the things Sandra says in public. True love for her could make him feel sorry that her horizons are so limited, but in this case he would try to think of ways to help her broaden them without hurting her feelings or making her feel inadequate. The approach he has been using seems geared to get her to learn words that are as becoming in society as the clothes and cosmetics she wears. This would make a talking paper doll of her.

On the other hand, Sandra is wrong to blame her husband for her inadequacies. She wanted his admiration and the home, security and children he offered. She accepted these on his terms. If she wanted something different she should have fought for it, sacrificed for it.

It is not too late for Sandra to start expanding her horizons. She should do it simply because there is a big interesting world around for her to explore. She should start with something she enjoys — even if it is simply a more serious interest in fashion and makeup. A real knowledge of these fields can lead in many directions. More important, it would help develop the real Sandra, the one she has never yet seen in her mirror.

TO MOTHERS OF
LITTLE GALS FROM

How does your daughter grow? With naturally curly hair? If so, we'll cut her hair in a style that will be trim and tantalizing. If not, we'll cut her hair to a perky length and and give her a baby soft permanent wave. No more putting it up every night or after every rain storm. This plan is not only helpful to you, but good for your child. Most little girls are coquettes at heart. We'll wager a child who looks as pretty as she can will be as smart as she can — and happier — in school.

Sarnia Golden Bears Atop ORFU With Two Victories

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sarnia Golden Bears are rounding into the form that carried them to the title last season in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series.

After squeaking to a 21-19 win over London Lords in their first game last weekend Golden Bears got their attack rolling Saturday to easily defeat Detroit Raiders 33-13 and take a two-point lead atop the league.

Lords moved into a second-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen as a 16-point fourth quarter carried them to a 36-21 victory over Dutchies before 5,500 fans at London.

RAIDERS IMPROVED

Raiders, appearing to be much improved over the team that finished last season in the cellar, held Bears to a 14-7 halftime lead as a crowd of 7,000 sat in on their home opener. But a driving ground attack was too much for them in the final half.

Hal Ledyard, late of the Big Four Ottawa Rough Riders, mixed his offence as Bears scored from the one and Jim three times along the ground.

Ledyard passed 30 and 37 yards to rookie end Pete Bentley for the two aerial touchdowns. Tom Dwinnel ripped 30 yards through centre for a thouchdown and plunged for another from the one-yard line while Joe Reaves broke through the Detroit line and rambled 65 yards for the other. Ernie White made good on three converts.

For Detroit, Howard Neely scored from tre one and Jim Himesly got the second on a pass from quarterback Frank Finney. Mario Pisanelli booted one convert.

EDGE IN DOWNS

Finney threw 32 passes, completed 15 and had one intercepted. Ledyard completed five in 10 tries. Bears had the edge in first downs, 22 to 19.

Dutchies missed their No. 1 quarterback Bob Celeri, ill with a virus infection and with Bernie Custis in the slot were unable to hold the 21-19 edge they carried into the final quarter.

Lords' quarterback Jerry Thompkins scored two touchdowns and passed to playing coach Al Bruno and end Larry Aldrich for two others. Halfback John Beattie got the other on a short plunge.

Bruno converted three and kicked a field goal from 26 yards out.

Fullback Mike Norcia ran for two touchdowns and converted both of them. He missed the conversion attempt after half Terry Meyer scored on a 43-yard pass from Custis.

Doug Copeland's third-quarter single accounted for the Dutchies passes for 179 yards while other point.

Custis completed 10 of 23 passes for 179 yards while Thompkins completed 19 of 34 for 297 yards. Both had three intercepted.

Dutchies out-rushed Lords 154-146 in yards and had 15 first downs to Lords' 22.

You get the most mileage, a smoother-running engine, from the most powerful gasoline your car can use
Super Shell's superior road performance—the actual power delivered to the wheels of your car—now means more power-per-gallon than ever before. When cruising, Super Shell's new extra power converts to give you increased mileage and lower running costs. But—Super Shell's price has not been raised! And Super Shell has TCP* to neutralize harmful engine deposits that can rob your car of its peak performance.

It's loaded with premium features, but sells for the price of regular gasolines
Shell Gasoline is a quality gasoline with better performance than the very top premiums of only a short time ago . . . designed to give top performance in all cars except those with a very high compression ratio. Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

SOUNDS LIKE JOHNNY RAY

According to Layton Dodge, sports scribe for the Cobourg Sentinel-Star, the Merchants of that town have played their last game in the Belleville and District Softball League.

Dodge blasts the local umpires, charging that they stole the semi-final series from the Merchants and handed it to the Bobcats "on a silver platter."

Writing particularly on the final game of the series, which the 'Cats won 7-6 in Cobourg, the angry Mr. Dodge says in part: "The theft was scarcely surprising to many in view of previous inconsistencies and petty vandalism which had marred earlier encounters in the series."

He continues later: "The umpiring in the entire series was sour. Even many Bobcat supporters were heard to voice their disapproval of the umpiring at games in Belleville. Merchants received the same raw deal in the Peterborough league from the officials. As long as the Merchants play in any city league they will never get a break from any arbiter. City umpires have to live with city ballplayers. They only have to live down foul decisions against a Cobourg club.

"Look for Merchants to play elsewhere next season. It might be Oshawa or perhaps back in Peterborough. Who can tell? Cobourg players vow they want no part of the Belleville league in 1960 even though it provided some fine softball and was a box office bononza."

Come, come, Mr. Dodge, let's be fair about this thing. We covered that final game as well as several others in the series and while we will never claim that the umpires do not make mistakes, this was certainly not what beat the Merchants.

Umpires are human. There were bad calls in the series, sure, but no more or no less than in any other series, and they did not lean one way any more than the other. They were honest mistakes, the same as a player might make in making a play or you or I might make in deciding between a hit or an error.

Errors were the deciding factor in the seventh game. Errors and the fact that the Bobcats were just a little bit better team over all, as both the league and the playoff games proved.

Three players were ejected from the game. Goegan of the Bobcats, McIvor and Campbell of Cobourg. The first two were thumbed by Kelleher for tossing their bats. Although they were mighty short tosses and not exactly in anger, Kelleher is a stickler for rules, so out went both players. Campbell got the gate from Harold Bawden for bumping him while arguing a call, and rightly so. The only fault we can find here is that all the officials should eject any player who lays a hand on them. And every time too. It is not always done but the cases when this is not so are isolated and happen to a very few umpires only.

The only other calls which the Cobourg club could question were on a ball hit into the crowd by Bobby Hull and an interference call against a Cobourg runner. The decision on Hull was according to the ground rules drawn up by the Cobourg club. And anyone can understand the inference by simply reading the rule book.

We would like to see Cobourg return to the league next year and so would the other clubs. They have a strong team and a colorful one with players like Dawe, Campbell and Turpin. But should the Merchants get the idea they deserve special treatment or that the league can't operate without them, they will be in for a surprise.

How about it fellows, it sounds very much like a case of sour grapes.

THE WEEKEND STORY

Ray Judd ruined what could have been a perfect weekend for Belleville in playdowns with Liftlock City clubs Saturday, but two wins in three games is not a bad average.

Judd did not appear to have his perfect control as in the past, but one can hardly say he was wild because he walked a pair. The story is elsewhere on the sports pages but just for the records, Lakefield took that OASA intermediate "A" playdown opener 3-0 over Point Anne. Second game goes at Peterborough Thursday night at 8.15 and the Pointers are confident they can still beat the Mormon speedster.

Bobby Hunter gave him a good battle before the packed grandstand at CNRA Saturday night but you have to have runs to win a ball game. Goyer, Batchelor, and some of the boys did put wood to Judd's slants but only Jack Elliott was able to claim a hit.

Meanwhile, Cuffer Noakes' Junior baseballers took a neat 5-3 win over Peterborough in their series opener. Larry Soden came up with a strong 7-hitter for the win. He had razor-sharp control with ten strikeouts and nary a walk. He got support at the plate from Billy Noxon with a homer as well as "Red" Kellar and Glen Clarke with two safeties each.

They go back at it next Saturday in Peterborough at 7.30 under the lights when the locals hope to wrap up the series.

Leo Culhane's Booth TV's edged the Petes' bantams in their OASA opener, overcoming 3-0 and 10-6 leads to do it. Bobby Boyle, Booth receiver, hit a long home run into the horseshoe pits in right field and also had a double. Jim Rutherford also smashed a three-run circuit clout. And this was actually the first game the local kids have played this summer too. Nice going fellows.

Playdowns and playoffs continue tonight as the Bobcat Juveniles play host to Kingston at the CNR at 6.15, Booths go back to Peterborough for their second tilt and the Bobcats continue their B. & D. finals in Trenton at 8.15. Trenton returns to the CNRA Wednesday to meet the 'Cats again and that game gets under way at six o'clock sharp. Don't miss it.

Indians Sweep Doubleheader From Boston as White Sox Split; Face Wins 16th

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Until this year trader Frank Lane always has boasted his best deals were those which brought pitcher Billy Pierce and second baseman Nellie Fox to the Chicago White Sox. The voluble Cleveland general manager is now ready to add a third.

On March 21 of this year, Lane traded veteran Larry Doby to Detroit for a utility outfielder who batted only .254 last year. His name? Tito Francona.

The 25-year-old Francona is the league's No. 1 hitter with a .379 batting average that includes 17 home runs and 64 runs batted in. But he has not been at bat enough times to qualify for the top spot officially. Doby, incidentally is in the minor leagues.

Francona hit two home runs Sunday. His first came in the ninth inning of the opener and snapped a scoreless pitching duel between Cleveland's Jim Perry and Boston's Tom Brewer. It gave the Indians a 1-0 victory and Perry his ninth win.

SECOND HOMER HELPS

His second homer came in the first inning of the nightcap, also won by the Indians 6-2. The sweep advanced the Indians to within 1½ games of league-leading Chicago.

The White Sox split their twin bill with New York, who won the first game 7-1. The Sox took the nightcap 5-0.

Detroit trounced Baltimore 9-5 before rain washed out the second game of their scheduled twin bill. Washington split with Kansas City, winning the first game 7-3 and losing the second 5-2.

A three-run homer by Minnie Minoso featured Cleveland's five-run blast in the fourth inning, snapping a 1-1 second-game tie. Jack Harshman was credited with his second victory in a week.

PINCH HIT WINS IT

In the first game of the Chicago-Yankee doubleheader, pinch hitter Enos Slaughter singled in two runs with the bases full in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie and give Art Ditmar his ninth triumph and Early Wynn his eighth defeat.

In the second game, Sherman Lollar clouted his 19th home run in the seventh to ignite a five-run rally against Ralph Terry. Bob Shaw hurled a six-hitter for his 13th triumph.

Eddie Yost hit a bases-loaded homer and Harvey Kuenn, the league's official leading hitter, had five-for-five to help Detroit's Frank Lary post his 16th triumph. Baltimore's Bob Nieman hit two home runs.

Kansas City scored all its five runs in the third inning of the second game to gain its split with Washington. Camilo Pascual won his 12th for the Senators in the opener.

In Saturday's action Chicago took a close 1-0 verdict from Washington. Boston clubbed Detroit 7-1. Cleveland edged Baltimore 4-2 and Kansas City defeated Yankees 8-7 in 10 innings.

Elroy Face may do it yet. The little Pittsburgh relief ace needs only three more victories to equal Rube Marquard's record of 19 consecutive triumphs in one season and Carl Hubbell's two-season streak of 24.

Face made it 16 in a row for 1959 and 21 since May 30, 1958, Sunday as the Pirates stunned Los Angeles with a sweep of a doubleheader 9-2 and 4-3 in 10 innings.

The righthander took over in the ninth after Pittsburgh had come from behind to tie the second game score 3-3. He hurled scoreless ball for two innings and took the decision when Dick Groat singled with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 10th.

BRAVES MOVE UP

The Dodgers' double defeat dropped them into third place, half a game behind Milwaukee Braves who defeated Chicago Cubs 2-0. Los Angeles now is 4½ lengths behind the first-place San Francisco Giants, whose scheduled doubleheader in Philadelphia was rained out. Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 5-3 for a sweep of the three-game series.

In Saturday's games San Francisco romped over Philadelphia Phillies 8-1 while Pittsburgh Pirates were downing Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0. Milwaukee Braves took a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 7-0 and 3-2 and Cincinnati Reds blasted St. Louis 11-4.

Don Drysdale, Dodger ace, was charged with both Los Angeles defeats Sunday. As a starter in the opener, he was routed in the third inning when the Pirates broke loose for four runs to overcome a 1-0 deficit. As a reliefer in the second, he yielded the tying run in the eighth and the winning run in the 10th.

Bill Virdon, Pittsburgh centrefielder, blasted seven hits. He had a double, two singles and a walk in the opener and two singles, a double and a home run in the nightcap.

TWO HITS ENOUGH

Milwaukee made only two hits but converted both into runs in sweeping the three-game series from the Cubs. Lefthander Art Ceccarelli gave up one hit in six innings, a bloop single by Andy Pafko in the fifth. But a throwing error by third baseman Earl Averill on Ray Boone's grounder preceded the hit and Johnny Logan followed with a sacrifice fly to score Boone.

Don Elston, who hurled the last two innings for the Cubs, gave up the other hit and run in the eighth when Logan doubled, went to third on a fly and scored on pitcher Bob Buhl's squeeze bunt. Buhl allowed six hits for his 11th victory and fourth shutout.

Jerry Lynch hit a two-run homer in the eighth to snap a 3-3 tie and give Cincinnati's Don Newcombe his 12th victory. Newcombe also hit a home run.

All-Star Tackle For Tiger Cats Called Home

HAMILTON (CP)—John Barrow, Hamilton Tiger - Cats all-star tackle, has left for Delray Beach, Fla., to visit his sick father and may not be back in time for next Saturday's game here against Ottawa Rough Riders.

The 245 - pound lineman was outstanding for the defending Big Four Football Union champions in last week's wins over Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts.

Ticat coach Jim Trimble said Barrows' father "is quite ill and I don't know how long he (Barrow) will be gone." He added "this could hurt us badly."

Trimble already said he probably would dress Canadian Dale Klassen to play tackle and switch import Jim Fraser to guard next Saturday.

Bobby Lane, Steelers' Quarter Jailed, Charged

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP) — Bobby Layne, Pittsburgh Steelers' quarterback, was jailed and charged with drunken driving early Sunday. He was released after posting $300 bond.

The case will come up today.

Police said three men were with him in a friend's car when it hit a parked car in downtown Austin. No one was injured.

Layne played the first half of Saturday night's professional football exhibition game which the Steelers lost to Chicago Cardinals 21-10.

In Texas, a first offence conviction for drunken driving carries a mandatory three-day jail sentence and a six-months suspension of the driver's licence. The penalty also can include a fine.

Police said Layne left the scene in a taxicab and was arrested a few blocks away.

Layne was arested on a similar charge in Detroit Sept. 17, 1957 while playing for Detroit Lions. He was acquitted of a drunk driving charge by a jury Dec. 6, 1957.

The Lions traded Layne to the Steelers Oct. 10, 1958.

Ray Judd One-Hits Pt. Anne As Lakefield Takes 3-0 Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Ray Judd lived up to all expectations at CNRA Park Saturday night as he pitched one-hit ball to give Lakefield Charltons a 3-0 victory over Point Anne in the first game of their OASA Intermediate "A" playdown series.

Second game in the two-of-three affair is scheduled for the Peterborough Bowl Thursday night at 8.15.

Judd got strong opposition from Bob Hunter on Ox-Point mound but despite the fact his control was not as sharp as usual, Judd was never in serious trouble.

He faced jut 30 batters over the nine-inning limit, gave up a double to Jackie Elliott in the second frame, and held the Cementmen hitless there after. He blazed third strikes by 16, getting the side in the second, third and fifth frames. Walks in the seven and eighth gave the Cementmen their only other two runners.

Meanwhile Lakefield plated a brace of runs in the fourth frame and added an insurance marker in the seventh.

HUNTER FANS EIGHT

Hunter was touched for eight hits, five of them coming in the winners' two scoring frames. He claimed eight strikeout victims and issued two free tickets.

Lakefield's first two runs were on the cheap side. Pagett reached first on a bunt single with one out and Red Wasson singled to right field. With the runners on second and third, Ray Judd hoisted out to right field. Elliott hesitated with the throw in and one man raced across the plate. Wasson took advantage as the late throw in got away in the infield to make it 2-0.

Charltons also scored their third run with one man down. Ray Judd, Jack Mackness and Reg Fowler banged consecutive singles to left field, loading the bases. Hunter gave up his first walk to catcher John Judd, forcing in the run, but a double play by Batchelor and Hull ended the threat. They loaded the bases again in the ninth on a walk and two hits but Hunter fanned Thompson to prevent any scoring.

ELLIOTT DOUBLES

Elliott blooped a double to right field in the second with one out, going to third on a wild pitch. Judd fanned Green and Kingston to end it quickly.

Hull drew a base-on-balls with one out in the seventh. He got as far as second on a passed ball but died there as Batchelor popped out and Elliott fanned, Kingston walked in the eighth, again with one out, but never got off first base. Soule missed a first-pitch bunt attempt and Elliott Sr. came in to continue at the plate. He bunted foul on a third strike and Hunter whiffed to finish that threat.

Gary Goyer hit Judd's slants hard on three occasions, being robbed twice by Glen Pagett on shots back through the middle and lifting out to centre on another occasion. Johnny Batchelor also belted a long one, pulled in by the centre fielder.

Jack Mackness had two of the victors' eight base hits. The others, all one-baggers, were divided among Glen Pagett, Red Wasson, Ray Judd, Reg Fowler, John Judd and Al Conroy.

LAKEFIELD — Thompson rf, N. Wasson ss, Pagett 2b, R. Wasson 3b, Ray Judd p, Mackness cf, Reg Fowler 1b, John Judd c and Al Conroy.

POINT ANNE — Carr 3b, Goyer lf, Hull ss, Batchelor 2b, Elliott Jr. rf, cf, Green c, Kingston 1b, Soule cf, Hunter p, Elliott Sr. rf.

Umpires — Jack White of Peterborough and "Shud' Ethier. Time: 1:20.

Belleville Takes Junior Opener Defeating Peterborough Club 5-3

By PETER CARVER

Lloyd's Cleaners Juniors took the first game of a best of three Junior "A" OBA playdowns by defeating Peterborough 5-3 Saturday at the Fairgrounds. The second game is slated for Peterborough, Saturday at 7.30 under the lights.

The game was close all the way with strikeouts playing a major part. Peterborough scored two runs in the second inning and added a sigleton in the eighth. The homesters plated two in the sixth and singles in the second, seventh and eighth.

Larry Soden, whose control was perfect pitched for Belleville, allowing seven hits, striking out ten and passing none. Al Wade toiled for the Lift-lock city, touched for 9 hits, whipping eight and walking four.

Pat McGarrity and Murray Taylor opened the second with back-to-back singles, and scored on an error to the catcher and Hill's single to open an early lead for Peterborough.

Bill Moxom narrowed the gap with a second inning home run.

Glen Clarke singled in the sixth and Jackie Elliott got aboard on a mis-played fielder's choice. Soden singled them both home.

Belleville put it on the ice when a walk, a fielder's choice and Moxon's double on errors produced the winning run.

Gatfield made it 4-3 in the eighth with a pinch-home run.

Mavety singled and was driven home by "Red" Kellar in the eighth.

Murray Taylor and Pat McGarrity collected two hits apiece, Gatfield had a homer with Rowle and Driscoll rounding out the attack.

Terry Kellar and Glenn Clarke smashed a brace of singles, Moxon had a four bagger, while Hunter, Soden, Mavety and Elliott also hit safely for Belleville.

Booth Bantams Down Petes in Playdown Tilt

Booth TV's overcame three and four run deficits to hand Peterborough 13-12 setback here Saturday in the first game of their OASA bantam "A" playdown series at CNRA Park.

The second game is scheduled for Peterborough this evening.

Peterborough took a 3-0 lead in the top of the initial frame at the CNRA Park Saturday afternoon. Booth's then built a 6-3 lead only to have the visitors net seven in the top of the fourth. The winners roared right back with five in their half to take a one-run lead. Again the Petes tied the score but the locals were not to be denied, getting singletons in the fifth and sixth for the decision.

Al Mott was the winning hurler, taking over in relief of Jim Ross in the fourth frame. They gave up nine hits between them. Ross fanned one and walked eight while Mott whiffed one and passed five.

McGregor lasted until the sixth on the Peterborough mound, with Crowdey then taking over. They allowed seven safeties and walked ten while McGregor whiffed four.

Bobby Boyle of Booth's hit a tremendous home run into the horseshoe pits in right field and also had a double to pace the victory attack. Jim Rutherford rapped a three-run homer while Carl Boomhower doubled. Jim Ross, Bill Goodfellow and Al Mott had singles.

Keith Bluett had a two-run circuit blast for Peterborough while McKinlay had two doubles and Cameron two singles. Bealth and Hewitson hit two-baggers, Thakory and McGregor singles.

The Other Day

Ken Pinder

A friend was telling us some interesting things about habit . . . the tendency of all things in nature to settle into fixed ways of doing things. It seems that in addition to the invariable pattern of everything in the universe, the habit of doing things always in the same way reaches down to the smallest ideas and things we know and do. For example, all trees of one species grow in a definite form, such as the elm has the habit of spreading. All cud-chewing animals such as cows, camels, goats, deer, etc., always rise rear end first, while all our other four-footed friends get up front end first. (And my friend says that mama cow doesn't have to admonish each calf with "now remember dear, always get up rear end first."

Most of us, as another example, always put on a coat right arm first. If you don't think so, try putting on your coat left arm first. Such habits have nothing to do with conscious thoughts. But that's where we humans add something else. Besides unconscious habit we form habits that are the product of our thinking, and they are the ones that can be good or bad.

Thank goodness, in our business everyone tries to put good habits to work for you, and we really try to stamp out a bad action before it can become a habit. If you ever see us starting a bad one, please tell us about it at once.

Vancouver Track Star Sets Juvenile Record for Mile

WATERLOO (CP)—Vic Reeve, a 17-year - old Vancouver track star, established a Canadian juvenile mile record Saturday when he covered the distance in four minutes 19 seconds at the eastern Canadian track and field championships here.

Reeve's time of 4:19 is unofficially five seconds better than the mark set last year in Saskatchewan by Bruce Andrews of Guelph. It was the only Canadian record broken by the more than 200 competitors entered in the championships. Galt's K. Crossman was third in the event.

Andrews was second in the men's mile, won by D. Cuddihy of Alberta in the same time as the junior event.

A number of meet records were broken. Stan Raike of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Amateur Athletic Association and Paul Winn of Vancouver each set two. Raike beat the shot put mark by more than two feet with a heave of 49 feet 10¼ inches. He also set the discus record with a throw of 157 feet 6¼ inches.

The new marks established by Winn were in the hop step and jump and the running broad jump. His record for the hop step and jump was 45 feet 2¾ inches while in the running broad jump he leaped a distance of 21 feet 11¾ inches.

Johnny Metras of Hamilton set a javeline record of 178 feet, 5 inches. The other men's record broken was by Jesse Meadows of Detroit in the 120 yards high hurdles. He covered the distance in 15 seconds.

Only two women records were broken. J. Kingwood of Toronto set a high jump mark of four feet 7½ inches. Marion Munroe also of Toronto covered the 80 metre hurdles in 11.2 seconds.

Billy Reynolds of Galt won the men's six-mile event with a time of 32:43.01, with M. Dorie of Quebec second and O. Aitkens of Toronto third.

E. Hanneson of Port Arthur was third in the juvenile 100 yard while Fort William's S. Metcalf came third in the first heat of the men's 100 yards.

G. Griffin of Aylmer was sixth in the high jump qualifications.

Sudbury's C. Macmillan was third in the men's 220-yard dash second heat.

Bob Shaw Big Reason White Sox on Top

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Shaw, who gambled on a major league career by refusing to report to the minors, is one of the big reasons Chicago White Sox are in first place in the American League.

Shaw, a 26-year - old righthander, blanked New York Yankees 5-0 Sunday to help the White Sox remain 1½ games ahead of onrushing Cleveland.

Without his 13-4 record the Sox aren't sure where they would be.

The Shaw story goes back to more than a year ago. He was with Detroit and the Tigers had him ticketed for Charleston in the American Association.

Shaw refused to report.

ASKED TO BE TRADED

"I wasn't going to quit baseball," said Shaw, "but I knew there were several major league clubs who wanted me. I told the Tiger management if they didn't want me, then they could trade me."

Shaw was traded. He and Ray Boone came to the White Sox June 15, 1958, for outfielder Tito Francona and pitcher Bill Fischer.

Shaw had a 5-4 record with the Sox last year, and couldn't get going this spring.

"He had a sore shoulder and then a bad back," said manager Al Lopez. "Then when we came north I started using him in relief and he pitched good. When Barry Latman failed to get going, we pressed Shaw as a starter and haven't regretted it."
